MURDERED AS "TEST"

Youths Confess Franks Death

Millionaires' Sons Lay Plot of Torture, Slaying to 'Study of Reaction'

Gag Proved Fatal and Plans Changed; Story Comes as Alibi Tale Shattered

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, May 31.—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., 19-year-old honor student at the University of Chicago, son of the millionaire owner of the Manitou Steamship Company and a big box factory, and Richard Loeb, also 19, son of the millionaire vice-president of Sears, Roebuck and Company, and nephew of Jacob Loeb, former president of the Chicago School Board, today confessed the deliberately-planned murder of Robert Franks, 14-year-old son of Jacob Franks, retired millionaire. All the persons concerned are of the same race and religion.

The youthful murderers admit they planned the deed last November, working out every detail until they thought they had established an air-tight alibi and that there would be no slip in their scheme.

Their motive was two-fold. Both are members of the "Intelligenzia" at the University of Chicago, scorning all laws but their own. Both were investigators into medieval perversion and Leopold, particularly, had gone so far in this study that it had become an obsession. The murderers desired to note reactions of a human being dying under certain conditions. In addition they wanted the $10,000, although both always have been supplied liberally with funds. Young Leopold had an allowance of $125 a month aside from all his expenses, the upkeep of his cars and other items and young Loeb was given a large expense account.

DIED TOO SOON

Going into details of the crime, they picked up the Franks boy on his way home from the Harvard School, dragged him into an automobile and struck him over the head with a chisel, wrapped in tape. This chisel was found yes-

Hope that President Coolidge might be in Nogales at that time also virtually was abandoned when it was learned necessity of his signing measures passed by Congress would keep him in Washington in all probability.

Ambassador Warren will leave here next Thursday for the Republican National Convention at Cleveland. He will go as delegate-at-large from Michigan, and expects to reach Cleveland Sunday. He let it be known he will confer with Secretary Hughes at Washington prior to his return here on the American side of questions before the International Claims Commission. The special committee of the commission meets here on August 17, next. The general body meets here next September. Umpires for both commissions already have been appointed.

OBREGON FAVORS PARLEY

Desirability of a conference between Mexico and the United States to arrange an international operating plan similar to that in use between the United States and Canada was discussed by Ambassador Warren with President Obregon. It was announced the President is favorably inclined to such a conference.

Regarding the loan to Mexico, Ambassador Warren said negotiations still are being carried on. Mexico is seeking a smaller loan as her demands, which were increased by the cost of the revolution, are decreasing. The view was expressed that the international banking committee is unlikely to grant the loan, although it is considering collateral security of-

DR. BURTON TO NOMINATE

Head of Michigan University to Offer Coolidge's Name; Seen as Vice-Presidential Choice

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Rev. Leroy Burton, president of the University of Michigan, has been chosen to place the name of President Coolidge in nomination at the Republican National Convention at Cleveland.

Big, brawny, red-haired, magnetic, with a voice that would charm the birds off the trees, and a gift of oratory that would make William J. Bryan's "cross of gold and crown of thorns" speech seem sophomeric by comparison—that is Dr. Burton.

SEEN AS CHOICE

A product of the soil of Iowa, in which State he was born a few months less than fifty years ago, Dr. Burton has behind him a record as a great educator and as an eminent scholar. Withal, as his Michigan friends describe him, he is a husky, two-fisted man of extraordinary virility and personal charm. There is something Rooseveltian about him, according to these friends, and they predict that if a selection is not made in advance, tied down and copper riveted, Dr. Burton is going to arouse so much enthusiasm that the convention will stampede itself into nominating him for Vice-President.

Truly a colorful and engaging personality is this man who so suddenly leaps into the national political picture. It is difficult to escape the conclusion that he was selected by President Coolidge himself to make the nominating speech, for between the two men there exists a firm friendship established in those seven years, 1910-1917, when Dr. Burton was president of Smith College in the President's home town of Northampton, Mass. Last winter, Dr. and Mrs. Burton were guests for several days of President and Mrs. Coolidge at the White House. Always a Republican, Dr. Burton never has been pronouncedly active in party politics. He represents a type, however, that President Coolidge believes should take a prominent part in public affairs.

REAL EXECUTIVE

Pre-eminently a scholar, Dr. Burton, who began his pedagogy as a teacher of Greek in Minnesota, nevertheless is famous in educational circles as a skilled administrator, and business executive. From Michigan comes this testimony: Prior to his becoming president of the University of Michigan in July, 1920, and from the time of that institution's establishment in 1837, the university had received in appropriations from the State Legislature no more than a total of $5,000,000. In the less than four years of his presidency, Dr. Burton has talked the Legislature into giving the institution $23,000,000, and he has put the university affairs in splendid condition. Now he emerges from that field of endeavor into the one of national politics.

TEN GIRLS DEAD, TEN MISSING IN DEL REY SCHOOL HOLOCAUST

Victims Killed, Injured and Lost When Bewildered by Smoke and Flames as Hope Development Home Burns to Ground; Six Firemen Are Hurt

Ten girls are known to have perished in the flames which last night destroyed the Hope Development School for subnormal girls near Playa del Rey, three miles from Venice, and ten others are missing, a complete check by officials of the school showed at 11 o'clock, two hours after the three-story frame building burst into flames.

The bodies of ten of the girls had been recovered and it is believed practically certain that others of the missing lost their lives in the flames.

Nineteen inmates of the school ranging in age from 6 to 14 years, are at St. Catherine's Hospital in Santa Monica.

CUBA'S RUIN PREDICTED

Revolters Plead for Dictator

President Zayas Mulcting Country of Millions, is Charge Made

American Must Take Reins to Stave Off Chaos, Warning Sounded

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HAVANA, May 31.—That the political and financial situation in Cuba is so fast approaching a state of chaos that only the immediate appointment of Gen. Leonard Wood or some other similarly strong American as a sort of dictator of the country can save it from ruin was the claim made here today by members of the Society of Veterans and Patriots, whose recent armed outbreaks have risen to the dignity of an abortive revolution.

According to members of the society, which is headed by Gen. Carlos Garcia Velez, former Minister to England and son of the famous Gen. Garcia, Col. Manuel Despaigne, former Secretary of State and other political chieftans, President Alfredo Zayas and his numerous relatives—all of whom hold political office—already have succeeded in mulcting the country of millions at the expense of its moral and physical welfare.

MANY CHARGES MADE

Among their list of charges—which are so numerous as almost to fill a large volume—are these:

That in the past two years the grand prizes of the Cuban government lottery—$200,000 in 1922 and $300,000 in 1923—have gone to the President's wife and to his son. The son is the administrator of the lottery.

That President Zayas went into office a poor man, but that within three months not only he, but a dozen of his relatives became possessed of lands, automobiles and town houses; that recently the President purchased a sugar plantation for more than $3,000,000; that his wife is lavishing money on an alleged tuberculosis hospital on the shore of the bay.

The the President gave huge banquets at the palace at a cost of several thousand dollars; and that when the bill was presented by the caterers he asked them to double it and split the proceeds. The bill was later paid from government funds at the double price.

CITE MUSEUM DEAL

That the President purchased on behalf of the government an ancient convent at Santa Clara for use as a museum at an original purchase price of less than $1,000,000; but that when the bill was presented to the government it was for $2,500,000.

That the roads throughout Cuba are in a frightful condition due to lack of care.

That government employees are so seldom paid that public service strikes are common. Recently the health of the city was menaced by a week's strike of garbage men.

That out of 3,000,000 people some 50,000 children are roaming the streets and highways without any attempt at education; that school buildings built during the occupancy by the United States are empty because the government does not supply the teachers.

That the President, through use of his executive powers, is pardoning murderers sometimes when they have only served three months of a ten-year sentence; that in so doing he is lessening respect for law and order and that this, coupled with the lack of educative facilities for the younger generation, will work havoc with the future of the country.

House Adjourns, No Action Taken on Farmer Bill

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The House adjourned, tonight without reaching a final vote on the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

The motion to adjourn, adopted by a vote of 180 to 136, was offered by Representative Voight, Republican, insurgent, Wisconsin, one of the members of the Agriculture Committee, opposed to the measure.

The result indicated, leaders generally agreed, that the bill will be defeated when a vote on passage is reached Monday or Tuesday.

CARPENTIER DEFEATED

Tommy Gibbons Wins Easily

Yankee Heavyweight Given Decision Over Parisian in Ten-Round Mill

Frenchman Unable to Use His Famous Right in Battle Against Minnesotan

BY HARRY NEWMAN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MICHIGAN CITY (Ind.) May 31.—Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul made a show of Georges Carpentier of France in a very much one-sided ten-round affair here this afternoon. There wasn't one round that could be credited to the Frenchman. He tried with his famous right hand, but Gibbons had him missing all over the place. It was like a schoolmaster giving a lesson to a pupil.

Carpentier had that famous right hand in there all afternoon, but he might as well have left it in France. He kept firing at every opportunity but never found a spot to place it. Gibbons never was extended during the entire ten rounds. As a matter of fact, his seconds had nothing to do during the intermissions and he scarcely got up a sweat, doing as he pleased with the Frenchman.

BARRAGE OF GLOVES

Carpentier probably never had seen so many boxing gloves in his life before. Cruel right-hand smashes had poor Carpentier in bad shape during the trip but the Frenchman was dangerous. Even in the ninth round when he complained he twisted his ankle he started a right hand smash to Tommy's head which, if it had landed, would have knocked Gibbons kicking.

It was apparent at the outset that Gibbons knew all about that right-hand smack of Carpentier's. Tom stepped right out in the first frame and started a series of left hooks to the head which had the Frenchman back on his heels right off the bat. Georges kept shooting that right hand but it was laughable the way Gibbons ducked under and counted with hard belts to the Frenchman's body.

One left hook of Tom's in the first round staggered Carpentier, who couldn't quite understand what it was all about. Right there it was evident that the Frenchman was going to have a lot of trouble landing on that fast-stepping American. Again in the second round Gibbons had Carpentier backing away as he jolted him with short left hooks to the face and a fierce attack to the body. Carpentier was still missing his rights, and several times was pitching to the floor as his blows went over Tommy's head. It wasn't until the fourth round that the Frenchman got into the running and caught Tommy with a hard right punch, which was a little high, only to get his chin in front of a light right hook. That was the only flash shown worth while by the Frenchman.

The American took the play

Six firemen from Venice stations, hurled from a telephone pole by high tension wires during the course of the fire, also are at St. Catherine's.

When the blaze broke out shortly after 9 o'clock, the inmates of the school had been in their beds in the dormitory only a short time. Many jumped from the windows at the first alarm, while others succeeded in making their ways out of the building by means of the stairs, but it was believed that many of the missing girls, bewildered by the smoke and flames, lost their lives in the building.

BUILDING ISOLATED

It was believed possible that some of the missing girls escaped from the building and were at the homes of neighbors at the time of the check.

So fiercely was the building burning at the end of an hour and a half that none of the bodies had been recovered.

The building is located in an isolated district approximately three miles from Venice. It was formerly known as the Del Rey Hotel, but was converted for use as a school for subnormal girls some time ago.

The fact that many of the inmates were subnormal in intelligence, added to the confusion and the difficulty of rescue.

The origin of the blaze was undetermined.

The injured girls were rushed to the St. Catherine's Hospital, Santa Monica, where they were given treatment for burns, suffocation, shock and exposure.

The most seriously hurt was Jessie Moore, 14 years of age, Mrs. A. Taugher, superintendent of the hospital, stated last night.

SIXTEEN ARE TREATED

Sixteen other victims treated at the hospital gave their names to the nurses as follows: Madeline Canthi, Josephine Bathelmy, Bessie Hopkins, Sylvia Larakis, Hattie Morey, Dorothy Flett, Katherine Blomberg, Alberta Hughes, Violet Nelson, Lorraine Gould, Doris Blick, Elsie Videl, Mary Topper, Maybelle Burke, Alice Beard and Ruth Flower. The names of the two others had not been obtained at a late hour last night.

Clothing is badly needed by the victims, the superintendent announced last night, and issued an appeal for donations of dresses and wraps suitable for girls of such ages. The clothes are needed immediately and, if possible, should be sent to the hospital today.

Many of the girls were suffering from shock and suffocation by smoke and were unconscious when taken to the hospital. These, however, were revived and only those suffering from burns were declared to be dangerously hurt.

The fire started in a room on the first floor on the south side of the building, and those who were saved were in a dormitory on that floor. When the alarm was spread through the building the occupants of the dormitory on the second floor grouped themselves at the windows, laughing and shouting as the smoke and flames broke from the side of the building. A realization of the situation apparently forced itself upon these unfortunates after the blaze had gained such headway that the building was doomed, and they rushed into the hallways where they jammed, screaming.

As the flames reached those grouped in the hallways on the second floor, the screams gradually diminished until a deathly silence prevailed.

Because of the mentality of the inmates of the school, fire drill was

GIGANTIC GAS LINE PROJECT

Continuous Steel Pipe Without Screw, Thread or Joint to be Longest of Kind in World

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KIRBYVILLE (Tex.) May 31.—A continuous steel tube 210 miles long without a coupling or a screw-thread connection will be laid this summer. It will run between the Texas and Louisiana natural gas fields, from Shreveport, La., and Beaumont, Texas.

News of the gigantic project, the most spectacular welding job ever attempted, came today from the construction camp of the Magnolia Gas Company here along with the announcement that the company wants 500 of the country's finest pipe welders for immediate work.

When completed, the longest sixteen-inch diameter pipe line in the world will cross two rivers, innumerable creeks and run underground through four counties to carry the natural gas to Beaumont. Oxy-acetylene welding will seal every joint, replacing the old method of screw couplings, thus reducing the upkeep of the line to the vanishing point, and conserving a great quantity of gas from the leakage which has always been unavoidable with threaded joints.

Working north and south from Kirbyville, the construction gangs are clearing the right of way, a tremendous job in itself, as the country is heavily wooded. Before the 210-mile trench can be dug, the trees have to be felled and the stumps removed. Special stagings must be built at the Sabine and Neches rivers and at the various creeks so that the pipe may be joined, dragged into place and dropped to the beds of the streams.

The welding crews will operate at a number of points along the right of way and the Magnolia Gas Company, a subsidiary of the Magnolia Petroleum Company, estimates that the welders will require the entire summer to finish the job. The line will be built in straight sections of about 100 feet each and then each section will be "tied-in" to meet the contour of the country. A single welding crew in this way will account for from a half mile to a mile of steel tubing, painting and testing it before putting it in the trench.

INVENTOR OF 'DEATH RAY' IN WILD DASH TO FAME

Harry Matthews Leaves Obscurity to Startle World, as England Frantically Seeks Secret

BY HAROLD E. SCARBOROUGH
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, New York Tribune]

LONDON, May 30.—Two months ago few persons in England ever had heard the name of Harry Grindell Matthews, while to the average man on the street the name was absolutely unknown. Since then he has gained a limited amount of publicity, but early this week in one single day he became a national—even an international—figure of the first magnitude.

Today his name is spread across the front page of virtually every newspaper in Great Britain, and appears in the editorial columns of most of them. His actions are the universal topic of discussion and questions are being asked about him in Parliament.

Matthews, as the whole world now knows, claims to have found a secret means of projecting force through ether—in the words of the popular press to have discovered the "death ray," for which claims are made that it will do anything from putting mortars and airplanes in flight out of commission, to destroying human life.

STARTS EXCITEMENT

Matthews's proven ability as an inventor has insured him against the charge of being held simply a visionary. But he never would have attained his present place in the public eye if he had not dramatized his vicissitudes to resemble as the Manchester Guardian notes "the scenario of a strong Drury Lane melodrama."

The overture began last week when Matthews announced that he was negotiating with a French company to exploit his patents. At the solicitation of certain influential persons here he consented to allow the British government one month in which to acquire the invention. He gave a demonstration in a London laboratory on Monday afternoon but declared the subsequent offer made by the Air Ministry was not sufficient.

Tuesday came "the big scene" in the drama. At 11 a.m. Matthews packed up and left his flat, declaring he was on his way to Paris, to reopen negotiations with the French company. At 11:30 p.m. two government officials arrived at the flat to hold further conversations with him. They talked to Matthews's assistant, who agreed to hasten to Paris in an effort to overtake his employer.

MORE THRILLS

Matthews meanwhile had proceeded to the Croyden airport. As the Paris mail plane took off from the ground "a low gray car" full of solicitors and court officials dashed up. They were about a quarter of a minute too late to serve an injunction on the inventor, restraining him on the petition of two financiers claiming to hold a 52 per cent interest in his "death ray," from disposing thereof without their consent.

Meanwhile the plane, with Matthews on board, was headed out over the English Channel, and each edition of the evening papers added fresh thrills of the comment in the British press on Wednesday—with Matthews preserving utter silence in Paris—makes interesting reading.

The papers range themselves, roughly speaking, either in sympathy with or in opposition to the inventor and his actions. The London Evening Standard. The Star and The Daily Mail believe the government would have offered more than 1000 pounds sterling and point to the record of British officials for poor guessing on the value of inventions of the past.

The Star goes further and asks, "Is it conceivable that bureaucracy and its allies do no want the defense of Great Britain against hostile airplanes rendered too simple?"

METHODS HIT

On the other hand, The Morning Post quoting the Air Ministry's statement that the Matthews test did not substantiate all the claims made says, "the government could not have done more."

The Labor paper, The Daily Herald, remarks, "what a comment on the system of production for profit that a man who declares he has hit on something of immense value to humanity should have to dispose of it by methods of a cheapjack at the fair and be anxious only to get the largest possible price for his invention."

The Manchester Guardian treats the moral issue involved more fully.

"Has the inventor sufficiently discharged his civic obligations when he has sent his country an ultimatum?" it asks. "Even in peace time,, can the sense of civic obligation be absolutely nonexistant? The attitude of an impartial auctioneer who takes bids from all, and does no favor to friends seems somewhat a stony one."

Lord Birkenhead writes to The London Times sardonically, remarking "that an amateur should tumble on such an epoch-making discovery is about as probable as that a child of 5 should defeat a champion chess player in his game or Mlle. Lenglen in tennis."

Meanwhile, although Matthews is in Paris, seven other inventors have assured the government that they have death rays of their own which make all the others look like the proverbial 30 cents. A death-ray disarmament conference indeed would seem likely.

Times Want Ads

HUGE GAIN FOR MAY 1924

Separate wants ads printed by the Los Angeles Times during the month which ended yesterday reached the grand total of 146,933. Notwithstanding the fact that May a year ago was one of the biggest want-ad months in the history of The Times, the figures for May, 1924, beat last May by the enormous number of 13,186 separate want ads, equivalent to an average gain of 425 want ads for every day in the month.

NO TRACE OF BRIDE LOST IN MOUNTAIN

Friends Fear Mrs. Elder Has Been Drowned; Pools Dragged for Body

Searchers, who have spent the last twenty-four hours in North Fork Canyon, twelve miles from Hemet, had failed up to a late hour last night to find any trace of Mrs. Irene Elder, girl bride of a Los Angeles man who has been missing since Friday morning.

Mrs. Elder with her husband and a party of friends went to the canyon Thursday night on a fishing expedition. At daylight the following morning several members of the party started for the mountain streams in the canyon. After they had traveled about two miles the going proved too rough for the young woman and she determined to return to camp. Others in the party proceeded up the canyon.

The fishermen returned to camp at 8 o'clock and found that Mrs. Elder had not returned. A search was immediately instituted and continued all through the night without results. Yesterday morning officers from the Sheriff's office, mountain rangers and residents of the vicinity joined the searchers. All efforts have thus far been unavailing.

The canyon is very deep and it is said it would have been impossible for the woman to have lost her way as the only path possible to travel would have brought her back to camp. This fact gives rise to the theory that she had fallen in one of the deep pools of the mountain stream and drowned. Many of these pools were dragged yesterday with no results and this morning searchers will resort to dynamite in an effort to locate the body.

FALL OPERA SEASON NOW IS ASSURED

Judge Bledsoe Announces Necessary Sum of $35,000 is Oversubscribed

A fall season of grand opera by the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association was assured last night when it was announced by United States District Judge Bledsoe, president of the association, at a meeting of the association at the home of Mrs. R. D. Shepherd in Hollywood, that the necessary sum of $35,000 with which to stage the productions has been oversubscribed.

In anticipation of a full subscription to the fund, 100 members of the chorus, under the direction of Alexander Bevani, have been hard at work on the five operas the association plans to present in Los Angeles.

The operas will be presented in the Philharmonic Auditorium. The date for the opening night will fall some time in October. The words and music of "Andrea Chenier" have already been mastered by the chorus and the singers are now working on the "Manon." The other operas to be presented are "Traviata," "Romeo and Juliet" and "Rigoletto."

Most of the principals are to be imported from eastern operatic companies and will include some of the world's greatest singers, among them being Benjamin Gigli, Tito Schipa, Claudio Muzio and Guiseppe De Luca.

Chorus rehearsals are being conducted four times a week at the Y.M.C.A. where a special room has been set aside for that purpose.

DISINHERITED NIECE SUES UNCLE'S ESTATE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS, May 31.—Objections of Frank A. Ruf, millionaire chemical manufacturer,, to the marriage of his wife's niece, Miss Alpha Hatch, to Willard B. Shelp, Jr., caused him to omit Mrs. Shelp from his will, according to statement made by L. Frank Ottofy, one of the attorneys representing Mrs. Shelp in her suit to break Ruf's will. Ruf died a year ago, leaving an estate inventoried at $2,193,486. Mrs. Shelp contends that during her girlhood she lived with the Rufs and that while never legally adopted she was "treated and held out by them as their daughter."

ART TREASURES AMASSED

Midas of Austria Assembles Priceless Works from Royal Galleries of Europe

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1924, Public Ledger.]

VIENNA, May 31.—Camillo Castiglione, a Vienna financier, has not only accomplished the feat of collecting several million dollars from a shoestring in the last ten years, but he has built up, simultaneously, an art collection, which now deserves to be ranked among the first treasure chambers of Europe. Pictures, sculptures and ceramics make up his collection, and many pieces of the magnificent renaissance furniture of his house in the Prinz Eugenstrasse ought to be added to the list of his treasures, although they do not appear in the catalogue now in the hands of the printers.

The prize of his picture gallery is a Coreggio, "The Marriage of the Holy Catharine." It has been described as the most beautiful work of the great Italian master; few will dispute that it belongs to the ten or twelve most valuable Coreggios in existence. It belongs to the ripest period of the artist's work. It was the property of King Charles I of England, from whom it passed into the possession of the Duke of Modena.

A large part of Castiglione's collection comes from the once-celebrated gallery of Miller-Aicholz, who, together with Baron Giuseppe Cartarri, was Trieste's most passionate collector. Castiglione also has some especially beautiful Giulio Romanos, from the collection of Pope Leo X, and a lovely Tiepolo from the Palazzo Dolphimo, Venice. His collection includes three works of Rubens, a masterful self-protrait by Rembrandt, two Titians, and a number of lesser Tintorettos.

PRIZE SCULPTURES

His sculptures include lovely renaissance works, mostly of the Padua school, stautes from Riccio, Alessandro Vittoria, Pierino da Vinci, and Pietro Francavilla.

The collection is interesting, not only to collectors and critics, but to art historians, and Castiglione has been persuaded to issue a catalogue of his galleries. The catalogue will be one of the beautiful art books of the year, with exquisite reproductions and comments by leading authorities. De Nicolo, director of the Museum del Bargello, will comment on the Italian pictures. Leon Blanischig will describe the sculptures, and the collector's brother, Prof. Arthour Castiglione, will analyse the ceramic collection.

ART INTEREST SECRET

Castiglione's collection undoubtedly belongs to the little group of private hordes, which can rival the treasurers of the European museums. Up until the last months, however, his art interests have been known only to a few. He was always thought of as the Stinnes of Austria, a tireless worker, organizer, and gambler, whose industrial interests spread throughout Central Europe into every conceivable enterprise.

He recently became prominent, as the Maecenas of Max Reinhardt, for whom he financed the restoration of the old Josef-Staedter Theater in Vienna.

JAPAN OPENS WEDDING FETE

Five-Day Celebration of Prince Regent's Marriage Begins With Brilliant State Banquet

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

TOKIO, May 31.—The five-day state celebration of the wedding of Prince Regent Hirohito to Princess Nagako Kuni opened here tonight with a state banquet, the most brilliant court function in years.

The imperial wedding ceremony was performed January 26 last, after having been postponed by the official period of mourning which followed September's earthquake and fire disaster. Preparations for the state celebrations have been under way several weeks.

The banquet tonight was attended by 350 guests, including Princes and Princesses of the imperial blood, foreign Ambassadors and Ministers and their wives, members of the Cabinet, privy councillors and the highest officials of the Japanese Army and Navy.

Following the banquet was a ball to which all members of the foreign diplomatic corps had been bid. The Regent welcomed the guests in a brief address.

Tokio is in gala attire for the celebration. Flags appear everywhere; the whole city has been specially decorated. Arches of greenery have been built across the principal streets and free entertainments provided in various places throughout the city, that all may join in the rejoicing.

The next four days will be crowded with celebratory functions both in the imperial palace for the notables of the empire and in the city for the populace.

ANTI-RAIL BOARD BILL IS FAVORED

Committee in Senate Reports Measure for Action

La Follette Cuts Vacation to Lend Helping Hand

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The Howell-Barkley bill, proposing substitution of national arbitration boards for the Railroad Labor Board, was favorably reported today by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

The measure, declared by the Republican insurgents in both Senate and House to be one of the items upon which action will be sought before adjournment, has been vigorously opposed by the carriers.

The favorable committee vote was taken immediately after the return to Washington of Senator La Follette, leader of the insurgents. Cutting his vacation short by two days, he participated in the meeting of the committee, called to consider the bill which his intimates described as one of the most essential planks in his political platform.

The committee eliminated the "Federal receivership amendment" which had been inserted by its subcommittee. This would have authorized the President to institute a suit for a receiver whenever a strike or lockout threatened a national transportation crisis.

As a substitute for the receivership provision, the committe authorized that a new section be drawn providing for a board of five members, appointed by the President to which would be referred disputes which had failed of settlement before the regular adjustment boards.

fered on which an advance might be made.

Concerning the Inter-American Electrical Communications Conference in session here, Ambassador Warren said subcommittees already have been appointed to study technical questions and will report within the next two or three weeks to the main conference findings on which to base eventual recommendations to the various governments concerned.

Ambassador Warren expects to return here about June 20, next. Meanwhile Mrs. Warren will remain here.

Discussing the United States-Japanese situation, the Ambassador said: "I am not much worried. I lived in Japan long enough to know that the friendship and commercial relations between the two countries are too well founded."

Ambassador Warren said he had discussed the exclusion bill with the Japanese Minister here, but did not disclose what had been said.

McAdoo Beaten Badly by Smith in Gopher State

ST. PAUL, May 31.—Defeating supporters of William G. McAdoo at nearly every turn, Minnesota Democrats, in convention here tonight voted to send an uninstructed delegation of twenty-four to the Democratic National Convention at New York City.

Four delegates-at-large were chosen by the State convention and at ten Congressional district gatherings two delegates each were selected. Twenty of the delegates were said to be favorable to Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York for President, with McAdoo men getting four.

'Girl' With Big Feet and Escort Fire at Autoist

With bullet holes in his coat sleeve and his automobile, I. Knudsen, 1542 West Temple street, manufacturer of musical instruments, reported at the Central Police Station last night that he had been an unwilling target on a lonely road between Pomona and Belvedere.

As he approached Belvedere two figures, one dressed as a woman, attempted to flag him down. The feet under the dress looked too large. Knudsen stepped on the gas. Bullets began to fly in his direction. He didn't stop to investigate.

CONSUL IS LINKED TO SMUGGLING CHINESE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The name of Frederick M. Ryder, Consul-General at Vancouver, B. C., was mentioned as having appeared on vises on Chinese passports in the hearing today before a United States Commissioner on charges of bribery against David C. Kerr, Vice-Consul at the same place.

Kerr, who was held under $5000 bond for the grand jury, surrendered to Federal authorities here Thursday after he had been informed that a warrant had been issued for his arrest in connection with illegal passage of Chinese across the Canadian border.

John L. Zurbrick, assistant commissioner of immigration at Seattle, testified today that in 1921, when he was an immigration inspector at Vancouver, his attention was attracted by an unusual number of Chinese entering the United States via Vancouver on passports vised either by Kerr or Ryder.

YOUTHS ADMIT 'TEST' MURDER

terday by a janitor and proved an important clew in the investigation. The blows on his head silenced him, but they stuffed a rag into his mouth and wrapped him in a robe.

They admit they set out deliberately to kill the boy—and they did. The gag in his mouth choked him to death. They knew he was dead five minutes after they had him in the car, but this did not worry them. They had intended to kill him in all events, but not until they had subjected him to some weird experiments. Later, if the gag had not killed him, they intended to finish him with ether. This clears up the mystery of the can of ether found in the garage where young Leopold kept his cars.

Although they were sorely disappointed over their inability to note the reactions of their victim as he was dying, his death gave them no particular concern.

It did, however, necessitate a change in a plan. Again they had intended to throw the body into the swamp where it was found, but they planned to destroy the boy's features with acid so identification would have been impossible. The waters of the swamp and other agencies would have destroyed the flesh in a short time and identification of a skeleton would have been out of the question. The murderers have not yet explained why they failed to use acid on the boy's face, but the police believe they were in too great a hurry to dispose of the body.

After stripping the victim and thrusting the nude body into the culvert they burned the blanket in which he had been wrapped. Presumably, also they burned his clothing, although this point has not been cleared up.

At this point Fate stepped into the grewsome picture. In his haste to dispose of the body and get back to the city to complete his alibi, Leopold dropped his glasses. These were of peculiar construction and were readily traced and this was the first tangible clew detectives had to work upon. By following it rapidly, the net soon was drawn about Leopold. Young Loeb, who had first been arrested as a material witness, blundered badly in some of his statements and when it was discovered that he had been out on a "gin" party with Leopold the day and night of the kidnaping and murder, the belief grew that he was connected with the crime. From that moment the drive for a confession was centered against both youths, who were kept in separate cells to prevent communication.

TELL OF GIRLS

The final breakdown came early this morning when their alibi, bomb-proof up to that point, was punctured suddenly. They had accounted for every minute of their time. Early on the day of the murder they had gone to a downtown store for luncheon, then on a bus to Lincoln Park to "study the birds." Later they went to the Cocoanut Grove Gardens, danced and drank awhile, then bought a bottle of gin and started out for a ride. Both boys insisted they were using Leopold's Willys-Knight car on the trip after they left the Cocoanut Grove Gardens. They told of picking up two girls, "Edna" and "May," whom they later threw out of the car because the girls refused to accede to their perverted demands. As young Leopold explained it: "They were the kind of girls who went home with mud on their shoes—and we made them do it," meaning they had been thrust out of the car at some lonely spot and forced to walk home.

The Willys-Knight car, like the peculiar glasses, proved the downfall of the murderers. After they had insisted they had been out in it all afternoon and night, Sven Englund, chauffeur for the Leopold family was called in. Englund is responsible for the cars belonging to the Leopold family and he said the Willys-Knight owned by Nathan Leopold was in the garage all day from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock that night.

This statement electrified the detectives working on the case, who had been on the point of accepting the statement made by the prisoners. They had found the alibi so perfect that they were on the point of ordering them set free.

BOY CRUMPLES

Englund's statement was repeated to young Loeb, who crumpled like a wet rag, went white and finally broke down.

For several minutes he would not utter another word, fighting with his emotions. His head, which had been held high all through the examination, dropped and his clear eyes no longer looked frankly and fearlessly into those of his inquisitors. He shifted his gaze, twisted and moaned in agony and suddenly asked for State's Attorney Crowe.

"I want to talk to him privately," he said, and in a moment he was closeted with the prosecutor, blurting out the entire plot.

Meantime young Leopold was taken into another office, confronted with the same evidence and subjected to a new line of questioning. Word soon came out of both offices that the murderers had broken down completely and confessed all they could remember of the crime.

As soon as they had recovered their composure somewhat, both boys were taken in automobiles and started over the district covered by them in kidnaping the Franks boy and disposing of his body. When the party reached the little lake near the swamp, young Leopold made a move to throw himself into the water, but was restrained by the detectives.

RENTED CAR

The significance of the Willys-Knight car is shown by the fact that they rented a car exactly like that owned by young Leopold and which they used in the kidnaping. Had Leopold used his own car and had he not lost his glasses, it is admitted the mystery still would be a mystery.

Never in Chicago, probably never in the history of any crime in the world, has there been a similar case. It is the only known crime of its kind where all the figures, victim and murderers, were the sons of multimillionaires.

Parents and relatives of the boys are stunned into silence by the terrible climax to the ten-day mystery. All the families connected with the grewsome crime are immensely rich and powerful in the political, business and social world.

Great pride had been taken in the remarkable scholastic achievements of Leopold and Loeb, particularly Leopold, who is a Ph. D. at 19, master of fifteen languages and an authority on ornithology and other subjects. Both the murderers attended the select Harvard School from which the Franks boy was kidnaped. Both had attended the University of Michigan. Leopold was in the University of Michigan but one year, but he established a reputation for unusual brilliancy, but was considered "queer," a genius undoubtedly, with a brilliant but warped mind. Loeb attended the University of Michigan two years and then joined Leopold in the University of Chicago.

The startling discoveries in this case, it is believed, will cause the authorities of universities everywhere to investigate closely the growth of radical societies and the actions of perverts. There recently has been a marked outbreak of those poisons in the large western schools. Radicals, especially, have been asserting themselves at the University of Chicago and parents of students are anxious to know to what extent perverts are influencing the ethics and conduct in the institutions that are supposed to represent the best in Americanism.

PLUM GROWERS LOSE ONE-FOURTH OF CROP

GOOD PRICES EXPECTED TO OFFSET DAMAGES BY NORTH WINDS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, May 31.—J. L. Nagle, general manager of the California Fruit Exchange, today estimated the damage to the plum crop of California occasioned by the recent north winds at approximately 1000 carloads. Of this amount, Nagle said, about 750 carloads had been lost in Placer county alone.

This is approximately one-fourth of the total crop of plums in the State this year. Nagle believes the losses will be offset, to a large degree, by good prices and by the superior quality of the fruit being shipped east.

F. B. McKevitt, local fruit dealer, reported the loss of about 125 carloads of mixed fruits in the Vacaville district from the wind. Small losses in the pear and cherry crops are being reported.

Firemen braving the withering heat fought their way to one grou of eight bodies shortly before 1 o'clock. These bodies were horribly charred and many of th girls had thrown their arms aroun each other in their last minute of life. Those of the inmates wh gained the outer air as the fi was gaining headway on the fir floor were taken in charge b matrons and officials as fast a they could be gathered. Famous Rings

Never, in all the years we have been in business, have we had a complaint against a Davidson Wedding Ring. More than that, nothing we have ever stocked has occasioned such enthusiastic praise from our customers as have these rings. The one-piece blanks we use are extra hard, because they are not heated by any soldering. The trough for the milgraining is cut by hand as is the extra deep carving. The material used is of exceptionally fine quality. In fact these rings are not the kind that are made to sell at a price. On the contrary, they are made without regard to necessary cost, with a view to satisfactory lifetime wear.

If you are so fortunate as to need a wedding ring this year, by all means look over the Davidson stock before making your purchase. We feel sure you will thank us for this suggestion.

Magistrates' and Constables' Association Votes Investigation of Charges in Taft

Investigation into charges that agents of the Magistrates' and Constables' Association collected subscriptions from rooming-house proprietors of Taft by flashing badges was started after a complaint was made before the first annual convention of that body in session yesterday at the Alexandria.

The complaint came in the form of seven affidavits read by J. N. Pyles, head of a private detective agency. Two of the affidavits were from City Marshal O. M. Prewitt and City Recorder Harry M. Beatty of Taft and five women rooming-house proprietors.

"If as an association we allow such a state of affairs to continue," said Pyles, "we are going to disrupt the entire minor judiciary of California."

The investigation was authorized without discussion and without demonstration. The association is still in the process of organization. Judge C. B. Stinchcomb of Taft is president.

The affidavit by City Marshal Prewitt and City Recorder Beatty stated that the agents came to them with recommendatory letters on the strength of which they obtained similar letters from Prewitt and Beatty. Later complaints of misrepresentation in the collection of money began to come in to the Marshal's office and the agents were compelled to make restitution under the Marshal's direction, it stated.

The remaining affidavits are those of individuals from whom money is asserted to have been collected, in amounts ranging from $5 to $40. All are proprietors of rooming-houses or hotels.

Judge Stinchcomb excused himself from the chair, on the ground that he had business at the bank, immediately after the session had been called to order, and Judge Edward V. Jones of Bakersfield took his place. On the adoption of a motion by Judge Walker Jones of San Bernardino that a committee be appointed to investigate the charges and to suggest changes in the organization, the chair named Judge McIvor of Redlands, Judge D. D. Hagerty of Maricopa, Judge Walker Jones and Constable Cosby of San Diego.

The names of those whose affidavits were submitted follow: Mrs. Al Thackeray, Mrs. Ledwidge, Edna Travis, Sybil Stulty and Elizabeth Magnus, all of Taft.

DANES TO MEET HERE

Society will Hold Convention in City in 1925

Another organization will hold its convention in Los Angeles in 1925, according to word received yesterday by Charles A. Cook, manager of the convention department of the Chamber of Commerce.

At the close of the annual meeting of the Danish Society of California and Nevada at Fresno yesterday, Los Angeles was chosen as the next convention city. Carl Jorgensen, grand marshal of the organization, in his telegram announcing the decision, stated that 500 delegates would come to Los Angeles.

Ship Battle and Arrest Follows Cheating Charge

A pitched battle aboard ship resulted in the arrest of three youths on the liner Harvard when she arrived yesterday from San Francisco. They were W. M. Phipps of Seattle; R. B. Smith of Oakland, and I. B. Paine of Seattle. They are charged with assaulting an officer on the high seas, obtaining money under false pretense and disturbing the peace.

The excitement started when D. T. Jacques, San Francisco attorney coming to Los Angeles to open offices, and H. J. Jones, manager of the American Paper Company at the Bay City, rose from a card table and accused the trio of crooked play.

The trio laughed, but when First Officer Gus Dahlgren demanded an explanation they were said to have attempted to throw Dahlgren overboard, according to police report. Escaping, Dahlgren returned with a gun and placed the suspects under arrest. They were turned over to Police Lieutenant Currie and officer Greenhaw at the dock, and transferred to the County Jail.

Fleet Officer's Ashes Spread Over Pacific

Consigned to the winds of the Pacific, the ashes of Lieut.-Com. Harry Weaver Hosford, U.S.N., yesterday were scattered from the quarter deck of the U.S.S. Procyon, his last ship, while his former shipmates stood at attention with bared heads.

And to carry out the strange rite, unique in Navy annals, the Procyon, flagship of the train, stood out to sea. The crews of the entire United States Battle Fleet stood rigidly at attention while the funeral ship passed down the double row of anchored dreadnaughts, with flags at half-mast.

Commander Hosford, who was aide and fleet camera officer on the staff of Rear-Admiral George R. Marvell, died suddenly from unknown causes while at dinner with his family in Long Beach recently. His widow requested the Navy Department that the ashes be scattered on the sea from the deck of his former ship.

Commander Hosford is survived by his widow and two children, Harry, Jr., and Grace Anne.

In Choosing a Piano!

REMEMBER, quality cannot be where price is TOO low! It is false economy that tempts one to buy an inferior piano for the sake of a few dollars. It is the part of wisdom to make selection where you have choice of only fine piano names—not one, but many of them! Let the firm who guarantees every piano it sells, serve you! Practice safe and sane economy by buying where you KNOW price is the lowest consistent with quality. BISHOP BROWN FOUND HERETIC

Episcopal Court Brings in Verdict of Guilty

Sentence Deferred; Loss of Office is Possible

Writings Are Attacked and Defended Warmly

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CLEVELAND, May 31.—"Guilty" was the finding of the trial court of the Protestant Episcopal House of Bishops today in the case of William Montgomery Brown, retired bishop of Arkansas. The verdict meant official denial that doctrines of religion set forth in Bishop Brown's writings were in harmony with those held by the church.

The court reserved its decision as to sentence leaving the defendant still a bishop of the church as the penalty may be an admonition, or a suspension or deposition from office. Only the last of these officially will strip Bishop Brown of his rank and title.

Bishop Brown today withdrew his admission of yesterday that he was a heretic when he assumed the stand before the trial board.

"In my own estimation, I am not a heretic," he explained. "I maintain that I have the privilege of interpreting the Holy Scriptures and my doctrinal stand, according to what is usually called the spiritual interpretation. I call it 'symbolic.'

"Testifying yesterday, I should have said 'my asserted heresies.'"

On cross-examination Charles L. Dibble, church advocate, asked this one question:

"In your direct examination yesterday you rehearsed the articles of the Apostle and Nicene Creed, confessing your faith in each. Did you intend that confession to be a retraction of your book 'Communism and Christianism'?"

"Oh, no, not at all," was the reply.

This finished testimony in the case.

The court settled upon three hours for argument, giving each side ninety minutes.

CHURCH DOCTRINE

Joseph W. Sharts, chief counsel of the accused, asked "the privilege given members of Congress of extending our remarks in the record."

This was overruled and John H. Smart of Cleveland, assistant to the church advocate, opened the final argument. He analyzed the language of the presentment, pointing out particulars in which the accusers assert Bishop Brown's book controverted church doctrine as set in the creeds and collects in the book of common prayer.

Mr. Smart maintained the Protestant Episcopal Church was authority for its own doctrine. He said that it had adopted some Catholic formularies and rejected others, this being done by the legislative power of the general convention.

"Our doctrine is not dependent upon theological opinion, but upon legislative action," he said. "Variation in interpretation of creeds has been exhibited throughout church history, but no interpretation which does away with the essence of a doctrine is legal.

"This would be the same as interpreting the Constitution of the United States as establishing a monarchy. Such an interpretation would be merely an abuse of language."

Mr. Smart set out three main points. He said the church doctrine is not found in Holy Scriptures, but is based upon them, which are the source of ultimate appeal.

"Nothing is required for necessary belief, but what can be proved by the Scriptures," he said. "In other words, the church's doctrine is tested by Scripture."

BESIDE THE CASE

Mr. Smart next argued that Bishop Brown's contention that other members of the House of Bishops were heretical, was beside the case.

"The church teaches progressive revelation that God reveals His will to mankind as man is qualified to receive it. Thus men have differed in interpretation of facts and the church has not any of these theories.

"They have, however, maintained the fact and its bishops are subject to discipline for denial of the fact."

The final point was that there was no "persecution of Bishop Brown but only an attempt to prevent him from using his rights and privileges, as a member of the House of Bishops, to forward his own purposes and propaganda."

"This is no cruelty to Bishop Brown," said Mr. Smart. "It is, however, a far greater cruelty to thousands of believers, to deny to them that there is a God to hear their prayers, a Savior to intercede for them and a Holy Spirit to uplift and sustain their souls."

Mr. Smart also quoted from Bishop Brown's book, saying:

"We insist that his own description of his position, 'atheistic rationalism,' cannot be brought to harmonize with a belief in God as held by this church."

Mr. Sharts, opening the defense argument, said that the church advocate had given "not one quotation from Scripture to ratify the doctrine on which they say they rely."

BIBLE KEPT OUT

"They have kept the Bible out of this case from beginning to end," he said, "and when Bishop Brown is found guilty and read out of this church, he still will not know of one single doctrine which he has been accused of controverting."

Mr. Sharts traced his client's journey from orthodox belief, reviewing the narrative given on the stand by the bishop and expanding into some details the findings of Darwin and the political theories of Karl Marx.

"Bishop Brown took that book to which millions of people turn for inspiration," continued Mr. Sharts. "He knew there were millions who still believe that God created all things in just six days, that he chose out his holy men and invested them with strange powers so they could cast down a rod and turn it into a serpent, could walk upon the water, heal disease by a touch, die and be resurrected in their own flesh and blood.

"He had to consider this book in its relation to his knowledge. He found evidence that it was patchwork, the oldest manuscript of the Old Testament dating back to only about 1000 B. C. and of the New Testament to the fourth century.

"And he found those books written in Greek, a language which Jesus did not speak.

"And he said, 'I believe in this as surely as in the evolution of man from the protoplasm, but this is the revelation of man's evolution in religion,' and to show how man might reconcile science and religion he wrote this book and they haled him before this court.

CHURCH BEFORE BAR

"And here the church stands before the bar of the twentieth century, to answer for its doctrine. This century demands a religion that does not require a man to abdicate his intellect, one that does not required a man to go back to the third century to find a creed written in the terms and by the intellects of that time.

"Meet that demand and our churches will be filled. Fail and our temples will be dust."

Closing the case Mr. Dibble said the proceedings had advanced to the place where a "council of the great family of Christ's Church was to reach a momentous decision."

He agreed with Mr. Sharts's declaration that the case was unique, adding, "We are here to consider the case of a Christian atheist, for so he described himself.

"He has demanded this trial," said Mr. Dibble. "He has insisted that the bishops of this church tell him whether the ideas in his book are in harmony with its doctrines. We are here in answer to that insistence and that challenge."

Mr. Dibble emphasized that the verdict of the court, if against Bishop Brown, could not expel him from the church, but at most could depose him from his bishopric.

REMAINS IN CHURCH

"He remains in the church if he wills and receives its sacraments," said Mr. Dibble.

He also denied that the truth of Bishop Brown's beliefs was in issue, or that the case was concerned with fundamentalism at all.

"This church has never taught that it is a requisite of belief that the Scriptures are literally infallible," he said.

"That the Scriptures contain all that is necessary to salvation is as far as this church goes.

"The church has no doctrine on evolution. It is not its province to say how or when God created all things, but only to maintain that He did."

EX-SOCIETY WOMAN JAILED

Mrs. Marie Tomblin Given Twenty-Day Term for Hotel Fraud; Has Checks Signed "Candler"

Mrs. Marie Tomblin, formerly prominent in social circles in Los Angeles and Pasadena, was sentenced to twenty days in jail yesterday by Police Judge Pope on a charge of defrauding the Alexandria and Ambassador hotels through nonpayment of bills.

"If you were a younger woman," Judge Pope told the white-haired, mild-mannered woman, "I would make an example of you. It appears that you have been making a practice of going to the finest hotels, taking advantage of every luxury when you knew you could not pay the bill."

A sensation was sprung at the trial yesterday when N. H. Peterson, Burns detective, testified he found two checks on Mrs. Tomblin's person, each for $200,000 signed with the name of Asa G. Candler, multi-millionaire soft drink manufacturer of Atlanta, Ga. The checks, it was testified, were on an Atlanta bank but the name of the bank had been written over the name of the local bank that issued the blank check.

Mrs. Tomblin, who is known also as Mrs. August E. Rickenbacker, former wife of a wealthy Connecticut shoe manufacturer, admitted that the checks were in her possion.

"I can explain them if you will let me talk to you in private," she told Judge Pope.

That request was denied by the judge who advised her that the only place she could tell her story would be in open court.

"I'd rather go to jail than do that," she said.

Detective Peterson asserted the checks were written by Mrs. Tomblin to make an impression on the hotel man so he would extend her more credit.

Mrs. Tomblin was returned recently from San Francisco to answer a charge of defrauding the Maryland Hotel in Pasadena out of a $1000 bill. This charge later was dismissed by Justice Morton of Pasadena after Mrs. Tomblin had said she left the hotel with the manager's permission.

The charge under which she was sent to jail yesterday was filed by P. H. Leslie, auditor of the Ambassador and Alexandria hotels when her presence in the city was reported in newspapers in an account of the theft of a valuable pearl necklace from her by Pearl Redmond "flapper bandit" when she was an inmate of the County Jail.

In 1921 Marie Tomblin was declared incompetent by a local probate court, but was declared sane again on December 26, 1922. At the time the court declared her incompetent, Marie Tomblin's assets were given as $97,000 in real estate and $9000 in personal property.

TAX RETURN REVISION IS REQUESTED

Voluntary Amendment to Realty Section to Draw Only Slight Penalty

Taxpayers, who filed income returns in the last year showing profits in real estate transactions based on exaggeration of the original cost of the property involved or of the cost of improvements are being advised by the Collector of Internal Revenue to file amended returns correcting erroneous figures. This action, the collector said yesterday, grows out of an investigation of real estate transactions being conducted by a special squad of revenue agents at work throughout Southern California. It is estimated at least $1,000,000 in taxes and penalties will be paid to the government in the next few months through disclosures of real estate profits that were not reported by taxpayers in returns for 1921, 1922 and 1923.

In cases where amended returns are filed and the legal profits are disclosed voluntarily by the taxpayer only nominal penalties will be assessed, according to the collector. On the other hand, it is proposed to assess maximum penalties against taxpayers who wait for the revenue agents to obtain information relating to unreported income. In cases where fraud is evident, the transactions will be turned over to the Department of Justice for prosecution in court, the collector said.

HEADS TEXAS UNIVERSITY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

AUSTIN (Tex.) May 31.—Dr. Herbert Eugene Bolton, professor of history in the University of California, has been elected president of the University of Texas, it was announced today.

84 YEAR OLD MAN MADE YOUNG AGAIN

"Have Found Fountain of Youth," Says Oklahoman.

Made young as a man of 30 years virtually, 84-year-old J. L. Rowell, well-known rancher of Kaw City, Oklahoma, declares that his amazing rejuvenation was brought about in a few days by an exceedingly simple method.

"I am as young and vigorous as I was at 30," he says, "and am getting in better condition than I ever thought possible. Before I tried this method, I wished I was dead, I was in so hopeless a condition. I was skeptical and had lost faith in everything. Now in a few days, my glands are awakened and I am enjoying a complete rejuvenation and restoration of my youthful vigor." Six months have passed since Mr. Rowell made his test, and he is still convinced that the beneficial effects are lasting. He says, "I have found a real fountain of youth."

Speedy Results Reported.

Mr. Rowell used the now much talked of korex method—the discovery of a Missouri pharmaceutical chemist. As told in a recent issue of the Kansas City Journal, many others are announcing delightful effects received in from 24 hours to a few days after its use. Speedy satisfaction has been reported in cases of weakness after the flu, stiff joints, aching muscles, exhausted nerve force, premature old age and low vitality. Enthusiastic users tell of blessed relief even in obstinate cases of years standing, where all other treatment had failed. This method involves no tremendous expense or painful operation. Tablets are used and are taken privately. It contains no drastic drugs and those who have tested it say the effect is a healthful, natural, lasting invigoration.

So many successes have been reported that the American distributors have decided to make the compound available to any person needing it. Those now wishing to try this amazing invigorator will find it on sale at McColloch Drug Co., (4 stores,) 6th & Figueroa Sts., 6th & Alvarado, 6th & Vermont, 6th & Western; McKay & Monkman, (2 stores,) Cor. Daly & No. Broadway, Cor. Ninth & Broadway; Ever Ready Drug Co., Hollywood, Calif.; Patterson Drug Co., 902 Fair Oaks Ave., South Pasadena. Ask for Korex Compound, full strength.—[Advertisement.

CLAIMS CURE FOR INSANITY, DEATH, OLD AGE

Through study of glands and their control, Dr. Bailey of N. Y. declared in a paper he read before the American Chemical Society in Washington, D. C., April 25, 1924, a new form of gland treatment in capsule form has been placed within the reach of everyone.

The consensus of opinion among progressive physicians of late years is that the improper functioning of the ductless glands of the male and female creates more disease than any other cause. Anemia, Nervousness, Goiter, High or Low Blood Pressure, Paralysis, Rheumatism, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Heart Trouble, Prostatic, Dropsical and General Rundown Conditions are all attributable to the depleted state of all these glands.

DRAMA LEAGUE RETAINS HEAD

F. A. Neilson, Noted Author, Re-elected President

Pleas for Originality Made by Theater Speakers

Mission Play Performance Ends Pasadena Session

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, May 31.—Francis A. Neilson of Chicago was honored to day by the national convention of the Drama League of America, when he was unanimously re-elected president of the organization to serve for the next two years. Mr. Neilson is a playwright and novelist of note and at one time was a member of the British Parliament. He was unable to attend the convention in Pasadena this year due to pressing business.

Loredo Taft, noted Chicago sculptor, was re-elected first vice-president. Mr. Taft acted as president at the Pasadena convention in the absence of Mr. Neilson. Mrs. A. Starr Best of Evanston, Ill., and Otto H. Kahn of New York City, were elected second and third vice-presidents. Daniel L. Quirk of Ypsilanti, Mich, was elected secretary.

The directors of the national organization will be Miss Eleanor Bissell of Pasadena, Mrs. A. Starr Best, Dr. Richard Burton, Minneapolis; Barrett H. Clark, New York; Jack Randall Crawford, New Haven; Mrs. Edward Fifield, Chicago; Miss Alice M Houston, Evanston; Samuel J. Hume, Berkeley; Otto Kahn, Francis Neilson, Lorado Taft, Daniel Quirk and Oliver Sayler of New York.

CORNER-STONE LAID

Today's concluding program was devoted mostly to the election of officers. A number of speakers were heard in the morning session on the general subject of play production. In the afternoon the delegates attended the formal ceremonies of the laying of the corner-stone of the new Pasadena Community Playhouse on South El Molino avenue.

Irving Pitchel, director of the Berkeley Community Playhouse, was one of the principal speakers. He declared that he was dissatisfied with community theaters because they lacked creative impulse. The community theaters are too imitative, he said, and are only too willing to produce some play that has already been produced on the New York stage.

Mr. Pitchel further declared that the little theaters of California should be unlike the little theaters of any other part of the country. They should produce different kinds of plays—plays that best fitted their audiences. He strongly favored the production of original plays in the little theaters of this country.

A plea for art was made by Hamilton McFadden of the Santa Barbara Community Arts Association. He cited the success which the Harvard Glee Club made with classical music and asserted it was not necessary to lower the standards to achieve the desired success.

SEE MISSION PLAY

Community service cannot be a fad, the speaker declared, but must be vital and real. He also told of the work the Santa Barbara organization was doing in the line of art.

Arthur Farwell of Pasadena discussed the topic "Music in the Theater Today and Tomorrow." Mr. Farwell declared that there is no real music in the American theater. Miss Marjorie Day, William Lee Woolett, Mary Taft, Miss Sybil Jones and Mrs. Louise P. Sooy of Los Angeles, made short addresses.

All the Drama League delegates were treated to a real Spanish dinner in San Gabriel this evening and later attended the Mission Play.

Although today was the final session of the convention the delegates will remain in this city for a number of days. Tomorrow they will be entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Hinds, 880 La Loma Road. Monday the Los Angeles Center will be the host to the delegates at a luncheon in the Ambassador. They will also be shown through Universal City.

CORNER-STONE IS LAID FOR PLAYHOUSE

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, May 31.—The first step in the construction of Pasadena's new $300,000 Community Playhouse was taken this afternoon when the corner-stone was laid with impressive ceremonies by members of the Drama League of America and city officials. Several hundred delegates of the league, which is holding its annual convention here, witnessed the event.

The new playhouse is the realization of eight years' of planning by the Pasadena Playhouse Association. It will be completed and ready for the grand opening about January 1, it was declared. The new building is situated on South El Molino avenue just south of Colorado street.

Capt. Paul Perigord, president of the Pasadena organization, gave a brief history of the work of the association, and told of the ideals for which its members were striving.

Lorado Taft, acting president of the Drama League of America, was another speaker at the exercises. Miss Eleanor Bissell of Pasadena, a director of the National Drama League; Carl C. Thomas, acting Mayor of Pasadena, and Gilmore Brown, director of the Pasadena Playhouse, made short addresses.

Special music was provided by the Cauldron Club Chorus with Roy Rhoades directing. Rev. Leslie E. Learned made the invocation and Rev. Walter C. Buckner pronounced the benediction. The American Legion drum corps officially raised the American Flag.

RESIGNS AS COUNSEL TO RAIL BOARD

Hugh Gordon Quits State Body to Resume Private Law Practice

Announcement was made by the State Railroad Commission yesterday that Hugh Gordon, who has been counsel for the commission for the past four and a half years, has resigned and will return to Los Angeles to resume private law practice. To succeed Mr. Gordon the commission has appointed Carl I. Wheat of Los Angeles and he will assume the new duties July 1.

Carl Wheat

Mr. Wheat for the last two years has acted as assistant attorney for the commission, and during this time has been largely connected with the Plaza terminal fight. Prior to his association with the commission he was with the law firm of O'Melveny, Milliken, Tuller and McNeill of Los Angeles. He is a graduate of Pomona College and the Harvard School of Law.

Mr. Gordon was assistant county counsel for Los Angeles county before his services with the State body. During his four and a half years with the commission he handled much of the important litigation involving public utility questions and the nationwide revision of express rates recently announced.

Damages Won as Embrace Proved Not Crash Cause

Miss Leslie Harper, who successfully refuted an attempt to prove that the arm of Chick Griffin, motion-picture actor, was about her waist when his car crashed with that of B. J. Skuppen, was awarded damages of $1750 by Judge Purkett in a decision yesterday in her suit against Skuppen for indemnity for injuries suffered in the wreck.

Griffin was awarded $252 for damage done his car.

Skuppen's counsel had attempted to prove that Griffin had contributed to the accident by attempting to drive with one hand, his other arm being about Miss Harper. The mishap occurred the evening of Memorial Day, a year ago, at Wilshire Boulevard and Hamilton Drive.

Guests in Hotel Scared as Man Grows Violent

A middle-aged man who is said to have attempted to demolish the furniture in two unoccupied rooms on the eighth floor of the Biltmore yesterday afternoon was overpowered by Detective Lieutenants Katzenberger and Pittman and taken to the psychopathic ward of the General Hospital for observation.

The police were called by the hotel management who said guests had been frightened by the supposed maniac. The prisoner gave his name as Marshall W. Southwick. Papers found on him indicated he has relatives living at 308 North Pine street, Chicago.

"EARLY BIRD" BANDIT SUSPECTS ARE CAUGHT

THREE MEN HELD BY POLICE IN CONNECTION WITH MORNING HOLD-UPS

Suspected of being the early bird bandits whose numerous hold-ups of oil stations and all-night restaurants have been committed just at the breaking of dawn, Joe Miller, Harry E. Miller and Lewis Jack Quinn Pfingaten were lodged in the City Jail yesterday on charges of suspicion of robbery.

An alarm clock, police say, was part of the bandits' asserted equipment as followers of Francois Villon, the poet-highjacker. They always made their appearance, police charge, bright-eyed and in rare good humor just as the rooster's crow proclaimed the rays of the sun. They were arrested in their room at 909 South Figueroa street.

According to Assistant Captain of Dteectives Cato, Detective Lieutenants Evans, Robinson and Johnson, the trio has been identified by Charles Walton, operator of an oil station at 105 West Washington street, as the ones who robbed him two weeks ago. Other information connects the trio with several robberies, police say.

Gaming Devices Seized in Raid at Culver City

Twenty-five slot machines and punch boards and prizes valued at more than $5000 were seized at twenty-five business establishments in Culver City yesterday by a raiding party headed by George Contreras, chief of the District Attorney's dry squad.

The raids were executed at the noon hour and considerable excitement among the customers of the various restaurants, drug stores and soft drink stands ensued. The proprietors of the places were notified by the officers to appear at the District Attorney's office tomorrow at 2 p.m. Complaints charging violation of the State gambling law will be filed against the owners of the establishments, it was stated.

The raids were instituted by Dist.-Atty. Keyes following receipt of information that slot machines and punch boards were being operated on a wide scale in Culver City. Operation of these devices, it is said, is punishable by a fine of $500 or six months in jail or both.

"FROZEN" FUNDS FORCE BOARDS TO BORROW

FISH AND GAME COMMISSION ARRANGES LARGE LOAN TO PAY SALARIES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, May 31.—G. H. Hecke, director of the State Department of Agriculture, today arranged for a loan of $46,000 from the D. O. Mills Bank to meet the May pay roll of the department. The Fish and Game Commission expects to borrow $21,000 from the California National Bank next week to meet its pay roll of $21,000, it was announced.

Depletion of the salary funds of the two departments and inability to use the surplus funds "frozen" in the Treasury due to decisions by the State Supreme Court interpreting the legislative budget made the loans necessary.

With a view to releasing the "frozen" funds an action was filed in the Supreme Court three months ago by the Fish and Game Commission. It was hoped that the decision would be forthcoming before the salary funds of the two departments were depleted.

In the event a favorible decision is not obtained from the Supreme Court by the end of June additional loans will have to be negotiated by the departments to pay their help for that month.

Action on State Tangle to Wait Study of Law

Blair Says Stone to Decide on Further Steps

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Commissioner Blair of the Internal Revenue Bureau today announced that the auditing and closing up on community property basis of estate tax cases arising in California will be held in abeyance pending further consideration of the law.

The Commissioner's announcement resulted from the action of Atty-Gen. Stone in withdrawing a previous opinion by the Department of Justice relative to collection of taxes on California community property.

The Commissioner made this statement:

"Under date of March 8, last, the Attorney-General rendered an opinion with reference to the nature of the interest of the wife in community property under the laws of the state of California. Under date of May 27, the Attorney-General withdraw the opinion of March 8, for further consideration.

"In view of this action by the Attorney-General, the auditing and closing upon a community property basis of both income and estate tax cases arising in the State of California will be held in abeyance pending further consideration of the matter by the Attorney-General. In the meantime, taxpayers may take such steps to protect their interests by the filing of waivers or claims for refund as they may deem advisable."

LIFE-LIKE HEAD USED IN OPERA "SALOME"

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, May 31.—For the first time in the history of the British opera stage, "Salome" is being played here with something resembling the head of John the Baptist on a salver. The censor had not allowed it heretofore. The device now used is a papier mache mask, pale and death-like, but not grewsome. On one occasion the actress used a football covered with a napkin but it did not go any better than the customarily empty salver.

Tribunal Rules for Germany in War Claim Suit

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

GENEVA (Switzerland) May 31. The monster collective damage suit brought against the German government by 80,000 Belgians who were deported for forced labor into Germany during the World War, which has been on trial here for the past three months before the mixed German arbitration tribunal, has been lost by the plaintiffs.

The tribunal presided over by Paul Moriaud, the famous Swiss jurist, ruled that while in principle it was competent to act in matters regarding contracts, the Treaty of Versailles had in this particular instance deprived it of jurisdiction.

WOMEN'S CLUBS IN NEW RECORD

State Federation Meeting Greatest in Southland

Delegates in Hot Debate on Bill Board Removal

Convention in Stand for International Peace

BY MYRA NYE

Registering almost 1000 delegates with credentials, the largest in the history of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, the twenty-third annual convention, closed last night in Pasadena with an astounding amount of business accomplished in a thirty-six hour conclave. Mrs. John C. Urquhart of Los Angeles presided throughout.

Lively and stimulating was the debate in the afternoon when Mrs. Herbert A. Cable, chairman of the resolutions committee, read eighteen resolutions which were discussed and passed upon singly. All but one were adopted. And it will be many months before the club women will forget the oratory instigated by a bill-board resolution, which was lost by only a few votes. The resolution introduced by the Los Angeles Ebell Club originally recommended a campaign for the removal of all bill boards from the highways and commended the Standard Oil Company for removing theirs about four months ago. The resolution stated further that bill boards are not artistic.

"Oh, but they are," said Mrs. Walter McGinn of the northern district. "You can't make a lot of club women visit art galleries, but they can't help seeing the bill boards, some of them designed by the best artists, such as Maxfield Parrish and they'll get educated in art in spite of themselves."

"I am not a connoisseur of art," said Mrs. Maynard Force Thayer, who was for the resolution, "but I do love scenery."

BILL BOARDS DEFENDED

"The resolution as presented is unjust and too drastic. Other companies besides that mentioned have removed their bill boards," said Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith, "and many who have bill boards have done more to clean up the highways than we surselves have do. I am against the resolution."

When one little quietly gowned delegate said they were a menace to safety, because the pretty girls on them distracted the attention of auto drivers and the food displayed distracted the hungry, she started something and the war of words brought from Mrs. Cable, when she read the next resolution, "This one is not war, it's about war."

With unanimity a resolution slightly amended for a campaign for international peace was adopted. In substance it read:

The California Federation is in sympathy with all movements tending to awaken American citizens to a sense of their international privileges, and obligations and to hasten the day of world peace. Therefore, be it resolved that the California Federation of Women's Clubs in convention assembled heartily reaffirm its stand on former resolutions, urging the entrance of the United States into the Permanent Court of International Justice and request the United States government to call an international conference to draw up a code of laws, which shall declare war a crime and outlaw the same; and, be it resolved further, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the President of the United States; Secretary of State; Chairman of Foreign Relations Committee, and the Senators from California.

PREPAREDNESS ESSENTIAL

Mrs. Grantland Seaton Long, president of Ebell Club, made a plea that gained applause when she asked that the women recognize the need for preparedness untill the International Court had made war a crime and the United States was a part of the court.

The other resolutions adopted briefly were as follows: That the State Industrial Farm for Women near Sonoma receive a sufficient appropriation to rebuild the structure that was burned, and for the more efficient carrying on of that work, and that such a bill be supported at the next session of the State Legislature; that the federation oppose the Blanket Equality Amendment giving equality to women with men in all matters as a menace to the protective measures now in effect in California—this awakened interesting opposition; that a Federal bill be enacted to limit or prohibit labor of youth under 18 years of age; that cigaret smoking by the young be deplored as injurious to the health of all and that the State law forbidding the sale of tobacco to minors be more rigidly enforced; that the program of Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts, Girls Reserve of the Y.W.C.A. and Woodcraft Girls be encouraged and developed; that "America the Beautiful," be made the official State Federation song; that Saturday half-holidays for working people be indorsed; that the Mission Play as an integral part of California life and the Golden Scroll of John S. McGroarty be encouraged and supported in every way possible; that the employment of children on public programs be discouraged; that, in co-operation with the National Safety Commission, judges be urged to pass more drastic sentence against speeders and reckless drivers; that club women enlarge the market for the wares made by disabled veterans; that an increased approriation be made for airplane forest patrols to ward off forest and mountain fires; that the President be urged to send representatives to the World Opium Congress soon to convene, and that the growth of poppies be limited to supply opium only for medicinal and scientific needs.

PASSES OVER OBJECTION

Mrs. Charles C. Ashley said that since synthetic opium and cocaine now are being manufactured, the resolution did not cover the question adequately. It passed, however, without amendment.

Two other resolutions of outstanding interest were: That the Volstead Act and Wright Act be rigidly enforced, and that the federation go on record as definitely and absolutely opposed to the wet campaign being started in the State; and President Coolidge be commended on his stand against lavish preparation for war.

"We give our hearty approval of the President's recent proposal to call another international conference to limit further the use of poison gas, submarines and war aircraft and for the codification of international laws that shall diminish the possibility of war," the resolution read.

Mrs. Aaron Schloss of Berkeley was elected California director for the General Federation of Women's Clubs to succeed Mrs. Robert J. Burdette. Mrs. William A. Fitzgerald, who had withdrawn from the race, paid tribute to Mrs. Burdette in a motion, which was beautiful in its phraseology and sentiment.

"I doubt that there is another State that has as its founder of the Federation and a director a woman of such loyalty and who has given efficient service after twenty-four years of steady allegiance and activity as California has in Mrs. Burdette," she said.

Mrs. L. P. Boyce of San Francisco, State Chairman of the press committee, reported that, during her brief term of committee work the press of the State had donated the federation about 19,231 inches of space at a value of $57,620 and had printed 193 photographs.

ON WORLD CITIZENSHIP

Last night there was given a symposium on "World Citizenship as Developed Through the Departments" with Mrs. O. W. March and the following as speakers, Dr. Mariana Bertola, Mrs. Hamilton Riggins, Mrs. Mabel Chilberg, Mrs. Elon Warner, Miss Gertrude Brainerd, Mrs. L. P. Mitchell, Mrs. Schloss, Mrs. Charles Toll, Miss Jennie Partridge, Mrs. David Fraser, Mrs. H. V. Wurdeman and Mrs. Maynard Force Thayer, chairman of the program committee.

In speaking of the need of appreciation of the finer things to accomplish perfect world citizenship, Mrs. March said:

"As the love of art, literature, music and drama increases with the decrease of brutality, war becomes less possible. Let us, therefore, do all in our power to cultivate appreciation of the arts in the American child and youth for they are the hope of our country."

HOSPITAL WORKERS PREPARED

Committee Providing First Aid for Any Unfortunates at Convention

That prevention is better than cure is the belief of Dr. Eleanor Seymour, chairman of the emergency hospital committee for the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Not that Dr. Seymour expects her assistants to be called upon, but if they should—well, she's laid in a generous supply of bright yellow bandana handkerchiefs into which the delegates may weep if they so desire.

"I defy any woman to cry for more than three minutes after we apply the yellow bandana first aid," said Dr. Seymour. "We are going to be just as inconspicuous as possible, knowing the power of suggestion. The presence of a nurse may suggest to some woman the desirability of lying down in a nice little white bed and taking her food from a tray for a few days. But you may publish to the world that we have ordered stretchers on which we expect to lay our committee chairmen on the last day and carry them out. And some one may call for her's tomorrow, if they all keep the pace they have set."

Knowing the uncertainties of the human mind, Dr. Seymour has left no stone unturned to provide for the unexpected. Representatives of the police department will be on hand, as well as one from the fire department—solely that their presence may assure visitors that everything is all right. A small cloakroom has been converted into an emergency hospital; nurses are being lent by the Angelus Hospital, the White Memorial, Good Samaritan alumni, Board of Health and Board of Education. Representatives of all schools of medicine and healing will be on call, as well as those in attendance at the several convention halls.

DECORATION COLOR PLAN WORKED OUT

Flowers Will Play Vital Part in Period Scheme for Federation

Decorating of the Philharmonic Auditorium, the ballroom of the Biltmore and various halls and meeting places where members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs will gather, is in the hands of Mrs. Milton E. Hammond, who for six years has had charge of the decorating of the Los Angeles Ebell Club.

Mrs. Hammond, while not a professional decorator, has won fame locally through her ability to arrange decorations artistically.

Flowers will be used extensively in decorations for the convention.

During the first period of the convention the satge, ballroom and committee rooms will be decorated with carefully arranged flowers of every hue and description. Next will come the period of Indian decorations, which will be in evidence wherever the members gather.

Mrs. Hammond, during the last period of the convention, will offer her Golden California Day decorations. During this period the color scheme will be gold and yellow, typifying the Golden State.

There will also be a period during which the decorations will have a distinctly Chinese effect, suggestive of the mysteries of the Orient.

The ballroom will not be decorated elaborately, Mrs. Hammond said, the chief artistic feature being an imposing array of garlands between the receiving lines. The committee on decorations includes twenty-five women.

Does a shoe have to be uncomfortable to be stylish?

Naturally not—yet when you hear of a comfortable shoe don't you immediately think of something plain and "stodgy"? The Red Cross Shoe would like to remove that impression—for there is all the difference in the world between a "Comfort Shoe" for Grandma and a comfortable shoe for you.

The Red Cross Shoe admits that it is comfortable. But it is fashionable as well. You will find it on Riverside Drive and Michigan Boulevard—every place where fashionably gowned women meet.

Teeth Stained for Years—Now Clear White!

Friend Showed Him Easy Way to Remove Tobacco Stains

"For years I have been greatly annoyed with tobacco stains on my teeth. Every paste and cleanser on the market was tried without success. Being a salesman, soiled teeth also proved a great handicap. Then one day a friend told me about Bleachodent Combination, the new tooth whitener, in liquid and paste form.

"After going through a considerable period of doubt I finally purchased a package. My delight with the results secured has been so great that I feel obligated to write and congratulate you on the product. My mouth and teeth feel as clean as they look and I take great personal interest in telling my friends about Bleachodent." The above is not an exceptional case. For thousands are securing equally surprising results from Bleachodent Combination—the new, safe tooth whitener. Consists of a mild, harmless liquid and a special kind of paste. The liquid instantly curdles and softens surface stains so that they can be quickly and gently removed with the paste. No effect on enamel. Get Bleachodent Combination today. Costs only a few cents at all good druggists.—[Advertisement.

BARS ARE KEPT UP BY ARIZONA

Hunt Declares Autoist Ban Still is in Effect

No Recent Changes in the California Situation

Officials Believe Fight on Stock Plague Won

Four cows in the Hynes district were the only victims of foot-and-mouth infection reported yesterday from local headquarters. For almost a week reports of newly infected herds were at a standstill, there being very few outbreaks anywhere in the State.

A herd of sixty-two head of cows in the Clearwater district and two small contact herds in the same vicinity which were condemned, were the only cases discovered recently.

That officials have the malady under control is the prevailing belief now being expressed, although it is expected that there may be a few more infections in the areas where the disease has been prevalent for some time. Quarantine restrictions still are being imposed in the county as a precautionary measure. Quarantine headquarters here yesterday were advised that New Mexico now is permitting California cold storage apples to enter that State on telegraphic permit when accompanied by a copy of permit affidavit.

Reports of a letting down of the bars to motorists into Arizona are said to be without foundation. A telegram received yesterday from Gov. Hunt by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California would indicate that motorists still are being barred from that State.

Following is the telegram from Gov. Hunt: "Recent newspaper statement of modification of automobile quarantine in Arizona not correct. Registration of tourists arriving at Needles, Blythe, El Centro, Holtville, and other California cities adjacent to Arizona simply to prevent them going on to river, where they will be detained without food, shelter, or conveniences, and to stop the hundreds of wires arriving at this office every week complaining of suffering. Permits granted have been limited to relieve distressed now there. All Los Angeles papers were notified last Thursday that this was being done. Statements in press of Los Angeles are adding to distress of automobilists. Such action tends to prevent relaxation of quarantine by method that can be adequately handled.

[Signed]
"GEORGE W. HUNT,
"Governor."

The public should bear in mind that quarantine restrictions are just as much in force now as heretofore, reports from quarantine headquarters yesterday stating that no modifications have been made recently.

COST OF FIGHT ON DISEASE IS DISCLOSED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, May 31.—The fight being waged by the State and Federal governments to eradicate the foot-and-mouth disease in California has cost to date $3,732,406.41, including compensation to owners for the slaughter of animals and the destruction of property on infected ranches. The slaughtered animals were appraised at $3,697,406.41. During the campaign to stamp out the plague more than 47,000 head of cattle have been killed and buried and 30,000 head of sheep. These figures were prepared and made public today by H. W. Levers, of the State Department of Agriculture.

The loss by counties in the number and value of animals follows:

Alameda, 5797 animals, $181,284.62.

Contra Costa, 10,294, $445,667.87.

Fresno, 999 animals, $47,065.

Kern, 181 animals, $7581.41.

Los Angeles, 18,150 animals, $1,350,943.07.

Madera, 13,340 animals, $274,177.50.

Mariposa, 6237 animals, $59,355.50.

Merced, 30,962 animals, $1,034,409.65.

Orange, 497 animals, $56,171.

San Bernardina, 1510 animals, $15,854.

San Francisco, 19 animals, $276.50.

San Joaquin, 340 animals, $17,625.

Salano, 1110 animals, $53,271.30.

Stanislaus, 338 animals, $6,470.50.

Tulare, 820 animals, $29,113.50.

Tuolumne, 2515 animals, $118,100.

BANKERS SEND THIRD INSTALLMENT OF LOAN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, May 31.—A check for $170,000, representing the third installment of a loan by the California Bankers' Association to the State Department of Agriculture with which to indemnify owners of live stock slaughtered in the campaign to eradicate the foot-and-mouth disease, has been received by the department, G. H. Hecke, director, announced today.

To date $470,000 has been advanced by the bankers as the result of the declaration of a $2,000,000 deficiency by the State Board of Control, Hecke said. A like sum has been paid by the Federal department.

This sum is slightly more than one-third of the amount the State has contracted to pay the owners of slaughtered live stock. Figures released today by H. W. Levers, accountant of the State Department of Agriculture, show that the appraised value of the 93,109 animals killed up to May 30, last, is $3,697,406.41. Half of this sum will be paid by the Federal government and half by the State.

THREE OUTBREAKS OF DISEASE REPORTED

SACRAMENTO, May 31.—After three days during which not a single case of the foot-and-mouth disease was reported from any of the infected areas of the State, three new outbreaks were discovered yesterday at the office of the State Department of Agriculture.

One of the outbreaks occurred in Merced county, another in Los Angeles county and the third in Mariposa county. Officials of the department said that while today's reports were somewhat disappointing, they were not surprised as developments of this kind were to be expected for some little time.

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

El Proyecto de Ley de Reducción de Impuestos Pasa al Presidente

WASHINGTON, Mayo 31.—Hoy fue llevado ante el Presidente el proyecto de ley de reducción de impuestos, para que tome sobre esta medida la resolución que juzgue procedente. El Ministro Mellon lo llevó personalmente a la Casa Blanca.

Después de la conferencia había aún la creencia de que el Presidente aprobaría la medida, y se apuntó la presunción de que tal vez publicaría una declaración diciendo que la ley contiene ciertas disposiciones inconvenientes; pero que era mucho mejor que la ley actual.

Nuevo Atentado de Bandidos Chinos contra Misioneros

WASHINGTON, Mayo 31.—Hoy llegó al Ministerio de Estado noticia oficial del último atentado cometido por bandidos chinos contra misioneros americanos y británicos que residen en China. La legación en Pequín está ya urgiéndole al gobierno central la necesidad de obrar con toda premura, a fin de obtener la libertad de los extranjeros y castigar a los bandoleros.

Campaña contra el Baile Moderno en España

MADRID, Mayo 31.—A causa de la siempre creciente popularidad de los bailes modernos, que estan amenazando con la extinción de los bailes tradicionales por los que España ha conquistado fama secular, los Infantes Don Carlos y Doña Luisa, primos del Rey, han iniciado en Sevilla una campaña contra el "fox trot" y los "jazz steps". En vista de que Don Carlos es Capitán General del Sur de España, este movimiento tiene decidido color político.

Si bien es cierto que muchas casas aristocráticas de Madrid están siguiendo el ejemplo de los andaluces, el Rey Alfonso no ha apoyado el movimiento, pues él es afecto a la coreografía del siglo veinte.

Obregón Invitado a Venir a Nogales

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Mayo 31. Warren anunció que Obregón ha aceptado la invitación de la Cámara de Comercio de Nogales, Arizona, para visitar dicha población dentro de una semana, poco más o menos. Pero el Presidente Coolidge no podrá venir a saludarlo a la frontera, porque tiene importantes atenciones oficiales en Washington, entre otras, la firma de los proyectos de ley cuando terminen las sesiones del congreso.

Dícese que el Embajador Warren saldrá de Méjico el jueves para ir a la convención republicana de Cleveland como delegado de Michigan. Dijo que hablaría en Washington con Hughes antes de regresar a Méjico, para tratar de las comisiones de reclamaciones internacionales americanas, de las que un comité especial se reunirá aquí el diecisiete de Agosto, y el comité general, el primero de Septiembre. Los árbitros de Washington en las dos comisiones han sido ya designados.

Agrega Warren que consultó con Obregón acerca de la conveniencia de una conferencia postal entre Méjico y los Estados Unidos, para adoptar un sistema de mutua conveniencia. Esa conferencia sería analoga a la celebrada en Ottawa con Canadá en 1922. El gobierno mejicano ve con favor esta proposición.

Con respecto al empréstito, dice Warren que siguen las negociaciones; pero que ahora desea Méjico un empréstito de menos consideración que antes, pues están cesando las erogaciones anormales acarreadas por la revuelta.

Expresó la opinión de que el comité de banqueros internacionales no es probable que consienta en hacer el préstamo, aunque sí parece que está estudiando la manera de hacerle a Méjico un anticipo garantizado con alguna prenda.

No considera probable que Méjico suspenda los pagos que exige el pacto Lamont-De la Huerta. Lo que puede ocurrir cuando más es que el gobierno de Obregón use para otras atenciones algunos de los fondos destinados al pago de intereses sobre la deuda extranjera, reembolsándolos después.

Con respecto a las conferencias sobre comunicaciones eléctricas interamericanas, que están celebrando sesiones aquí, dijo Warren que ya se habían nombrado subcomisiones para que estudien las cuestiones técnicas e informen dentro de dos o tres semanas a la comisión general, que someterá los asuntos estudiados a los respectivos gobiernos.

Esposa de Bigamo que Pide Divorcio por Tercera Vez

La señora Jean Gray Mooney ha presentado su tercera querella de divorcio contra William Francis Mooney. En esta ocasión basa su demanda en la afirmación de que Mooney esta cumpliendo en la Penitenciaria de Folsom una condena por bigamia.

En su primera petición de divorcio alegó la intemperancia habitual de su marido. Se llegó a una reconciliación y se sobreseyo en el juicio. En la segunda vez, mencionó como cómplice de su marido a una mujer llamada Verna De Vocas.

Mas tarde, Mooney fue arrestado por el cargo de que había celebrado ceremonia de casamiento con la De Vocas en Diciembre 15 de 1921.

DEPORTES

Baseball

Salt Lake derrotó a los Angeles ayer en el parque Washington, por anotación de 7 a 0, llevando ahora la delantera en la serie por cuatro juegos contra dos. Rudy Kallio tiró por las Abejas con gran maestría, permitiéndoles cuatro golpes a los Angeles, y dejando tan sólo que un Angel llegara a tercera base.

Boxeo

MICHIGAN CITY (Indiana) Mayo 31.—Tommy Gibbons le superó a Georges Carpentier, de Francia, en un combate muy disparejo, pues no hubo un solo asalto de los diez que tuvo la pelea en que el americano no estuviese a mayor altura que el francés. Este trató de utilizar su famosa mano derecha, pero Gibbons lo hizo fallar cada vez que la metía. No parecía sino que un maestro de escuela le estaba dando lecciones a un discípulo.

Atletismo

BOSTON, Mayo 31.—Yale se conquistó para el Este el título de pista interescolar que California logró conservar durante tres años sucesivos, pues ganó por un solo tanto un encuentro cuyo resultado estuvo en la balanza hasta el último momento. El tercer lugar que sacó C. A. Earl, de Yale, en el lanzamiento del martillo, con alcance de 152 pies, 5 pulgadas, fue lo que puso a los Elis en primer lugar.

Tulare County Fruit Men Hold Meeting

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

TERRA BELLA, May 31.—Judgment in the sum of $8434.48 is asked by Basil F. Jackson, who has started action in the Superior Court at Visalia against George A. H. Farmer and H. E. Elliott of Porterville, and M. C. Mattison of Los Angeles, formerly of Porterville.

Jackson alleges failure to conform to terms of an agreement concerning the sale of lot 8 of tract 4 of the Fairfield Farms Tract, near here, which the plaintiff purchased from the defendants on June 1, 1921. He says that the defendants agreed to give him a deed to the property upon final payment of the agreed price, but that they refused when he paid the remainder due on January 1, 1923.

He asserts that he has lost $4750, the purchase price; $118.79 as interest on deferred payments; $2565.59 for upkeep and improvements and that he is devoting at least half of his time to the management and development of the property, his services being reasonably worth $1000. Ugene U. Bialock of Porterville is attorney for the plaintiff.

FRUIT GROWERS MEET

PORTERVILLE, May 31.—Representatives of the Tulare County Fruit Growers' Exchange from Lemon Cove, Exeter, Lindsay and Porterville, gathered with experts from the State experiment farm at Riverside at offices of W. E. Sprott, secretary of the exchange, in this city for discussion of experimental work in this county.

Representing the University of California were Prof. Smith, W. R. Schoonover, Dr. L. D. Batchelor, C. M. Conner, Tulare County Farm Adviser, and Gordon Surr. Chief matter for consideration was continuation of experimental work done here by Mr. Surr, whose five-year contract expires in December, at which time his report will be published. Portions of the work are to be continued, particularly to irrigation and cultivation.

Mr. Schoonover announced that he would make periodical visits to citrus growers personally in the future. An annual institute is also scheduled for the growers.

CUTLER, May 31.—A. H. Pitman of Cutler has asked the Superior Court to assist him in collecting $4000 damage judgment, recently awarded him against Dr. W. Richli, Orosi physician and surgeon, for improper treatment for a broken leg. Pitman asks the court to set aside as fraudulent the recent transfer of title of Orosi lots by Dr. Richli to his wife, Christina Richli.

Pitman declares the transfer of property was made to defeat the judgment.

HOME AGAIN

LINDSAY, May 31. — Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Smith, both 69 years of age, returned a few days ago to their home here after a 9000-mile motor trip to their old home in Elgin, Ill., in celebration of their forty-six years of married life, declaring they experienced a wonderful trip "but there's no place like California."

OLIVE SEASON OVER

VISALIA, May 31.—The season's run on olives has been completed by Plant No. 4, California Co-operative Canneries, packing about 40,000 cases in four months with a force of about seventy-five people a day. This plant will be overhauled preparatory to opening of the peach-canning season about the middle of July. Machinery used exclusively for processing and packing of olives will be thoroughly cleaned and stored for another year.

Superintendent of the cannery does not anticipate a sufficient apricot crop in this section to permit a run at this plant. In event a pack of apricots is to be attempted the plant will be opened earlier in the season.

GRANTS REHEARING

VISALIA, May 31.—A rehearing in the appeal of Daniel E. Collins, Fresno and San Francisco insurance man, convicted of manslaughter in connection with death of Lewis Hawkes, Hanford newspaper messenger, has been granted by the State Supreme Court, according to word received by Dist.-Atty. Fred C. Scott.

Collins was granted a new trial by the Appellate Court and Dist.-Atty. Scott carried that decision to the higher court. Time for the rehearing has not yet been set.

LITTLE LITIGATION

VISALIA, May 31.—Justice of the Peace J. S. Clack of Visalia feels that the Legislature might have set some limitation on claims supposed to be taken to the Small Claims Court. Judge Clack has been swamped recently with claims ranging from 10 cents to $1, each of which has to be handled separately, a book account kept, papers filled out and served and a hearing held.

Judge Clack says he believes 10-cent claims which cost the county well over five times that amount in time and money to handle, are stretching the law considerably.

JAIL FOR PARK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DENVER, May 31.—Estes Park, administration headquarters for the Rocky Mountain National Park, is to have a jail, fire-house, and City Hall, all in one building. For lack of a jail, it has been the custom of Estes Park police officers in the past to hold their prisoners by locking them in a room of a hotel and confiscating their clothing.

Upper photograph shows them as they are today. Lower as they were sixty years ago.

THE end of sixty years of happiness in wedlock was celebrated last Wednesday by Capt. and Mrs. William Albert Twigg at their home at 1357 West Adams street. Mrs. Twigg is 79 years of age and her husband is 87.

They came to Los Angeles from the East more than seventeen years ago and a host of friends, both young and old, aided in the celebration of the happy event Wednesday.

The couple have two children. One is Miss Virginia Twigg, a noted musician and a writer and one of the leaders of the Friday Morning Club. The other is Gilbank Twigg, who divides his time between his home at the national capital and Leeds Manor, the Twigg estate in Virginia. This estate is situated on the east slope of the Blue Ridge Mountains, with 3000 of its 4000 acres in apple orchard. It is one of the show places near Washington.

ROBINSON RITES TOMORROW

Funeral Services for Attorney to be Conducted at Scottish Rite Cathedral; Burial Tuesday

Funeral services for O. R. W. Robinson, Thirty-third Degree Mason and prominent Los Angeles attorney, will be conducted tomorrow night at Scottish Rite Cathedral, beginning with a Blue Lodge ceremony at 9:30 p.m. At midnight a Thirty-third Degree Mason service will be conducted. The body will be interred Tuesday morning at Rosedale Cemetery.

Mr. Robinson, who was 55 years of age, died suddenly Friday night at his home, 2325 Fourth avenue. He had been to the beach during the afternoon and to a lecture at the Scottish Rite Cathedral in the evening. He is believed to have had an attack of heart disease as he was preparing to retire. His body was found by members of his family at 11 p.m.

In addition to being a Thirty-third Degree Mason, Mr. Robinson was a member of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Cathedral, 929 South Hope street; of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion; of the Sons of Veterans and of the Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity.

He served in the New York National Guard for five years, being wounded twice in guard and riot duty, and volunteered in the Seventh California Regiment in the Spanish-American War. Physical disabilities prevented him from service in 1898.

Born in Sag Harbor, Long Island, on November 27, 1869, he spent his youth in the East. In 1893 he came to Los Angeles where he entered the wholesale and retail fruit and commission business. He retired from this in 1901.

Deciding rather late in life to become a lawyer, he studied for this profession and was admitted to the bar in 1911. He came to his practice with a background of experience gained as Deputy City Superintendent of Schools, 1908-1906, chairman of the County Horticultural Board, 1901-1903; receiver in the United States Land Office here and special disbursing agent for the Department of the Interior.

As an attorney, Mr. Robinson gained a reputation of note. He maintained offices in the Bank of Italy, International Building at the time of his death.

He leaves his widow, formerly Sarah E. Connor, whom he married in 1918, his mother, Mrs. Lucreeta Robinson, and a sister. Both of the latter now are in the East.

The body is at the George A. Fitch Undertaking Parlor.

THREATENS WOMAN PASTOR

Shouting Man Invading Aimee Semple McPherson's Residence Arrested as Maniac

Invading the residence of Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of Angelus Temple, at 1107 Lamoyne street, a man who later gave his name as George N. White, terrorized the three women occupants of the home after demanding that they vacate the place. Three small children in the home became panic-stricken by the ravings of the intruder.

"This place belongs to me now. You have lived here long enough," the man exclaimed as he ordered the women from the house. Besides Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. E. Shaffer, business manager of Angelus Temple, and a housemaid were made the objects of the man's threats.

Two carpenters, at work in the temple which adjoins the pastor's residence, were called in by Mrs. McPherson and overpowered the intruder, ejecting him from the house.

When Detective Lieutenants Knowles and Tartmeyer arrived they found White on the front lawn, wildly shouting and throwing his hat high into the air. The officers took him into custody and placed him in the psychopathic ward of the General Hospital where they swore out a lunacy warrant against him. White gave his address as Inglewood. He appeared to be about 50 years of age.

HOLD-UP SUSPECT

Officers Act Promptly on Plea of Victim in Robbery

Watching two men come out of an alley early yesterday at Pico and San Pedro streets, Motor Patrol Officer Booth and Quirino threw a spot light on them.

One of the surprised strangers attempted to draw a gun, the officers said, but was commanded to halt and was quickly covered.

"Grab that man, he held me up," the other man shouted to the policemen.

Then L. W. Vance of 534 1-2 Pico street, told the officers the other man, who gave the name of Harry Lane, 23 years of age, of 302 Ninth Street, had robbed him in the alley.

At the University Station, Vance identified $11.02 and a watch as his and the property was returned. Lane is said to have confessed, saying he was out of work and hungry.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Daley left yesterday afternoon to attend the Grocers' Convention at Del Monte. Mr. Daley is a member of the Pacific Coast Retail Chain Stores.

COMFORT TO UNFORTUNATES

Inmate of Home at Fresno Dispels Gloom

Plays Fiddle, Cuts Hair and Makes Baskets

Old Folk Made Happy by New Administration

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

FRESNO, May 31.—Versatility is a name which would well fit William O. Vollmer, an inmate of the Old People's Home here, whose occupations, though he is crippled, are many and varied.

A musician, Vollmer, in a lonesome hour, constructed himself a violin, the strains of which, while not so sweet as a Stradivarius, prove pleasing and enjoyable to the inmates of the home and the visitors.

Music of Vollmer's own composition flows from his bow.

Tiring of his violin for a moment, Vollmer plays his guitar or another violin of peculiar construction which he has made himself.

By way of other occupations, Vollmer is a shoe cobbler. Shoes of the inmates are repaired by him free of charge and with only an order from the superintendent.

Besides, the vesatile genius is a barber. A sign in his little cubbyhole in the rear of the administration building at the home, testifies that a haircut is 5 cents, a shave is 5 cents and "if you have no money, come in anyhow."

All of these occupations are not enough for Vollmer because from old boxes and pieces of wood he constructs well-made toys. From reed, supplied by the hospital, he makes baskets. These articles are for sale to visitors, the money being spent for more supplies and for little things he needs.

No longer is the Old People's Home a poorhouse. Under the supervision of Walter Sharp and Mrs. McSweeney, the matron, kindness is the only treatment received by the old folks. The word "poorhouse" is forbidden.

Something over a year ago, surroundings at the home were not pleasant, the old people say. Now, it is just a home where the inmates will spend the balance of their days. Everyone is cheerful, everyone works for the good of everyone else.

Vollmer, because of his crippled condition, cannot get around to do much work but the sound of his cheerful violins, his guitar and the music of his own composition, aid the others in their duties.

PROFITABLE CROP SOON TO MATURE

McFarland Ranchers Raise Lettuce, Cabbage and Melons for Local Market

BAKERSFIELD, May 31.—With the closing of the most prosperous lettuce season in the history of McFarland, near here, the Leahy & Hanna Produce Company of Los Angeles through their local representatives, L. N. Knapp and Harry Brown will shortly commence the shipment of the cabbage crop to the southern market.

More than fifty carloads of lettuce were handled by this company and there will be approximately twenty carloads of cabbage. It will take nearly two weeks to handle the cabbage crop.

It is estimated that there will be more than 150 carloads of cantaloupes, in addition to the other later melons.

The first melons will be ready for transportation about June 18, which is two weeks earlier than in any previous year on record.

The marketing methods of the Leahy & Hanna Co., have met with favor with McFarland farmers, as is attested by the increase in acreage, which is estimated at 500 per cent over last year. There were but thirty carloads of melons shipped from McFarland last year.

The extent of the watermelon crop has not yet been learned, but judging from the acreage in the immediate vicinity of town there will be approximately 100 carloads. One near-by ranch has more than 100 acres planted to watermelons which are maturing with splendid rapidity.

NEWSPAPER VETERAN OF CITY PASSES

W. F. Axtman Was Tie to Struggling Days Here of Twenty Years Ago

The death of William F. Axtman, which occurred at the Monte Sano Sanatorium Friday evening, removes a figure which has occupied a conspicuous place in the newspaper history of Los Angeles and helped to link the present metropolis with the smaller city of a decade ago.

Mr. Axtman came to Los Angeles with a record of ability and astute knowledge of his profession from the old Chicago Inter-Ocean and has been identified with Los Angeles newspapers almost without a break for twenty years as feature and editorial writer, political, city and financial editor with various publications.

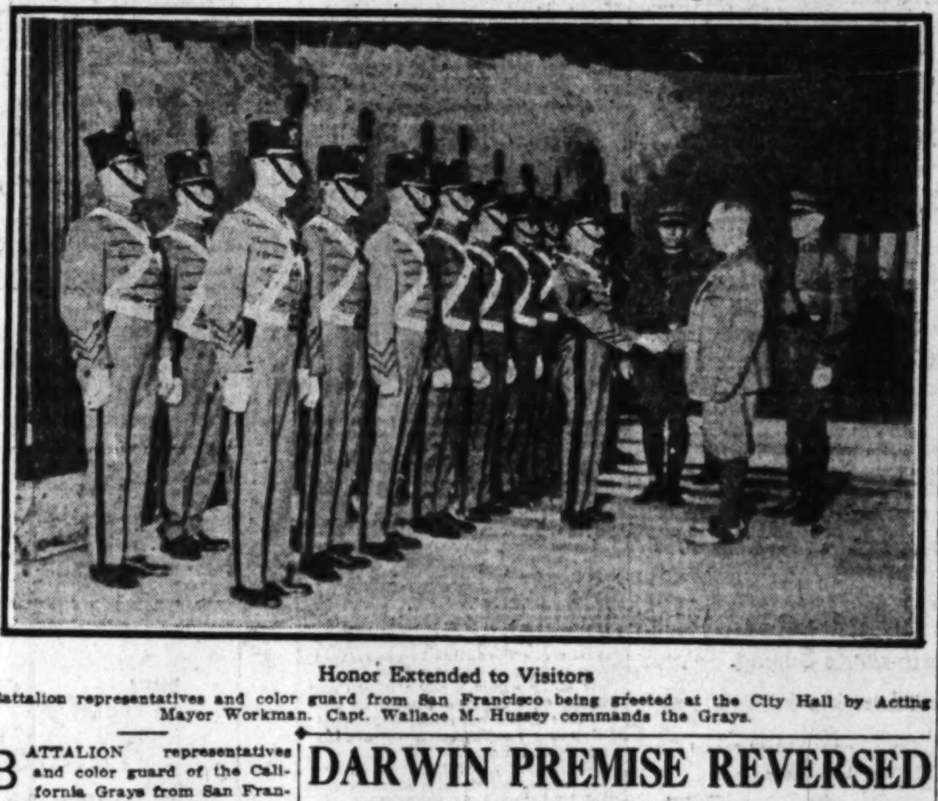
He was recognized as an authority on financial news and was a keen analyst of trends and symptoms. He had a wide acquaintance in Southern California, and throughout the financia district his death is keenly felt by many who esteemed his friendship and advice.

Death came after an illness which had extended over a period of many weeks, final efforts to avert the inevitable resulting in an operation and blood transfusion. The family home is in South Pasadena. He is survived by his widow, two sons and two daughters.

A circus clown in his first season on the road is called "First of Mays," in his second year, "Johnny Come Lately," and after that a "Producing Clown."

CITY HEAD GREETS CALIFORNIA GRAYS

Praises Newly-Formed Group for Showing at Coliseum



Honor Extended to Visitors

Battalion representatives and color guard from San Francisco being greeted at the City Hall by Acting Mayor Workman. Capt. Wallace M. Hussey commands the Grays.

BATTALION representatives and color guard of the California Grays from San Francisco headquarters, under command of Capt. Wallace M. Hussey, adjutant, together with officers of the new Los Angeles company were presented to Acting Mayor Workman yesterday at the City Hall.

The presentation followed the first public appearance of the Los Angeles company in the Memorial Day observance at the Coliseum. The battalion sent representatives of the pioneer headquarters company in San Francisco, and of the Oakland company, to attend the first appearance of the local company.

Capt. Hussey said that Los Angeles was to be congratulated in having a company of the California Grays organized here. The purpose of the California Grays, he told the Mayor, is to foster a spirit of military efficiency and to promote patriotism and national, State and civic loyalty, and to promote good fellowship among its members. Acting Mayor Workman congratulated the Grays upon their showing at the Coliseum.

For thirty-four years the California Grays have been leaders in the public manifestation of civic loyalty in San Francisco, acting as the city's official guard of honor to visiting Presidents and other notables.

Officers of the Los Angeles company are Capt. E. H. Clausen, commander; Lieut. Bert Scouler, Lieut. W. D. Smith, Lieut. Dr. Harold Van Metre, medical officer; Walter B. Clausen, secretary; Willard A. Bailey, treasurer, and these together with the following constitute the board of directors: Clayton M. Allen, Ted Bayntun, J. A. McConaghy, Charles T. Reichert and L. A. Farnum, the latter being chairman of the membership committee.

LAURELS OF LADY ASTOR ENDANGERED

Duchess of Athol Seen as Rival; Nancy Losing Interest in Party

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, May 31.—Recent incidents in the House of Commons plainly indicate Lady Astor is not as happy there now, being one of eight women members; as she was during the last session with only two, and her colleague then of a rather retiring nature.

Nancy's ability for repartee still is unimpaired, but no woman member ever has achieved the success accorded the Duchess of Athol last week when for forty minutes, discussing the Scottish Home Rule bill, she held the House with her logic, perfect diction and self composure.

Out of seventy-three votes taken this session, Lady Astor was absent from sixty, which has raised the question whether she is not out of sympathy with the Conservatives and flirting with the Socialist Party.

ARIZONA CRITICISES HIGHWAY OFFICIALS

COCHISE COUNTY TAX BODY'S HEAD URGES REVISION FOR ECONOMY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) May 31.—W. M. Adamson, president of the Cochise County Taxpayers' Association; has issued an address to the taxpayers in which he says "Our highway department has been an enormous failure, as far as the financial end is concerned. It is high time that out State government and legislators took the matter in hand and abolished our present State highway system, and adopted a more economical one, perhaps allowing each county to do its own highway work, where the taxpayers can see what becomes of their money. It is urged that taxpayers assist in putting down enormous waste, which enters into nearly every one of our departments. We have had a State highway department since we became a State, about twelve years and, while I believe we have the best highways in any of the western States, yet we have obtained them only by an enormous cost, probably double or thrice what it should have amounted to."

He calls attention to local work by the State Highway Department in covering a road with adobe material, hauled fourteen miles, while much better surfacing could be found much nearer the city and the work.

DARWIN PREMISE REVERSED

German Educator Believes Ape May be Man's Descendant; Chin is Factor in Theory

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1924, Public Ledger.]

BERLIN, May 31.—A Berlin professor, Dr. Westenhofer, has come forward to lend strength to the arguments of the religious "fundamentalists" and to confound the followers of Darwin, whose conclusions have been the basis for anthropology for three decades. Dr. Westenhofer, speaking before the Society of Anthropologists, asserted his investigations led him to believe that mankind is not descended from the apeman, and cannot be traced back to the fossilized types which form the basis for the apeman theory.

On the contrary, man is one of the most primitive types of animals, and it is possible that apes have evolved from man, he said. The chin is the point of the whole matter.

It is possible, asserts the professor, that animals possessing a chin may lose it in the process of evolution. But they can never grow it. They never do grow it, anywhere in the whole chain of evolution from fishes to mammals. It is formed by the vertical position of the teeth in the jaw, all other animals, besides man, having teeth that either turn inward or outward, thus determining the bony formation of the jaw.

It must be accepted as a primary characteristic of the human face, and it is, therefore, impossible to trace man back to fossils which are chinless. Far more likely, argues the professor, is it that these fossils represent a race which developed beyond man, and having once had chins, lost them.

If Prof. Westenhofer's ideas could be proved, he would aim a terrible blow at the evolutionary optimists, such as H. G. Wells, who believe they can biologically prove that man is developing from animal to God. On the contrary, Prof. Westenhofer's ideas follow more closely the traditional legend that man was once great and fell.

WIFE WORKS NIGHTS HUBBY IN DAYTIME

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BOWDOINHAM (Me.) May 31. "Ships that pass in the night" might well be applied to a Bowdoinham couple. The wife works on the night shift of the Richmond mill, going every evening and coming home on the morning train. Her husband, who works in the Topsham feldspar mill, is at the station in the morning, and usually the baby comes along. There is just time for a brief greeting between husband and wife; then she takes the baby and drives home while the father gets the train and goes to his work down the line. After the wife does the housework and cooking, preparing enough food to last until she is home again, she looks after the baby, then sleeps until the alarm clock goes off. Then she has breakfast, feeds the baby, prepares her husband's supper, gets ready for the night work and drives to the train. After a brief greeting, husband and wife repeat the daily routine, the one going to work and the other going home.

SPAIN IN CAMPAIGN ON MODERN DANCES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MADRID, May 31.—On account of the ever-increasing popularity of modern dances, which are threatening the extinction of the folk dances for which Spain has been famous for centuries, a campaign against the fox trot and jazz steps has been started in Seville by Don Carlos and Dona Luisa, cousins of the King. Inasmuch as Don Carlos is Captain-General for Southern Spain, the movement has a decided political angle to it. While many aristocratic houses in Madrid are following the example of the Andalusians, King Alfonso is not giving his support, he being devoted to twentieth century footwork.

MONUMENTS RAISED TO INDIANS' VICTIMS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAFFORD (Ariz.) May 31.—Granite boulder monuments, properly inscribed, have been erected on the spots where the Wright brothers were killed, December 1, 1885, east of Solomonville, and where Horatio H. Merrill and his daughter were killed on the Duncan Road. Both murders were by Apaches. The Wright killing was from ambush, as the brothers were pursuing Apaches who had stolen the horses of settlers who had gathered to hear Apostles Erastus Snow and Brigham Young, Jr., of the Mormon Church. Merrill and his daughter were killed December 5, 1895, while traveling toward Clifton by wagon.

DRY CHARGE RESENTED IN PARLIAMENT

Temperance Advocates Declare Bar Cause of Unruly Scenes

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1924, Public Ledger]

LONDON, May 31.—Charges made in Leicester by the National Commercial Temperance League, that liquor is the cause of many boisterous scenes in the House of Commons are resented and indignantly denied by members of Parliament.

What the temperance people are complaining about is that members of Parliament can get a drink any time they want it at the House bar, which is a privilege not accorded the general public, and that because of this easy access they take too much and then get unruly in open session. England still has war-time restrictions, to the extent that it is unlawful to sell a drink to the public before 11:30 in the morning, between 3 and 5 in the afternoon or later than 11 o'clock at night.

As the Commons meets at 3 p.m. and normally sits until 11 at night, and many nights much later, the members depend on the catering department for food and drink, but the Temperance League would prevent them from drinking except during the hours when the public is allowed to do so.

One member said today that this was the most sober Commons in thirty years and pointed to the days when the amount a man could safely carry had much influence on his career in the Cabinet.

A large portion of the dead mammal became fast to the bow of the steamer in the odd collision and remained there for two days before it could be removed, Capt. Munro said. The Finland, which is here from New York and Havana, was delayed several hours by the obstruction. Capt. Munro reported he sighted unusually large schools of sperm whales off the West Coast.

YALE REGAINS INTERCOLLEGIATE TRACK CHAMPIONSHIP FOR THE EAST

PENNSYLVANIA LOSES BY ONE POINT; CARDS THIRD

California Loses Three-Year Hold on I.C.A.A.A.A. Title; Trojans Finish Weak Sixth

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) May 31.—The three-year reign of California in intercollegiate track-and-field ranks came to a close today when the Blue forces of Yale, sweeping to their first victory in twenty years, won the 1924 championships at Harvard Stadium after one of the most sensational battles in forty-eight years of I.C.A.A.A.A. history. Not only was the Far West's stirring challenge for a fourth straight title turned back, but it was done decisively, for two eastern squads, Yale and Pennsylvania, fought it out for premier laurels with the Elis victorious by the slender margin of a single point, 28 to 27, in a battle whose closing stages witnessed the shattering of three championship records.

Leland Stanford, main hope of the Pacific Coast to carry on as California had done so brilliantly in the past, gave her eastern rivals a mighty battle, but was forced to take third place, with 24 1-2 points, despite the heroic efforts of Glenn Hartranft, who led the Scarlet charge by winning both the discus and shotput with record-breaking performances.

Close behind Stanford came Princeton with 23 points, and Penn State, sensation of the meet, with 21 points.

TROJANS OUT OF IT

Distanced so far as championship hopes were concerned, were Southern California, which finished sixth with 14 points, and California, the defending champions, who barely were able to tie Harvard for eighth place with 13 points, a half-point behind Johns Hopkins.

Throughout the final struggle for points, which witnessed the keenest and most spectacular competition in years, the race for the title clearly rested among the teams which finished in the first five places. Back and forth advantages shifted with startling upsets increasing the uncertainty that existed until the final toss in the last event, the hammer throw. Here a Yale hero of heroes, C. A. Earl, came through with a third place, and the three points that spelled the margin of triumph over Pennsylvania.

The Quakers made a gallant bid for the championship that fell just short because the Red and Blue team lacked the balance which carried the Elis to victory. Pennsylvania concentrated her strength in the sprints, with Hill scoring a double sprint triumph in two smashing form reversals, and in the pole vault, where Owens was victorious, with Sherrill tied for second, but Yale spread its strength through numerous events. The Blue scored only one first place when Bill Comins captured the broad jump with a record-breaking leap, but piled up other points in both dashes, the quarter-mile and mile runs, low hurdles, hammer throw, pole vault and javelin.

VALIANT FIGHT

Stanford took battle valiantly, but lost its sturdy fight when only three of the Cards' nine qualifiers scored in the track events. Hartranft, however, more than came up to expectations with his mighty work in the discus and shotput, where, in a battle of giants, he shattered both the championship and collegiate records with a heave of 49ft. 5 7-8in., only a half-inch beyond the best toss of Ralph Dills, Princeton star, who won the event in 1923.

GOBS FIND LAND NAVIGATION RATHER DIFFICULT

The top photo shows H. O. "Speedy" Jordan of the Mississippi, winning the 100-yard dash in the annual Pacific Fleet track meet at the Coliseum yesterday. He also copped the 220-yard dash and ran a terrific lap on the relay. In the middle picture Jordan is seen finishing the final lap of the relay. He fell in a heap after crossing the tape, while Strausser, who is seen staggering along at the left, also did a nose dive at the line and was hauled over the finish by shipmates. S. L. Bocock, New Mexico, is shown winning the 440-yard dash in the lower photo. Saracino, who held the lead almost until the finish, struck a snag and may be seen assuming a prostrate attitude to the rear of Bocock.

GOBS FROM PENNSYLVANIA TRIUMPH

Win Annual Pacific Fleet Track-and-Field Championship from Eight Other Battleships; Jordan and Dupree Are Stars

BY BRAVEN DYER

Gobs of the Pacific Fleet forgot their "sea legs" long enough yesterday afternoon to engage in their annual track-and-field meet at the Coliseum and the sailors from the U.S.S. Pennsylvania proved to be the best land-lubbers of the lot, scoring 31 points while their nearest rivals, flying the flag of the Tennessee, were second with 25 markers. The U.S.S. Mississippi placed third with 16 digits, the other battle wagons finishing in the following order: Nevada 11, California 10, New Mexico 10, Maryland 3, and Idaho 1.

The meet was productive of two of the most thrilling races seen here in a long time. In the 440-yard dash an ambitious guy by the name of Saracino seemed to have all the honors cinched following a good start and an especially efficient and timely show of speed on the turns. As he neared the tape, something seemed to go wrong with his steering-gear, however, and as he plowed an uncertain course up the track one of his powerful twin propellers flew off and the sailor fell flat on his face. Bocock of New Mexico, had been coming up fast an dwith his Pennsylvania rival badly torpedoed had not trouble winning the race.

RELAY A THRILLER

The relay was almost as spectacular. Runners from the Mississippi got off to a good start, Taylor taking a slight lead over the Pennsylvania and Tennessee athletes. On the second lap Smith let out with a burst of speed and gave the third Mississippi runner a ten-yard lead which he maintained and passed on to Strausser. Jordan, who had previously starred in the two dashes, uncorked a wild burst of speed and started in pursuit of the fleet-footed Strausser. The task seemed hopeless, but on the next to last turn Jordan caught his man and passed him. The rivals battled around the final turn, with Jordan increasing his lead for a good win at the finish. Just as he hit the tape he collapsed in a heap and Strausser, five yards to the rear, came up tottering, threw his baton in the air and flopped right on the finish line. Frantic but willing hands dragged him over the mark.

Considering the fact that none of the men get much time for practice and are minus the benefit of really expert coaching the times and distances chalked up were splendid. Jordan's form in the two sprints, which he won handily over Strausser, Johnson and Tomas, was very good. "Red" Abney came from behind in the half-mile and trimmed the stout-hearted Malino by inches. Dupree, weight man of the Tennessee, shared high-point honors with his shipmate, Jordan. Dupree took firsts in the shot and discus.

BETTER BALANCED

The Pennsylvania team won because it was the best balanced outfit of the bunch. Three firsts, four seconds and the same number of thirds went to make up the 31 points. The Tennessee athletes won five first places for their twenty-five markers.

100-yard dash—Won by Jordan (Tenn.) Strausser (Miss.) second; Thomas (Penn.) third. Time, 10.5.

Mile run—Won by McKay (Calif.;) Lancaster (Penn.) second; Santos (Penn.) third. Time, 4m. 58.4s.

High jump—Won by Wentworth (Penn.) Kern (Nev.) second; Maine (Penn.) third. Height, 5ft. 7in.

Shot put—Won by Dupree (Tenn.;) Fink (Penn.) second; Harris (Penn.) third. Distance, 38ft. 8in.

440-yard run—Won by Bocock (New Mex.;) Taylor (Miss.) second; Van Somaren (Idaho) third. Time, [illegible]

Pole vault—Won by Hubble (Calif.;) Deeley (Miss.) second; Schreyer (Miss.) third. Height, 10ft. 6in.

220-yard dash—Won by Jordan (Tenn.;) Johnston (New Mex.) second; Strausser (Miss.) third. Time, 23.6s.

Javelin throw—Won by Flood (Penn.) Wilber (Miss.) second; Zanolini (New Mex.) third. Distance, 146ft.

Broad jump—Won by La Bente (Nev.) Kern (Nev.) second; Rabue (Miss.) third. Distance, 19ft. 9½in.

880-yard run—Won by Abney (Penn.;) Malino (Md.,) Wynn (New Mex.) third. Time, 2m. 14.6s.

Discus throw—Won by Dupree (Tenn.;) Fink (Penn.) second; Whittse (Miss.) third. Distance, 120ft.

Relay—Won by Tennessee.

THE DAY of HIGH PRICES for FINE CARS is PAST

a cheering report—

"Been talking with a lot of live wire business men lately and they all tell me business is fine. Lots of white spots in the city.

"Paul Hoffman told me the other day that they could not get enough good used cars to supply the demand. They advertised for fifty more, took in forty-eight and sold fifty-three in one week.

"He says that he never saw a time when a dollar would buy as much motor car transportation as it does today in either new or used cars.

"They are selling those Certified Studebaker Sixes and other standard makes of good used cars mighty fast. If you'll step around there you easily discover the reason. They've got the goods and a lot of satisfied owners who are boosting for them.

"The Hoffman stores are among the brightest of the white spots in Los Angeles. Their business is good."—Sergeant Studebaker.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—Lefty Williams, recruit pitcher from Ada, Okla., had the better of a twirling duel today with the veteran Hall of Sacramento and the Seals won easily, 9 to 2. The series is now tied, 3 to 3, with two games scheduled for tomorrow. Williams allowed only seven hits and the Senators could bunch them only in the sixth, when a walk and two bingles netted two tallies. Catcher Agnew hit two home runs.

TITLE COMPANY NINE DEFEATS B'NAI B'RITH

The Title Insurance and Trust Company's baseball nine walked away from the International Order of B'nai B'rith team Friday, 16 to 0, at the Maier ball park.

Bloomquist, pitching for the Insurance nine, allowed five scattered hits. He struck out twelve men and permitted no free trips to first by either walks or hits by pitched balls. His batting average soared considerably by getting five hits out of six trips to the bat, one of them being for three bases. He crossed the plate four times.

The Title Insurance team played excellent ball, committing no errors and nipping in the bud several opportunities for the B'nai Brithers.

KALLIO TAMES LOCAL OUTFIT

Bee Hurler Allows Seraphs Only Four Hits

Weinert's Wildness Helpful to Salt Lake

Angels Sink Back to Sixth Place Once More

BY ROBERT E. RAY

Oscar Reichow, business manager of the Los Angeles club, arrived back home from the East yesterday just in time to see the Salt Lake Bees shut out the Angels, 7 to 0. Walton Cruise, Reichow's lone purchase on the trip east in search of players arrived with Reichow and also witnessed the blanking of his mates-to-be.

Rudy Kallio was on the mound for the Bees and held the locals to four scattered hits. The Angels hit only five balls out of the infield, two of which were caught, the other three going for hits. Twombly, batting for Weinert in the eighth, got the other Angel bingle, one of the infield variety.

LEWIS AT CATALINA

The Bees were witout the services of their manager, Duffy Lewis, who spent the day at Catalina where he purchased a house on Mr. Wrigley's celebrated island. Fred Coumbe, one of the Bees's southpaw pitchers filled Lewis's place in left creditably, getting two hits in three times at bat and making a sensational catch of Jacobs's long fly up against the left-field fence. Les Sheehan made a good catch of McAuley's drive in the eighth, while Lazzer pulled off a couple of good plays at short for Salt Lake.

Los Angeles got only one man as far as third off Kallio, Whaley, who got two of the Angels's four hits, doubling in the sixth and taking third on McAuley's infield out. Whaley died on third when Durst struck out.

Phil Weinert started the game for the locals and stuck around until the last of the eighth when he allowed Twombly to single for him. Ramsey pitched the ninth and the Bees touched him for their final pair of runs. Weinert pitched fair ball, but wildness proved his undoing. Three of the five men that scored off Weinert got on the paths by walks.

BACK TO SIXTH

The Angels went back into sixth place as a result of their defeat, for the Portland Beavers finally came through and trimmed Vernon after losing four straight.

Salt Lake scored first in the second inning when Roy Leslie drew four wide ones, took second on Coumbe's infield single, and scored when Lazzeri singled over second. McAuley just did get to the ball, deflecting it to center. Coumbe tried to take third on the hit but McAuley ran the ball down and threw to Krug in time to head Coumbe off at third. Sheehan's triple against the left centerfield fence and Coumbe's sacrifice fly to Durst gave the Bees their second marker in the fourth.

SCORE THREE MORE

Bill Lane's hirelings went on a three-run rampage in the sixth by bunching a pair of hits with two walks and an error by Wally Hood. With one away, Weinert threw eight balls that went elsewhere than over the plate, Frederick and Lindimore walking. Sheehan came through with a single to left that scored Frederick and Lindimore took third and Sheehan second when Hood let the ball get by him. Coumbe squeezed Lindimore over the plate and when Krug let the ball roll by him, thinking it would roll foul, Sheehan also scored and Coumbe got a double.

The Bees got their final pair off Ramsey in the ninth. Peters led off with a single, but was forced at second by Kallio. Pittinger sacrificed Kallio to second and was safe at first when Ramsey bungled the bunt. Frederick's triple to right center counted both men. Frederick was out trying to score after Lindimore's fly to right when Whaley uncorked a a wonderful throw to the plate that caught the Bee outfielder by ten feet.

There will be another pair today and the Angels have to win both games to split the series.

Kinsey Brothers Trim Australian Davis Cup Doubles Team in Sensational Tennis Matc

Sacramento Enjoying Season of Sensational Tennis

Kinseys Default With Match Almost Theirs

Johnston and Griffin Face Anzacs in Match Today

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, May 31.—Australia vs. America. That is the schedule for the finals of the special doubles matches to be played at the Sutter Lawn Tennis Club courts tomorrow afternoon. American sportsmanship again rang true this after when the Kinsey brothers within one point of taking their match with Capt. Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood of Australia, defaulted in order that an Australian team might oppose William M. Johnston and Peck Griffin tomorrow. The scores were 6-4, 5-4, (40-30.)

Johnston and Griffin disposed of Schlesinger and Kalms in the first match in two straight sets, 6-3, 6-2. Both of the Americans displayed wonderful tennis; while Kalms did the best work for the visitors.

Gerald Patterson of the Australian team, William M. Johnston and Howard Kinsey are in the running for the finals in the Central California tournament. A great battle is expected to be staged by these stars tomorrow.

One of the biggest upsets of today's play was the defeat of Wallace Bates by Irving Weinstein, 6-4 and 7-5. Davis, a Sacramento boy, went out of the running to Phil Bettens, 6-4, 6-2.

TEE, FAIRWAY AND GREEN BY CHARLES "CHICK" EVANS

MUSIC IN THE SWING

You want to come up on the follow through with the left leg braced, hands and clubhead extending equally the inner and outer arcs of the back stroke, the right side nearly facing the hole at the finish. Avoid cutting the follow through too short. It is a good idea to bisect the angle of the left shoulder by a full bent follow through. Swing up, swing down rhythmically. Feel the completed rhythm, the music of the stroke. If you have a light hold of the club you can feel the bent follow through better. If you hurry the shot, you cannot follow through properly. Follow through in a more upright position. The hands should be high up at the finish. It is very important that you do not zig-zag your club on the follow through. Try to think of getting a fine unbroken follow through. Be sure not to settle back on your heels after the downward stroke because you must still keep your shot going. After you firmly hit shot your hands should be somewhat stiffly a yard out forward until there is a tug at the right-arm socket, and then go into a broken, bent follow through. One thing sure: You must follow through. Some golfers have the difficulty of putting too much right hand into the shot and if they will throw their hands up more and into the line they will overcome it. Keep the hands steady at the finish for direction. It is a good thing to shoot your hands right out at the goal, and then up for a pretty finish. Remember always to do your best. Should the face of the club be wet, whip it off as well as you can, and do not lose your temper. Walk up to your ball and get ready to play without hesitation: it is bad to stand around too much in practice or in play. If you will use a little extra care when playing in the wind, it is like gold. Try each shot! Concentrate is the watchword.

DURAY TO DOCTOR-UP HIS MOUNT

French Pilot Will Fit Car With Supercharger for Ascot Speedway Race

Enthused over the success of Joe Boyer, winner of the 500-mile Indianapolis race, who drove a Duesenberg fitted with a supercharger device, Leon Duray, noted French pilot, announced last night that the new Miller which he will drive at the Ascot Speedway meet next Sunday will have a supercharger attached. This will mark the debut of the new device on a racing car on the Pacific Coast.

"I have been working on the new device for three weeks," said Duray last night. "Ever since the reports of Boyer's high speed in practice reached me I have realized that for Ascot the super-charger is the thing. I am out to beat De Palma and all the other stars at Ascot before going east for a couple of months. Both my car and my driving foot will be right next Sunday. Look out for Duray and his new car."

Both De Palma and Duray will have a worthy foeman next Sunday in Steve Elmore, famous a few years ago as a demon on the speedways. Elmore staged a real come-back on Friday when he won the San Luis Obispo speedway race against a classy field. Steve is owner of the No. 4 Miller which Teddy Frame has been driving at Ascot, but has decided to tool the big car himself in future races at the Bentel oval.

The decision of Ascot officials to change the Jack Doyle Stakes, the feature race of next Sunday's program, to a handicap with De Palma, and possibly Duray, on scratch with the other pilots given starts according to their qualifying time, has aroused much enthusiasm among the railbirds.

More than 100 motor-bikers are expected to participate in the "Tango Floria" up-and-down-hill race. Ralph De Palma will drive a lap over the road-racing course which will be used for the $52,000 road race on Thanksgiving Day. Almost the entire course is in view of the grandstand.

TEN RING BOUTS ON COMPTON PROGRAM

Matchmaker Barney Meyers of the Compton American Legion boxing club has booked a card of ten bouts for his show next Friday night. Meyers is putting on the show for the benefit of Ray Coffey who is seriously ill in the General Hospital. Victor Alexander, the colored heavyweight favorite of Compton, will meet Sailor Jimmy Byrne in the main bout. Mack Spaw and Roy Moore will tangle in the semi-wind-up.

Pedro Villa, the San Pedro slugger, will meet Arth Springer in the special event at 116 pounds. Battling Vargas and Danny Herrera, two clever Mexican battlers, will meet in one of the prelims. Two other bouts are billed as follows: Jimmy Walker vs. Young Alexander, 128 pounds and Rex Felix vs. Young Jolla, 145 pounds. Four other bouts will be staged.

Newport News is constructing a nine-hole golf course for general use of residents at the boulevard end of Camp Stuart grounds.

Maurice McLoughlin, who ten years ago burned up the tennis courts in the East, is now burning up golf courses in amateur tournaments in the West, and his drive on the links today is winning him nearly as much glory as his drive on the courts did of old. The hero of the 1914 Davis Cup matches, who defeated the great Brookes and Wilding of Australia, plays 18 holes in 71 and has been playing only about four years at that!

Shortly after taking up the game the "California Comet" was playing at Long Beach, Cal., with a friend who was desirous of inspiring him with confidence. At a water hole, the tee of which is built on a trestle right over a small lake, Mac's friend proceeded to show how the game is played. "Whereupon he hit nine balls into the lake," said McLoughlin, "with a display of language that was nothing short of classical. I nearly fell into the lake—I was laughing so hard." "But what about you?" I asked him. "Oh, I gave four a bath, too." "And the fifth?" "I carried that around as I wanted one left to finish the round with."

Sam Cox's Pasadena Eagles and the Glendora Merchants will renew their feud this afternoon at Brookside Park, where they are scheduled to clash in the feature Greater Southern California Baseball Association game of the day. The teams have met twice within the last month with Glendora capturing the verdict in the first tilt and the Eagles running off with the glory in the second contest.

FIRPO SIGNS UP TOMORROW FOR RING DATE WITH WILLS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BUENOS AIRES, May 31.—Luis Firpo will sign articles Monday for a fight with Harry Wills in the United States under Promoter Tex Rickard. Both Firpo and Juan Homes, Rickard's agent, made this announcement this evening.

It is stated that Rickard has accepted Firpo's conditions regarding this fight.

DON D IS WINNER IN FAST RACE

Gets Leg on Farwell Cup by Virtue of Close Win Over Balboa Course

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BALBOA, May 31.—The winners of the first yacht race for the Flora Howes Farwell Trophy held over the four-mile course of Southland Sailing Club Memorial Day, were determined after a somewhat strenuous session of the regatta committee of the club held yesterday and the committee has issued its official bulletin as follows. Seven yachts competed in what was probably the most hotly contested yacht race ever held in Southern California.

For more than three miles the competitors were closely bunched, and only a few seconds separated the boats at the two ends of the bunch. Turning at the last mark at the westerly end of the course the Doris assumed the lead and was first at the finish by about thirty seconds, which lacked more than a minute of overcoming her handicap allowance, she being a scratch boat. Don D., sailed by E. Roy Davidson, was given first place on time allowance, the Grey Goose, sailed by Commodore Worcester gets second place, the Doris third, the Stay Comb fourth, Pal-O'-Mine, Sandpipes and Black finished in the order named.

In the drawing for the Chance Price Trophy, a handsome silver cup bearing the club emblem, the Doris was the winner. This is a new feature in the Southland Sailing Club contests and is in the nature of a consolation prize which even the last boat in the race may be lucky enough to secure in the drawing which takes place at the clubhouse immediately after each race. The second race for the Farwell Trophy for 1924 will take place on the 8th inst. Both senior and junior races for the Marion and Sea Mew classes will be held tomorrow at 1:30 p.m., starting from the clubhouse pier at Balboa.

HUNTINGTON PARK IS DEFEATED BY COVINA

Coach Don MacIntosh's Covina High ball team, runners-up for the Southern California prep baseball title last year, defeated Huntington Park High, 11 to 5, in a play-off game for the interscholastic title yesterday on the Spartans' home grounds. Both teams made numerous errors.

Covina won the Central League championship, while Huntington Park last week captured the Bay League title from Santa Monica.

MUGGSY TALKS ABOUT SCOUTS

Says Ball Detectives Should Study Possibilities

Taxes Many With Swinging Flashes in the Pan

Poor Weather Plays Havoc With 1924 Season

BY JOHN J. McGRAW,
Manager, New York Giants
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, May 31.—As I begin the pruning down of my club, just as all other managers will do before June 15, the one thing that impresses me is the lack of foresight in the scouting system of baseball. I might make it more pointed by saying the lack in the scouts themselves.

The chances are that eighty out of every 100 young players brought up for trial in the big league will be sent back to the minors. On the other hand you will notice any number of players now making good who were turned down only two year ago. Nearly every day I see great players helping to beat us who would have been with us has the scouts guessed right.

DON'T GRASP IT

The development of new material is the most important thing in baseball. I am sorry to say that many of the scouts do not grasp this. A majority of them lack foresight. They pick out the players who look good at the moment rather than seeing possibilities in him for the future.

Any number of scouts will recommend a player the moment they see him make two or three good fielding plays and two or three hits. They do not stop to figure on what the man might develop. Some of the best players do not happen to look good at the moment the scout sees them and are passed up only to eventually get with some other club and be stars.

GRABBED 'EM

One year, I remember very well, Arthur Devlin, my old third baseman was scouting for the Giants. He saw several players make a big showing and grabbed them. At the same time he failed to note the possibilities in "Pie" Traynor, now with Pittsburg; Grimm, first baseman of Pittsburg, and Sewell of Cleveland. You can imagine what it would have meant to have those men on the Giants. And we had the chance! No scout is infallible, of course, but in the future they have got to school themselves into studying possibilities rather than flashes in the pan.

Another brand of scout was "Sadie" McMahon, the former Baltimore pitcher. He scouted a whole year for me without picking up a man. Finally at the end of the season he came in with the declaration that he had seen but one ball player all summer who looked good enough for him to recommend. That man was George Burns, now with the Cincinnati Reds. His one pick was worth two seasons of salary.

TAKES HIS TIME

Dick Kinsella is one of the scouts who always looks to the future rather than to the present. By taking his time he secured for me Larry Doyle, Fred Merkle, Otis Crandall, Arthur Fletcher, Heinie Groh and Josh Davore. Every club in both leagues at this moment is faced with the problem of passing on the work of the scouts. Believe me, it is a serious one too.

The weather this spring has been so bad that not a club in either league has been able to get into its stride or to get a fair line on the strength of its new talent. If the scouts have guessed wrong the clubs are sure to get rid of many young fellows who may later come up as stars. They may also keep the wrong ones. I mention this to illustrate how much a manager has to depend upon the scout and how necessary it is for the scout to have foresight.

TAKES CHANCES

On my own club, for instance, I have twelve pitchers. Before June 15 I will have to cut this number down. On account of weather conditions I have been unable to get a good line on them, the only way I can do it at all it to put them in and risk the result of the game. Other managers are beset with that same problem. To the fan this may account for the odd way the season is starting out and their inability to discover who really are the strong clubs and the weak.

Long trips during a rainy spring have made morning practices impossible. No one could size up the actual strength of the clubs by what they have done. For instance, we won a lot of games from the Phillies and they turned around and beat us two out of three. The same Phillies go right out and trim Pittsburg. We were beaten four straight in St. Louis and an admittedly weaker club comes along and beats the Cardinals as badly as they beat us. The whole race is up in the air. Nobody has straightened out.

GOING GREAT

The Yanks in the American League were going like a house afire, when suddenly the Red Sox start a spurt, playing, as I think, much ahead of their speed. No one can tell. Out in Pittsburg they asked me repeatedly what seemed to be the matter with the Pirates. While they were asking this they told me that it has rained seventeen days out of nineteen. Right there was the answer. All this comes back to the question of scouts. At this critical moment of the season the clubs must be cut down without any manager knowing thoroughly the possibilities of his new players. If the scouts have lacked foresight or vision then the manager loses.

I only hope that the scouts of every club from the smallest minor league to the two majors will think this over. By looking to the future they will be doing a great thing for the baseball public and the sport in general as well as for those who are interested financially.

Dempsey to Box Six Rounds at Vernon

NEW OPPONENTS ARE SECURED

Pap Lester is Imported from Arizona for Bout

Stragmalia's Conqueror Also Signed for Battle

Champ in Good Shape for Charity Exhibition

Jack Dempsey will box six rounds in the charity program at Jack Doyle's Vernon arena Tuesday night, instead of four, as originally scheduled, it was announced by [illegible] Wadhams yesterday. Wad has secured Fred Sullivan, who knocked out Stragmalia in San Francisco last week, and Pap Lester of Arizona for two rounds each, while Rocco Stragmalia, who aroused Dempsey's ire by giving him a shiner last summer in training, will complete the evening's entertainment for the heavyweight champ. Lester will replace Sam [illegible] on the list.

The title-holder has been in hard training at his Universal City camp and is in excellent condition for any kind of a battle. Rocco Stragmalia, northern light-heavyweight, who meets the champion in the windup of the show, arrives in town this morning from Oakland.

REAL BATTLE ON TAP

Just how much opposition this Rocco person will furnish Dempsey is unknown but if past performances may be taken into consideration it will be a battle worth traveling a long way to see.

Jimmy Duffy, who has been substituted to meet Billy Wells instead of Joe Benjamin, is due in town today. Duffy is regarded as the cream of the the junior welterweight division, it being claimed that he ranks as the best four-rounder in the country. Duffy has fought Wells twice, winning the decision in one go and stepping to a draw in the second. The switch was made necessary in this bout when Benjamin cracked his hand while boxing with a sparring partner in a training go.

LOTS OF ACTION

The Babe Herman-Willie [illegible]rien bout should furnish a lot of action. Herman is one of the best 133-pounders in the country, having recently returned from a successful invasion of the East. Other bouts on the program follow: Johnny Adams vs. Larry Murphy, 133 pounds; Dode Bercot vs. Don Davis, catchweights; Gene [illegible]mont vs. Jimmy Hackley, 135 pounds; Frankie Grandetta vs. Georgie Rivers, 115 pounds, and [illegible] Kaplin vs. Jack White, 160 pounds.

The entire proceeds of the show go to the children's fund of the Philanthrophy and Civics Club, of which Mrs. Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith is president. Mrs. J. J. Doyle is chairman of the program committee. Plenty of good seats for the show remain. They may be purchased at Vernon.

SPALLA CHALLENGES WINNER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEWARK (N. J.) May 31.—A challenge to fight the winner of the Carpentier-Gibbons battle at Michigan City, Ind., was telegraphed today by Erminio Spalla, European heavyweight champion, to Floyd Fitzsimmons, promoter of the Michigan City fight.

Babe Culman, one of Spalla's managers, said that if the winner accepted, the fight would be staged at Dreamland Park, here, probably July 4.

GIBBONS WINS OVER GEORGES

away from the Frenchman and carried it along all the way. One round was a repetition of the other with Gibbons in pursuit landing as he pleased. Every once in a while the Frenchman would step in retreat with his right, but it was useless with the clever boxing from the St. Paul boxer. To use the vernacular, Gibbons made the Frenchman look like a veritable dub.

The Frenchman tin-canned it most of the distance and never tried to exchange it with the Yankee during the clinches. Georges took an awful pasting about the body in every round and several times it looked as though he would crumple under the severe attack. Gibbons was a master in close and even better at long range. The St. Paul fighter kidded the daylights out of the Frenchman as the latter floundered around trying to nail Tommy with that right hand.

GIBBONS ON OFFENSE

Gibbons remained on the offense all the way, backing Georges into the openings where he pecked away to his heart's content.

In the sixth round Gibbons had George in bad shape from a shower of hooks to the head and terrific right hand smashes to the heart and kidneys. Carpentier was dazed at the bell and chased Gibbons, not knowing the round was over. Georges's eyes were glassy and his legs trembled as F. Descampts and his other seconds worked over him feverishly in his corner. However, there never was a moment that the fast-tiring and punch-drunk Frenchman wasn't dangerous. While he was able to stand up he still carried that right mitt cocked in the hope of sneaking through but, there wasn't a chance in the world for him to get it over on old Tom who had his own notion about getting away every time George started it.

Carpentier appeared on the verge of a knockout in the seventh. He took an awful pasting about the body and reeled about the ring with Gibbons in pursuit, hooking left hooks to the chin. Gibbons kept ducking away from every lead, but he was a little wild himself in that round when he missed with a left hook to the chin that might have stopped the show right there.

SLOWS CARP DOWN

The eight round was another bad spot for the Frenchman. The pasting about the body slowed Georges down to a whisper. While Gibbons was as fresh as a daisy it was a wonderful exhibition of boxing by the American. The Frenchman could not hit him with a [illegible].

The ninth round found Carpentier backing away under a shower of wallops when suddenly he slumped to the floor and complained that he had twisted his ankle. Immediately the crowd gave the Frenchman the usual razzing and Georges got right up. Evidently he had hurt his leg, but he managed to skip away from the danger zone while Gibbons kept right after him trying to bring him down.

Just before the bell in that tenth round Carpentier appealed to his corner and it looked as though he was ready to give up, but Descamps and his mates persisted on Georges sticking it out. Carpentier limped to the center of the ring, bleeding from the mouth and a slight ripple of crimson streaking down his right cheek. The crowd wouldn't have any of that limping stuff of the Frenchman and refused to believe that he had been hurt. The boys continued for the foreigner who finally rallied and then tried to sneak over a haymaker. Georges had a tough time sticking it out, but Referee Edward Dickerson broke the boys clean which sort of helped Georges in a sharp clinch.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MICHIGAN CITY (Ind.) May 31. The Carpentier-Gibbons bout was preceded by five preliminaries and Sammy Mandell and Paul Fritsch, French lightweight, meeting in a semifinal, climbed into the ring after the beaten Carpentier crawled out. Mandell, a challenger for the world's junior lightweight title, had no trouble at all in outpointing Fritsch. The Rockford Flash won seven of the eight rounds as he pleased. They weighed in under 135 pounds.

The slashing six-round contest between Frankie Garcia of Los Angeles and Patsy Flannigan of St. Louis, furnished the spectators with the best thrill of the preliminaries. Garcia won, but after a desperate contest. They are featherweights.

VAN WINS BOUT

Jack McDonald and Charlie Van, the terror of Chicago heavyweights, fought four rounds with Van emerging the victor. The naked chests of both men were covered with blood as a result of bleeding noses and mouths.

Joe Cooper, of Chicago, outpointed Jack Kane, also of Chicago, in four rounds at 130 pounds, while honors were fairly even in the four-round event between Jack McCarthy and Sammy Kahn, Chicago, 145 pounders.

Patsy Rocco, of East Chicago, Ind., had the better of Alex Trambitas, of Portland, Or., in six rounds at 147 pounds, while Johnny Croak of South Chicago had the better of Mickey Cohen of Kokomo, Ind., in four rounds at 110 pounds.

Although there was plenty of blood spilled, the program was remarkable in that there were no knockdowns.

FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Today's contest was the most successful financial venture for Gibbons in his sixteen years of ring campaigning. The gate receipts probably will be the largest in ring history for a match in which no title was involved.

Gibbons, who did not get a dime for fighting the battle of Shelby last July 4, will receive 30 per cent of today's receipts, while Carpentier received a guarantee of $70,000, including $5000 training expenses, with the privilege of 25 per cent of the receipts. If the receipts hit the $300,000 mark, which is possible, Gibbons will receive $90,000, the largest purse by far of his career. The largest amount he ever received before was $12,500.

Probably the day meant no more to anyone than it did to Floyd Fitzsimmons, who after three years staging financial fiascos, conceived the match between Gibbons and Carpentier, prevented Carpentier from meeting Gene Tunny in the East before meeting Gibbons, and saw today's contest carried through to a successful venture.

His cherished hope had been to some day stage an international battle in his arena. That hope was fulfilled today when all available seats and standing room were taken.

The "Song of the Shirt"—Button

The common pearl button used on shirts and similar garments is made from the shells of a species of mussel, found in a few of the rivers of this country. In the first place they are roughly cut by means of a circular saw and after this given a turn on the grinding stone, which removes the sharp edges, but yet the button is of a very crude shape. It is then grooved and drilled and then for ten hours it is tossed around in a tumbling barrel which makes the pieces perfectly smooth and shiny. They are then placed in a chemical solution which has the effect of removing all dust and dirt and prepares the pieces for a wax treatment, after which they are sewed upon cards for the market.—[Exchange.

Battling for His Brides

When the seal herds migrate to the breeding grounds each year the bulls are in the pink of condition. They are large and sleek with lots of fat to cover their bones. But at this season it is one of the jobs of the head of the herd to keep off other bulls and the result is that he is compelled to do some fighting for his hearth and home. During this time he fasts absolutely and for lack of food and the strenuous life he is leading he soon loses his beauty and is reduced to flesh and bone and is a sorry looking creature generally.—[Exchange.

Timber Made From Sawdust

What seems to be an excellent substitution for wood has been recently developed by a European scientist. Fifty per cent of sawdust mixed with chalk and chemicals, when formed into a solid mass by high pressure, will, it is claimed produce a substance answering all the construction requirements of timber. It is hard as oak, not subject to decay and combustible only at a very high temperature.

Yeast 3922 Years Old

It is said that the Chinese made bread from wheat and rice as early as 1998, B.C. Probably the first bread made from yeast was baked in England about 1634. Aerated bread, which rises from carbonic acid gas injected into the dough, became somewhat common in 1857, but practically all bread, bakery-made or home-made, owes its leavening to yeast or baking powder.—[Exchange.

CATCHERS -
SHOULD FIELD BUNTS ONLY WHEN IN OWN TERRITORY -
BUT THEY SHOULD AT ALL TIMES CALL THE RIGHT MAN TO FIELD BUNT.

When should a catcher field a bunt and how?

Answered by
"CY" PERKINS

Catcher, Philadelphia Athletics: Heralded by many as the best catcher in either league.

A catcher should field a bunt only when it is in his own territory.

A catcher should, at all times, call the right man to field the bunt, because the play is directly in front of him. He should also call the base the play should be made to.

For instance, if a man is on first, and a bunt is made and fielded by the first baseman, the catcher could call the play for second base and complete a force out. The first baseman would have his back to the play and would not know when to throw, if the catcher did not tell him.

OUR DIET DEFICIENT

Lack of Proper Balance of Foods Causes Dental Troubles

Italians' teeth are better than ours. Far better. But the second generation of Italians, born in this country, have teeth no better than ours.

From the time the Norsemen discovered Iceland and settled there (more than 1000 years ago) until about the beginning of the last century, the Icelanders' teeth were sound, as the skulls show. Today their teeth are hardly better than ours.

Animals have, usually, perfect teeth. Primitive man, usually, has excellent teeth. Stefansson reports that among certain of the Eskimo tribes he has visited there is no word in the language for "toothache." But the children of those same Eskimos, living along the now "civilized" Alaskan shores, have teeth as defective as our own.

Twelve million school children—half the total—in this country have teeth so badly infected as to be a definite menace to their health, if not already interfering with it. Nine school children out of every ten have one or more unfilled cavities, working inward and downward through the teeth. Poison and malignant bacteria are discharged from such decomposing teeth into the system.

As a nation, we're on what the scientists call a "deficiency diet." We're not getting certain ingredients that the body, chemically, has to have for its best growth and bone development. About 40 per cent of the diet in England and America is composed of cereals, usually milled cereals with the husks of the seed kernels removed, that lack the necessary lime and other substances that the bones and body require. Cereals are all right, but we must learn to balance them with other food.

Green foods—lettuce and cabbage and spinach and dandelion greens and beet tops and the like—contain the elements we need. So do dairy products—milk and cheese. So do certain parts of the meat carcass that we are accustomed at present to slight, or discard entirely.

In 300 years the average length of human life has increased close to thirty years. In the last fifty years half that amount has been gained. The average expectation of life is now fifty-six. But the United States health and census reports show that while the infectious diseases are steadily decreasing, the degenerative diseases are on the increase. The next big step forward in public health has to come through the attack on these slow, degenerative diseases that so often work through the teeth.—[John Amid in Collier's.

Fear Nothing but Spooks

The distribution of the mail in India is in the hands of runners who represent the lowest strata of the society of that country, but withal they have a great appreciation of their responsibilities and as they cover great stretches of wild country they make every endeavor to take care of the mail. They are fearless to a great extent. They will face wild beasts and bandits, but they will go miles out of their way to avoid the evil spirit which is thought to reside in a certain tree, mountain or stream. They would never steal a letter entrusted to their care and they have been frequently known to protect the mail at the expense of their lives. They often face death in the execution of their work and many die through flood, avalanche or at the hands of some mountain gang, so that on the whole the service is quite reliable.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MICHIGAN CITY (Ind.) May 31. Tommy Gibbons, while evidently disappointed that he failed to knock out Georges Carpentier today, expressed satisfaction tonight at the ease with which he defeated his foe, declaring that if Carpentier had fought like he fought against Jack Dempsey instead of retreating as he did today, he would have been victor over the Frenchman within five rounds.

"I think I have convinced the public that I am entitled to another crack at Jack Dempsey," Gibbons said. "I wasn't hurt once during the fight except once possibly during the fourth round, when he nailed me with a right. I don't think there is any question as to the winner.

"Carpentier is game, make no mistake about that. He took a lot of punishment. He showed his gameness when he finished the ninth and tenth rounds with an injured ankle. The only thing I regret is that he did not make a contest of it instead of running away."

Carpentier paid glowing tribute to Gibbons's boxing skill and hitting ability.

"M. Gibbons is the best boxer I ever faced. I know now how he managed to stay fifteen rounds with Dempsey. He hits with terrific force. I am sorry that my ankle was injured. Otherwise I could have possibly scored a knockout. Having faced Dempsey for the championship and having carried the fight to him, I determined on a different method in meeting Gibbons. My intention was to box him at long range, seeking an opportunity to get in a decisive right-hand blow."

Not once—not twice—not three times—but for four consecutive years, in competition with leading gasolines of the country—Richfield has won at Indianapolis the world's most coveted and eagerly contested speedway event. A record unequaled by any other gasoline!

This year Joe Boyer, driving a 122-inch motor, smashed every previous world's record with his average of 98.24 miles per hour, using Richfield Gasoline and Richlube Motor Oil! Earl Cooper and Jimmy Murphy, who finished in second and third places closely behind the winner, were also exclusive users of Richfield and Richlube!

There is a difference with Richfield and Richlube! A test of only a hundred miles is enough to convince you. Drive in today at any Richfield station for this famous combination and get these same super-qualities of power and acceleration — the same perfect, engine-saving lubrication for your own car.

REFRESHINGLY cool is a silk coat or cape for summer wear—and the newer ones all boast the conceit of summer fur. And colors! All colors that suggest daintiness and the greatest coolness are in evidence in these silken summer wraps.

CAN anything be daintier than a summer dress for summer days? And Voiles, Linens, Georgette and Crepes seem to be the most popular materials for warm weather. A touch of embroidery or lace trimming—or perhaps a hand drawn edge enhances the charm of these white or pastel colored frocks.

INSANE MAN READY TO RESIST INVASION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA, May 31. — George Polis, 32, Greek cook, conceived the idea that someone was seeking his life and took great precautions to prevent the unknown from doing so. When Police Officers Edward Sharp and Fred Foster, armed with a warrant for his arrest on an insanity charge entered the man's room in a downtown hotel today they found the Greek surrounded by long butcher knives and a huge cleaver prepared to defend himself.

By pointing out that no one could get at him in a steel room the officers were able to persuade Polis to accompany them to the City Jail. The complaint charging Polis with insanity was sworn to before Judge White by G. O. Potter, living in the hotel where Polis had his room.

HE SHOULD WORRY!

A returning reveler was vainly trying to get his latchkey in his front door when a good-natured passerby offered to do it for him. Taking the key, the stranger gave the lock a violent twist and snapped the key in half, leaving the end in the door.

"I say, I'm awfully sorry," he explained, "quite an accident, you know, but I've broken your key."

"Washat?" murmured the reveler.

"Sorry," shouted the stranger; "key broken, couldn't help it; can't open door."

"Oh, thash all right," was the sleepy reply, "the beggars inside 'll have to wait."—[London Mail.

Manners

He was a cab driver of the old sort, called as a witness in an action for damages incurred in a street collision, and, ignoring the jury, he persisted in relating his version to the judge. Ultimately the latter stopped him, and observed:

"Address yourself to the jury."

So turning awkwardly to the pew in which twelve tradesmen sat scowling, he smiled, nodded reassuringly, and remarked:

"Mornin', gents; all well at 'ome, I 'ope?"—Tit-Bits.

HIGHBROW GROCERY

In one of the finer residence districts of Portland, Or., there stands an attractive building which at first glance might be mistaken for the home of some millionaire. It is a beautiful white stucco structure in the Italian style, with rose trellises, French windows, and a finely kept lawn. On the open piazza are potted plants, shrubbery and bright flowers. If not a millionaire's home, it might then be a well-kept clubhouse or perhaps a library? People seeing it for the first time have made such guesses. But, on coming closer, one will find above the arched doorway a small nameplate which gives the first surprising hint that this artistic building is—a grocery store!

When construction of this unusual store was first started, the residents of the very restricted neighborhood were somewhat startled, but their anger cooled as the work progressed, for the building was distinctly an artistic addition to the neighborhood. Today this grocery store de luxe is said to be doing a $10,000 business a month, serving the high-class trade of its own special neighborhood.—[Progressive Grocer.

No Salesman Sense

There was a dress goods salesman who used as a clincher the argument: "It just suits your style."

He was so successful with this somewhat ambiguous phrase that he grew careless and finally met his Waterloo. That was the day he tried to sell a polka-dot to a freckle-faced girl. — [Louisville Courier-Journal.

FIRST CLUB FEDERATION CREDITED TO NEW YORK

Mrs. Sarah Toler Gives History of Women's Organization in Time of Basques

When a man becomes famous, his origin is at once a matter of interest to everyone. So, in the limelight that now is turned on the seventeenth biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs there shines along the backward road one penetrating ray to the organization of the federation and the names associated with it, many of them in the books of fame.

There is some divergence of opinion as to the organization of the first woman's club in the United States, but apparently none to the first federation which, according to Mrs. Sallie Toler, who was present and now resides in this city, took place in New York City thirty-four years ago.

"For on that date the Sorosis Club of New York sent invitations to all the women's clubs in existence, asking them to send delegates to New York under the direction of the Sorosis Club. Mme. Severance, the founder of the Friday Morning Club, was a member of the New York club at that time," said Mrs. Toler. "Hypatia Club of Wichita, Kan., organized a delegation under the direction of Mrs. Croly (Jennie June) from a club whose president was the celebrated Mary Ellen Lease, who appointed Mrs. Mary Todd and myself delegates. Mrs. Charlotte Emerson Brown was elected president at that convention, the first of the general federation.

WOMEN WORE BASQUES

"We wore basques in those days and it is very likely that most of the delegates carried the presidential bee buzzing in her new hat, but it would have to fly past many hat pins to get out. Naturally the chosen one was ready to response with a hesitating impromptu speech of acceptance and I knew of exactly eight of them written on violet or perfumed white note paper tucked under basques ready for the emergency.

"I also was a delegate from the Hypatia Club to the second biennial in Chicago and the fourth in Denver, the third having met at Louisville, Ky. There were many notables we met for the first time at Chicago. I recall Frances Willard, Julita Ward Howe, Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Beecher Hooker and Miss Anna Shaw.

Mrs. Jean Alexander Borelli, prominent in Los Angeles Ebell, attended the second biennial in Chicago with her mother. She still has in her possession the old worn program, which shows that in addition to Mrs. Brown, noted women in the list of officers were: May Wright Sewall, vice president; Mrs. J. C. Croly, (Jennie June,) recording secretary; Mrs. Jane O. Cooper and Mrs. Kate Tannatt Woods.

SUSAN B. ANTHONY SPOKE

Susan B. Anthony was one of the speakers; Mrs. Croly, Mrs. Jennie De la M. Lozier, Miss Elizabeth Harrison of the Chicago Women's Federation, also spoke, and Mrs. Wright Sewall delivered the closing address. The subject of Julia Ward Howe was "Woman in the Greek Drama," and that of Mrs. Ednah D. Cheyney, widely known in that decade, was "Realism in Art." Miss Harrison's subject was startingly new, "The Kindergarten," for Kate Douglas Wiggin, just was coming to be known for her kindergarten work in San Francisco. Mrs. Wiggin spent a day at that convention. "Classic Study in Our Public Schools" was the subject of Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, who afterward became the first woman superintendent of schools in as large a city as Chicago, and later was elected the first woman president of the National Educational Association.

From that time, without intermission, the biennials came; the fifth in Denver in 1898. Mrs. James G. Berryhill, who is a delegate here as president; Milwaukee, 1900, Mrs. Rebecca Douglas Lowe, deceased, president and the wonderful outstanding personality, Sarah Decker Platt, appearing in the lime-light for the first time as vice-president; Los Angeles, 1902, Mrs. Rebecca Douglas Lowe of Georgia, and Mrs. E. TWENTY-ONE HOTELS FOR DELEGATES

Women Due by Hundreds Today and Tomorrow for Federation Convention

That 5000 delegates and representatives to the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs' starting Tuesday, will arrive in Los Angeles on trains coming in today and tomorrow is the opinion expressed yesterday by Mrs. Charles H. Thompson, chairman of the hotels committee of the local biennial board.

"By Monday evening we believe practically all the delegates will be comfortably housed," Mrs. Thompson said. "Delegates already have made reservations in twenty-one hotels near the Philharmonic Auditorium. The hotels committee, consisting of fifty women workers, has received the heartiest co-operation from hotel managements and it is the aim of the committee to see to it that all the delegates enjoy a pleasant visit to the Southland." The committee's headquarters are at the Biltmore.

Mrs. Thompson was a member of the delegation housing committee in Chicago seventeen years ago and yesterday she smilingly mentioned the vast difference between the old days, when delegates were housed in private residences, and today, when the committee's duty consists in forwarding to the 5000 women's clubs information concerning accommodations at hotels.

The Biltmore will be headquarters for delegates from Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, West Virginia, Wisconsin, New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Idaho. Reservations have been placed at the Clark Hotel for delegates from Nebraska, Nevada, South Dakota, North Dakota, Missouri, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Washington, Delaware and California.

At the Rosslyn reservations have been made for visitors from Illinois, Kansas, Iowa, Missouri, Chicago and Pittsburg. Reservations at the Alexandria include headquarters for visitors from Florida, Hawaii, Montana, Indiana, Wyoming, Oklahoma and Mississippi.

The Savoy Hotel will be headquarters for delegates from Iowa, Kansas, Texas and Tennessee. Alabama will be represented at the Trinity and Ohio at the Gates. The remainder of the reservations are for individuals, instead of for groups.

CHILDREN'S SOCIETY TO GIVE VAUDEVILLE

The second annual Children's Society vaudeville bill for the benefit of the Orthopedic Hospital School will be presented next Saturday at Philharmonic Auditorium. All acts are new and have been created by Mrs. Pearl Keller of Glendale, the director.

Mrs. Benjamin F. Bledsoe, president of the Crippled Children's Guild, is being assisted in the affair by the following members of the board of management: Mrs. R. D. Shepherd, Mrs. Hanson Moore, Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Chester T. Hoagg, Mrs. Alexander Barrett, Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo, Mrs. E. R. Collins, Mrs. Charles Canfield, Mrs. Antonio Moreno, Mrs. J. W. Johnson, Mrs. William Hollzer, Mrs. W. B. Hiett, Mrs. Emmett Wilson, Mrs. Mary Kellogg, Mrs. Helen Cummings, Mrs. E. T. B. Ross, Mrs. Donna Amsden, Mrs. F. G. Calkins, Mrs. Jules Kauffman, Mrs. Mary Cunningham, Mrs. Mary Rolls-Hatch, Mrs. A. M. Marsh and Mrs. O. M. Souden.

ELECTION GETS MAIN INTEREST

Three-Cornered Contest is First of Federation

Florida, Montana, Colorado Offer Candidates

Presidency Race Brings Out Campaign Efforts

Surpassing all interests of the biennial convention at this juncture is the three-cornered contest for the presidency. And not far behind will be the campaign to fill vacancies in the other five offices with a goodly number of contestants.

Never before in the history of the General Federation of Women's Clubs have there been three seeking the presidency. In fact to permit the third to run, early in the deliberations of the body an amendment must be passed making it constitutional. These three reside in different sections of the Union and each in her way typifies the womanhood of her part of the country. Mrs. W. S. Jennings of Jacksonville, Fla., now first vice-president, is the daughter and wife of prominent public men, her husband having served as Governor of Florida. She herself has a long list of accomplishments to her credit both in her State and in the federation where she has filled many offices and chairmanships since 1918.

Quite another type of woman but perhaps equally strong, if one can judge by the impression she made at the Friday Morning Club and yesterday at the State convention, is Mrs. Wallace T. Perham of Glendive, Mont., now second vice-president. Mrs. Perham, like Mrs. Jennings, brings an enthusiastic group of delegates to promote her candidacy; her group, supplied with ribbons and banners, already have made a deep impression.

Mrs. John D. Sherman of Estes Park, Colo., is the third candidate for this high position. She is now chairman of applied education and has given a longer period of service to the federation than any other woman, not even excepting the president, Mrs. Thomas Gerald Winter. She has been in office continually for twenty years. She is undoubtedly better known outside of federation circles as a public woman than the other candidates, having been associated in public work of the nation with Franklin K. Lane when he was Secretary of the Interior and recently with Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce.

Mrs. Edward Franklin White of Indianapolis is the only one seek-

Next Saturday all business of the convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs will be suspended for an entire day and the day devoted to sightseeing and entertainment. RESOLUTE WOMANHOOD RALLIES TO CHART PATHWAY OF PEACE

Thirteen Thousand Representatives of Federated Clubs in Nineteen Countries to Attend Opening of Biennial in Auditorium Tuesday

BY MYRA NYE

With "World Peace" as the theme of conference, organized womanhood of the world is gathering in Los Angeles.

The old "Westward Ho!" of the pioneers becomes today the new "Peaceward Ho!" of humanity with women in the van of march.

To blaze a spiritual airway of peace and goodwill around the world and chart it—this thrills the imagination. Its accomplishment will touch the centers of life and accent it for happiness for every human being on the globe. This is the purpose of the General Federation of Women's Clubs whose representatives yesterday estimated by the State press chairman as 13,000, will come to the city for the seventeenth biennial convention to begin in Philharmonic Auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

MRS. WINTER TO PRESIDE

Mrs. Thomas Gerald Winter, for the last four years the federation's forceful president, will then formally open the convention and preside together with Mrs. Joseph F. Sartori, chairman of the local biennial board.

"Ten people united have the strength of a hundred who stand singly; 100 in phalanx can overpower a thousand stragglers. Let us band together—invincible millions—working for health, happiness, righteousness and humanity in these United States," said Mrs. Winter yesterday. And to this end the conference will work.

In the delegate body will be nearly 3000 accredited delegates who will keep the chairman of credentials, Mrs. David L. Murray, and her helpers, busy all of tomorrow. These represent 2,800,000 members, with 5000 separate clubs.

From the precipitous cliffs of the coast of Maine to the sunny bay of Avalon in Catalina Island; from the forests of Michigan to the moss-draped trees of Florida and the bayous of Louisiana, from every State in the Union come the delegates today. But not from the United States alone. Clubs of nineteen countries are federated and many of them are sending delegates from China, the Philippines, France, Canada, Hawaii and Japan.

BUILDING WOMAN'S WORK

It is significant that the meeting place, Philharmonic Auditorium, was planned and designed in part by one of the most prominent women of the biennial and dedicated as a temple of worship where her distinguished husband once preached. Mrs. Robert J. Burdette holds several offices in the General Federation. She is director for California and is the chairman of program. Her program, which she submitted for consideration six months ago to the federation board meeting in Washington, D. C., was the only one ever accepted without change by that board.

The auditorium seats 2700, but it is estimated that double that number will seek admission. Arrangements have been made for duplicate meetings: in the afternoon in the Biltmore Theater, Fifth street and Grand avenue; and for evenings, in Trinity Auditorium, 847 Grand avenue.

The headquarters of the local biennial board will be in the Biltmore and there will be a branch office in the Bank of Italy at Seventh and Olive streets.

More effectively to accomplish the purpose, the federation is divided into seven departments of work: American citizenship, Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Texas as chairman; applied education, Mrs. John D. Sherman, Colorado; fine arts, Mrs. Rose V. S. Berry, California; press and publicity, Mrs. Lessie Stringfellow Read, Arkansas; public welfare, Mrs. Elmer Blair, New York; international relations, Mrs. Winter, Minnesota. Each of these has from two to fifteen subdivisions.

FEDERATION OFFICERS

Officers of the federation are Mrs. Winter, president; Mrs. W. S. Jennings, Florida, first vice-president; Mrs. Wallace T. Perham, Montana, second vice-president; Mrs. James E. Hays, Georgia, recording secretary; Mrs. H. S. Godfrey, Minnesota, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Florence C. Floore, treasurer. There are fifty directors from each of the States, Alaska and the District of Columbia. Honorary presidents are the past presidents, all of whom will be present Tuesday. Mrs. Charles Halbert Dennison, New York City; Mrs. Philip North Moore, St. Louis; Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, Austin, Tex., and Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles of this city.

Honorary members include Countess Ayako-Okuma, Japan; Marchioness of Aberdeen and Lemair, Scotland; Mrs. Henrietta Octavia Barnett, London; Mme. Isabelle Bogelot, Paris; Mrs. Bedford Fenwick, London; Mrs. St. John Hankin, Gloucester, England; Miss E. E. Constance Jones, Cambridge, Eng.; Mlle. Dick May, Paris; Countess of Meath, London; Mrs. Margaret Polson Murray, Canada; Miss Alice Ravenhille, British Columbia; Signora Fanny Zampini Salazar, Italy; Fraulein Anna Simons, Germany; Mrs. Constance Smedley-Armfield, New York City, and Mrs Sidney Webb, London.

HALLS AND EXHIBITION ALL READY

Auditorium and Biltmore Will Share Business and Social Events

Halls, exhibition rooms and meeting rooms to be used during the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs are in readiness, Mrs. W. W. Slayden, chairman of the committee on halls, announces. At the final meeting of the committee last Thursday arrangements were completed.

The important meetings of the convention will be conducted in the Philharmonic Auditorium where the president's address and the election and installation of officers will take place. Luncheons, various receptions, dinners and the annual ball will be in the ballroom of the Biltmore.

Rooms in the arcade of the Biltmore have been secured for the exhibits, which will include an extensive exhibit on ways to beautify the home under the direction of the home extension division. There will be seven exhibits in all, Mrs. Slayden said. Rooms have also been reserved for departmental and executive meetings.

Mrs. Slayden is being assisted by Mrs. William McCandless, vice-chairman; Mrs. Alice Reeves Reynolds, second vice-chairman; Mrs. Martin G. Carter, secretary, and Miss Nellie White, treasurer.

The art and literature exhibits will be conducted in the Friday Morning Club.

Local Board Announces Its Plans for Week

Seven Department Exhibits in Auditorium

Social Courtesies Curtailed by Pressure

"It has been the privilege of the California local biennial board with the women of Los Angeles and vicinity to prepare for the coming of the delegates and visitors," said Mrs. Joseph F. Sartori, chairman of the California local biennial board, yesterday. "For months past the interest of a very large number of our women has been centered in making provision which shall be both adequate and agreeable for the expected guests.

"It is a pleasure to announce that the morning meetings, the afternoon conferences and the evening meetings of each department are to be conducted in the same auditorium and that most of the local working committees will be housed under the same roof. Also that sufficient space, suitably located, has been obtained for the exhibits of the seven departments of work which emphasize the program presented.

STATE'S INCOME

"In the interest of the program we have denied ourselves the pleasure of offering the many social courtesies which our inclination suggests. Our hospitality is limited, but our welcome will be warm and sincere, and this welcome comes not from Los Angeles alone; it comes from California."

Members of the California local biennial executive board are: Mrs. Joseph F. Sartori, chairman; Mrs. John C. Urquhart, honorary vice-chairman; Mrs. Charles H. Next to enjoying a good joke yourself is the fun of sharing it with others. That is the spirit of "Local Laughs," weekly wit and humor film produced by The Times in co-operation with its readers. Thousands of motion-picture theater-goers have laughed heartily at the contributions which thus far have found their way into reel form, and as soon as booking dates are determined, many other theater audiences throughout Southern California will share in the merriment.

The three best jokes selected for "Local Laughs" each week are awarded prizes of $5, $3, $2 and twelve receive $1 each. The name and address of each contributor appear in the film, so that audiences may know who the successful contestants are. Shortly after the film is released, each prize winner is notified individually by letter.

While The Times Local Laughs editor daily receives many good laughs, some of them are unavailable because of their length. Thirty words are the limit for each joke. If it can be told in less, so much the better.

An encouraging sign is that many readers are making it a practice to send in jokes regularly. There is no limit placed on the number of contributions one may send in, and having won one prize does not exclude the contestant from further participation. Moreover, by keeping at it, success is bound to come to those who thus far haven't enjoyed the experience of seeing their best laugh on the screen. Use the coupon inside to send your laugh.

Romance Fades as Boy Is Turned Over to Parents

The romance of Herbert T. Stoddard, 16 years of age, began to fade yesterday when Judge Archbald of the Juvenile Court released the boy to his parents, who had caused him to be haled into court on a charge of incorrigibility.

According to the probation office report, the youth's parents particularly objected to his asserted marriage to Lucile Rudska, 18. It was asserted the couple first applied to the Los Angeles county marriage license bureau for a license, but being denied one by the local bureau they went to Santa Ana where young Stoddard was said to have given his age as 22. It was stated the parents of the boy planned to have the marriage annulled.

FEDERATION EXECUTIVES TO BE FETED

Dinner Tomorrow Night First of Thirty-four Such Events Scheduled

The first important dinner of the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs will take place tomorrow night at the Biltmore when the local executive board will have as its guests members of the executive board of the federation.

Mrs. Oliver C. Bryant, chairman of the committee on luncheons and dinners, announces that arrangements have been completed to provide luncheons and dinners to 12,600 visiting delegates. Thirty-four luncheons and dinners are scheduled, all to be given at the Biltmore.

The Minnesota State Board will give a dinner in honor of the president of the federation during the convention. Other State boards will also give dinners and luncheons.

The Kansas board will give a luncheon at which Mrs. Etta Ward of Hays, Kan., organizer of women's clubs in the Sunflower State and for thirty years active in civic and club circles will be a guest of honor.

HISTORIC CAFE CLOSES

Owners Will Resume Business in Hollywood This Fall

Gala festivities last night marked the passing of another milestone in the night-life history of Los Angeles. The Winter Garden will pass into oblivion as a downtown cafe, to blossom forth this fall as a Hollywood institution in the heart of the capital of the film world.

Bands and orchestras from all the big cafes of the city played the final dirge when this historic cafe, known first as McKee's and then as the Winter Garden, passed into history. Screen and stage stars attended the wake, and after today the entire Winter Garden personnel will be absorbed by the Rendezvous, the Hill-street cabaret owned by the same three impresarios, Mike Lyman, Howard Patrick and Bill Simon.

Committee on Information Is Ready for Rush

Mrs. Otis B. Manchester is the proudest chairman working for the success of the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

She reports that of the fifty-four workers called to serve with her, fifty have reported for duty. Of the other four two had left the city, one was ill and the last had resigned. She considers this a splendid showing and prophesies that the spirit of co-operation will be reflected all through the State.

"We are giving more than literature," says this head of the distribution of literature, "though we'll give out a ton or more of leaflets before the convention is over. If a delegate asks for information on making programs, we will hand it to her all properly printed. If another wants information on the best budget system, here it is; if yet others want to plan any special celebration, we'll have the information right at hand."

But it is the spirit of hospitality and courtesy that Mrs. Manchester stresses. It is this more than all else that her committee will dispense.

Moore, presiding in San Francisco and present at this biennial; Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles and Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, the incumbent.

Mrs. Caroline Eager of Los Angeles, who has attended five of the biennials and is a delegate from the Paris Woman's Club of France, related the following on the origin of women's clubs at a recent meeting:

The earliest known woman's club was the Ladies' Educational Association of Jacksonville, Ill., in 1833. Then there is known in the federation the Ladies' Physiological Institute of Boston, 1848; the Cosy Club of Bridgewater, 1850; the Ladies' Library Association of Randolph, Mass., 1855; the Fenelon-street Circle of Minerva, Ind., 1858; Ladies' Library Association of Battle Creek, Mich., 1864; Friends in Council, Quincy, Ill., 1866.

FREEDOM FOR WOMEN

"The year 1868," said Mrs. Eager brought forth the two great clubs which were destined to be the open door to a new world for women and resulting finally in the emancipation of women. They are the Sorosis Club of New York and the Conversational Club of Dubuque, Iowa. The first convention was held in Madison Square Garden in New York on March 20, 1889.

"Among the speakers were Edward Everett Hale, Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, Henry James Bronson Alcott, Dr. Sam Elliott of Harvard and John G. Whittier."

MRS. EXLEY VICTORIOUS IN HARD JOB

Nearly Perfect Working Organization of Biennial Credited to Her

A nearly perfect working organization is the way Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley, chairman of the committees, defines the working body of which she is the head in connection with the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The problems of Mrs. Exley and the committee have been many and extend over a period of several months. To her and her workers fell the duty of selecting members and chairmen for all other committees. Care and good judgment was necessary in selecting members of the various committees and at the same time it was essential to pick women who were representative.

All committees and chairmen have been selected and all are functioning. Prominent members of the organization point out that Mrs. Exley's task has been difficult and that it is no small matter to select 1000 women from among 70,000 scattered all over the State. Without exception, it is said, every committee selected is carrying on its work in perfect accord with all other committees. This, members say, is a tribute to the ability of Mrs. Exley and her workers.

Members of the various committees include women from all sections of the State. It has been the aim of Mrs. Exley to have representative women on every committee.

LETTER AS CLUB

Note to Wife from "Other" Woman Produced in Court

The fury of a woman scorned broke up the home of Francis Leo Tibergheim, it was revealed at the hearing of Mrs. Velma M. Tibergheim's suit for divorce before Judge Burks.

Her vengeance took the form of a letter to Mrs. Tibergheim confessing an escapade in which she and Tibergheim had once been engaged.

With this letter, Mrs. Tibergheim brought into court another one, from the same girl and addressed to Tibergheim, in which she threatened to tell his wife on him.

"I'll tell Velma everything. I know all about you, and I'll tell her how you treated me," this letter, which Mrs. Tibergheim said she found in her husband's pocket, read.

ing the first vice-presidency. She is now chairman of the department of legislature and has a long record of constructive consistent work back of her. As Deputy Attorney-General of Indiana, Mrs. White has just completed her third term in charge of the department of criminal appeals.

THREE OUT FOR POST

There are three who are seeking the second vice-presidency, Miss Florence Deibert, who is the president of the Pennsylvania Federation; Mrs. John Ruhl of Wheeling, W. V., and chairman of the junior auxiliaries, a member of the investment and endowment and war service fund, and Mrs. William R. Alvord, Detroit, chairman of the division of citizenship training in the Department of American Citizenship.

Mrs. James E. Hays of Georgia is a candidate to succeed herself as recording secretary. The corresponding secretary will be appointed by the newly elected president and it is customary to choose someone from her own State.

Mrs. Florence C. Floore seeks re-election as treasurer. A director from each State will be chosen. There is a possibility of nominations from the floor for any of these offices except corresponding secretary. But any talk of dark horses is not general.

COMPOSER WILL PLAY

Carrie Jacobs Bond will give a concert for members of the Hollywood Athletic Club and their guests tonight at the club. This will be her first public appearance since her return from a trip to the Orient.

STORMY SETTINGS

The German Reichstag seems to be behaving about the same as the American Congress would if there were not so many ladies present.

THE BIG FIGURE

Whether the opening announcement is made by Beveridge, Hadley or some other eloquent statesman, it is fully assured that the name of Coolidge will be no stranger in the Cleveland convention.

SMOKERS' RESOLUTION

An earnest searcher yesterday found a woman who swore off cigarettes last New Year's Day and was sworn off still. No, this is not a fairy tale. The explanation is that she had just sworn off again, for the seventeenth time this year.

THE DIFFERENCE

The city of Pittsburg has five Republican Representatives in Congress. Los Angeles is now a vaster city than the steel capital, but has but one Congressman as her very own. The legislators who regularly defy the constitutional provision for apportionment are to blame.

ON THE SPOT

Our Republican county committeeman has looked into the twinkling eyes of President Coolidge and supplied some details concerning that 60,000 majority which Los Angeles supplied the President in the California primary. So far as Calvin Coolidge is concerned this continues to be one of the whitest spots on the world's map.

ITCH FOR CHANGE

There is a movement afoot to change the name of South Pasadena to San Pasqual without anybody knowing exactly why. Being south of Pasadena is no hardship. Nevertheless the citizens chafe over their wispy connection and many of them wish to journey under a name of their own. They would have the same initials as before—as would the Southern Pacific Railroad, for that matter. But changing the name of a well-established community is not the easiest thing to do, even if it can be officially accomplished.

THE DOUBLE CROSS

Included in the discoveries of the Dawes Commission was the fact that in the five years immediately following the war Germany had disposed of over $2,000,000,000 in paper marks in other countries. Much of this was at full value or nearly so, and the government really profited to almost that extent through subsequent depreciation. From one viewpoint the German government has actually benefited by the total loss of its money standard. But it will have to start from a new base and hardpan to be restored to any position in the world of credits.

LODGE OR HOME

On a recent evening a reputable citizen announced to the wife that he was going to his lodge and mingle with his brothers for a few hours. When he returned it was to an empty home. The wife had not only disappeared, but the furniture had also vanished. Nothing but bare walls and floors and empty rooms greeted the returning lord of the manse. This indicates that when a man goes to his lodge he also takes a chance on losing his home. But, at that, they were still signing up strong for the Royal Order of Venerable Panthers at last accounts. Being a lodge brother is the primary impulse in the male bosom.

OUR NATIONAL SPURT

The birth rate in the cities of Southern California is higher than in most sections of the country and the suburb of Glendale again occupies the spotlight on the strength of a birth rate last year of 37 to each 1000 of population, which seems to be the top mark. The average for the country was only about 18 to each 1000 inhabitants. It is possible, however, that the percentage for Glendale as for other cities was based largely upon the census of 1920. Our northern neighbor has grown mightily since those figures were taken. In the absence of identified competition, however, Glendale may claim to be not only the fastest-growing community, but also to have the highest birth rate in the country. One can well imagine the two going together.

THE FALSE FACES

Senator La Follette takes pains to denounce the American activities of the Moscow Commune. He expresses an official intolerance of the use of anything but the ballot to accomplish revolutionary ends. He looks upon the Russian Reds as a menace to our own country and definitely repudiates their program. In spite of all this the disciples of disorder still indicate a purpose to support La Follette as a candidate to be voted for in the Presidential election. They realize that he is the best little disturber the country has at this moment and they are prepared to boost him along. The more they have of La Follette the better chance they would have to advance their ultimate program. Anything that will disrupt old forms or organizations supplies them with some form of ammunition in their warfare against existing government. They use the name of La Follette as a rallying cry, but have reservations of their own as to how far and where they shall follow.

PINK OR RED

Senator La Follette is growing old. He suffers alike from the pangs of age and from political wounds that have not wholly healed. Reverses have taught him caution, and he declines to march at the head of a third-party phalanx, followed by a standard-bearer carrying a red flag.

He knows the fate of third-party movements and he doesn't care to play the part of the corpse at a political funeral in November. Like Senator Johnson, he would like to be President. He might be willing to lead any movement that gave promise of success. But he knows that no party tainted with radicalism and Communism can win the suffrage of a majority of the American people.

So he has announced that he will have nothing to do with the Farmer-Labor-Progressive convention which is to be held in St. Paul this month; and he has advised his political supporters to keep shy of it. The Senator knows that hyphenates are not popular in this country and that the double hyphen alone is enough to condemn the movement to disaster.

Senator La Follette discriminates in the choice of colors. He has sometimes favored pink, has frequently flirted mildly with Socialism, but he doesn't care for red. He might not hesitate to lead a movement that would win the support of the radicals and Communists; but he will not enlist in a force that radicals and Communists control.

With La Follette eliminated the Farmer-Labor-Progressive group is left without a nationally known leader. They will be compelled to march under their own colors and that will mean to march without the support of either the farmers or the former Progressives.

While the Democratic editors are doing their best to inject a third party into the national campaign this year their efforts are meeting with but little success. They desire to avoid a clear-cut fight between Democrats and Republicans; for they are aware that the majority of the voters cannot be brought to support Democratic candidates. If the Democrats win this year it must be through a minority victory, like that of 1912. If they cannot persuade a large group of Republicans to waste their votes the election of Coolidge and a Republican Congress is assured.

They are willing to lend encouragement to any group that might split the Republican vote in the Middle West, but only to get them into the fight. As soon as the battle is joined the Democratic editors will support the Democratic nominees, leaving the third party and the Republicans to destroy each other.

The Democrats are perhaps not to be blamed for making the only kind of campaign that gives any promise of success. But The Times does not believe that enough Republicans will be deluded to permit the disaster of 1912 to be repeated.

As far as the President is concerned there are no "former Progressives," no "regular Republicans." The battles of these two groups were fought before he rose to national prominence. He is a Republican leader without qualifications or reservations. And the party unity which he has cemented is the despair alike of the Democrats and the third-party advocates.

ANIMAL MUSIC CENSORS

Psychologists took an orchestra to a local zoo to study the effects of the sounds made by musical instruments on the animals. It was found that jazz offended the beasts, while opera soothed them—not to the point of somnolence, as it does many men, but still to a degree which would have interested Mr. Darwin.

All that, no doubt, is very interesting to scientists. But is there not also a practical suggestion in the experiment for the welfare of humanity?

Would it not be worth the experiment to have all music tried on the animals before it is turned loose on a public that seldom knows what it wants till the advertisers tell it?

A dance tune that makes pachyderms gambol ought to prove just the thing needed by ponderous, middle-aged husbands who are trying to keep up with sprightly young wives. Sentimental ballads, able to charm monkeys, would be sure to be effective when applied to our less discriminating callow youth. And anything which made the tigress look tricky and lash her tail from side to side should, it would seem, be barred from all public dance halls and reserved for the people who do not frequent such places for amusement.

Worked out scientifically, such an animal board of censorship might prove an aid to modern culture.

Of course, it is possible that soon the animals might become as musically depraved as the mere human public. Animals have shown that they can, with patience, be taught to smoke, get drunk and otherwise bring themselves down to human levels. But for a time, at least, it might be helpful if nothing could be played or sung to the public which did not have the zoo's approval.

And the S.P.C.A.? Oh, well, so long as the torture of rabbits and guinea pigs in the interest of science is permitted it seems only fair that the other animals should do their bit.

FIXING THE BLAME

Investigation of the Department of Justice by a Senatorial bloc has taken a turn that the investigators themselves do not relish. The affairs of the department were not in a good condition. There was a vast amount of confusion, owing to the incapacity of many of the lesser employees. But the committee heard some things that it would have preferred to remain unsaid when it called for the testimony of former Asst. Atty.-Gen. Crim.

He said that the department had been deteriorating for thirty years, under both Democratic and Republican administrations; that it had been made a kind of reservoir for collecting political henchmen who had helped some members of Congress carry their districts. If Congress would pass a law making it an offense for any member of Congress to recommend one of his henchmen for a place in the department a cleaning of the stables might be possible.

Mr. Crim placed the fault primarily with legislation enacted by Congress for establishing and maintaining the department. Politics is its cardinal weakness; and until Congress can be made to keep hands off that condition will continue. Washington correspondents have discovered that some of the deputies who have been most censured owed their appointment to members of Congress who were loud in their denunciation of the former Attorney-General and his conduct of the department.

Commenting editorially on the condition disclosed through Mr. Crim's testimony, the New York Times says:

The chief responsibility rests on Congress, which, as usual, pretends to be deeply indignant at what is substantially its own work. Let Congress give up being office brokers, pesterers of the President and departments, whiner for jobs for "the boys." But, as Mr. Crim says, "you will have to make over" not merely "some" but most Congressmen and national committeemen as well before that millennial hour arrives.

Former Atty.-Gen. Daugherty is not charged with originating this machinery of demoralization. He found it all installed, including the system of government by espionage, when he was appointed to office. Atty.-Gen. Stone may possibly rescue the department from its present demoralization. The President has confidence in his integrity, courage and ability. But, if he does so, he will awaken a hostility in the present Congress equal to that it evinced toward the former Attorney-General; for it will mean firing a whole platoon of Congressional henchmen.

The Senate may pass a resolution expressing its lack of confidence in the conduct of the department under Mr. Daugherty; but it will be condemning itself by the same vote. It will be unfortunate, indeed, if the people can have no more confidence in the Department of Justice than they have in the bloc that is conducting the investigation.

LOOKING TO THE FAR EAST

Pressed by reporters for his views on the rehabilitation of the business world, Arthur Kavanaugh, former vice-president of the National Bank of New York, recently asserted that rehabilitation would come from such backward countries as China, India and Mesopotamia.

"We need more new foreign markets," said the retired financier, "and these are now in process of creation. During the war coolies from China, India, Mesopotamia and other backward countries of the world were taken to Europe as laborers. They saw how civilized people lived—I am not referring to the war fronts, but the cities, towns and villages where most of them were employed. These men were later sent back to their own countries and villages. There they became oracles."

Having observed the comforts and conveniences appertaining to civilized life, they were dissatisfied with the crude conditions under which they lived. They awakened dissatisfaction in the breasts of those around them and a desire for improvements possessed by Europeans.

Already the demand from the Far East for new foreign products is manifesting itself. This will grow heavier as more of the backward peoples are able to articulate their wants. Their needs will create new markets and in supplying these the west coast of America can quadruple its present industrial output.

Not from jaded, worn-out Europe will the great orders come in the future, but from the orientals who are just beginning to realize how much they have been missing all these years. For good or evil they are arousing themselves from their lethargy and satisfaction with their unprogressive ways. Astute business men are beginning to cultivate an understanding of the wants and psychology of the backward brethren of the changing East.

PITILESS PUBLICITY

There are some details concerning the new X-ray camera which will take moving pictures of man's internal apparatus. It is said that the films record the operations of the liver, the activities of the heart and the circulation of the blood. It would seem to be possible for a man to sit in a choice seat and watch the screening of his own insides. With the aid of the motion picture the family doctor can watch the functioning of all the internal organs and check up on any frailties. First thing we know they will be taking pictures of the human conscience and throwing them with glaring assertiveness upon the screen. A man's thoughts will not only be recorded but thrown upon the silver sheet to the entertainment of the world. Then his dreams will be broadcast and nothing that is his will be really his ownest own.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Russian Tempest Caused Suicides in France

M. Herriot, Mayor of the great city of Lyons, who has been the special envoy of the French government to Russia, has been elected to the French Parliament by an overwhelming vote. No doubt the vote of the industrial workers in the city's great silk-spinning industries was largely responsible for his election. With M. Herriot a rather numerous group of radical Socialists have entered the chamber. They will make it their first duty to demand a recognition of the soviet government. But they will face a strong opposition to this measure. France has no reason to love the new regime in Russia. Especially the middle classes and the farmers were hard hit by the repudiation of the Czarist debt. Russian railway bonds and governmental bonds were largely taken up by the French bourgeois in years previous to the war. A French paper recently mentioned the tenth case in a small village of respectable retired merchants, who had all their money invested in Russian securities and who had committed suicide when those securities failed.

Stinnes Modest and Not a Jew

Certain American newspapers at the death of Hugo Stinnes carried an extensive "story" on the dead millionaire's habits. It told how the German Croesus was in the habit of boasting of his great wealth and often repeated that he was the richest man in the world. It also stated that Stinnes was a Jew. Though Stinnes himself never took occasion to deny this sort of statements when they were made even before his death, he had sufficient opportunity through the chain of newspapers he owned. He chose to ignore them. Now his son makes public in the Allgemeine Zeitung that his father never had that foolish habit of boasting and adds that there never was a Jewish strain in the family.

Waiting for Spring Weather

Leon Trotzky has arrived in Ukrainia accompanied by the staff of the Russian Red army. Forty divisions are engaged in maneuvers there and the discipline and equipment are said to be superior to that of the old Czarist forces. Air bases have been moved that way and great factories are turning out asphyxiating gas ready for immediate use. The soldiers are experimenting with attacks under cover of gas. The soil of Ukrainia is withering and plant life is being extinguished as the vile gas passes over shrubs and trees. The section where the maneuvers are held is close to the Bessarabian border, where the Rumanian army is held in readiness. Maneuvers they also call it, but the real truth of the matter is a threat of war. Russia wants Bessarabia back.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE LEADING CITIZEN

I read the Punktown Weekly Gaff, which is a newsy sheet; and every other paragraph refers to James McPete. Whatever James elects to do becomes a vital theme; he's sure to draw a "stick" or two if he should buy ice cream. The words that filter from his lips are quoted, line by line; he's always making "flying trips" which get ten lines or nine. To pave with brick Commercial street progressive people plead; if it's approved by James McPete, then let the work proceed. If James is sad, the town is blue and tears are seen in pools; when James contracted Spanish flu the paper "turned its rules." If James McPete should stub his toe against a kitchen chair the Gaff would print a wail of woe, all throbbing with despair. I heave a smile when thus I read of this exalted gink; his every picayunish deed seems hardly worth the ink. And yet methinks that James McPete must be a happy lad; I seem to see him tread the street, the monarch of his grad. In Punktown he, to greatness grown, is satisfied and gay; what boots it if he isn't known some forty miles away? Far better be a Caesar there, accorded by every tongue, than hike to a city's hard-boiled, unhonored and unsung.

Battle between the U.S.S. Chesapeake and H.M.S. Shannon was fought in the year 1813. It lasted only fifteen minutes, when the Chesapeake, her rigging shot away and her captain mortally wounded, surrendered. The dying words of Capt. Lawrence, "Don't give up the ship," have become immortal.

The battle of Cold Harbor, Va., was fought in the year 1864. Gen. Grant, with 65,000 Union men, attacked 35,000 Confederates under Gen. Robert E. Lee. The battle lasted for three days, when the Union army was compelled to withdraw after sustaining heavy loss.

The Lancer

DON'T tell me that the art of conversation has died.

One of my little playmates came to call on me last Sunday at a little place I have in Tujunga. We talked for thirteen hours and a half without interruption. We began at 10 o'clock in the morning and parted at 11:30 that night. And we never stopped for breath.

He was a cynical young man. Cynics are the most worth-while of all people. It is only they whose souls are not stained and smeared with cynicism. Usually it is a bluff with them. A veneer to hide an extremely sensitive nature.

Those who have read his worldly-wise, slightly sneering and sophisticated magazine articles would have been staggered to have heard him talking about the Brahminical theory of the divinity of life. He has an idea that when we pick a rose the flower dies in an agony of little perfumed moans. And so the talk flowed on from roses and Brahmins to international politics; to the technique of cavalry fighting; to Duse's acting; to life in Southern Italy; to Arab horses; to the destiny of Russia and so on and on.

Speaking by and large, social life is the bunk. Dinners and parties and dances bore nearly everyone to tears. Theaters are only moderately interesting.

The trouble is with the hostess. You just get some fellow going right. You lay little conversational traps for him. You can feel him slipping. Just as he gets to the point where he is going to rip the cover off and tell you the whole inside of everything along waddles the hostess. She wags a roguish finger and says: "Now I am not going to let you nice men talk all evening to each other."

I have wanted to kill several of them. Looking back over these experiences, I can see that I should have. I shirked my duty.

The Honeymoon Couple

A HONEYMOON couple has returned from the South Seas, where they were marooned for sixteen months on a tiny island, not much bigger than a city lot.

But what I can't understand is why they wanted to come back.

What was there to come back to? Automobiles that run you down in the streets? Or people trying to sell you real estate? Or theaters filled with punk actors? Or gas bills? Or income taxes? Or press agents? Or sputtering motorcycles? Or these damned telephones?

I suppose we are like wild animals. Caged so long that we miss the bars, the smells and the splinters.

A Pitiful Child

THE most pitiful story I have seen in the news dispatches for a long time was the suicide of a child in Dakota.

She tried to cook breakfast for the family and her father laughed at her cakes. So she took poison.

The least that a beast like this father could do would be to shoot himself. But he will not. He will continue to sit around and breathe up valuable air.

You might better beat a child to death with a club than to break her heart with ridicule.

I remember once visiting the family of a courtly, dignified, chivalrous gentleman whose name would be a familiar one if I told it.

The flapper daughter of the family was home from boarding school. She wanted to show off her domestic-science learning. So she cooked the breakfast. She made a mistake and put soda instead of baking powder in the breakfast cakes. It was dreadful. You took one bite and wanted to yell for help.

But all the exclamations were silenced by a deadly look from the father. That man was a great actor. He waded through a whole stack of that awful mess with an expression of gusto and enjoyment.

At the end the proud little girl tasted one of her cakes herself. A look of dismay came into her face. I saw her eyes flash to her father's empty plate. Then she flung herself sobbing into his arms.

All of which illustrates the difference between a gentleman and a cur.

Eskimo Etiquette

EVERY nation has its own ideas of etiquette; and I don't know that one is any better than another.

A writer quoted in The Living Age tells how the Eskimo ladies cook seal meat.

"It tasted good," he said. "But the cooking was not appetizing. The women sit close to the fire and chew blubber which they spit into the kettles while the meat is cooking to prevent the formation of steam in the room."

A Refined Champ

THEY will never be able to make of Jack Dempsey a great national hero like some of the champs of the past.

Jack is trying to be a nice boy and make himself worthy of some nice girl or something of the kind—whatever it is that they want to be nice boys for. From Grace Kingsley's column I learn that all the nice girls in Hollywood are trying to correct his grammar and tell him what books to read for the benefit of his character.

This is beautiful and sweet, but disappointing. I want champs who eat them alive and spit out the pieces.

John L. was the boy.

I remember, years ago, that he appeared in a melodrama down at the old Hazzard's Pavilion, where the Auditorium now stands.

The afternoon of the performance one of the evening papers had printed a story about John having dallied too fervidly with the flowing bowl. He was terribly sore. Right in the middle of the piece he left the lovely heroine flat and came down to the footlights.

"Ladies an' gents," he bellowed er. "One of these here Los Angeles newspapers says I was drunk last night." Here John L. paused and glared; then thought better of it and added hastily, but belligerently, "Well, I bin drunk a lot of times and it didn't cost no Los Angeles newspaper nothing, neither."

The Wrong Saddle

THE question of realism in pictures has been raised again by Victor Seastrom, the famous Swedish director.

Mr. Seastrom says he has no intention of finding out what kind of shoe laces they wear in Moscow preparatory to making a screen version of "He Who Gets Slapped."

There is something to be said on the other side, however.

It let me down with a ghastly bump the other night at D. W. Griffith's "America" when I saw one of the horses in a revolutionary war scene with a McClellan saddle. It was a little thing, but it yanked you right out of the illusion.

The Woman Question

THE woman question is becoming acute in Europe.

Helen Frazier, who was a Liberal candidate for Parliament in 1923, says the husband famine is one of the terrific problems of England.

There are 2,000,000 more women than men there. The flappers are all right. Boys of their own age are growing up since the war to marry them. The bereft and unappreciated blessings are the women now slipping sadly in the thirties who were young girls when the war broke out.

Their case is really tragic. We complacently wave them with a benevolent gesture into the professions or into housemaid work.

But the professions are crowded to suffocation. And housework is not a job that everyone can do. This world, for either men or women, is getting to be a tough place to get along in.

The Prince's Wooing

THERE is about as much privacy to the Prince of Wales's wooing as to Irvin Cobb's famous goldfish. He has to do it before all the folks. His love affairs are all of the ready-to-wear variety.

The latest devotion thus paraded is with the lovely little Italian Princess, Mafalda. She seems to be the one the Labor party has picked. If the government changes in England, no doubt the next party will have the Prince dutifully making love to a royal young lady from Denmark or Sweden or somewhere.

There would seem to be strong reasons why Italy and England should be joined by this marriage.

It will be England's answer to a belligerent France. In future wars France will have to depend upon black troops from Africa. And if Italy has submarines it will not be easy to bring black troops across the Mediterranean.

In the World War it has always been understood that England whipped Italy into line with the Allies by taking advantage of her shortage of coal. Another time, with Italy's great strides toward hydroelectrical development, there will be no such whip available.

Altogether I guess the Prince had better marry the Princess.

The Sleeping Sickness

THE sleeping sickness which threatens to ravage Europe is one of the curses for which we have to thank the French Spahi troops.

During the war a German army surgeon told me all these things were absolutely sure to happen. He predicted the flu epidemic and this sleeping sickness.

Years before he had been a surgeon with Henry M. Stanley's expedition into Africa trying to find Dr. Livingston. At that time he made a study of African diseases.

He said that the German government was so alarmed over the danger of this infection being brought to the trenches by the African native troops that he had no other duties than to travel from one end of the battle line to the other looking for symptoms.

His idea was that we would suffer much more severely from these diseases than the Africans themselves, their systems having become experienced in the struggle.

Incidentally he told me that Stanley was the most ruthlessly selfish and inconsiderate man he had ever met.

HARRY CARR.

TO HIS OLD HOME TOWN

If you stood on Main street, Northampton, in front of the Draper House (the spot of maximum passers-by) and asked everybody in the course of a morning what he or she thought of Calvin Coolidge you would get a collection of answers something like this:

"Don't know him. Seen him, of course. Voted for him. Good man. Queer duck."

"Don't know him. Heard him speak once. Great reading his speeches are. He helped my father once out of some law trouble and wouldn't take a cent."

"Know him just to say 'Hello.' How he says so little I don't see, but he does his job."

But if you had gone there and asked the same questions four or six years ago you would have received essentially the same replies with essentially the same enthusiasm, on the other hand, and lack of it on the other.—[W. L. Stoddard in Outlook.

VOTE OF WOMEN INCREASES

Chairman of Federation Citizenship Department Says Campaign Shows Fine Results

"We have cause to feel especially encouraged over the increase in the number of women voting, over the wonderful response in regard to the naturalization courts and the attitude of our women toward the newly naturalized citizens; indeed, all along the line I can report progress," is the statement made by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, chairman of the department of American citizenship of the General Federation of Women's Clubs whose biennial starts here tomorrow.

A letter was recently sent out by Mrs. Pennybacker to all the State chairmen of the department of American citizenship which clearly sets forth the work undertaken by her department. In it she says:

"Each woman should form an intelligent, individual opinion as to public matters; should attend precinct meetings and primaries, thus helping to shape policies and to secure desirable candidates; should cast an intelligent, conscientious vote.

WORK IN COMMUNITY

"Each club should have at least two members present when the naturalization court is called and should discuss the new immigration law.

"Each club should put 'unity into community.'

"Our duty to the ex-service men means that we must know the condition of every man represented by a star on our service flag and stand his friend in peace as we did in war; we must leave no disabled man unconnected with his home town; we must further the interests of the man who is still in the service; we must aid the American Legion to uphold brotherhood, impartial justice and equal opportunity.

FOR CLEAN PICTURES

"It is our duty to work for clean, recreational motion pictures.

"Above all else, we must work for the coming of lasting peace."

Mrs. Pennybacker will bring to her program on the 12th inst. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Mrs. William A. Alvord of Detroit, chairman of the division of citizenship training; Mrs. J. C. Person of Marshall, Okla., chairman of the division of community service and committee on friendly co-operation with ex-service men, and Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Poole will speak on "What My Citizenship Means to Me."

INFORMATION COMMITTEE IS READY TO REPLY TO QUERIES OF CONVENTION'S DELEGATES

The Information Committee is ready.

Headed by Mrs. Charles Hutchinson of Glendale, the seventy-five members are prepared to answer every question concerning Los Angeles and the entire State that any visiting delegate to the biennial convention may conjure up.

For several months Mrs. Hutchinson has been conducting a school of instruction for the committee. Classes have been held in the Bank of Italy Building and each member has been schooled thoroughly in answering questions and disseminating information.

"We are prepared to answer any question asked, be it about the city, State, climate, brightness of the California moon, depth of the ocean, methods of subdividers or the salaries of motion-picture stars of Hollywood," Mrs. Hutchinson declared.

In obtaining the necessary information about the city and State the committee was aided by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, Barker Brothers, and various civic organizations. Information booths will be established at the Biltmore and the Philharmonic Auditorium and will be in charge of trained workers. The members of the committee will work in three reliefs with from six to ten always on duty during the day and evening.

The motto of the committee is "Service, Courtesy and Correct Information."

Visitors will be informed thoroughly about the State of California and the city of Los Angeles, members of the committee say.

Murder Theory Is Dismissed in Mystery Death

Investigation of the mysterious death of Allan C. Keith, 55 years of age, who died Thursday at Westlake Hospital, was ended yesterday following the statement of County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner that the man died of heart disease.

Foul play had been hinted when it was learned that Keith had been carried semiconscious to a paint-shop of his brother, Carl, the 3rd inst., by two unidentified men. Keith was suffering from concussion of the brain when he was taken to Receiving Hospital.

Assistant Captain of Detectives Cline said Keith probably was hurt in an automobile accident and the two strangers carried him to his home. No inquest will be conducted, Cline said.

WOMEN FIGURE AT CONVENTION

Democratic Session to See More Than Ever

Their Votes to Have Equal Weight With Men

Fashion Show to Inaugurate New York Gathering

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Women will have a larger part in the proceedings of the Democratic National Convention at New York next month than in any national political convention in the history of the nation, according to reports received at the Democratic National Committee headquarters here.

That the number of women to attend as delegates will not be even greater is the fault of the women themselves and not due to the lack of opportunity afforded them by the party organization, according to Mrs. Emily Newell Blaire, national committeewoman from Missouri and vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

There should be many more women delegates, Democratic women leaders do not hesitate to say, but they point out a steady increase over preceding Democratic conventions and with gratification the fact that the number of women at Democratic conventions is always in excess of the number participating in Republican national conventions.

In 1920 at San Francisco there were ninety-six women delegates as against twenty-seven at the Republican in Chicago. This year with seventeen States to be heard from 120 women delegates and 231 alternates have been listed at Democratic Committee headquarters as compared to 102 women delegates and 200 alternates reported to Republican National Committee headquarters with only eight States unaccounted for.

PREDICT 500 WOMEN

It is predicted at headquarters that in the Democratic national convention there will be more than 500 women delegates and alternates.

Furthermore, no efforts are to be spared at New York to arouse women to a pitch of interest, if not excitement, calculated materially to increase their representation in the next and all succeeding national conventions.

Out of sixty-two delegates from Illinois, only three will be women this year, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbanks, Mrs. Anna L. Smith and Mrs. Sarah Bond Hanley, only nine in the New York delegation of ninety-four will be women; Georgia, which has doubled its delegation of twenty-eight to elect fifty-six delegates with half a vote each has only fourteen women, while Delaware with a total of ten has elected four women delegates. Connecticut, entitled to fourteen votes in the convention, mysteriously has elected twenty delegates including five women and given each of the twenty seven-tenths of a vote each; Arkansas will have twenty-two delegates of whom four will be women and Missouri will have eleven women out of a total of forty delegates.

But women will be in evidence at the New York convention as never before and officially and unofficially the feminine touch will be apparent to the most casual beholder.

FASHION SHOW

For the first time in American political history the program of a national convention will start with a fashion show.

Staged by Miss Elizabeth Marbury of New York, with whom the theater is a business and politics a pastime, and who has enlisted the aid of every musical revue chorus girl in New York, the fashion show which will be given on the night preceding the opening of the convention is certain of a record-breaking attendance by no means exclusively feminine.

Irving Berlin is writing for Miss Marbury a convention song which she promises will rival "The Sidewalks of New York," and other features are being worked out to make of the week, or weeks, of the Democratic convention a period likely to dwell in the memory of every man and woman present.

Miss Marbury also heads a large committee made up of active and prominent New York women, any one of whom at any time will be ready to act as guide, philosopher and friend to any inquiring woman delegate committeewoman, or visitor, whether she desires to go shopping, visit a jail (if a prison reformer at home,) or an art gallery; or to hunt out the best barber shop for a shingle bob.

Two women, Mrs. Blair and Mrs. D. A. McDougal, national committeewomen from Oklahoma, are on the preconvention arrangements committee, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York is chairman of a woman's advisory committee to pass upon planks offered by women's organizations on social and welfare legislation, to be incorporated in the national party platform. Serving on Mrs. Roosevelt's committee are Miss Jane Addams and Miss Mary McDowell, Chicago; Miss Josephine Goldmark, Mrs. Henry Margenthau, Miss Lillian Wald, and Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, New York; Miss Caroline Ruuts Rees, Connecticut, Mrs. Percey V. Pennybacker of Texas, and Dr. M. Carey Thomas of Bryn Mawn.

FIFTY-FIFTY RULE

All of the fifty-four national committee women will be in New York and will have seats on the platform unless they are delegates and wish to sit with their State delegations. The committee women, headed by Mrs. Blair, will be the official group of Democratic women at the convention representing the national organization of the party.

Democratic national committee women are on a basis of complete equality with national committeemen, the fifty-fifty rule having been adopted by the national committee. Women delegates in the convention will have equal voting power with the men delegates in their respective groups though whether a full vote or not will depend on whether the delegation has been doubled, as in the case of delegation-at-large, to include women and in the case of certain other States to include a larger number of delegates whether men or women with half a vote each or otherwise increased as in Connecticut.

The system of electing delegates-at-large to the Democratic convention, so far as it affects the relative voting strength of men and women, is explained in a statement recently issued by Mrs. Blair as follows:

"The mistaken assertion has been made by some partisan Republicans that the women delegates to the Democratic national convention will have only a half vote whereas the Republican women delegates will have full votes.

"The basis of the mistake lies in the fact that the Democratic national committee in order to provide places for women among the delegates-at-large, without disturbing party custom, recommended to the States that these delegations be increased from four to eight members with one half vote each, the extra four members to be women. While it is true that these four women have only a half vote each the four men on the delegations-at-large also have only a half vote each—so the voting strength of all the delegates-at-large, whether men or women, is equal."

The Democratic National Committee provided that States were not to elect half-vote or quarter-vote delegates except in the case of delegations-at-large. This recommendation has been disregarded by a number of States and the number of district delegates from such States variously increased. There will be a total of 1098 full votes in the Democratic convention however large may be the number of delegates elected thereto, with 732 votes necessary to nominate.

IDOL OF MARINE CORPS ENDS FIGHTING CAREER

Maj.-Gen. Pendleton, for Forty-two Years in Service, Bids Men Good-by on June 2

BY STUART N. LAKE

SAN DIEGO, May 31.—With some three dozen major-gen- rals on the combined rosters of the United States Army and arine Corps small notice is apt to be taken when one of the anking officers celebrates the sixty-fourth anniversary of his irth and by law is retired from active duty. The Secretary of War or Secretary of Navy issues the necessary order with a few ords of commendation, the President may send a personal ote and announcement of the proceedings is given to the press.

Customarily there is formal ob- rvance of the day at the post here the major-general is sta- ned. Troops pass in review, a nd plays and with hands that y fumble slightly the gray- ired veteran hauls down the o-starred pennant which has wn to signify that here he igned supreme. Companies that ve stood at rigid attention are missed. Sharp commands, the shing rattle of ejector bolts mmed home in a thousand les, the boom of a thousand gun its against the foot-packed th shatter the strained hush of lemnity. Younger officers, hon- tly hating to have the Old Man but seeing at last a step up- rd in the slow process of peace- ne promotion, pay their formal ewells and the major-general y take himself off.

Suddenly his eyes light, his lips mble with a smile and he steps ward to be alone.

OLD MAN THRILLED

From the enlisted men's bar- cks across the parade a half- en figures are approaching. eir uniforms brushed and sed to immaculate perfection, ts and shoes repolished in the erval since review, caps at that kish, regulation angle which y the seasoned regular may hieve, sleeves serried with chev- s, stripes and markings of war- t rank and service, they are as re of shoulder, keen of eye, atherbeaten of countenance and y whit as dignified as the maj- general.

The six enlisted men halt, right ns snapping in unison to a sa- e that thrills the Old Man's rt with pride. From the right the line a regimental sergeant- jor advances one pace. Possibly is a mite grayer than his com- nions and perhaps he has one re stripe on his arm; but, in mon with them, he wears on his left breast the rows of ored ribbons which match the r-general's own.

"ir," the sergeant-major be- s but must clear his throat and t anew. "Sir, if the general ses"—he'll stick to regulation mality if it kills him—"if the eral pleases, we'd like to shake s hand."

"ergeant—Mac—" The Old n's voice falters. "I knew you dn't forget. Mac— old friend anson, Martin, Schwartz, La- , Kelly— let's drop the gen- l stuff! We've soldiered to- ered too long.

"ay, Kelly, you remember the I took over my first com- d; you came on as an or- y. That was back in Washing- . And you, Mac, when you d me from eternal disgrace by ling the quartermaster's mules all us out of the Mindanao . The next day, old Sergt. r shot a Moro through the just as he was about to me in two with his kris—"

BRAVE ACTS RECALLED

"And say, General," Lafitte ks in, "remember the night an Francisco when you took nson and me away from the that was holding us for the ost guard? We were A. W. L. You were only a shave- then but you sneaked us into barracks and doctored the any books to cover us. And night—"

e waiting officers give up and away. As they pass the r-general's automobile one em thinks to warn the chauf- .

"e Old Man—the General, I —will not be along for some . He's fighting his battles with his sergeants."

The Adjutant-General of Marine Corps will note a va- y on the list of major-gen- and announce that Joseph Pendleton, who on Octo- 1, 1878 entered the Naval my at Annapolis from his lace in Rochester, Pa., eached the age of 64 and has retired. Someone, no doubt, add that the corps is losing le officer, a diplomatist and ciplinarian of demonstrated y.

TRAVERSED GLOBE

He ught his way through the murk of South Sea jungles raved for months on end the cold of farthest North. He enforced the rigorous disci- of military prisons and on -four hours' notice left a New England village to a handful of followers an equatorial wilderness a well-nigh impregnable from an army of half- evolutionists.

TALKED MAN-TO-MAN

No matter what his trouble, the Marine who could tell it to Uncle Joe got friendly, comforting advice and material assistance if need be. There is many a foster-nephew who treasures a personal letter that might shock the Washington martinets grievously. Most of these were received from Gen. Pendleton in times of sorrow; many of these were of condolence; others are bits of sympathetic advice. None is couched in that stilted "From: To: Subject:" manner which is ordered for Marine Corps communications. They read as from one man, one friend to another and conclude: "Yours truly Uncle Joe."

Maj.-Gen. Pendleton's record reads like a page from a gazetteer. Nicaragua, Alaska, Cuba, Mexico, the Philippines, Porto Rico, Guam, Hawaii, Samoa, San Francisco, Bremerton, Boston, Portsmouth, San Diego, Newport News, Santo Domingo, Paris Island, Constantinople, Algiers, Tunis, Port Said, Brooklyn—he's been to the ports of the world between and back again with credit to his country and credit to his corps. He has served as lowest in command on a rickety, iron-clad gunboat, been the governing head of a new-born republic, practiced suave, far-seeing diplomacy and labored as Chief of Police for a nation of voodoo-crazed savages.

HYMN OF MARINES

From the Halls of Montezuma
To the shores of Tripoli,
We fight our country's battles
On the land and on the sea.

So runs the hymn of the United States Marine Corps, the saga of the Leathernecks. And Maj.-Gen. Pendleton is thought to be the only individual in our history whose name has been interpolated in the song. Official Washington, one may be sure, had nothing to do with the change, but when Uncle Joe's nephews voice their hymn, they add:

The Marines in Nicaragua
Were the boys to fill the bill,
And Uncle Joe he was the lad
Took Coyotepe Hill.

Gen. Pendleton was a colonel when he won his way into the song of his men. Nicaragua was split by revolution, with one-half the nation arrayed against the other and a lot of American officials and interests in between getting shot at. Col. Pendleton was ordered to take 2000 marines and clean up the mess. He landed in Nicaragua to find what was called the rebel army occupying Coyotepe Hill, a mountain position which he was assured was impregnable, and from which the revolutionists were raining lead on the surrounding country.

SWEPT UP HILL

"The only way to subdue an impregnable position is to take it," Col. Pendleton observed and the next morning, October 4, 1921, he led his loyal Lethernecks for the peak of Coyotepe. The climb was almost straight upward, along slopes that either were matted jungles of tropical undergrowth or bared to the fire of machine guns, over earthworks and barbed-wire entanglements that were surmounted in an incessant hail of bullets. From base to summit Col. Pendleton never halted until he clambered over the topmost redoubt and watched the last of Coyotepe's terrified defenders fleeing down the far slope of the mountain.

In the spring of 1916, to use the marine vernacular, "hell popped" in Santo Domingo and the United States ordered Col. Pendleton to take the customary 2000 men to the Pearl of the Caribbeans to quell an outburst of voodooism, rebellion, wholesale massacre and retaliation. Thirty days after he received the order Col. Pendleton marched into Santiago, Santo Domingo, and received the surrender of the troublemakers.

But, the Dominican Republic, as it now was called, was far from a stable proposition. So, in an ex-officio capacity, Uncle Joe adopted it. The United States promoted him to brigadier-general and for six months Gen. Pendleton was acting Governor of the newly constituted nation. To help out the Dominicans, who trusted him implicity, the general undertook the duties of Secretary of War and Navy—although he couldn't find any boats; assumed the porfolio of Secretary of Interior, served as Secretary of Police and on the side solved problems of agriculture, commerce and labor.

CAME TO SAN DIEGO

While his corps was winning glory on the battlefields of France, Gen. Pendleton was held to the irksome task of calming down his island republic. Then he was ordered back to San Diego, where he was promoted to Major-General, placed in command of the Fifth Brigade and Second Advanced Base Force of the United States Marines and given full charge of the $5,000,000 Marine Corps training station for the construction and scheme of which he largely was responsible. It was at his San Diego station that Maj. Gen. Pendleton chose to celebrate his sixty-fourth anniversary and to haul down his two-starred flag.

A grizzled sergeant who has served under Gen. Pendleton since the latter was a captain has given the enlisted man's reason why Gen. Pendleton is Uncle Joe.

"He's loyal to his men," the sergeant said. "He gives them all credit for being human and able to think. The General handpicks his staff, tells them what he wants and statnds by them as long as they play square. That goes for everyone from chief-of-staff to orderly.

"I was on duty outside his headquarters in Santo Domingo when a beet-faced colonel rushed in to kick about some order. The colonel swore like a pirate but the old man never said a word until he was through. Then he asked:

" 'Colonel, who gave you that order?'

" 'Your Sergeant Major,' snaps the colonel without bothering to tack on the sir.

" 'Then,' says Uncle Joe, as sweet as you please, 'that's my order. Good morning.' "

WIFE IS "AUNT MARY"

If there is one person who takes a greater interest than Gen. Pendleton in the welfare of his men and who shares with him the affection which all good marines, active and retired, have for Uncle Joe, it is the general's wife, who was Mary Fay of Annapolis when she married Lieut. Pendleton, then but two months out of the Naval academy.

"When a girl marries a man in the Army or Navy," Mrs. Pendleton has been known to counsel younger women, "she ought to share his lot. I've always gone where Joe was ordered. New York or San Francisco may be preferable to Olongapo or some other outlandish place on the borders of civilization, but I always have made a home for my husband even if I have moved it a dozen times around the world."

And so, the 100,000 foster-nephews refer to Uncle Joe's wife as Aunt Mary. Some inkling of the regard in which they hold her may be gleaned from an incident of the World War, at the time when Edgar, son of the Pendleton household, enlisted as a private of Marines.

Edgar made his first appearance as a Leatherneck in a recruit line at Paris Island. A few minutes later a sergeant who had dandled the Pendleton children on his knee in the shade of Cavite palms and taken them coasting in Sitka stuck his head in the door of the recruit detachment headquarters.

"Hey, Major," he called, forgetting all about formality, "who do you think is out there with a mess kit in his hand?"

"I don't know, sergeant," the astounded major replied. "Who is it?"

"Aunt Mary's boy Edgar," the sergeant shouted. "The kid has joined up!"

The enduring mark of Maj.-Gen. Pendleton upon the United States Marine is without doubt the famous—or infamous—Uncle Joe haircut.

HAIR-CUT DEFINED

"Not more than one inch long on top; proportionately shorter at sides and back," is the order which has shorn cherished adornment from the heads of colonels and recruits. Woe betide the officer or man who has deviated from the rule within the range of the Pendleton eye.

As a conclusive commentary upon the career of Maj.-Gen. Pendleton there may be cited another distinction which is his and which is believed to be unique. Once established in civilian life he plans to devote his entire attention to the last job which has come his way, commander of the San Diego Post of the American Legion. Pendleton was elected to this position by acclamation. For those who sense the attitude toward major generals as a class taken by most men who have soldiered as junior officers or in the ranks, this tribute cannot be improved upon. And, it might be added, Uncle Joe Pendleton is believed to be the only major general of anything who ever has been promoted by acclamation to command a post of the American Legion.

Maxfield Will Attend Traffic Rules Meeting

Los Angeles will be represented at a national conference on street and highway safety which was called by Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, by John D. Maxfield, manager of the safety and fire prevention department of the Chamber of Commrece.

Delegates have been chosen from all of the larger cities in the United States, as well as a representative acquainted with State laws in each State. The various laws will be discussed and an effort will be made to bring about a standardization of rules which will make all traffic regulations applicable to every district.

Secretary Hoover announces that the national conference will probably be held in Washington, D. C., next fall and has requested Mr. Maxfield to be prepared to supply statistics and other data on traffic conditions in Los Angeles.

CITY HEALTH HEADS PLAN FOR DISPLAY

Food Show Booths to be Used for Exhibits Giving Hints on Sanitation

One of the interesting features of the first annual pure food show which will be held in the Armory at Exposition Park June 14 to 22, inclusive, will be the exhibit maintained by the Department of Health of the city of Los Angeles under the direction of Dr. L. M. Powers.

It will require approximately ten booths to carry the Health Department's exhibit, which will demonstrate just what methods this city is using in its efforts to maintain a high standard of health. One of the booths will show a model meat market, how meats should be displayed to the public under the most sanitary conditions. Another will havt a model dairy. A third booth will be devoted to child welfare. A fourth will be a model fruit and vegetable market. Health Department attaches will be on hand to answer questions.

Boy Scouts under E. B. De Groot will have an interesting exhibit. Camp Fire Girls are planning to co-operase, with a display in which the central idea will be to demonstrate their knowledge of the culinary art.

A corps of 200 demonstrators will be busy in the various exhibits showing the advancement of Los Angeles from a food-producing standpoint.

The decorative plan will use golden poppies by the thousands. There is no top to the Armory exhibition hall, which makes it possible to construct a canopy of flowers and lights, giving a garden effect and a pretty setting.

The entertainment program will include a band, an orchestra and special attractions. Among these will be the Lions Club double quartet under the leadership of Frederick North.

Noted home economic experts will have part in the program, these including the representatives of the daily newspapers, all of whom have been invited to participate in the demonstrations and lectures. Health talks and food talks will be given by other distinguished lecturers.

The food show cooking school is to be under direction of Mrs. Martha G. Heath and she will be assisted by girls of the domestic science classes of the various schools.

CLUB PLANS PROGRESS

Architect in East for Ideas to Use On New Building

Edwin Bergstrom, architect of the new Commercial Club of Southern California, is in New York where he will obtain ideas from the newest club buildings of that and other eastern cities to be inculcated in the Los Angeles club.

J. Ward Cohen announced that the plans will be completed in sufficient time to start construction within the next ninety days.

The membership campaign is progressing satisfactorily and pioneer memberships will be closed on the 12th inst., after which the fees will be raised. Cohen announced the new club will exercise an option on a 180-acre golf site shortly and that arrangements are under way for club affiliation with a local club pending the period the Commercial Club's course is being constructed.

UNIVERSITY EXERCISES OVER RADIO

Southern California Will Send Out Commencement Program to Alumni

Alumni of the University of Southern California in all parts of the United States and some in foreign countries will attend the annual commencement reunion to be held at the Alma Mater the 15th inst. when the alumni reunion program will be broadcast by radio.

This will be one of the unique features of the reunion which is expected to be attended by 1000 members and by the graduating class, which will be the largest in the history of the university.

This commencement will be a year of innovations. The principal exercises will be held in the Coliseum for the first time and will be "on the air" for the first time.

The banquet will be held in the gymnasium building on the campus and the program will be given in Bovard Auditorium of the administration building. Dr. R. B. Von KleinSmid, president, will have returned from his eastern tour for the commencement exercises and will be a guest of honor.

Harold J. Stonier, executive secretary, who is an alumnae of the university, has been engaged in organizing the alumni in many cities and in arrangements for the reunion.

Alumni clubs in the following cities will listen in on the program: New York, Boston, Chicago, Bakersfield, Fresno, Glendale, Long Beach, Monrovia, Orange county, Pasadena, San Diego, Santa Monica, Ventura and San Pedro.

CITY MUST MEET SCHOOL CRISIS BY VOTING BONDS

Inadequacy Imperiling Education; Thousands of Pupils Suffer; Tax Jump Fear Unfounded

A few weeks ago a parade of 20,000 boys filled the downtown streets of Los Angeles. They were crowded from curb to curb, and marching steadily, took more than an hour to pass a given point. That astounding number represents precisely the number of school children who are denied a full day's class and must be content with a half-day session. Add 10,000 to that figure and it represents the increase in the school population during the past year.

Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, Superintendent of Schools, has used these figures in bringing home to the public the necessity for the success of the school bonds in the election Tuesday.

No other large city in the history of the nation has seen the remarable and unprecedented growth in population, in wealth and in resources as has Los Angeles within the past four years. With other things there has been the growth of responsibility, and the greatest of these is providing for the education of the city's children.

At the present time classes are being assembled in tents that have the advantage of plenty of air, along with noise, dust, smoke wind and rain. Insanitary, low-ceilinged rooms, with artificial light, with stoves and sinks next to the desks, have been brought into use, for lack of better places. The Board of Education still is utilizing old, shaky wooden buildings put up during the past century, because the space is needed. Bungalows that were built several years ago for temporary usage, still are filled with children, because the opportunity never has has arisen to dispense with them.

In good weather some classes carry their little chairs to the roof recite their lessons. When it rains the end of a corridor is used. In nearly every school pupils wait in line to take the places of others in classrooms.

There is hardly a class in the city which does not contain more than the thirty-five pupils permitted by law.

The success of the school bonds is the only way in which to provide adequate rooms and equipment for the schools. Prominent citizens and civic organizations, by the hundreds, have urged the voters to turn out next Tuesday and vote for the school bonds, because a two-thirds majority is necessary for their success.

ECONOMY SHOWN

Economy and expedition have been employed in the building program of the public schools. Comparison of buildings, of the same seating capacity, in eastern cities and in Los Angeles shows a tremendous advantage for the Board of Education of this city. High schools in Los Angeles have been built for one-half, and sometimes one-third, of the cost of buildings in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Michigan and Ohio.

The extraordinary expansion of the city, particularly in the suburbs, has presented an unusual problem to school authorities. Continually new townsites have sprung up, with hundreds of children in them. The first step has been to transport the children miles to the nearest school. When that is filled up stores, churches and houses are used. Then the Board of Education buys land and sets up a school comprised entirely of tents and bungalows. From the bonds money will be used to construct permanent buildings on these sites.

The rise in land values has increased the difficulties of the board. Without large sums, immediately available, it is forced to see probable school sites subdivided and sold. Then, when the money's obtained, the site must be purchased parcel by parcel, or by condemnation, a long, expensive and unpleasant procedure.

The carrying of the bonds will not endanger the bonding capacity of the city. The school districts are much larger than the city itself and are different legal entities. The bonds of June 3, added to the present bonded indebtedness, still leaves an untouched margin of more than $40,000,000 under the maximum legal bonded indebtedness of the school districts.

ODELL TELLS NEED

Concerning the situation, Robert A. Odell, president of the Board of Education, said:

"It is with great pride in the civic and patriotic spirit of our city that we point to our new school buildings and daily hear commendation from visitors and residents. Yet we are confronted with the serious fact that our building activities must stop, and we have done little more than keep pace with the increase.

"There is no other way to meet the situation than through the proposed bond issue to be voted on at the election June 3. The money from these bonds can be expended only for land, buildings and equipment. These bonds are not limited to the city proper but cover the entire school district, which is much more extensive than the city—in the elementary 650 square miles, and in the city high school 960 square miles. They mature over a period of forty years and do not bear interest until sold—ond are sold only as the work of building and buying land and equipment progresses.

"Nor should any alarm be felt that the burden of the taxpayers is being increased. Our tax rate for this year was only 3 cents higher than the year before. It would not have been any higher were it not for the fact that there is included in our budget some $2,000,000 more for building purposes and certain additional amounts to provide for omissions of the year before. The present tax rate at 1.63 is lower than in the year 1920-21, which was 1.65. Los Angeles is one of the two cities in the country having the lowest actual tax rate of any city of more than 500,000 population.

VALUATION GREATER

"It seemed obvious to the school authorities that the tremendous increase in the population and building activities in Los Angeles would produce increased value, and it was merely a matter of anticipating the situation. The result has been that the increased assessed valuation of the Los Angeles High School district in 1923 over the previous year was $328,-518,330. This is fixed by the State Board of Equalization, and to give an adequate idea of the proportion, it may be remarked that the gain in San Francisco, county, which is second in the State, was $24,770,730 for the same period.

"The bond limit being 5 per cent on the assessed valuation for each district shows that we have at present a bonding capacity of more than $108,000,000, which will be proportionately increased this year, for the two districts, whereas our outstanding bond indebtedness does not exceed $32,000,00 for both districts.

"I feel also that a word should be said as to the division of the proposed bond issue as between the elementary schools and the high schools. Under the State law all junior high schools are financed from high school funds, which means that all junior high schools must be built out of high school bond money.

"Inasmuch as 70 per cent of the children who will attend junior high schools are from the seventh and eighth grades of the elementary schools, 70 per cent of the amount provided for in the high school bond issue will be for the accommodation of elementary children.

DIVISION PROCESS

"Stated in another way, if we regard that portion of high school bonds which will take care of the grades up to the eighth as being elementary for our purposes, the division of the proposed bond issue in reality might be stated in another way: To provide for the elementary grades to and including the eighth, $22,675,620; to provide for what was formerly the four senior high school grades, $11,964,380.

And we should bear in mind that statistics show a very remarkable increase the country over for secondary education, a most hopeful sign.

"The question is: Shall we endeavor to keep up with the growth, anticipating our increases not only in enrollment but in assessed valuation and ability, and endeavor to judge our problem accurately and solve it wisely, or shall we find ourselves hopelessly on half-day sessions and crippled for all time?

"Los Angeles will keep pace educationally. She has responded always nobly and generously to the needs of her children and she will not fail at this time.

PLAYGROUND OPPOSED

Point Firmin Property Owners Declare Cost Excessive

The proposed Cabrillo Beach municipal playground at Point Firmin, Los Angeles Harbor, was opposed in a petition to the Council received at the City Hall yesterday from the Point Firmin Property Owners' Protective Association, the members of which include H. J. Pinney, E. D. Seward and Charles A. Baskerville. The protesting property owners declare that the cost of the proposed city beach playground will be excessive and that it will be inaccessible to a large number of residents of the district. The petition set forth that the construction of a 1400-foot rock jetty to inclose the bathing beach will be required at a cost of $120,000 and that the expense of filling and reclaiming the land for the beach will be at least $86,000.

To Commemorate Cartier

To commemorate the landing of Jacques Cartier on Canadian soil in 1543, and also a vow made by Maissonneuve, founder of Montreal, in 1643, when he carried a wooden cross to the mountain top, a 100-foot reinforced concrete cross, to be illuminated at night, will be erected on Mt. Royal in Montreal. The St. Jean Baptiste Society is in charge of the plans. Maissonneuve's vow was to carry the wooden cross to the top of Mt. Royal as a sacrifice to Deity when floods were threatening the community. The floods abated.

CIVIC NEED FOR MUSIC FUND TOLD

Interest of Citizens in Move Cited in Appeal for Federation Endowment

With every indication that the citizens as a whole are aroused to the importance of music in the civic life of the city and that business men all over the city are interested in the promotion and perpetuity of a music clearinghouse or federation of all music interests and activities in the city, John R. Mott, one of the directors of the Los Angeles Music Federation, told the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and specially invited representatives of industrial concerns at a big meeting yesterday of the necessity for raising a fund of at least $25,000 for the functioning of the federation, which now numbers forty-six big member organizations.

Letters of indorsement from the following civic organizations and clubs were read and filed: Advertising Club, All-Year Club, Board of Education, Board of Supervisors, Chamber of Commerce, Los Angeles Church Federation, the City Club, Community Development Association, Founders and Employers' Association, General Federation of Clubs, Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, Hotel Men's Association, Kiwanis Club, Lions' Club, Los Angeles Clearinghouse Association, Masonic Club, Merchants' and Manufacturers' association, National Federation of Music Clubs, Optimists' Club, Los Angeles Realty Board, Rotary Club, Uplifters' Club and Women's Advertising Club, various music houses and prominent individuals all over Southern California.

The Chamber of Commerce reported its subscription of $3000 plus free office space, telephone and office service, with an offer of use of lecture or committee rooms for conferences.

Beginning tomorrow the federation will give a band concert in Pershing Square every night until and including June 13, in honor of the biennial conclave of women's clubs. The following bands have been selected to play: Los Angeles Mexican Band, Southern California Edison, Boy Scouts, Los Angeles Gas and Electric, Dr. E. M. Hiner's special band, Crescent Creamery and Harold Roberts Golden State Band. A few dates have been left for additional selections.

At Lincoln Park today at 2 p.m., Parkers' Great American Band will present a program selected by the residents of the Lincoln Park district, who have demanded of the music federation music of the highest class at each concert.

Jaunt to Harbor Is Arranged for Junior Chamber

The first of a series of "industrial expeditions" which have been arranged for the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in order that they may become fully acquainted with local commercial conditions will be staged next Saturday afternoon.

Howard Miller, secretary of the Junior Chamber announced yesterday that details of a trip to Los Angeles Harbor had been completed and the 100 members of the organization would be taken through every channel of the port in a chartered boat. The members will leave for the harbor in a special train from the Pacific Electric depot and upon arrival at Wilmington will inspect piers and warehouses and watch the unloading of ships.

They will be escorted to a motor boat and spend two hours in traveling about the waterways of the harbor. City officials, members of the harbor commission and others acquainted with harbor development plans will escort the party and explain the moves contemplated for the growth of the port.

OIL BARGE LAUNCHING MAKES LOCAL RECORD

A steel oil barge with a 3600-barrel capacity was launched Decoration Day at the plant of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation for the Standard Oil Company of California. The barge was constructed from keel laying to delivery in forty-eight days which is a local record for this type of construction. The barge will be used for harbor transportation of petroleum products.

More than 77,000 square miles of Dutch New Guinea are to be opened for colonization and development of natural resources.

CHARITY BOARD TO OPEN SURVEY

Mental Deficients of State to be Examined

Legislature May be Asked for Appropriation

School for Feeble-Minded Will be Doubled

Following a two-day session here of the monthly meeting of the State Board of Charities and Corrections it was announced yesterday that arrangements have been completed for a comprehensive survey of the conditions of mental deficients throughout the State with a view to arriving at a solution for their needs which has become imperative because of the present unfilled applications of 2000 unfortunates for admission to the State School for Feeble-Minded in Sonoma.

The board turned the survey over to Mrs. Amy S. Braden, executive secretary of the board, and the work will begin immediately. According to the board the study will be carried on in each county where names of applicants now waiting for admission are found and an attempt will be made to establish the most modern method for caring for the needs of the deficient. It was suggested that legislative appropriation might be obtained at the next session for additional funds to assist in the work.

TO DOUBLE SCHOOL

The State now maintains quarters for aproximately 1300 at the Sonoma school and it is planned to double this capacity. Plans are also being considered to place deficients in group colonies in nearby cities under the supervision of a matron.

Architects' drawings for the new $150,000 receiving hospital at the Mendocino State Hospital were approved by the board. Foundations for the building have already been started. The institution is a curative hospital where charges of the State courts are confined for treatment.

Plans of the Pasadena Open-Air School at Altadena for the care of 100 children were approved by the board.

AID FOR PRISONERS

Report was made to the board that arrangements have now been completed for a teacher of handiwork at the State Hospital at Napa to be lent twice a month to authorities at San Quentin for work among women prisoners. It is planned to teach the women handiwork as a means of obtaining money that will be turned over to them at the expiration of their sentences. A sale of this work recently in a San Francisco store brought in $400.

The monthly meeting was attended by H. R. Braden, chairman; Mrs. Laura T. Kelly of Los Angeles, Mrs. Maude S. King of Sacramento and Mrs. Amy S. Braden, executive secretary. Mrs. Margaret F. Sirch, in charge of the Los Angeles office, and Field Agents Geneva S. Orcutt, Anne Hannon and Reba S. Ingols also attended.

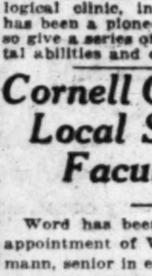
Cornell Gives Local Student Faculty Post

Word has been received of the appointment of William G. Angermann, senior in electrical engineering at the University of Southern California, to the faculty at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., as instructor in electrical engineering.



William G. Angermann

Mr. Angermann has made a brilliant record as a student at University of Southern California, and has shown such promise along scientific lines that he has received this opportunity to continue his work in one of the foremost engineering schools of the country. Arrangements have been made whereby he may take graduate work along with his instructional duties, leading to a master of science degree in two years.

Appointments to the engineering faculty at Cornell are much prized by young engineers and the full rank of instructor is only occasionally offered to men just graduating from college.

Mr. Angermann is a veteran of the World War and is a Federal Board student. He has now fully recovered, however, from the effects of gassing in France. He is married and, with Mrs. Angermann, will take up his residence in Ithaca next September.

OUTFALL SEWER HALF DONE

Seventeen-Mile Los Angeles Project Costing $9,000,000 to be Completed in October

Los Angeles' new outfall sewer is half completed, H. A. Van Norman, superintending engineer, announced yesterday and already the system is in partial operation.

By October it will be finished. Within a period of eighteen months the gigantic conduit of seventeen miles, costing $9,000,000, will have supplanted the inadequate system now in use.

Some physical aspects of the outfall sewer construction are similar to the building of the Owens River Aqueduct. Many city engineering department employees at work on the present public job worked on the Aqueduct forces, including Engineer Van Norman.

The existing sewer system is suited to a city about one-half the size of Los Angeles. Consequently, all possible haste is being made in the new line. The work is divided into fourteen sections and twelve contractors are being employed simultaneously, besides the city forces.

CAPACITY AMPLE

The old system is suited to a city of 500,000 inhabitants, according to Van Norman, while the new and larger system is designed for a city of 2,000,000 population.

The new screening plant at Hyperion is treating sewage now. The result is that reclamation of millions of dollars worth of beach frontage between Venice and Redondo Beach has already commenced. Heretofore the overloaded sewer mains sent an only partially septic discharge from the outfall pier. The pier is only 2000 feet long.

The new outfall will be conveyed through immense mains, buried in the sands of the seabed to an outfall more than one mile from shore. This distant outlet, in addition to destruction of all solids in the sewage as it passes through the screening plant, will render the discharge imperceptible.

FIVE-FOOT PIPE

Great joints of concrete pipe, five feet in diameter, are being laid to form the new outfall at Hyperion. It is close beside the present 2000-foot pier.

Each section of this great pipe weighs eighteen tons. A large floating stiff-arm derrick is laying the pipe, four sections at a time.

The four sections are trussed on the under side of an air-filled pontoon. To sink them to the bottom, the air is gradually released from the pontoon.

Divers, fifty feet below, joint the sections. The pontoon is lifted again to the surface by forcing the water from it with air pumps.

TUNNELS IN PROJECT

The line extends from the southwest section of the city and skirts the Ballona Hills to the sea at Playa del Rey; from there it parallels the beach to Hyperion. The course is interrupted by two long tunnels, burrowed through sand hills. One of the tunnels is 1500 feet long.

A pavement of seven-inch monolithic concrete twenty feet below the surface of streets support the ponderous sewer mains where they underlay thoroughfares in the city. Throughout its length, the main is lined with vitreous tile, manufactured in Los Angeles. The tile resists corrosive action of sulphuric acid generated by sewer gases, wheras unprotected concrete would soon disintegrate.

Besides the petrified bones of prehistoric men, many interesting geological discoveries are being made on the long course of excavating. Steam shovels have exhumed peat beds, long-buried trees, have revealed underground streams and tons of moonstones have been taken out of the sand-hill tunnels. Fossilized shells and alluvial debris of a forgotten age are displayed on the walls of the immense trenches.

PLANS FRUIT SERVICE

Espee Will Run Express Cars to Calexico for Melons

Special passenger schedule express service will be inaugurated today by the Southern Pacific between this city and Calexico to handle exclusively the cantaloupe and melon crops of the Imperial Valley and way points, according to announcement by W. H. Whalen, superintendent of the Los Angeles division. It is expected that the daily service which will commence with seven express cars will have to be increased to a dozen cars.

The special will leave Calexico at 5:15 p.m. daily and arrive here the next morning at 6:45. The southbound special will leave here daily at 10:30 p.m. and arrive at Calexico at 6:45 the following morning. The express will stop only at those points at which express is to be shipped or received. The train will not carry passengers.

Population of the United States will be nearly 200,000,000 at the end of this century, it is estimated.

CAHILL SOON TO ANSWER JULIAN SUIT

Attorney-General's Aide Arrives from East; Ready to Fight Damage Action

David C. Cahill, special assistant to the United States Attorney-General, arrived in the city yesterday after a visit of several weeks in New York, and announced that he would issue a formal statement soon in reply to the $100,000 damage action filed against himself and two other government employees in the Superior Court by C. C. Julian, president of the Julian Petroleum Corporation.

Cahill and Morris R. Northcup, both of whom are employed as special Federal officers in prosecution of oil fraud cases, together with W. I. Madeira, a postoffice inspector of San Francisco, are named as defendants in the damage action filed last week by Julian.

Mr. Julian charges the government officers with having attacked his character and reputation in a letter signed by Madeira and sent to J. L. Fields of Alameda, a stockholder in the Julian corporation. The letter is said to have been written in connection with inquiries made by the Federal officers concerning the operation of the Julian Petroleum Corporation.

BAY STATE MEN PLAN VISIT HERE

Special Train Bearing 150 Will Arrive in Los Angeles in September

A special train bearing 150 leading business men of Massachusetts will arrive in Los Angeles next September. They will study the business conditions and industrial factors that have built up the Southland, according to an announcement of the Chamber of Commerce.

Philip W. Blake, an official of the Massachusetts State Chamber of Commerce, left Boston last week for Los Angeles to complete arrangements for the acception of the visitors with Frank Wiggins, secretary of the local chamber.

Announcement of the proposed trip was contained in a letter to Mr. Wiggins from Edwin M. Smith, president of the Massachusetts body. The members of the party, he said, will represent all the general business interests in that State.

The local chamber will plan a welcome for the Massachusetts business men, according to Mr. Wiggins. As soon as Mr. Blake arrives in the city, a conference will be held at the Chamber of Commerce and a program mapped out.

FINDS GREAT SQUALODENT IN MOUNTAIN

Kern County Man Makes Amazing Discovery; Only Such Found on Coast

BY ROSS C. MILLER

Dry-land fishing has its compensations, according to Charles Morrice, superintendent of the Pacific Oil Company lease in the Kern River fields, five miles north of Bakersfield, who has just been rewarded for several months of angling by landing a huge squalodent from Sharktooth Mountain, near the oil lease.

The squalodent, dug up by Morrice, is a member of the whale family, and the bones of the species found by Morrice are said to be more than 1,500,000 years old. Morrice has found what probably is the most nearly perfect skull of a squalodent yet uncovered and the only specimen to be discovered on the Pacific Coast. Besides the head, which weighs about 250 pounds, there were sections of vertebrae; an external earbone, nine teeth, rib bones, physes, or plates from vertebrae, and other unidentified bones.

The work of Morrice has been acknowledged by scientists, and collections made by him of fossils from Shark Tooth Mountain are in the United States National Museum at Washington, at the Academy of Sciences in San Francisco, at the Stanford University.

His collection at the Academy of Sciences in San Francisco has proved especially valuable and Dr. Kellogg, in his work on "Pinnipeds from Miocene and Pleistocene Deposits of California," uses sketches made from specimens collected by Mr. Morrice. In his introduction he acknowledges his special indebtedness to the Bakersfield man.

After using his spare hours the last thirteen years to further biological work by excavating in Shark Tooth Mountain and unearthing various rare and unknown species of sharks of the miocene age, Mr. Morrice has made one of his most important discoveries of fossil fish in California by unearthing the squalodent.

His discovery was aided by previous finds, especially by one box of bones of sea lions and whales, in which were several unidentified specimens, which was sent last December to Remington Kellogg, Bureau of Biological Survey, Washington, D. C. Dr. Kellogg in acknowledging the receipt said:

"But the surprising thing is that there was an imperfect ear-bone in the lot which apparently does belong to a squalodent. I feel reasonably certain now that you will encounter remains of this cetacean before long."

Dr. David Starr Jordan of Stanford University, also commends Mr. Morrice. One of the sharks of the miocene age has been named carcharias morricei after Mr. Morrice as the discoverer of this especial species. In a letter to Mr. Morrice, Dr. Kellogg states:

"It may be of interest to you to know that, judging by the material you have sent in, you have discovered the first real fauna of marine mammals thus far known for the State of California. At least six species of dolphins are included in the material you have sent."

In a later communication Dr. Kellogg said:

"I can assure you that before you have finished you will have unearthed the largest marine fauna thus far known for the Pacific Coast, for any one formation."

The latest discovery of Mr. Morrice is in keeping with Dr. Kellogg's prediction that Shark Tooth Mountain is the largest marine fossil bed on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Morrice expects to continue his work in Shark Tooth Mountain.

His desire is that his latest discovery, the squalodent which lived and played in the water 2,000,000 years ago, as do the porpoises, whales and dolphins of today, be kept in California. He wants to add it to the collection at the University of California.

The Fashionable Criss-Cross Figure

The specially designed cross-boned-support holds the diaphragm in a straight line with absolute comfort, and keeps it within bounds until it disappears. See the Criss-Cross and you will see the reason.

90 per cent of Today's Women Require Figure Improvemen

Corsetieres, and those in brassiere fitting departments in a position to know, declare that nine out of ten women today have a protruding diaphragm or otherwise ungraceful figure which needs correction. Criss-Cross controls, and by constant support diminishes, the prominent diaphragm. Its scientific construction assures a fit. Every woman who has tried Criss-Cross has marveled at the girlish slender effect achieved and the perfect comfort.

The well-known quality and strength of MODEL materials give Criss-Cross unusually long wear. Criss-Cross launders perfectly. Where ordinary garments with various devices have attempted to flatten the diaphragm, Criss-Cross attains results with absolute certainty. Criss-Cross is the answer.

MAY OVERCOME STATIC PLAGUE

Expert Tells Development of Defense

Summer Radio Evil May be Mitigated

Portable Set Reduced to Suit-Case Size

In the radio world, the coming of summer involves likewise the coming of static and of the portable set. In the early days of broadcasting, the attitude of radio men toward these, static and the portable set, was widely different from that taken by them at the present time. Static was considered to be an electrical condition over which man had absolutely no control, it was the curse of radio. In fact, in many of the broadcasting stations, activities were suspended entirely during the summer months. And the portable set—but we'll take that up later!

Up to the present time man has not been able to master static, but its control has been developed to a high degree. In code transmission on high wave lengths and with a high pitch note, static has been practically eliminated by a huge apparatus developed by the Bureau of Standards; but for low wave lengths and telephonic transmission nothing at all practical has been developed.

Although no way of eliminating static on the low wave lengths of broadcast transmission has been invented thus far, the general knowledge concerning static and its control has increased greatly during the past few years. By following out certain precautions, static interference may be reduced to a minimum.

If you have a high and long aerial, static is going to deprive you of radio enjoyment during the summer months. Use the shortest and lowest aerial that is consistent with the efficient operation of your set. You will probably weaken to a slight degree the signal intensity of your set, but you will at the same time have lessened static interference greatly.

During the summer the foliage of plants and trees is developed to its maximum and this fact brings a correspondingly great loss in radio signal strength by absorption. If you have kept your aerial clear from trees in the winter, be doubly careful to keep it so in the summer.

Where the listener is the owner of a four or five-tube set, the problem of static can be either very great or of little consequence. If the set is given over to two or three stages of audio-frequency amplification, it will be found to amplify static to a point at which it becomes unbearable. It is a very wise thing to do without A.F. amplification altogether in the summer. One stage is about all the best set can stand in the static months.

By the use of a loop aerial and radio-frequency amplification, static from all but one direction is excluded. Do not think that R.F. amplification does not involve amplification of static, for it does. The reason for the noticeable lack of static effects in a set incorporating a loop aerial and R.F. amplification is the uni-directional properties of the loop. This type of aerial will receive wireless impulses from only one direction at a time—no matter if these impulses are man-made or the static of nature.

In tuning an ordinary receiver of loose-coupled type, keep the coupling as loose as possible. By all means dispose of the single-circuit set if you care to enjoy radio this summer. In a set of this type there is no chance of "losing" any static. There are two ways of fixing this set; either add a stage of R.F. before the detector to change the relationship between the aerial and ground system to the rest of the set, or change the circuit to a two or three-circuit type.

Enough of the disagreeable phase of the coming of summer—let us take note of the signal development of the really portable receiver in the past year.

Before the development of the dry cell tube, a set that would bring in distant stations with any volume could not be really portable. The only actually portable receivers known in past summers have been the crystal set of diminutive range at best.

This summer, what a change! a four or five-tube "distance-puller" can be placed in a small suit case together with the batteries and phone or horn. And you won't have to figure out the best place to string an aerial, for your aerial is already strung—right inside the cover of the case of the set! The portable sets of this summer will simply be high-class receiving sets of the type used by thousands all this past winter, inclosed in a suitable carrying case.

This summer there will be very little cessation in broadcasting activities to be noticed, and let us hope that by next summer or the summer after, static will finally have been overcome through the genius of some brain whose possessor is even now delving deep into the problem. America, with her nation-wide enthusiasm for the radio science, will undoubtedly bring forth the greatest radio engineers in the world, and, among them, the conqueror of static.

F. BORTZMEYER.

STATIC FLASHES

WGY broadcast "The Voice of the City" as a novelty feature on its program Tuesday evening, May 27. This doubtless appealed particularly to those who live far from the city and perhaps made them a little more contented with their lot. The farmer familiar with morning clarion call of the rooster heard the rumble of ash carts and milk trucks as the city awakened. The din of a busy corner during a traffic jam was also broadcast though many may have preferred the explosions of statics.

Whereas the house committee did not take a definite stand for or against the practice, it was the unanimous opinion that, if broadcasting stations were utilized for advertising purposes, the listeners should be thoroughly acquainted with the fact. It was recommended that much the same rule should apply to this as applies to newspaper advertising, and that the announcer should plainly state the feature broadcast is "paid for" or "furnished by" such and such person or concern.

Public speaking will stage a powerful comeback during the next few months as the Presidential campaign approaches. As the country has grown and Presidential candidates have preferred to travel less and less, the old-time art of spellbinding has been slipping badly. It looks now as if the pendulum will swing back to the use of speech as the primary mode of communication. Campaigns of the future will more and more be sent through the air from the platform and the radio through that primitive use of communication.

Several weeks ago WGY took part in a coast-to-coast program, when they relayed the alumni dinner of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Six other stations carried this program on; so that it is estimated fifty million persons heard it and England and Cuba received clearly the music and part of the speeches. This is opening up a new phase of broadcasting, which by the several relays from one station to another, can give the listeners a program from the Far West, the Far North, or perhaps from Cuba. We may someday relay the English programs to America with the same ease that our own programs are transmitted today.

Uncle Sam has taken advantage of radio as a means of disseminating information calculated to be of interest to business men, bankers, exporters, producers and farmers. Today, twenty broadcasting stations are carrying items on domestic and foreign commerce every Friday night, 131 stations broadcast weather reports every day, and eighty-five transmit market reports at least once daily, in practically every State.

The following telegram was received from Sacramento: "We received your concert aboard Southwest Realty Board special via Southern Pacific, en route Washington, wonderfully well. We have six-tube set aboard train and will be listening in for you the next few nights on our wast east.

An experiment to determine whether it was possible to hold a club meeting by radio, with all members seated comfortably in their homes, has been tried out successfully by amateur radio fans in Dallas, Tex. The meeting was called to order by the president, motions carried and all business transacted with as much ease as though the members were gathered in one room.

SHORT WAVE TO COVER COUNTRY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Radio intercommunication is the next and most vital step in the field of all human communication, Secretary Hoover declared recently, speaking to members of the electrical profession. By "radio intercommunication," he means the interconnection of remote radio stations, either by telephone wires or through retransmission by radio, so that many localities and millions of listeners may be served by one speaker, orchestra or entertainer.

Experiments in multiple broadcasting were only begun a few months ago by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, when it first established a land line between its Washington station, WCAP, and its New York station, WEAF. Later this form of hook-up included several States and carried the broadcasts from one studio to hundreds of thousands of radio broadcast listeners, who had never before heard distant stations. Recent broadcasts by this method through seven stations, are estimated to have reached as many as 5,000,000 fans, some in every State.

RETRANSMISSION TRIED

The other means of interconnection, that is, by radio retransmission, has been worked out successfully by the Westinghouse company; special short-wave transmissions from KDKA in Pittsburg have been picked up by a radio receiver at Hastings, Neb., and rebroadcast from KFKX. The Radio Corporation and other organizations, including electrical power and light companies, are experimenting in both radio retransmission and wired-wireless, with a view to establishing interconnected systems for their subscribers or the public at large. Eventually it is believed that radio interconnections between towns and cities will be effected, just as they were connected by telegraph lines fifty years ago, and by telephones twenty years ago.

The main point of this new system is that it will carry radio broadcasts from distant points to all crystal set owners, who now rely chiefly upon their local or near-by stations for radio entertainment and news.

The proceedings of the forthcoming political conventions at New York and Cleveland will be broadcast over the Bell system of radio transmitting stations, it is understood, seven or more stations participating. At New York, WEAF would handle the sending end, the other stations retransmitting in their own zones, but in Cleveland special arrangements may be made, although it is believed the A.T.&T. Company can handle the initial broadcast. In this manner, the whole country will be kept informed as to developments, and the final nominations will be known as soon as the ballots are counted.

It is systems of this sort, in which several high-powered, or Class B stations participate, linking radio broadcasters in many States for simultaneous operation, that Secretary Hoover foresees. He has made a study of future broadcasting, and believes that radio will not have reached its full service until we have interconnections for our local stations, so that we may not only enjoy home talent, so to speak, but also the renditions of great artists, composers and speakers, especially on occasions of national interest.

"All this will add not only great intellectual and stimulative force to the nation, but it will materially help to build up home life," Mr. Hoover points out. "In the comfort of their own fireside, father can smoke, mother can knit, and the family can make remarks upon the performance in terms not permitted in public places," he added.

The government is seeking to preserve the ownership of the road through the ether as public property, that we may maintain initiative by holding it a free field for competition; keep alive free speech; avoid censorship and prevent interference in ethereal traffic for 15,000,000 fans, according to the head of the Commerce Department.

Further impetus to the movement for uniting transmitting radio amateurs into a world association was given in the recent visit to the American Radio Relay League Headquarters of Gerald Marcuse, secretary of the Transmitters' Section of the Radio Society of Great Britain. Mr. Marcuse is making a tour of the United States and Canada to study amateur methods.

Sabbath Day Finds Its Counterpart in Beauty of Radio Music

RADIO BOON TO 'GIVE' SPIRIT

World of Trade Eager to Serve; Splendid Program Presented by Los Angeles Soap Company

Radio is a tremendous agent for keeping alive the belief in the finest side of human nature. It creates a desire to give, and that desire is the urge of the Divine. Not only is this emotion aroused in individuals, but it is rapidly spreading to the commercial world. Every type of organization is coming to the KHJ studio, asking to put on programs, realizing that nothing endears one quicker to humanity than to be its servant. Music houses, banks, automobile companies vie with each other in generosity toward the cripples, the blind and all their less fortunate brothers.

The latest recruit to this army of crusaders is the Los Angeles Soap Company, through whose courtesy the following artists were presented at KHJ last night: Raymond McFeeters, pianist; W. E. Hullinger, flutist; Lucy Fuhrer Genter, cellist; Julie Keller, harpist; J. Howard Johnson, tenor, and the Tyroler Zither and Yodeling Club.

The popularity of the Tyroler Zither and Yodeling Club, wide as it is, was given added impetus by their performance last night as the songs of their native country came from lusty throats and melodious instruments.

There seldom is a more happy combination of instruments than piano, cello and flute. And its truth was never more apparent than in the rendition of Schubert's "Serenade," the famous "Serenade" by Titl, by the McFeeters-Genter-Hullinger trio.

The soulful voice of the harp was carried to the microphone by the deft fingers of Julie Keller whose solo contributions consisted of Sextette from "Lucia," Godefroid's "Souvenir and Harp Aeolienne" and the "Rosary."

William Hullinger's program was composed of "Pensee Fugitive," by Sinscillez; "Flute De Pan," by Wachs, and "Adaigo Noble," by Don Jon.

Raymond McFeeters, one of the most talented of the young pianists of this city, shared honors with his associate artists. He exhibited dexterity of fingers and an understanding of those qualities necessary to the intelligent interpreter.

Lucy Fuhrer Genter revealed in her command of the 'cello the reason for her selection as one of the members of the Woman's Symphony Orchestra of Los Angeles. Her well-balanced program was formed of "Serenade," by Drigo; "Scherzo," by Van Coens, and "Salut D'Armour," by Elgar.

The vocal contributions of Mr. Johnson, who arranged the program, revealed a lyric tenor of much ease and sympathetic quality. His selections included "Rose in the Bud," by Foster, and "For You Alone," by Giehl, the latter of which was aided by 'cello obbligato by Lucy Fuhrer Genter.

Another delightful combination of instruments was formed by Julie Keller, harp, Lucy Fuhrer Genter, 'cello, and William Hullinger, flute, playing "Extase," by Ganne.

The children's hour was opened as usual by Prof. Walter Sylvester Hertzog, who laid down his tools of history narration and took up the cudgel of school bonds. After which 6-year-old Leonard Tanner, Fullerton's baby orator, gave Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech, with the same clarity of diction which has won for him many honors and several cups.

Marjorie Thornton, 14-year-old pianist pupil of Ethel Sanborn, displayed excellent keyboard manners in the few solos she rendered. She was followed by Moreau Clark, who read the "Domestic Tragedy," by Robert W. Service, and "Ambitions," by Franklin Adams. Moreau Clark is 18 years of age and a pupil of Inez Norris Moore.

Onolee Jones, II, brought her 'cello and after playing two short numbers, read several stories.

POWER DEMAND LAID TO RADIO

Increases Domestic Use of Light Current

New Interest Keeps Fans at Home Nights

Corporation Head Predicts Improvements

"The many technical improvements effected both in the art of broadcasting and in the manufacture of receiving apparatus during the past year have given such impetus to the development of the radio industry in the United States that radio now occupies a leading place in American home life," declared David Sarnoff, vice-president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, in an address before the forty-seventh convention of the National Light Association.

"While radio would continue to render a unique public service through the well-established distribution channels of the electrical and musical industries, the increasing demands of the art," Mr. Sarnoff said, "might place it in contact also with the central station industry, represented by the electric light and power interests of the country." It was probable, therefore, that the next forward step in broadcast reception would be a current supply device, which could be added to existing types of receivers, and which would make the operation of any receivnig set as simple and effective as the turning of a switch to light an electric lamp.

"Present indications," Mr. Sarnoff added, "point to two methods of operating radio receivers in the near future. These might be classed as follows:

"Type 1—The home receiver that will draw its vacuum tube energy through such a current supply device operated from the lighting circuit now supplied by the central station.

"Type 2—The rural home receiver or the portable receiver that obtains operating power from storage or dry batteries.

"In other words," Mr. Sarnoff explained, "while a permanent demand already has been created for the dry battery or storage battery to operate the receiver, the rising requirements of the art will find place, I believe, for a new and additional type of current supply."

Discussing the many contacts which radio has made with other industries, Mr. Sarnoff pointed out that radio already has affected the electric light and power situation in the United States.

NOW STAY AT HOME

"More people," he said, "now stay at home to enjoy radio, which means more use of lights and greater current consumption. Radio enthusiasts who stay up until the small hours of the early morning to "get distance" still further increase the drain on your lighting supply mains. And the 'stay-up-late-at-night' broadcast listener is not a development of any particular locality, for his type and counterpart may be found everywhere.

"At the present rate of progress being made by the radio industry, and in view of the direct and indirect uses of electrical current that follow, it will not be long before the radio may add $75,000,000 yearly to the aggregate income of the central station industry, while at the same time making radio more convenient and more economical for the public.

"It is more than a mere prediction to state that 10,000,000 radio receivers will be in operation within the next five years. My understanding is that the lighting industry serves at present approximately 10,000,000 wired homes, with an expected annual increase of 1,000,000 homes per year. Hence, at the end of five years you should supply electricity to at least 15,000,000 homes, and we may safely say that at least one-half of these wired homes will be equipped with radio."

Atmosphere to Far-away Places Brought to All

Why should not radio be utilized to accomplish for the ear what the camera has done for the eye? It would appear far better to allow the birds to roam about with absolute freedom and enjoy their singing than to keep them caged. Moreover, it would be a rare treat for the city dweller who does not have either the leisure or facilities to enjoy the country.

There is no limit to which such novel procedure may be carried to fulfill the ever-increasing demand for variety in all things, whether radio, motion pictures or drama. Some day may see the broadcast station and the microphone carrying for thousands of miles the atmosphere of far-away places. The inland dweller will be able to hear the surf pounding on the rocky coast of Maine and be lulled to sleep by its monotonous and soothing roar. The city dweller, in the heat of a scorching sun, may hear the shouts of hundreds at the bathing beaches and gain some psychological fort in the radio contact.

All these things are in the of the possible, while some A can stations have already far as to broadcast circuse barn dances.

Gentlemen:

It is my pleasure to inform you that the results I am obtaining from my Cosmopolitan Phusiformer Set are satisfactory beyond all expectation.

As a musician I can truly say that the tone is really remarkable in its continuity, and, coupled with the fact that the receiver does not oscillate, and further that the stations as far east as Pittsburg (KDKA) have all come in on the loud speaker, I can conscientiously feel that I own the "Perfect Receiver."

MAY NOW VIEW HEART OF KHJ

New Room Complies With Friends' Desire

Observatory Gives Insight Into Workings

Comfort of Guests First Law of Station

BY CLAIRE FORBES CRANE

Nothing merely happens at KHJ. Each new comfort or attraction seems the result of an all-wise mind which is actually molding the destiny of the studio into a satisfying whole.

It is the "Children's Hour." Soft shaded lamps cast a mellow glow over an amply-proportioned room filled with attractive furniture. Gracious pictures smile from the walls—and on the soft gray rug there is a living picture.

Who is the figure sitting on the floor—iron-gray hair framing a face serene yet eminently youthful, with deep-set eyes holding pools of laughter? Uncle John, of course! He is the center of a group of children, and they are playing the greatest game in the world—the game of broadcasting their laughter, innocence and joy of life into the sad world which so sorely needs to hear them.

TITANIA'S FAVORITE

On Uncle John's lap is enthroned Queen Titania holding a rose as pink and fair as her sweet self. Standing beside Titania—the embodiment of a wee elf—is Jane Hughes, while on the floor, oblivious to all feminine charms, lies Sir Richard Headrick—his golden head bent in rapt admiration over a new "agato."

The remainder of the room is crowded with mothers and fathers from far and wide, who have brought their little ones to see the people with whose names and voices they are so familiar at this magic hour.

Uncle John reads a bedtime story—the studio rings with mirth, and yet all is not quite happy. Ever and anon a knock comes at the door, and there are whispered entreaties from old and young alike to let them just glimpse the heart of KHJ, but it cannot be done. The room is filled to overflowing. There is only one other way of seeing the studio. That is to go out on the bare roof of the building and peep in through the windows.

HARDSHIPS ENDURED

But so strong is the love which people have for Uncle John and his children that many of his radio family find their way through the dark to the windows, there to stand patiently—often with a cold wind or rain whipping across the open space—lost to all else save the vision inside. As one glanced up from the coziness and shelter of the room to the window full of eager faces, they seemed like fairies cast out of Paradise.

Of course in KHJ, which stands for "Kindness, Happiness and Joy," this condition could not long endure.

A small army of carpenters and painters were set to work. The wind and the rain shut out, the bare roof transformed to a big audience room—decorated in soft neutral greens, the entire top of glass, and a spacious door opening into the mother-studio.

The Children's Hour and all other hours for broadcasting now find the new room filled with visitors, and we hope that none of our radio family will fail to come to KHJ and rejoice in its comfort and beauty.

RADIO OF FAR NORTH RENEWED

Gold Star, Supply Ship, Clears Seattle to Supply Alaskan Stations

The United States steamship Gold Star, the Navy's unique radio repair ship, left Seattle May 20 for Dutch Harbor and the Pribilof Islands in Bering Sea, carrying supplies, equipment and personnel for the Navy's radio stations in the Far North.

So few vessels touch at points north of Sitka that it is necessary each summer to send the Gold Star with radio supplies and a gang of radio-repair men to install new apparatus or replace worn-out equipment, as well as to exchange the personnel at the eight radio stations on and off the coast of Alaska and the two radio compass stations.

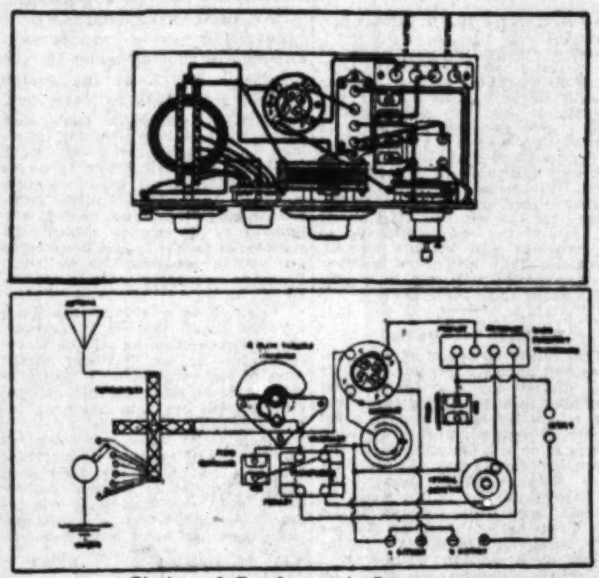
This summer the Gold Star will stop at Dutch Harbor, St. George Seward, Cordova, Cape Hinchinbrook, Soapstone Point and Seward, returning to Seattle in July with radio men entitled to leave and their families. About a month later she will make another round trip before the ice closes in October.

The Gold Star is commanded by Commander D. T. Ghent, U.S.N., and is named in honor of the bereaved mothers of the World War. She is equipped with all types of radio apparatus and spare parts from a tube to an antenna tower, while her crew of 300 men is capable of erecting a complete radio station if necessary. Incidentally, she carries north all sorts of stores and supplies, including coal for the seven winter months when the stations are ice bound.

This year the radio personnel will take out the old navy telegraph transmitting sets on St. George and St. Paul islands and install new radiophone sets there for the Bureau of Fisheries. This bureau has charge of the government seal herds and the sealing industry, and plans to establish communication between the islands and to keep in touch with its patrol vessels during the summer months by radiophones.

SINGLE TUBE REFLEX CIRCUIT

No Howls or Squeals in This Little Set



Choice of Condenser is Important

THIS little set gives surprising volume for a single tube, and in addition has no howls and squeals of its own. It is sufficiently selective for most locations, and if extreme selectivity is desired, a series condenser in the antenna circuit will do the trick.

The important point in the construction of this set is the choice of proper values for the fixed condensers. It should be noticed that the condenser in the plate circuit has one side connected to the radio-frequency transformer and that the other side goes directly to the filament of the vacuum tube. The fixed condenser across the audio-frequency transformer has a marked effect on the performance of the set, due to possible variations in aerials and instruments. It is recommended that several sizes, from .0005 to .002 be tried. If the condenser in this position is too large, the set will oscillate; that it, a popping sound will be heard at certain adjustments of the condenser and there will be noticeable distortion of the incoming signals. If the condenser is too small the volume will not come up to maximum.

As this is a radio-frequency amplifier and there is no regeneration to make up for losses, a high-grade variocoupler should be used. It is rather difficult to give directions for tuning, as the controls are to some extent dependent on each other. However, it is not difficult to accomplish this.

While this set is primarily intended for use with UV 201-A tubes, good results can be had with No. 199and No. 299 tubes. The adjustment of the crystal detector is not particularly important. When the crystal is out of adjustment sometimes oscillation and squealing will result. When everything is properly connected a slight readjustment of the crystal contact will improve reception on distant stations.

Radio Cheers War Veterans in Hospitals

It is expected that the work of installing radio sets in all United States veterans' hospitals will be completed by July 1, according to Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau. The work of installation is progressing satisfactorily and at the present time thirty-seven of the hospitals have been equipped.

The general plan for the installation of the radio equipment provides for one master set located in a central point of the hospital. This master set is under the direct supervision of the medical officer in charge, who designates certain employees of the hospital as operators. Wires lead from this set to the various wards and assembly rooms, where loud speakers are located. Wherever practical, head sets are installed for each bed in the wards.

Many of the veterans' hospitals have received their equipment through the work of private agencies. Those installed by the bureau are according to specifications laid down by the director. Each set must be able to receive clearly for a minimum distance of 1000 miles. According to Gen. Hines, the cost of installation of radio equipment ranges from $2000 to $2400 per hospital, depending upon the size of the institution and the class of equipment used.

"Radio provides a means of positive improvement, both physically and mentally, for the patients in the hospitals," states Gen. Hines. "Many of the beneficiaries of the Veterans' Bureau in our hospitals are unable to leave their beds. With the use of headsets, these patients can listen to opera, jazz or any other form of amusement that is broadcast by the radio. It prevents the mfrom losing contact with the general affairs of the world."

TEXAS IS LEADER IN BROADCASTING

The question of the "survival of the fittest" in broadcasting is again before the public, and the government for that matter, as radio broadcasting stations are almost as numerous as a year ago, and still increasing. Today there are 584 in operation, whereas the peak was only 591. Practically all wave lengths have been exhausted, necessitating a division of time.

The State of Texas leads in broadcasting, having forty-two radio broadcasting stations; Pennsylvania is second, with forty-one; California, which used to be first, has thirty-nine; and Ohio is third, with thirty. New York and Illinois are tied with twenty-nine each; Missouri has twenty-eight, Washington twenty-four and Iowa twenty-three. Nevada, New Hampshire, and Porto Rico bring up the rear with one each, but every State is supplied with one or more stations.

Marking the inauguration of radio activities in the canton of Zurich, the first broadcasting station is expected to be put into operation about June 10. This station is being erected by the Swiss Radio Association, the transmitting apparatus being mainly of American manufacture.

"OUR LYLE" EULOGIZED IN VERSE

Admirer of Entertainer Pays Touching Tribute to Departed Performer

The following poem, contributed by a member of the huge KHJ radio family, sheds some light upon the esteem in which the departed "Uncle Josh" was held by her hearers.

TO LYLE MILLIGAN

God sends His messengers of Peace and Hope;
And some to bring a tear, and
and some a smile
He gave to those of weary aching hearts
The cheery tones of our own
Radio Lyle.

What greater thing can mortal do for others
Than bring the smile that drives the tear away?
That cheers the soul when weary,
heavy laden
And eases thus the burden of the day.

We honor those who great deeds have accomplished
In war, in peace, in science and the arts,
But we love the ones who drive away the gloom
And place them on the altars of our hearts.

That great voice on the mighty radio waves
Told tales of Uncle Josh, of bicycles and bees
And brought the tears of joyous mirth
To millions all across the lands and seas.

And then came tragedy and all the work was done
The face that smiled while yet the heart was lead
Goes back to earth from whence it came
And those who do not understand say "Lyle is dead."

But we who seek the deeper things of life
Perchance, when microphones are still a while,
Will hear again along the mighty ether waves
The hearty laugh of our own
Radio Lyle.

Regular broadcasting is expected to commence in Austria on July 1, 1924, a concession for the purpose having been granted to a group composed of banks and electrical firms. The post and telegraph administration will soon issue radio regulations on the basis of the new contract.

BANK TO TREAT WITH ART

Hellman Interests to Present Program at KHJ; Matinee Concerts to Be Resumed

Another time-worn and generally accepted theory will be exploded at KHJ tonight. Long has it been thought that when Art met Finance, the former would perish but truth fled from it when the Hellman banking interests announced their intention to present a program at KHJ. On the program are the Los Angeles Trio under the direction of Calmon Luboviski, the noted violinist; the Burkman Brothers' Hawaiian Quartet, the Orpheus Four, Uncle Remus, the delineator of negro characters, little Janes Hughes and the robust youngster, Homer Ashman.

The usual silence of Monday night will be pleasantly broken by the Timmner String Orchestra. The earlier part of the day will be directed to lighter vein. E. M. Bonnell, of the Barnes Music Company, but more commonly known as Uncle Remus, will present his one-man vaudeville show, a certain provoker of mirth. The remainder of the noon program will be take care of by Carl Allen and his Rendezvous orchestra, a snappy aggregation of jazzites.

MATINEE PROGRAMS

Tuesday will usher in the widely known matinee programs given by Barker Brothers under the direction of Claire Forbes Crane. To those who recall with delight the matinee musicales given by this company in the past, this announcement is symbolic of the best in music. The noon program will present White's Californians. It is also the day which marks the weekly visit of Queen Titania and her Sandman and many are the surprises which they have in store. The major portion of the evening will resound with the efforts of the Southern California Saxophone Band under the direction of Kathryn Thompson. Dr. Thomas Lutman will deliver his much-delayed address on the "Man With No Gold Braid On His Coat."

Coy Barkely's Oakmont Country Club orchestra will return Wednesday noon and permit both the visible and invisible audience to satisfy their desires to dance. The children's hour will find among those present our little friend, Dick Winslow, who has been absent several weeks. It will also introduce the Melrose School of Musical Arts and its pupils, one of whom will be John F. Knox, son of Harry C. Knox, whose flute has been heard many times at KHJ. The evening program will be given by Roberts's Golden State Band, formerly the Hollywood American Legion Band, and Lester Hugo Castle, baritone and vocal instructor.

RED MOON SERENADERS

The Fitzgerald Music Company will present an excellent program on Thursday night. Upon conclusion of this concert, Mackie's Red Moon Serenaders will perform. The children's hour will feel the enthusiastic spirit of little Dickie Brandon, in addition to several other juveniles with stories to tell and songs to play.

Friday will be opened by the Lake Arrowhead Orchestra, who come to KHJ for the first time. The absentee, Richard Headrick, will return to his position of announcer on the children's hour. A program given through the courtesy of the Paul G. Hoffman Company, Inc., will entertain the evening listeners. As an indication of its possibilities, the Studebaker Radio Orchestra will be on hand.

The week will be brought to a close by an unusual variety. The favorite, Hatch Graham, will croon and hum his delicious melodies with banjo accompaniment. Winsome Helen Pirie will bring some new verses and further installments of older ones. The vocal section will be under the care of Mrs. Archibald A. Crane, contralto.

KHJ STUNT SURELY WAS DUCK'S QUACK

In the Outers'-Recreation magazine was found a story relating the experiences of a duck hunter on the Bear River marshes of Salt Lake. From this narration was taken the following exsorpt:

"One night I remember, we had just put on the headphones when we were both, startled by a loud quacking. "Just listen to those mallards on the river back of us!" exclaimed Carl. Hardly had he said this when a voice in our ears announced:

" 'Friends of Radioland. This is KHJ, The Times, Los Angeles. We are boosting the live stock and poultry show which opens tomorrow, and we brought these ducks to the studio, thinking perhaps they'd like to say a few words themselves.'

"Can you beat it? To be encamped on a duck marsh and hear these ducks quacking nearly a thousand miles away by radio!"

Pacific-Southwest Announces Executive Changes

Montebello Gets Telephone Exchange; Business News

The Youghiogheny Hydroelectric Corporation has sold $2,750,000 of first mortgage 6 per cent gold bonds to the Harris Trust and Savings Bank (Chicago) and E. H. Rollins & Sons.

The corporation is constructing a power plant on the Youghiogheny River which will have an initial installed capacity of 24,000 horsepower and which is expected to be ready for operation in the fall of 1925.

The Penn Public Service Corporation, which supplies electric light and power to over sixty-five communities in Western Pennsylvania serving a population of approximately 700,000, has contracted for the entire generating capacity of the company. The contract provides for payments conservatively estimated to produce annually net earnings well in excess of twice the annual interest on these bonds.

The bonds will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a direct first mortgage on the entire physical property of the company.

The bonds are due April 1, 1949, and are being offered at 95 and interest to yield 6.40 per cent.

An issue of $2,500,000 first and refunding mortgage sinking fund 6 per cent gold bonds, series B of the California-Oregon Power Company is offered at 99½ and interest to yield over 6 per cent by E. H. Rollins and Sons, Mercantile Securities Company of California; Harris Trust and Savings Bank and the National City Company. The bonds are dated February 1, 1921 and due February 1, 1942. Net earnings of the company are 1.86 times annual mortgage bond interest.

The proceeds from the sale of these bonds and of the new 7 per cent debentures will be used to finance the construction of new water-power properties and other improvements and to reimburse the company's treasury for capital expenditures recently made and soon to be made.

NEW STRAUS ISSUE

S. W. Straus & Co., have purchased and are offering an issue of $1,475,000 first mortgage 6 1-2 per cent serial coupon bonds, secured by the new eighteen-story Medical and Dental Building to be erected in Seattle.

There bonds constitute a direct closed first mortgage on the land, building and equipment. They are dated May 15, 1924, mature in three to nineteen years and are callable at 103 and interest for the first five years and at 102 and interest thereafter.

Federal income tax up to 4 per cent is paid by the borrower, Bradner Building Company, headed by Mr. Leo C. Bradner, wholesale dairy produce merchant of Seattle. Interest coupons are payable May 15 at offices of S. W. Straus & Co.

RAILROAD BONDS

The Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville Railway Company (Monon) has sold $1,000,000 of first and general mortgage 6 per cent bonds to the Harris Trust and Savings Bank (Chicago) and Potter and Company.

These bonds are due May 1, 1966 and are being offered at 98 1-2 and interest to yield over 6 per cent.

BANK STAFF CHANGES

The following elections and appointments were announced by the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank following a meeting of the board of directors:

Roger G. Edwards, supervising director, Farmers and Merchants branch, Santa Paula, as a member of the board of directors of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank.

E. C. Corey, Santa Paula cashier, Farmers and Merchants branch, as Santa Paula vice-president.

A. H. Thomas, assistant cashier, central office, as junior vice-president.

Arthur M. Hadley, trust department, central office, as assistant secretary and assistant trust officer.

H. W. Avey as relief manager in Los Angeles.

B. W. Winden as assistant manager Seventh and Valencia branch, Los Angeles.

R. R. C.'S NEW LEGAL HEAD

Hugh Gorden, attorney for the Railroad Commission for the last four and a half years, has tendered his resignation to the commission effective July 1, and will return to Los Angeles to resume the private practice of law.

Prior to becoming attorney for the Railroad Commission, Mr. Gordon was Assistant County Counsel for Los Angeles county. During the period he has been associated with the commission, Mr. Gordon handled a large amount of important litigation involving public utility questions, among which might be mentioned the proceeding before the Interstate Commerce Commission involving the nationwide revision of express rates, in which the California commission took an important part. Mr. Gordon was requested by the various Western States to prepare the brief in their behalf, as well as for the State of California, which he represented. He was also in charge of the important litigation involving the Los Angeles Union Station proceedings.

Mr. Gordon will be succeeded as attorney for the commission by Carl I. Wheat, who has been assistant attorney for the last two years. Mr. Wheat, prior to becoming associated with the commission, was connected with the law firm of O'Melveny, Milliken, Tuller & McNeill of Los Angeles. He is a graduate of Pomona College and of the Harvard University Law School.

MONTEBELLO GETS EXCHANGE

Southern California Telephone Company has been authorized by the Railroad Commission to establish an exchange for the city of Montebello, which has heretofore been connected with the Los Angeles city exchange, and to establish a primary rate area for the Montebello exchange affording a radical reduction in rates paid for local service by Montebello subscribers. The collection of a toll service of 10 cents per call for exchange service between Montebello and Los Angeles, is also authorized by the commission in its decision, which is effective as to the establishment of the exchange and the collection of tolls on Los Angeles service August 1, 1924.

DAILY TRADE TALK

State Bankers Off for Week of Convention; Los Angeles Man Slated for Presidency

BY CHAPIN HALL

This is Bankers' Week.

The thirtieth annual convention of the California Bankers' Association is a magnet expected to draw hundreds of the leading financiers of the State to a common meeting ground where they will listen to noted speakers and participate in discussions pertinent to their trade.

It is not, however, to be a week of too strict attention to business for the convention is to be held at Yosemite Lodge in the heart of Nature's finest playground, and many of the formal functions usually attendant upon affairs of this kind are to be deleted in favor of auto trips and hikes to points of interest accessible from the lodge.

A number of Los Angeles delegates took advantage of the week-end triple holiday and started for the park Thursday, Friday or Saturday, while other larger delegations will leave today and tomorrow.

A preconvention agricultural conference is scheduled for today at the Branch of the College of Agriculture, University of California, situated at Davis, Cal. The conference will be attended by a large percentage of the delegates to the regular convention to whom it is expected to prove of interest and value.

The conference is sponsored by the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers' Association and the Agricultural Committee of the California Bankers' Association, of which William T. Dinsmore, vice-president and cashier of the Security Savings Bank, Riverside, is the chairman. The idea is to acquaint bankers with the program of agricultural development and to make them better acquainted with the college work at Davis. Similar conferences have been held in other States in connection with conventions to excellent advantage.

The A.B.A. is to be represented at the conference by C. D. Rorer and H. C. Carr, president of the C.B.A., will respond to an address of welcome from Director C. B. Hutchinson of the college. The program runs from 10:45 a.m., to 5 p.m., a portion of the afternoon session being devoted to demonstration work.

ON TO THE YOSEMITE

On Tuesday the scene shifts to the Yosemite where the League of Independent Bankers will have the right of way for the discussion of their own peculiar problems and such other business as may come before this organization.

Wednesday is trust section day and the trust company delegates will be greeted by President Carr and listen to the annual address of the chairman, A. L. Lathrop, Union Bank and Trust Company, Los Angeles. C. Sumner James, Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank, Los Angeles, is secretary-treasurer of this section.

Trust laws will be discussed by Dean O. K. McMurray of the University of California. Other Los Angeles bankers on the program for this section include Leo S. Chandler, vice-president of the California Bank and slated for the presidency of the C.B.A.; L. H. Roseberry, Security Trust and Savings Bank, and Judge W. R. Hervey, vice-president of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank.

The various sections will then merge into the general convention on the program of which are included such well-known financiers and orators as Henry M. Robinson of Los Angeles, who will discuss "Our Foreign Relations;" Walter W. Head, president of the American Bankers' Association, whose topic is "Signs of the Times;" Jay D. Rising, vice-president of the National Park Bank of New York, on "The Business Outlook;" J. Franklin Johnson of San Francisco, State Superintendent of Banks, "Public Service;" H. C. Carr of Porterville, president of the California Bankers' Association, "President's Address;" C. F. Hamsher, president of the First National Bank, Los Gatos, "The Banker as a Financial Adviser;" Charles W. Wright of Santa Paula, "Farm Accounting by Banks;" H. Parker Holt, vice-president of the Holt Manufacturing Company, Stockton, "The Tractor as an Economic Factor."

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Committee reports will be made by the respective chairmen as follows:

Foot-and-mouth disease fund, W. E. Wilcox, San Francisco.

Legislation; J. F. Sartori, Los Angeles.

Taxation; John S. Drum, San Francisco.

Commerce and marine; George A. Van Smith, San Francisco.

Acceptances; H. D. Ivey, Los Angeles.

Standard Forms; William F. Morrish, Berkeley.

Education; R. I. McGinnis, Los Angeles.

Agriculture; W. T. Dinsmore, Riverside.

Group reports by chairmen of the various C.B.A., groups.

Leo S. Chandler of Los Angeles is said to be unopposed for the presidency of the organization which now includes within its membership more than 1100 banks throughout the State.

A golf tournament will be held during the week at Wawona and special entertainment has been arranged for the women. The social features of the convention are to be informal and include dances, afternoon teas and card parties. The convention will remain in official session until Saturday.

WORLD TRADERS

The World Traders of Los Angeles will devote a portion of their next dinner meeting to be held Thursday to a debate upon a question which has given rise to a diversity of opinion. The proposition hinges upon the resolution that the purchaser should pay the duty on extra weight and is based upon an importation of paper made by a local firm from Sweden to be laid down at Los Angeles Harbor duty paid. The shipment was invoiced at a certain weight and the seller advanced the duty on that weight. When unloaded and weighed by customs authorities it was found to weigh 1000 pounds more than the billing showed, presumably owing to absorption of moisture en route. Payment was made on the billed weight.

J. L. Coates, export manager for the Gilmore Oil Company, will argue the affirmative side of the question and W. S. Wheaton, president of the Pacific Transport and Trading Company will sustain the negative. Folowing the set debate there will be a free-for-all, catch-as-catch-can discussion from the floor, judges to be appointed at the meeting.

Other speakers will be Senor Manuel Reachi, Mexican Commercial Attache to Los Angeles; Walter E. Carr, Director-General of the Southern California Immigration District, and a "Hamburg Business Man," who, the preliminary announcement says, "is expected to give us the latest on trade conditions in Germany as measured by the adoption of the rentenmark."

BANK CLEARINGS

For the first time this year bank clearings show a slight loss in the total for the month, dropping to $592,299,645.91, as compared with $599,795,391.80, for the corresponding period last year and with $609,721,822 for April, 1924. They are the lowest since last September when the total was $574,000,000.

The decrease is easily accounted for through the inroads made upon business by the hoof-and-mouth epidemic, and because of other seasonal, political and business considerations incident to the readjustment which has been going forward during the month. The encouraging feature of the report is in the smallness of the decline, only a little more than 1 per cent, while many forecasters anticipated several times that percentage.

The June total for 1923 was $593,786,000 and with business on the upgrade there is every reason to anticipate a resumption of the normal increase for this month.

Following are the comparative figures for 1924 and 1923:

Month—	1923	1924	Pct. Inc.

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

Following twelve unsuccessful attempts to shut off water in the Rosecrans No. 1, at the depths varying from 3926 to 3960 feet, the Union Oil Company has drilled deeper and is now running four-inch casing to cement at 4041 feet, 115 feet below the point where the first oil sand was discovered. According to the company's official drilling report, the bottom is in brown shale with streaks of oil sand, and a renewed attempt to complete the well will be made immediately, it is reported.

While these efforts to make an oil well out of the No. 1 continue, the Union is building rig for Rosecrans No. 2, one location northwest of the original well. The derrick is about half completed, and drilling will begin in the near future.

Officials of the Superior Oil Company are reticent about their Maxwell No. 1 in the Rosecrans district, but it is learned on reliable authority that it is considerably past 4000 feet in depth, and that showings have been found.

Near Completion

The Shell Company expects to complete its Reyes No. 2, the first gasser of the Dominguez field, within the next few days, according to officials of the company. Nearly two months have been required to repair the damage caused when the well blew in. The hole is reported to be 4355 feet deep, forty-one feet deeper than when it broke from control.

Reyes No. 3 and No. 4, both of which are in oil sand, are expected to be the next producers on the Reyes lease.

Past 2000 Feet

The Loomis Community No. 1, the Shell Company's wildcat well in the Bell district, is drilling ahead below 2000 feet. Officials of the company report that the well is still too shallow for definite indications.

No Indications

The Miller & Lux wild cat, which is being drilled near Sargent by the Petroleum Midway Company is down 3615 feet without showings, according to officials of the company.

Still Fishing

The Standard Oil Company is still fishing for eight-inch casing in its Farrell well in the Inglewood district, according to field reports. The casing was jammed during the gas blowout several weeks ago.

To Set Casing

The Standard Oil Company is preparing to set surface casing in its Los Angeles Investment Company No. 2-1 at 1330 feet, according to field reports. The No. 1 well on the L. A. Investment lease is standing idle at 1060 feet, and No. 2-1 is rigged up, but has not yet been spudded in.

It is reported that the Standard well on the Los Angeles Extension lease is drilling ahead at about 3850 feet.

Chase Abandons

The L. B. Chase Oil Company has officially abandoned its well on the western side of the Dominguez field, according to the State Mining Bureau. The hole was drilled past 5000 feet, and work was suspended several weeks ago. It is the first official abandonment in the Dominguez field since the Callender No. 1 was brought in by the Union Oil Company last August.

The Birch interests are drilling a well south of the Case project, and across the road, with the asserted intention of drilling to 6000 feet unless oil is found above that point, or mechanical trouble interferes.

Hold Many Leases

Approximately thirty leases are held in the Rosecrans field by the Petroleum Midway Company, according to recent maps of that district. The size of the leases range from thirty-five acres to tracts as small as a city lot in the area west of the Union Oil Company's Athens No. 1. No immediate drilling operations in this field are contemplated, officials assert.

RUBBER MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, May 31.—The prospect for a firm market for raw rubber after the holiday was shattered when it was reported that during the week's business there was a loss of ¾d in London, making it necessary for the local market to lower their prices for spot and June ¼c to even up with London, but buyers met with considerable difficulty when they sought contracts at the decline.

Market Breaks Near Close of Short Session

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, May 31.—There was a much larger open interest in May corn than the trade anticipated, and prices fluctuated, especially the last when large sized buying and selling orders were ruled. The finish was at 75¾ to 76, the wide difference being due to numerous orders being given for execution at the close. As compared with Thursday, prices were ¼ to 2⅜c lower. Deferred deliveries were ⅝@⅛c lower. Stop order selling in wheat caused a decline of 1⅛ to 1⅜c, while oats were off ⅛ to ⅜c and rye was ⅝ to ⅞c lower.

Grain markets were somewhat unsettled the past week, but held up well until today. Breaking of the drought in the winter wheat belt led to selling of wheat with the finish 1⅛@2¼c lower than the previous week. Corn was 2¼c lower to ⅛c higher, May showing the most decline, while oats were ⅜c lower to ⅛c higher and rye off 2⅛c to 2⅝c. Lard was unchanged to 2½c higher, ribs 5½c higher and bellies 5@10c higher than a week ago.

Selling of wheat futures at Winnipeg by an operator who was a good buyer lower down found the market there poorly supported and made a sharp break which was quickly reflected there. Winnipeg was off 1⅝@1⅞c at the last, but the close was ⅜c under Chicago. There was some buying of May and selling of July here at 2 cents difference. Stop orders were uncovered on the way down. May closed at 1.04⅛ to 1.03⅞, July at 1.06, and September at 1.07⅝ to 1.07¾.

Foreign news was more of a bullish character with the Indian crop estimate reduced 15,000,000 bushels to a total of 361,000,000 bushels, compared with 369,000,000 bushels harvested last year and drought was also reported in Rumania. However, with evening up of the May steady under way there was a disposition to pay attention to routine news. Winnipeg will be closed Monday. Export demand was slow.

Corn market was influenced almost entirely by pit operations. May had a range of 4⅝ for the day and the finish was very unsettled, the closing figures being changed several times. September was quoted at 76@76⅛ to 76⅛ and July at 76⅝ to 76¼ at the last. Buying by a cash house was largely responsible for the upturn in May to 79⅝, but the market broke sharply as soon as the buying ceased. Routine news counted for little. Export demand was quiet.

The day's break of 1⅝ in wheat and of 3⅝ in corn occurred toward the close of the brief Saturday market and after an early advance it was ascribed to a variety of causes, among them lower Canadian prices and the prospective failure of the extraordinary "farm relief" measures at Washington. It was not easy to doubt, however, that the governing impulse was the general downward trend of prices and the more or less unsettled ideas now prevalent regarding the general trade positions.

Closing prices: Wheat—May, 1.03⅞; July, 1.06; September, 1.07⅝.

Corn—May, 75¾; July, 76¼; September, 76⅛.

Oats—May, 45⅝; July, 44; September, 39⅞.

Lard—July, 10.40; September, 10.67.

Ribs—July, 9.72.

A good opportunity. One of the oldest established automobile dealers has position open for 2 salesmen selling a popular priced, well-known car. Personality and willingness to work looked for, rather than long automobile selling experience. GILMORE OIL

Your investment in "Gilmore Shares" will not only earn 8% in cash dividends from the start, but it will allow you to participate in all "future profits" of the Company on an equal basis with the founders.

Remember, "Gilmore profits" in the past have been enormous, as evidenced by the fact, that an original investment of "$100.00" is worth "$50,000.00" today.

Exchange your "cats and dogs" and non-dividend paying stocks for "Gilmore Shares"—and make your money work for you now. Get in with a Company that in twenty years has built up one of the strongest independent oil companies in California—a Company, whose past dividend record compares with the best of them—Standard and all.

We recommend the immediate purchase of "Gilmore Shares" at par, $25.00 per share, as affording every investment safety plus large speculative profit possibilities as well. A postal will bring full details, without charge. Mail it today!

SHORT WEEK ON HOME EXCHANGE

Prices Reactionary With Oils Leading in Activity

L.A.I. Heads Industrials; Other Issues Quiet

Utilities Close Strong; Bank and Mining Stocks

BY FRANK L. GARDNER
(Banks, Huntley & Co.)

Price movements on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange during the past abbreviated week were reactionary with most prominent activity again in the oil shares.

The Union Oil issues and United Oil gave the best account of themselves. Union of California recorded only a minor loss, declining from an opening of 124 to 122 and closed finally at 123 1-2. Union Oil Associates sagged from 54 to 53 and closed at 53 1-4. Moderate strength was displayed by United Oil, which advanced from 25 3-4 to 25 7-8. Standard of California fluctuated between 58 1-4 and 56 1-4, and registered a net loss of 1 1-2 points for the week, and Pacific Oil quoted at one time during the week at 49 5-8 reacted to a low of 47, but closed somewhat improved around 47 1-2. A fairly strong undertone was evidenced by the quotations on Associated Oil which were maintained in the neighborhood of 29 1-2 throughout the week. General Petroleum made a net loss of 5-8 from 40 to 38 7-8, ex-dividend 50 cents per share.

Julian Preferred and Common were again active traders and both closed the week in strong demand. The preferred fluctuated narrowly between 24 1-2 and 25 and the common registered a brisk upswing from 15 to final bids at 17 1-8. Trading in United States Royalties was on an active scale at prices ranging from 12 1-2 to 14 cents, closing at 13, and Rice Ranch Oil changed hands in small quantity slightly improved figures, 1.03. Buying of Holly Development, ascribed to favorable reports of field operations, moved up the market from 35 to 40 cents, a recent high. Sales of Palmer Union Oil Preferred at 16 1-2 cents, registered a loss of about 5 cents in this issue and Republic Petroleum was slightly lower at 3 cents.

INDUSTRIALS

A considerable portion of the trading in the industrial and miscellaneous group was furnished by Los Angeles Investment which moved between 3.02 and 3.75. Buying inspired by reports of the striking of a new oil sand in well No. 2 was responsible for a strong close at 3.31. Sun Finance and Investment was in stronger demand around 1.02 1-2, and Laguna Land & Water Preferred sold at a new high for recent weeks at 1.25. The common at 2.00 was up 5 cents.

Globe Grain & Milling Common was practically unchanged and California Delta Farms sold at its former level, 14. The recent steady demand at 93 continued for Goodyear of California Preferred and Goodyear Textile Mills Preferred changed hands at 78, the previous week's price. A heavy tone developed in Sperry Flour Preferred, which sagged approximately 4 points on offerings.

PUBLIC UTILITIES

Los Angeles Gas & Electric Preferred slumped from 88 to 87 1-2 but rallied to a strong close at 88, and Southern California Edison 7 per cent preferred advanced a half-point to 103 1-4. Edison Common sold all week at its previous level, 101.

Further weakness developed in San Joaquin Light & Power Common which declined from around 26 to 24 1-2, but the regular 6 and 7 per cent preferred issues displayed strength at 88 1-2. San Joaquin Prior Preferred was unchanged around 98 1-2 to 99. A strong demand was in evidence for Southern Counties Gas 8 per cent preferred around 97 to 97 1-2, and Pacific Gas First Preferred maintained its former level.

BANK STOCKS

Bank of Italy was in active demand at considerably improved prices, registering a high at 234. Several sales of Security Trust at 312 and a small block of National City at 127 represented the additional activity in the bank list. Although the demand for bank stocks is well sustained at approximately record high levels, last week's trading would not indicate any desire on the part of investors in these securities to liquidate.

MINING STOCKS

Richmond Copper continued to be the center of interest in the mining issues. Despite no news of important development at the property the stock closed strong at 19 1-2 cents, after reaching a low on Wednesday of 18 1-2. A gain of 3 cents was recorded by United Eastern which sold up to 64 cents, but Tom Reed lost 2 cents and closed around 33. Telluride was under pressure and sagged to 15 1-2, but final transactions at 16 cents indicated moderate improvement. Other very low-priced issues changed hands in small quantity around former levels.

ORANGES

The market on both California navel and Valencia oranges continued to show improvement the past week. Prices were generally higher in both the private sale markets and the auctions, the only exception being on navels showing heavy decay.

Offerings of Valencias in the auction centers will predominate in another week when navels and miscellaneous varieties will be practically cleaned up.

The reaction of the market to a higher level now that the sound, good-keeping Valencias are obtainable is assurance to shippers that the trade have turned to Valencias with renewed eagerness. The one difficulty facing shippers is the size problem. Whether the extreme small sizes should be marketed or not has not yet been thoroughly threshed out. Some shippers are of the opinion that an agreement between packers to pack no 324s and smaller in fancy or 288s and smaller in choice, except on definite price orders, would go a long way toward helping out the size problem.

Florida citrus shipments are now averaging forty-one cars daily. Packing-houses all over the State are closing up, although a few houses still have a considerable volume of late fruit to ship. With Florida competition pretty well eliminated for this season, California Valencias will have full swing for the next five or six months.

Imperial Valley cantaloupes must be reckoned with by California orange shippers at this particular time. To date a total of 438 cars of cantaloupes have been shipped as compared with fifty cars in 1923; none, 1922; sixty-one, 1921; ninety-one, 1920, and two in 1919. Cantaloupe shippers predict that the daily movement will get to the 500-car mark by the first week in June. The consensus of opinion is that the crop is far better spaced and will mature along at intervals rather than reach large movements for short periods with longer drops. The peak may pass 650 cars, which authorities agree is a maximum for safety. It is expected that there will be more 400-car days and possibly more 500-car days than in 1923, but the peak will be short and the decline more gradual than in other years. In 1923 the peak was reached on June 20 with a shipment of 554 cars, while in 1922 662 cars went out on June 27. Latest reports from the valley state that warm days and nights now predominate.

F.o.b. California quotations on fancy Valencias are as follows, according to district: Size 126s, $3.90 to $4.25; 150s, $3.75 to $4.05; 176s, $3.00 to $3.35; 200s, $2.50 to $3.00; 216s, $2.00 to $2.75; 252s, $1.75 to $2.25; 288s, $1.50 to $2.00; 324s, $1.50 to $1.75.

LEMONS

The market on California lemons is easier, on account of continued cool weather throughout the eastern markets.

F.o.b. California quotations on extra-choice fruit ranges from $2.50 for 360s size to $3.75 for 300s.

There are on hand and available for sale within the next thirty days in all United States ports approximately 470 cars of foreign lemons, as against 746 cars for the corresponding period last season and 585 cars two years ago.

WOOL MARKET

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BOSTON, May 31.—The export of foreign wool held in bond at this port continues, although in light volume. For the week ending May 24, around 100,000 pounds of grease wool was cleared for export, and about 22,000 pounds of mohair, camel and alpaca noils. Practically all of the wool which could be exported at a profit seems to have been disposed of.

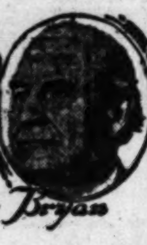
Bryan's Weekly Bible Talk

By William Jennings Bryan



The Prophet of Sunshine

Text of Today's Bible Talk by Mr. Bryan

Ezekiel xxxiv, 11-16, 25-26)

For thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I, even I, will both search my sheep, and seek them out.

As a shepherd seeketh out his flock in the day that he is among his sheep that are scattered; so will I seek out my sheep, and will deliver them out of all places where they have been scattered in the cloudy and dark day.

And I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Israel by the rivers, and in all the inhabited places of the country.

I will feed them in a good pasture, and upon the high mountains of Israel shall their fold be: there shall they lie in a good fold, and in a fat pasture shall they feed upon the mountains of Israel.

I will feed my flock, and I will cause them to lie down, saith the Lord God.

I will seek that which was lost, and bring again that which was driven away, and will bind up that which was broken, and will strengthen that which was sick: but I will destroy the fat and the strong; I will feed them with judgment.

And I will make with them a covenant of peace, and will cause the evil beasts to cease out of the land: and they shall dwell safely in the wilderness, and sleep in the woods.

And I will make them and the places round about my hill a blessing; and I will cause the shower to come down in his season; there shall be showers of blessing.

Our text for today's Bible talk is in striking contrast with the verses upon which last week's Bible talk was built. The latter dealt with sin and punishment—with exile and bondage. The calamities foretold by the melancholy prophet, Jeremiah, were being visited upon a wayward people.

Ezekiel, on the contrary, is the prophet of sunshine, the messenger of gladness, a leader of the new day. His song is as cheering as the song of the lark—his story of coming blessing as refreshing as the dew. Jeremiah had represented God as an avenging judge administering justice; Ezekiel pictures Him as the loving Shepherd and the dispenser of mercy.

"For thus saith the Lord God: Behold I, even I, will both search my sheep, and seek them out.

"As a shepherd seeketh out his flocks in the day that he is among his sheep that are scattered; so will I seek out my sheep, and will deliver them out of all places where they have been scattered in the cloudy and dark day."

OLD WORLD SHEPHERDS

Few in the United States know the shepherd as he is described in the Old Testament, because here the sheep, except those in the semiarid regions of the West, are kept in fenced pastures and fed like cattle. The Twenty-third Psalm loses much of its beauty unless one has seen how sheep are cared for in Palestine or in other places where ancient methods of tending flocks are still employed.

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside the still waters," presents a beautiful picture of the tender shepherd's care—a picture which is as real today in the Holy Land as it was in the days of David and Ezekiel.

While traveling from Haifa to Nazareth, we saw pastoral life exactly as it was thousands of years ago. The shepherd's carry a crook and lead their sheep instead of driving them or directing them as our herdsmen do with the aid of shepherd dogs.

At one watering place, we saw three shepherds resting in the shade while the three flocks of sheep mingled together, drinking from the stream or lying upon the grass. When the time came to separate, the shepherds started off in different directions and the sheep, rising and stretching themselves, wended their way to the hillsides, each sheep knowing its master and following them as faithfully as a dog.

GOD'S SOLICITUDE

At one time, we saw a shepherd carrying in his arms a crippled lamb, the mother following as closely to him as she could.

The language of Ezekiel is redolent with the odor of the field and abounding in pictures drawn from pastoral life.

God is to "seek out" his sheep; He is to "deliver them out of all places where they have been scattered in the cloudy and dark day;" He will "bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries" and "bring them to their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Israel by the rivers, and in all the inhabited places of the country."

Every word used enlarges the solicitude of God and magnifies His care for His people.

Continuing, the prophet describes the pasture to be furnished, as "good" and "fat." They are to lie down in "a good fold." God was to "seek that which was lost" and "bring again that which was driven away" and "bind up that which was broken" and "strengthen that which was sick." There were to be "showers of blessing."

All this detail is employed to give emphasis to the kindness and mercy of the loving Heavenly Father.

HAPPINESS FOR ALL

The two lessons which stand out prominently in our text are: first, the temporary character of punishment, if it brings repentance; and, second, the permanent character of God's love.

The Heavenly Father has planned for the happiness of all; it is His will that every life shall be full of joy and that every soul shall be saved.

With a wisdom that is unlimited, and a love that is unfathomable, He has devised man as the supreme piece of His workmanship.

His body is so ingeniously constructed as to give him the maximum of health, of strength, and of happiness.

His mind is so fashioned as to give him the maximum of mentality and the greatest amount of intellectual joy.

His heart is so moulded as to permit the widest range of emotion and the highest reach of purpose.

When the body, the mind, and the heart work in harmony and are obedient to the will of God, it is scarcely possible to put a limit to man's capabilities.

But, in order to distinguish man from the brute and bestow upon him the privilege of worshiping God, he must be permitted to sin—his love of God must be voluntary. The distance that man can fall when he rejects God is measured by the height to which he can rise when he is obedient.

PUNISHMENT NECESSARY

Punishment of sin is necessary, not only that the law may be vindicated, but that man may be brought back to the enjoyment of that which is promised to those whose lives are "in tune with the Infinite."

As a parent harms a child if, by mistaken kindness, its waywardness goes unchecked, so God would be unkind to His children if He did not restore them by enforced penalties when they go astray—"Whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom He receiveth."

But punishment should be administered in affection and should cease when the purpose has been accomplished.

Israel's punishment was limited in advance to seventy years, and the end of that period was drawing near. The rod was to be lifted and the avenging hand was to be extended in mercy.

And so God deals with His children today.

He advises them; He entreats them; He warns them; He punishes them, and then crowns repentance with forgiveness.

He seeks them out, binds up their wounds, leads them into new pastures, and gives them a new trial.

POWER OF REPENTANCE

Often the consciousness of unworthiness and the gratitude aroused by pardoning grace stimulate to greater activity than the repentant one had known—greater than he would have known but for the experience that revealed the depravity of his own nature, the blackness of sin, and the goodness of God.

I met a man on the train a few years ago who told me of his experience.

He was indicted for using the mails to defraud and was convicted. Before his penitentiary term began, he escaped from prison and for some years was a fugitive from justice.

One night he was drawn by chance into a religious meeting and converted. He was born again and immediately started out to make amends.

He hunted up the prosecutor who had conducted the case against him and insisted on being taken to the penitentiary. The genuineness of his conversion, however, so impressed those who had secured his conviction that, without a request from him, they proceeded to apply for a pardon.

As soon as his unsolicited release was announced, he sought some way in which he could atone for his crime against society. When I met him, he was a publisher of a paper devoted exclusively to the exposing of the kinds of frauds of which he himself had been guilty. He used his own familiarity with the devious ways of criminals of this kind to protect society against them.

This is but one of innumerable illustrations of the effect of sincere repentance leading reformed men to perform valuable service.

Our thanks should ascend to the throne continually for the brevity of God's sentences when they have worked a reformation, and the completeness of the restoration of those who are truly sorry for their sins. "For godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of."

EVERY CHRISTIAN'S DUTY

One of the most beautiful of our Sunday School songs is built upon the parable of The Lost Sheep. It pictures Christ's anxious search for the wanderer.

The "ninety and nine that safely lay in the shelter of the fold" were forgotten for the moment while the Master hunted for the one that was lost.

A new version of the song has been written to condemn the indifference of the "ninety and nine" to those that have wandered away. It presents a different idea from the original song, but teaches a lesson that needs to be learned.

If the Heavenly Father and His only begotten Son are so concerned about the fate of a single soul, how can the Christians who are themselves safe within the fold be unconcerned about the souls that have never been brought to the foot of the cross, or who, having been once aroused, have been drawn away by the alluring sins of the world?

In proportion as the followers of the meek and lowly Nazarene have caught His spirit and are imbued with His purpose, they must be anxious for the salvation of all; they cannot be content until every knee bows and every tongue confesses.

Very Select

Two little girls were playing at weddings and the nurse was much amused watching the elder drape herself in a curtain. Presently the younger child said: "But, Betty, where is the bridegroom?"

"Oh," replied Betty, "we aren't having a bridegroom. This is a very select wedding."—[Boston Transcript.

Affairs of the week

By Juana Neal Levy

FASCINATING in all the glitter and brilliance of pomp and ceremony are the functions of the Army and Navy, for with all the gorgeousness and gold braid trimmings there is also a dignity which no other ceremonial possesses. Brilliant and beautiful was the wedding in Pensacola, Fla., last Wednesday evening, when Lieut. Roy Maxwell Signer, U.S.N., took his bride Miss Frances Bland Williams, the beautiful and ing young daughter of the late Theodorick Armistead Wil- and Mrs. Williams, of Los Angeles and Norfolk, Va. Their cere- was read at 8 o'clock in the historic old Christ Church of the post town, Rev. Hendree Harrison officiating. It was strictly wedding with its pomp and ceremony, the beautiful bride beneath the crossed sabers of the naval officers who served Signer as ushers.

bride was attired in a gown ic fame, being a Paquin of more than 200 years ago, been worn in her family of her ancestors. It was on bouffant lines of heavy duchess satin, embroidered in beads and seed pearls, with train hanging from the ers. The trimmings were of lace and every other rose in silver, the paneled front completed in a sunburst of crystal beads and seed pearls. wedding veil of tulle was also lace, bordered and to the back of the head in ruff, a coronet of orange and the bridal bouquet orchids and lilies of the with shower of orange blos-

Samuel Hyer Arthur, for- Miss Helen Sheahan of Los assisted as matron of and Liuet. Arthur, U.S.N., Lieut. Signer as best man, ushers were Lieut. Max U.S.N.; Lieut E. P. U.S.N.; Lieut. Silas Bruce U.S.N., and Lieut. Herbert U.S.N. The church was ly decorated with a profu- lilies, roses and ferns, and Williams gave her daughter into the keeping of the bridegroom at the chancel rail. Following a reception Lieut. and Mrs. Signer left for a honeymoon trip which will include New Orleans, and after their return will make their home at Pensacola, where Lieut. Signer is stationed.

Mrs. Williams wore a becoming gown of white French crepe, embroidered in crystals and black beads over black and white silk, and she carried orchids and lilies of the valley. A hat of white with coque feathers completed the costume. Mrs. Signer's father was one of the leading attorneys of Los Angeles and Norfolk, Va., where they lived before coming to California some ten years ago, and their home is at 736 South Wilton Place.

Mrs. Williams, who with her daughter, left for the south ten day ago and will return shortly, planning, however, to make an extended trip east, and later will go abroad indefinitely. The bride, who is a beautiful young woman, was prominent socially in the South, where her ancestors were instrumental in the establishment of Virginia, and have lived for several generations in Norfolk, where she made her debut last year.

Another bride whose wedding was one of the events of recent date is Mrs. Walter Francis Olerich, formerly Miss Florence Brick, the ceremony taking place in St. Paul's Catholic Church Wednesday morning, May 21. Mrs. Olerich is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brick. Following the nuptial mass, at which Reverend Father Blackwell officiated, a wedding breakfast was served the relatives and bridal party at the Mary Louise. Mr. and Mrs. Olerich are motoring in the north on their honeymoon and after their return will make their home here.

One of the popular young brides who is being welcomed by the family and friends of her husband is Mrs. Morris Milbank, whose marriage to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nichols Milbank of Wilshire Place was one of the events of last month. Mrs. Milbank was formerly Miss Margaret Willey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Willey of Santa Cruz, and in her honor Mrs. Nichols Milbank and her attractive daughter, Miss Mary Frances Milbank, entertained with an elaborate tea Saturday afternoon, May 10. During the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Nichols Milbank and Miss Milbank in the East Mr. and Mrs. Morris Milbank are occupying the family residence, and later will build for themselves a home here.

Of much interest to local society was the announcement made in The Times Tuesday morning of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Madelyn Merle Pendleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Merle Pendleton of South Grand avenue, to Frank Paul Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Jones of West Twenty-fifth street. The wedding which will take place in Memorial Baptist Church, Grand avenue, will be one of the events of June 14. Miss Pendleton belongs to one of the oldest families in Los Angeles and is a niece of Mrs. Albert Carlos Jones and Mrs. Belle Pendleton Harolson. Her paternal grandfather, the late Rev. William Henry Pendleton, D. D., was pastor of the first Protestant church in Southern California, coming out from New York many years ago. Many attractive affairs are being planned for this charming young bride-elect before the wedding day.

The marriage of Miss Jesslyn McCully, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dixon McCully of the Burlington to Paul Packard of San Francisco took place Tuesday evening in the East India room of the Ambassador, the ceremony being read by Rev. George Davidson of St. John's Church. The bride wore an exquisite creation of white chiffon and silver cloth and carried an arm shower of orchids, roses and lilies of the valley. The tulle veil was edged with rose pointe lace and was

Gifts for the Home That Become Cherished Possessions

June is the month for remembrance. Across this month's calendar parade momentous events of the present and tender memories of the past. Tokens of remembrance will feature important anniversaries, gifts will be selected for the bride of the month, for the proud recipient of the diploma, for many other happy occasions.

The importance of these events warrants a careful and thoughtful selection of the gifts which commemorate them. The gift should reflect this thoughtfulness and should carry with it a constant reminder of the one who remembered.

A gift for the home meets ideally these requisites. At the "California" an unusually extensive variety of such gift pieces may be found. In but few places in all America may there be seen such ideal gift suggestions for the home as you will find here. The reason for this is not a matter of accident or coincidence, but is the result of painstaking and careful planning on the part of those responsible for this assemblage of appropriate gift pieces.

A few suggestions among the unusually extensive variety of appropriate Gift Pieces, ranging in price from as low as $3.50 up to the more expensive pieces are: Tilting Top Tables, Windsor Chairs, Convenient Dinner Wagons, Beautiful Mirrors, Exclusive Lamps, Inviting Arm Chairs, Writing Desks, Vanity Dressers and Unusual Candle Sticks and Candelabra.

The "California" extends a cordial invitation to view the very beautiful gift selections. You will find that their unusual appropriateness as gifts carries no premium in the price you pay. A comparison of values will convincingly demonstrate this fact to you.

Our window displays this week offer many interesting Gift suggestions.

After her return the last of the month she will make a week's visit at Hotel del Coronado.

At the Virginia

Viscountess Gladstone, wife of the fourth son of the late William E. Gladstone, Prime Minister of England, is a guest for the month at the Virginia, Long Beach. Lady Gladstone, who is much impressed with Southern California, admits that she made the trip across the continent from Washington for the sole purpose of seeing the wonderful country of oranges and flowers. Her husband, Viscount Gladstone, was for several years Governor-General of South Africa, and before that time was a member of the British Parliament. He is not now in public life, but is devoting his time to general welfare work in England. Lady Gladstone, who was with her husband in South Africa, says that Southern California reminds her very much of the veldt. She is planning to return to England in October.

In the East

Among the Angelenos who are enjoying a delightful visit in the East is Miss Florence McGarry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McGarry of Estrella avenue, who accompanied Mr. and Mrs. John Barnes Miller at Princeton, N. J., where her fiance, Morris Barnes Miller, is a student. Miss Carrita Miller, daughter of the John Barnes Millers who is attending one of the fashionable finishing schools in New York, has also joined the party, and they are having a glorious time at the festivities attending commencement at the university. Before returning home Miss McGarry will visit in Illinois, Kansas and Idaho, and does not plan to return to Los Angeles before July 4, although Mr. and Mrs. Miller will return to their Pasadena home about the tenth of this month.

Angelenos in Paris

Among the many prominent residents of Los Angeles who are enjoying a visit in the French capital are Mr. and Mrs. Allan C. Balch, who are stopping at the Crillon, and Miss Gwendolyn Laughlin who, with Mrs. William Barnard, has been abroad for some months, is also at the same hostelry. Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Wright and their daughter, Miss Georgiana Failes of Pasadena, who have been traveling on the continent for several months, are sailing on the Leviathan on the 20th inst. for home. Mrs. Frank Emery and her daughter, Miss Katherine Emery of Pasadena, who have been in Paris for a month, are now sojourning in Biaritz, while Mr. and Mrs. Tod Ford, who have been in Paris for some months in connection with the experts' committee on reparations, sailed several days ago for the United States. Kenneth Davenport, who has been in Paris for several months, is in London and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rider are in Dresden, while Oscar Mueller is in Paris, as are also Mrs. M. R. Wood, Miss Margaret Wood and John D. White.

For Bride-Elect

Miss Corrine Kengel, who will be one of the brides of the week, has been the guest of honor at numerous charming affairs recently, among them being a dinner dance with which her uncle, Frank Jenson, entertained at the Biltmore when the guests included Mrs. Julie Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ray Smith, Miss Dorothy Carman, Leland Scamahorn, Miss Kengle and her fiance, Benjamin Flemish Albertson, Saturday afternoon, Miss Eleanor Barry entertained with a luncheon at Beverly Hills Hotel, the guests including Miss Kengel, Mrs. James McMasters, Mrs. Jack Olerich, Mrs. Raymond Taylor, Miss Ada Campbell, Mrs. Paul Ferrell, Mrs. Zeb Terry, Miss Dorothy Carman, Mrs. Harold Smith, Mrs. Blair MacMahon and Mrs. Ralph Ensign. Mrs. Stanford Whiting was another hostess who entertained in honor of Miss Kengel, the affair taking place at her home in Ingraham street. Woodward entertained Wednesday afternoon at Beverly Hills Hotel, honoring Mrs. William Bowen of Long Beach and Mrs. Robert Kerr of Pasadena. Places were arranged for thirty guests. Wedding Date Set

Miss Marion Norton, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Norton of 203 South Norton avenue, has chosen Thursday as the date for her wedding with Sydney Grossman. The ceremony will take place at the family residence at 5 o'clock and there will be a reception in the evening from 8:30 until 10:30. Miss Ethel Grossman, sister of the bridegroom, will assist as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Sylvia Herzog of San Francisco and Miss Elizabeth Norton. Robert Weil of San Francisco will serve Mr. Grossman as best man.

Summer Tea

One of the most beautifully appointed affairs of the season in honor of the many brides-elect was the bridge and tea, with which Miss Dorothy Merrill entertained at her home in West Twenty-third street, Miss Ruth Collison, bride-elect of Eugene Willson Ross. The decorations carried out the summer motif in all the details, parasols in gay colors decorating the bridge tally scores and the spring and summer flowers were held in great parasols. Thirty-five guests enjoyed the afternoon, most of them being members of the Junior Ebell Club, of which Miss Collison is secretary, and Miss Merrill is vice-president. Miss Merrill was assisted by her mother, Mrs. C. C. Merrill, and her sister, Miss Alice Merrill. Following the bridge games Miss Collison was presented with a huge parasol, which was filled with dainty packages wrapped in white tissue paper and tied with pink ribbons, when opened forming a linen shower for the dower chest.

Luncheon Party

Mrs. Francisco de la Riva, formerly Miss Adelaide Duque, who returned recently from an extended wedding trip abroad, which included several months' visit with her husband's relations in Madrid, Spain, was the guest of honor at a charmingly arranged luncheon with which Miss Marion Wigmore entertained at her parents' home in West Adams street. Spring flowers and fern were combined in the table decorations and the dozen guests were all intimate friends of the guest of honor. Mr. and Mrs. de la Riva are visiting at the home of their mother, Mrs. Thomas Duque, in South Berendo street.

Out of Town

Pasadena

Another week has come and gone but the proverbial Dan Cupid seems to have shown no evidence of idleness, judging from the large number of engagements announced and weddings solemnized.

Of particular interest in Pasadena society circles is the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Arline Marrietta Falkenau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Falkenau, 940 Rubio street, Altadena, who on the evening of the 19th inst will become the bride of Eugenet Frederick Rouse, son of Mrs. Albert Rouse of Chicago.

The ceremony will take place at the picturesque Westminster Presbyterian Church in Altadena at 8 o'clock and promises to be one of the most beautiful ones of the season.

The quaint little Church of the Angels was the scene of the marriage of Miss Marjorie Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grace F. Marshall of 1780 North Allen avenue to Shirley Willis Owen, son of Mrs. C. W. Owen of 345 North El Molina avenue, May 24 which Rev. Leslie Learned, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church, officiating.

Attendants included Mrs. H. L. Doolittle, matron of honor, Miss Marie Stanton of Los Angeles and Misses Marguerita Sanborn and Beatrice Butterfield of Pasadena, bridesmaids; Howard Wookey, best man and Carroll Owen, David R. Davis and Charles Bowling, ushers. A wedding supper followed at the Rose Tree Tea House with covers laid for twenty. Mr. and Mrs. Owen will make their home in Pasadena.

Another attractive wedding was that of Miss Alma Beatrice Cowles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Cowles of 1809 Pepper street, who became the bride of Russell Morley Otis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Otis of Stevenson avenue, the ceremony taking place at the Throop Memorial Church with Rev. Carl F. Henry, officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Lois Palmer as maid-of-honor and Misses Helen Henry and Florence Hammond as bridesmaids while Arthur McKaid acted as best man and Thomas C. Allen and Robert Grove were ushers. Following the commencement exercises at the California Institute of Technology, where Mr. Otis is to receive his doctor's degree, the couple will leave for New York where they will make their home.

A number of delightful affairs have been planned by Miss Grace Nielson of 600 North Fair Oaks avenue, complimenting her house-guest, Miss Dorothy F. Martens of Lakewood, O. Among them was

[Murillo for Western Press Service]

Mrs. Frederic Lincoln Dean

Mrs. Dean will be remembered as Mrs. Elinor Fay O'Neill, daughter of John Parker Fay of Boston, and her marriage to Mr. Dean was solemnised recently in St. John's Church, Rev. George Davidson officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Dean have returned from their wedding trip in the north and are at home to their friends at 217 Highland avenue, Hollywood.

Better Strawberry Jam Ea ily made in 15 minutes

Tastes Better—Looks Better—Costs Less and Never Fails

By ANN PROCTOR

Everyone loves strawberry jam. For a spread on bread or hot biscuit, nothing seems to equal it. Its wonderful flavor makes children of us all. Until now, however, an expert was required to make it, and it has been expensive. CERTO, the natural "jell" making property of fruit, has solved the problem so that anyone can make and eat a lot of this delicious preserve.

To make strawberry jam by the quick and easy CERTO method, follow this simple recipe:

Crush about 2 quarts ripe berries in separate portions, so that each berry is mashed. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries into large kettle, add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for one full minute, remove from fire and stir in ½ bottle (scant ½ cup) CERTO. From time jam is taken off fire allow to stand not over 5 minutes by the clock, before pouring. In the meantime, skim, and stir occasionally to cool slightly. Then pour quickly.

Use same recipe for raspberry, blackberry, dewberry or loganberry jam.

This CERTO process banishes all the guess work or worry as perfect results are certain when a simple recipe is followed. Unlike the old method "pound for pound" mixture boiled for thirty or more minutes, with considerable juice, color and flavor of the fruit being boiled away, the economical CERTO method requires only one minute's boiling and thereby saves the juice to make one-half more jam. That's the only reason why more sugar is used with CERTO.

CERTO is a pure fruit product—contains no gelatine or preservative. CERTO positively saves time, fruit, flavor and guess work. It makes all kinds of jams and jellies—some you have never tasted before. CERTO is highly endorsed by national authorities and local cooking experts. Every woman who tries it recommends it to her friends and says she'll never be without it. Over seven million bottles were used last year.

The above recipe and nearly 100 other Jams, Jellies and Marmalades are in the CERTO Book of Recipes which is enclosed with every bottle of CERTO.

Get a bottle of CERTO from your grocer right away. Start the new—the sure, quick, economical way of making jams and jellies that keep indefinitely. You'll never return to the old "hit or miss" method. Make plenty of strawberry jam this year—no home ever has too much.

Why One Woman Hated Housework

Gas On the Stomach Made Her Drowsy and Work a Burden

"For gas on the stomach Adlerika has no equal. I used to feel drowsy and work was a burden to me. After using two bottles of Adlerika I feel like doing my work and enjoy life again." (Signed) Mrs. W. H. Clintsman.

Intestinal Antiseptic

There is now offered to the public a preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a COMPLETE system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows:

It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacili in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here.

It is the most complete system cleanser ever offered to the public, acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removing foul matter which poisoned the system for months and which nothing else can dislodge. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the alimentary canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement, and notice how much more foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you. In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach and sick headache, one spoonful Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports from Physicians

"I found Adlerika the best in my entire 37 years' experience." (Signed) Dr. G. Eggers.

"I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. P. (Name given on request.)

"I have found nothing in my 50 years' practice to excel Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver.

"After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the AWFUL IMPURITIES eliminated from my system." (Signed) J. E. Puckett.

Adlerika is a constant surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, on account of its rapid, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—[Advertisement.

East Whittier

Since the announcement of her betrothal to J. Wilfred Haworth and the date set for the wedding as June 12, the many friends of Miss Eloise Ware have vied with each other in heaping social courtesies upon her, attesting the esteem in which she is held by a wide circle of friends. Among late social attentions were the miscellaneous showers given for her by Mrs. Fred Campbell, her sister, and Mrs. Merrill Phillips at the home of the former, Tuesday afternoon, and also the party given by Mrs. Bert E. Howe a few afternoons earlier. The guests at the Campbell home were the Mesdames Martha J. Ware, Richard Haworth, George Burnett, William Milhous, Dewey Page, Warren Mendenhall, John Carter and the Misses Wilma Ware Estabrook, Carolyn Kenworthy, Florence Tillotson and Ivy Jones.

Dorsett and Mrs. Herbert E. Tebbetts were winners in the putting contest on the golf links. The morning was pleasantly passed with golf for those who preferred the open spaces and mah jongg for those who preferred the shade of the wide verandas. A picnic lunch was served at noon.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lake was the scene of an interesting gathering Monday evening when eighteen friends assembled to assist in the celebration of Mrs. Lake's birthday anniversary. The guests were from Whittier, East Whittier, Bellflower and Long Beach.

Groups of charmingly gowned women added to the scene. The work of Helena Dunlap, Benjamin Brown and many others well known, was shown. Long Beach

Returning from or preparing to leave upon world tours, summer abroad, or just seeing America first, with farewell parties given by friends left behind, still occupies many of the society folk. Among those who have returned home is Mrs. Edward L. Newel', who is back at 225 East Tenth street from an eight months' journey that included the foreign countries usually visited in a trip around the globe. Joining her mother, Mrs. Fred C. Edwards, Sr., and brother, Fred C. Edwards, Jr., in Manila, the party continued their journey which was completed in Long Beach.

Bidding bon voyage to Mrs. Clay B. White and her neice, Miss Mae O'Brien, who will leave early in June on a summer of travel in Europe, and welcoming home Mrs. W. S. Meissner, who was a member of the guest group, is also to be a summer traveler, as she plans to leave June 15 for New York where she will join the Brownell party for several months European travel. Mrs. Meissner captured the high trophy and Mrs. L. D. Miller the second in the tournament. A leather-bound note book was presented Mrs. White by the hostess, whose refreshments consisted of ice cream trains, ocean liners and sail boats, with bon voyage wishes etched in pink on the white iced cakes. Wearing a peach colored canton crepe heavily trimmed in crystal beads, Miss Fern Nilsen, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Earl Herkermer was best man, Miss Mildred Winters playing Mendelssohn's wedding march. Pink and white roses were used decoratively. A wedding breakfast followed the felicitations when Mr. and Mrs. Perrie left on a three weeks' motoring trip to San Francisco. They will be at home after June 10 at 528 Mountain View avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Tucker, who sailed last January on a round-the-world trip, arrived last week in New York. After speding several weeks there and in Illinois, they will complete the circle by returning to their home, 1745 East Ocean Boulevard. Mr. Tucker is a local banker.

As a couretsy to Miss Louise Robinson, who will become the bride of Gerald Delos Kint Wednesday, June 4, in the Congregational Church, Mrs. J. N. Kint delightfully entertained with a shower Saturday afternoon in her home, 911 Rose avenue. Spring flowers were used abundantly and guests numbered twenty. Impersonating cupid, Betty Kint, small daughter of the hostess, presented the guest gifts.

Complimentary to their house guest, Mrs. Sugar Orbutt-Gamble, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Osborne presided over a dinner-dansant Wednesday in their home, 12 Esperanza avenue. Sweet peas and ferns formed the decorations. Guests included Maj. and Mrs. B. B. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Biggs, Mr. and Mrs. Harle Nix, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Billy McCain, Mrs. Ola Wheeler, Mrs. Sugar Orbutt-Gamble, Miss Lola Merrill, Lieut. B. Huntley, W. Weston and C. Pritchard.

Miss Virginia McCahon was the honoree at a dance given by her mother in their home early in the week.

Over 300 new members of the Santa Monica Women's Club were the honor guests at a tea given in the clubhouse Monday afternoon.

The Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club met this week at the home of Mrs. David J. DuFresne.

San Pedro

Eighty invitations were issued for the exquisitely appointed luncheon and card party at which Mrs. M. F. Decker and Mrs. Montgomery Phister of San Pedro were hostesses recently, entertaining at the California Yacht Club building in Wilmington. Variegated spring blossoms, massed in tall baskets, formed the floral setting for the affair, at which bridge and five hundred were the diversions following the luncheon. Mrs. E. L. Balch and Mrs. Ray Pierson captured the prizes at bridge and Mrs. Allen Voorhees and Mrs. L. W. Wells were the winners at five hundred. A late afternoon luncheon was served on the conclusion of the games.

Forty friends were guests of Mrs. Martin L. Mayer of San Pedro at a luncheon and theater party recently given. The guests were assembled at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles for the luncheon, served at four tables, and appointments were in the pastel shades. A mound of pink roses and fern, formed of corsage bouquets, which were favors, centered each table and place cards were of the pastel tints. A theater party at the Orpheum followed the luncheon.

Inspiration for a charming affair at which Miss Mary Walton entertained for the Justamere Club recently at her home at 1003 Beacon street, was Miss Elsa Von Aspe, a member of the club, whose marriage to Waldo Ballard of Long Beach will take place June 11 in a wedding to be solemnized at the home of her mother in San Pedro. Miss Von Aspe was showered with a number of miscellaneous gifts and five hundred was the diversion at the affair, Miss Mildred Brannen winning first prize, and Mrs. J. Schexnayder, the consolation prize. The affair concluded with a beautifully appointed supper.

Officers of Fort MacArthur and their wives and a number of out-of-town guests were included in the charmingly arranged affair at which Maj. George Ruhlen, commandant of the fort, and Mrs. Ruhlen entertained recently. The post gymnasium was the scene of the affair and an orchestra of several pieces furnished music for dancing.

Bracelet Week Extended

25% Reduction on Gem Set Flexible Bracelets

to Continue One Week More

THE offering of a quarter-million dollars' worth of Gem Set Bracelets at 25% less than our regular prices has bought such a popular response that we are going to continue the offering for one week more.

This price reduction is made in the very face of the extreme popularity of the Gem Set Bracelet. There is probably no more fashionable item of jewelry today than the Jeweled Bracelet. It is regarded as an essential accessory to correct jeweling of every well attired woman.

Feagans & Co. show probably a greater variety of unusual creations in Gem Set Bracelets than any other retail jewelry store in this country.

During this week you can make a very important saving by taking advantage of the price reductions. After this week the price discounts will not be allowed, for Feagans and Company prices are normally lower than is customary among the better jewelers.

THERE IS SUCH A THING AS CARRYING AN EDUCATION TOO FAR.

Today's Lesson

Study the screen! What did you learn at last night's cinema that you didn't know before? Staff Artist Bob Day has picked up a lot of useful information, which he herewith passes on. You can do likewise. Read the following hints. Improve your mind in your recreational hours.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

WHAT is all this pother I hear, this ranting and bitter criticism of the pictures as being low-brow and non-educational? I rise right here to combat it.

As a critic I have had unusual opportunities for learning from pictures, so I do not blame those whose visual education has been neglected. Indeed I gladly pass along the valuable information I have been able to glean through long field observation in what is often called the motion-picture field. Not hoping, however, to escape censure, as all great discoverers are ever subject to calumny.

The camera does not lie. This perhaps sounds trite, but I feel that I must emphasize this truism if we are to realize how much we can learn from pictures. Pictures are indeed a vast storehouse of knowledge if one can get one's mind off the frivolous stories and concentrate on the great scientific and natural history facts before one's eyes.

THAT MYSTIC LIGHT

Take the great phenomena of nature, for instance. I wish that the scientists would investigate a certain mysterious light that one sees often in pictures. I have looked in scientific magazine after scientific magazine for a discussion of this subject, but can find not a word on the subject. I suppose maybe the scientists are cowed by the immensity of their task, or perhaps these highbrows do not attend pictures and have not discovered something that has been shown to humble me.

Here is my discovery. A night storm at sea never occurs in pitch darkness! It is always attended by a mysterious light! This light falls on the face of the hero, heroine and villain. Probably if you have ever been in a storm at sea at night, you have thought that the night was inky. But you were probably nervous. The light I speak of is no ship's light. It seems to come from nearby, yet its source cannot be seen, and it is of quite dazzling quality.

Another place where one invariably sees this light is in a cave. With no light whatever even from a candle, the whole part of the cave where the hero, heroine and villain are, is always brightly lighted.

Then there is the moonlight! Moonlight invariably accompanies the snow season in the mountains. No one need be afraid to travel in the mountains in the winter time, day or night, because it is always moonlight. This is something worth knowing.

The man in the moon must have a crush on the heroine, too. For immediately she goes to bed, he is always peeking at her through a window.

Then there is natural history. You can learn so much about this subject in all its bearings.

MORE SENSE THAN HERO

Your ideas about animals are probably all wrong unless you have seen a good many pictures. A horse, for instance, always has more horse sense than a hero! You watch the pictures if you don't believe me.

Invariably the hero will make all kinds of an ass of himself and will have to depend on his horse to drag him out of scrapes.

Another great fact that I have discovered about horses is that they do not care to travel on roads. They are indeed like mountain goats. They love to gallop up the sheer sides of cliffs and leap from crag to crag. A horse if you get him on a straight road will nearly always run away, especially if carrying the heroine. A hero has an awful time in case he wishes to keep his horse to the roads, but usulaly he doesn't, so it's all right.

Then there is this question of animals mating. You have the idea, probably, that dogs and horses are fikle. But they aren't. They search the world for their mates, and when they find them they never desert them.

Take monkeys, too. We have decided, after looking at pictures, that monkeys are always sensible and helpful creatures. Maybe you uhave thought of monkeys as sort of mischievous and undependable. But you are wrong. You only have to attend pictures a short time to learn that monkeys just wait around to save babies from fires and villains.

As for dogs, they do everything from running ships to keeping books.

LAUGH AT LEO

Lions are invariably funny. May be you haven't thought of lions in this way. You went along with the old notion that a lion is dangerous. But if you had had my opportunities for observation, you would have learned otherwise. You would find out that a lion never bites nor claws. He just trots around the house like a dog, maybe doing a little playful chase or something, but never really hurting anybody.

Sometimes even the actors in the pictures do not seem to know this. Often they seem terrified. Somebody should take them aside and tell them the truth about lions.

I suppose it's a lion's looks that scares a person, when you come right down to it. Personally I shall never be frightened of a lion again. I shall know, from looking at pictures, that deep down he is a merry fellow at heart. Did you ever see a lion really hurt a person in a picture? No. Which inclines me to believe that when a lion hurts anybody in real life, it is because he has been bothered beyond endurance. Even the hero doesn't seem to tempt the lion. And if you can produce any greater test of patience than that, I don't know it

Then there is the question of the fauna and the flora of various

Gatekeeper Barred Door Ten Years

"Breaking into the movies is about the easiest thing in the world," declares Harry Langdon, Sennett comedy star. "It took me only ten years, and even then they came after me before I ever succeeded in getting through a studio gate."

Langdon is not exaggerating in the least when he declares he spent a decade trying to get work in pictures, even as an extra. Although he was equipped with years of experience as an entertainer, ranging from medicine shows and circuses to big-time vaudeville and Broadway theatrical productions, his repeated efforts to see someone of higher rank than the studio door-tenders were of no avail.

But the turning of the tide came last June. Langdon was at the Orpheum and Bert Lytell also was on the bill. A number of producers and directors went down to give Bert a welcome and they saw Langdon's act. There was a sudden avalanche of offers. Mack Sennett's was the best, and now Langdon makes his comedies under the Sennett banner.

ACHIEVING THE IMPOSSIBLE

Group of Culver City Enthusiasts Cast First Dictum of Cinema Law to Winds; Comedy Without Capital

There is a small group of earnest workmen in Culver City making a motion picture—and there is not a cent in its treasury. A round of the larger studios in this suburb of moviedom—Goldwyn's, Ince's and Hal E. Roach's—showed very little activity in evidence, but the merry sound of the hammer and the moan of the saw were heard, mingled with the shouts of the director, in one of the smaller film factories and all this commotion was caused by ardent enthusiasts of the camera who were attempting the impossible—making a picture without capital.

It appears that two young chaps, one a newspaper man, W. Vernon Draper, and the other a well-known "stunt man," Belmont "Speed" Rorie, asked permission of the lessee of the little studio to move into one of the dressing-rooms, to cut down expenses, which was granted. Soon their example was followed by an old Universal pictures trick rider, who is now a follower of the ancient trade of woodworking, and a sign painter who claimed to have had considerable experience on movie "sets." These men moved into two of the remaining dressing-rooms and in the evenings the "gang" would gather in the room of the "stunt man" and discuss the "picture situation."

Then came the cameraman, who with his little shop made a happy addition to "the gang," as they prefer to be called and the question naturally arose as to why they could not, with this generous supply of talent, make a picture of their own. The newspaperman was set to work at once upon the continuity of a story, depicting their life in the studio, and a market was found for the comedy.

ART NOT ENOUGH

Work started on the comedy, but the troubles of the gang started with it. The lessee of the studio, carried away with the spirit of the men, fell in with their plans and offered them the use of the studio and the "props;" some film was discovered while cleaning out the developing room and the future seemed bright, but it soon was found that men as well as ladies must live, and the question of eat money was again foremost, though everyone was determined to finish the picture, even if some had to go to work. The sign painter, Al Lewis, known by many as the "Homesteader Poet of Oregon," was the first to consider that he could make some money if the real estate men would pay for signs. Orders soon flocked in, and with the help of the actors and director, sufficient money for the gang to eat was forthcoming.

It was then found to be necessary to have the services of several young women to complete the story, and after many futile attempts to find a star who could support herself, the gang struck one of those pieces of good fortune that are usually found only in fiction. One of the most famous of the Pacific Coast celebrities, hearing of the endeavors of "the boys," agreed to help with her services and Juanita Miller, only daughter of Joaquin Miller the famous and well-beloved, "Poet of the Sierras," joined the troupe.

Miss Miller gained national notoriety by her now-famous "Marriage to the Sun," on the Goldwyn lot during the time she worked in "The Palace of the King," and she still wears the famous moonstone ring which reveals to the world

Nearly two years have elapsed since he appeared in "The Young Rajah," and though admittedly that interpretation, in which fine raiment played quite a part, was bad, it is no reason to judge that the elegancies of Beaucaire are not suited to the Valentino of today.

Some of the crudities of his work will no doubt have vanished. At least, he should have accomplished much in the advancing of his artistic perceptions in the past two years.

It might be prophesied with some assurance that Valentino will be a more finished actor on his return. I should not be in the least surprised if he were. The photographic evidence in the stills from the production would indicate this. He seems to have more ease and poise.

This is all very well, but it may not be the thing that the public most desires of Valentino. That is where the hitch is. Rudy's success was built on a sort of rough sincerity and the gloss of finer development may have taken from

HOLLYWOOD SCHOOL FOR ARCHITECTS

Designers of Cinema Sets Open New World to Men of Compass and Pencil

"Architecture owes a big debt to motion pictures," declared Lester Sherer, prominent architect, speaking of the influence of Hollywood's phantom cities on the building throughout the world.

"In fact," he continued, "the movies offer the greatest school of architecture on earth."

It seemed a rather broad statement, but the speaker soon convinced me that score and hundreds of score of buildings throughout the country had their original conception on a motion-picture lot. After tracing the designs of a number of structures back to old forgotten pictures sets, I was willing to admit that the movies do influence architecture.

EUROPE FOR LOVE TECHNIQUE BUT GOOD OLD UNITED STATES FOR SATISFYING PROVENDER!

BY ALMA WHITAKER

I think we need him myself.

You see, to begin with, he is only 28, stands 6ft 2 in. and weighs a nice, svelte, lissom 190 pounds.

Remember how Sir Conan Doyle, after peeping into heaven, assured us it was a place where all men are 30? Obviously an ideal age for masculinity, my sisters.

But about how old do you suppose the vast majority of our screen heroes—and lovers—are? Thirty? Not exactly. Oh, they are nice chaps, you understand, but there is just something a trifle ennuied about their love-making at times, try as they will to maintain the youthful ardor—coupled with the dash of sophistication so desirable in many roles of the man of 30. Even when they are sort of naivish, we can't quite believe in it. Look over the list—Thomas Meighan, Conway Tearle, Eugene O'Brien, Milton Sills, Frank Mayo, Adolphe Menjou, Percy Marmont, Lewis Stone—thoroughly nice old dears and clever, too, but they saw 30 quite a while ago.

NATIVE LIMITATIONS

Otherwise they are foreigners. Valentino—marred for me with sleek hair. So, too, Novarro. Tony Moreno can't be much over 30 and his hair is not sleek. But even Tony needs an American rival. Of course, there is Conrad Nagel, also Richard Dix—but those dear boys are so incurably innocent. Rod La Rocque is nearer the right age.

But here comes Charles Meredith home again—after two years of European travel, during which he has studied love-making (strictly professionally) in five countries. Actually went for that purpose, too—to improve his theatrical education and technique, visiting all the best and latest shows in the capitals of Europe.

"Oh, but they know how to make love over there—it's the real thing!" murmured Charles ecstatically—even as he gulped down every kind of American food he could find on the menu. Europe, I gathered, is better at feeding hearts than stomachs.

"It is so cultivated, that European love-making, so refinedly passionate, so sensitively accurate, and oh, what technique!" reminisces Charles as he tells of the plays he saw in London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, Vienna, and of the Moscow Art Theater company, which he saw in Berlin.

And Charles, you know, speaks both French and German, so that he lost none of the finer nuances. Nay, more than that, he and several English-speaking actors put on an English play in Berlin in a huge theater with a revolving stage, before a sophisticated European audience—and made a stylish success of it. Charles played the lead in "The Easiest Way," and his love-making held even those blase critics. Voila! Has he learned anything, since he was leading man in filmland nigh upon three years ago?

Of course, he always was pretty good at it. Ethel Clayton always culled him for passionate-lover roles. Florence Vidor, on the other hand, always gathered him in as her spiritual screen lover. Versatile, eh, what? But perhaps the spirituality is best explained by the fact that King Vidor used to direct those Florence pictures and had a habit of calling "Cut!" with an authoritative voice at psychological moments.

HIS VALUABLE TALENTS

But can't you see how valuable a man with international love-making talents can be—love-making to fit the sets? Then you know, they always make two negatives of every picture—one for American consumption and one for European consumption. Charles has returned with all the technique of both. A Von Stroheim picture, for instance . . .

Charles says France has fallen behind in theatrical production and progress—still flamboyantly stagey and traditional. London is largely contenting itself with beloved revivals—Barrie, Wilde, etc., and doing them well. Moscow and Berlin, however, are away ahead, There he saw amazing art, coupled with amazing realism. He doesn't speak Russian, but he says the

ETERNAL YOUTH SERVED

"The child in us never dies," declares Herbert Brenon, Paramount producer, who is now preparing to film Sir James Barrie's beautiful fantasy, "Peter Pan."

The announcement by Paramount that Herbert Brenon would produce "Peter Pan" for the screen immediately upon his return from Alaska, where he will direct Thomas Meighan in his current starring picture, "The Alaskan," has created interest.

Discussing the reasons for the popularity attained by Barrie's "Peter Pan," Mr. Brenon said that it was written primarily for the purpose of carrying the world-weary audience back to the days of childhood.

"The child in each of us never dies," he said. "We only cover it up with worldly wisdom, but when a fantasy such as 'Peter Pan' is seen, worldly wisdom slips away and we know once more all the beautiful simplicity which makes childhood so wonderful."

More than a dozen possibilities for the title role have been considered by Herbert Brenon and officials of the Paramount studio, but so far no announcement of a final decision has been made.

CINEMA FACTOR IN EDUCATION

lands, especially the flora. What a fund of information you can gather about these from the pictures!

I had not supposed, for instance, that eucalyptus trees grew in Maine, but I find that I am wrong.

After viewing many motion pictures with Maine backgrounds, I find that they flourish luxuriantly there. They also grow profusely in Scotland. Really, one need not travel to find out things, if one will only study pictures.

Palms grow in Alaska, too. In fact palm trees seem to grow better in Alaska than they do on the desert. This is a curious fact, but after studying motion pictures I am bound to believe that this is so. Indeed I wish that some bright young scientist would explain to me why palms on an oasis are almost invariably sickly and withered-looking, and this, too, when growing right beside healthy springs of water.

How much you can learn about the peoples of the world, too. From the pictures we are learning that nearly all the Chinese are now good people, devoted especially to their bosses. A few years ago, you remember, the Chinese were a sinister lot. The Mexicans, too, are improving. Especially the women. You will find a real heroine among them every now and then these days.

SPIK GOOT ENGLIS

And every race speaks English! I'm sure you will be surprised at this. This I consider one of my greatest philological discoveries. If you don't believe me, just watch an Englishman talking to a native in the heart of Borneo. That native may be a savage, even a cannibal, but somehow he has picked up English. And speaks good grammar, too. Watch his lips and read them. So if you chance to be around one of those boys in your travels, don't get careless and make remarks about him, thinking he won't understand you. I've seen and I know.

You can also learn a great deal about medicine and surgery from pictures. A doctor was with me one day, looking at pictures. He objected to the way in which a surgeon about to perform an operation ran out-doors and fooled around and finally brought his wife in to witness the operation. He left the patient on the table all the time he was gone. Then without washing his hands, he went right on sawing the man's leg off.

But I told my friend the doctor that he was too fussy. He just wanted to show how smart he was; I could see that. The man got well, which proves that the doctor was wrong.

In another case a stethoscope was used on a patient. I always thought people around had to keep quiet in a case like that. But it seems not. It seems that the room may be full of people talking, and that even the patient himself may join in the talk at his bedside if he wants to. Things like that are worth knowing. I can tell you.

LAW COURSE

If you are contemplating going to law, it will be well for you to watch the screen, too. You will find that you need no license to wed, for one thing. It is a shame the way the authorities have been fooling you about this, and taking your money away from you, not to mention the inconvenience and bother.

Here is another point: If the will is lost, the fortune goes to the nearest villain. It is well to know this, as every family has its villain.

My, but we can brighten ourselves up if we will just attend and study the motion pictures! Is the screen educational? I'll say it is!

EUROPE FOR LOVE TECHNIQUE

acting was so fine, so sensitive, so true, that he was able to "get" the most subtle points and reactions.

One remarkable innovation in Germany is the Labor Union Speaking Chorus. That's what it is called, because the Labor Unionists used it first. It is a chorus made up of a crowd of people, young and old, women and children. And they speak in natural, clear voices with remarkable and thrilling chorus effect. One play, "The Machine Wreckers"—a Communist drama—uses it with terrific effect.

THE TRUEST LOVE

Charles Meredith has been studying stage and picture directing, too—does not consider an actor can know too much about his profession. So I learned an enormous lot of European drama while I watched Charles gorge American pie and ice cream, and heard also about the waffles and doughnuts and fried chicken and hot biscuits and all the other dear American home-cooking this hero had tried to absorb since he came back. But, of course, he wasn't playing a love scene just then. Perhaps he has to go back to foreign cooking to get the finer shades of love-making into his art—and heart.

But Charles, mes amis, is 28—two years the sunny side of 30. And he is tall and handsome and lissom and sterling American (the Pennsylvania Merediths, you know,) and his hair isn't sleek, and there is a ruminative twinkle in his eye . . . . Oh, yes, I think Hollywood needs him.

CAN RUDY MAKE HIS COMEBACK?

his personality that curious primitive appeal—primitive in spite of his apparent savoir faire—which was his chief allure.

Our popular drama is, after all, very conventional, but just how conventional it is we seldom realize until the spotlight is turned on its routine by some such cleverly designed satire as "And Then What?" which was played a few nights ago during the Drama League convention in Pasadena. The piece was written by William M. Conselman and presented by the San Diego Community Players, and while it is too short to make a full-fledged evening's entertainment there is not the least doubt in the world that the author has hit upon a very smashing idea.

It is a case again of a play within a play, or better still, an argument in dialogue, with a play used to carry over the point. The model is perhaps George Bernard Shaw's "Fanny's First Play," where the British dramatist fired some shots at the critics in a very ingenious way, during a prologue and epilogue. The issue in "And Then What" is the modus operandi of the playwright who succeeds in getting all his characters into a great series of complications only to get them out of these again, and the denouement shows up the tricks that are usually pursued in such a case.

The argument is carried on between the playwright and the girl to whom he is explaining his method of procedure. The prologue these two first appear in is laid in the playwright's workshop. He introduces and describes the various factors in his craft, speaking of them as so much raw material, to be taken out of bins or off the shelves.

Then begins the play. It has a flavor of modern psychology, though the characters are of the crudest type. The inventor, the flapper with an amorous complex, the unhappy wife, the unsuccessful and dissatisfied husband are all drawn in the strict and arbitrary style Troubles multiply as the piece goes forward, until it looks as if there is absolutely no solution, while during the entr'actes the playwright explains to the girl who observes the unfoldment with him, the various processes by which the whole affair is worked out. He treats of everything from the matter-of-fact point of view of the craftsman.

After he brings things apparently to a tragic climax, the girl asks for a happy ending, and following consideration he lets her have her wish, and straightens the tangle out in the final act.

The whole scheme of the play is very adroitly carried out. There is suspense and humor, and the situations are well sustained. The dialogue and some of the plot might be effectively built up to make a fuller grown entertainment, but as things stand "And Then What" is a very skillfully devised and novel satire of appeal especially to students of the theater.

CULVER CITY ENTHUSIASTS

her alliance made during her ceremonious "Moon Marriage." The fair Juanita also wears a ring of gold with a miniature wicker casket, in which rests the finger nails of her famous father. Miss Miller, while rather eccentric, has a beautiful philosophy which has many adherants throughout the United States.

The Bohemian life of the "gang" in the studio causes considerable comment in Culver City and the local papers delight to refer to them as "The studio hall-room boys," and many are the debates in the little dressing-room, as the boys argue with each other as to what is necessary to a good comedy.

ECONOMIC MAKESHIFTS

The little studio was gradually turned into a model town; The family wash was done in the developing room, and whenever the clothes were hung out to dry on the line stretched across the stage, it was never known how long they would stay before the boys would have to make a wild dash to "clear stage" as "the boss" would have a "prospect" to show the studio to and wished it to look its best. The paint shop was one of the busiest places of business in town, and the carpenter with his tools found work whenever the rations ran low or a few more feet of film was needed.

One day a blacksmith, who found his game about "shot," wishing to take advantage of cheap rent, moved into the back lot of the studio and was pressed immediately into service "in the movies."

There is no question about the picture being made and if several stars are discovered it will not surprise anyone in Culver City, as they all know what "the gang" is doing and all realize that many a world's masterpiece has been produced in poverty and want.

Ethel Wales is winning praise for her work in her first mother role in "Which Shall It Be?" based on the famous fourth-reader poem, and scheduled for early showing here.

HE SEEKS QUIETUS ON LAUGHTER

Orchestra Conductor Complains Cachinnation of "Girl Shy" Drowns Music

Which is more important, laughter or music?

This is the question that has been puzzling the management of the Criterion Theater since Harold Lloyd started his record-breaking run with "Girl Shy" at the popular house on Seventh and Grand.

Adolph Tandler, director of the Criterion Symphony orchestra, is in a quandary. Laughter never came up as a serious problem before. In the past it was simply something to laugh at. But now? The situation is this:

If Tandler plays as he does normally, the upheaval of laughs, guffaws and roars which greet the 8000 feet of Lloyd's screaming comedy drown out the music. And if he plays too loud the laughter can't be heard by everybody. And the audience contributes to the fun by its uproarious and unrestrained laughing. For the fun is contagious and is what makes this the greatest comedy riot ever released on a screen.

So what is Tandler to do?

He has virtually conquered 7000 of the 8000 feet of the film. He increases the tone and volume of his orchestra in inverse ratio to the laughter that experience has taught him will greet the picture as it runs along.

And as for the other 1000 feet well, frankly, he has given up. "You might as well try to drown a battery of Big Berthas as to try to make the music heard above the din of the laughs that greet the chase scene," says the musical director.

They say "Girl Shy" is Harold Lloyd's best picture and it is his best! Los Angeles just won't let it go. The management at the Criterion Theater is starting its fifth week with this riot of fun today.

TROTZKY ONCE FILM ACTOR

Trotzky, the Russian dictator, as a motion-picture actor sounds fantastic. But it is true nevertheless that several years ago he played the part of a Russian officer in "My Official Wife," in which Harry T. Morey was starred. Even at that time Morey recalls Trotzky was fired with the idea of world betterment. Morey is now playing the role of Captain Sutton in "The Painted Lady" being made under the direction of Chester Bennett.

ARCHITECTS IN DEBT TO FILMS

the world would still be trying to fit the old patterns—Doric, Ionic, Gothic. Pictures have taught us that originality is possible even in an art in which the ancient Greeks excelled. Take Hollywood, for example. Nowhere else in the world is there such beauty, individuality, or variety of residential architecture It is notable that individuality of design radiates from the center of the motion-picture industry and diminishes with increasing distance."

I had always thought of the picture industry as copying various types of architecture but never as doing anything really creative. None the less, it is largely due to the daring of a few designers of sets in Hollywood that architects in America have made such strides in the last decade. Pictures have taught them to work in form and mass rather than in detail, and above all to work boldly for the general effect. It is an American tendency to forget the whole in a maze of details. In designing for the camera much detail that goes into the actual construction of a building is lost, therefore it is necessary to regard the design principally from the point of unity.

LESSONS OF THE FILMS

"Exaggerated proportion to gain certain effects is one lesson learned from pictures. Such sets as those from "Robin Hood," "Three Weeks," "Long Live the King," and other pictures had their influence upon architects throughout the universe.

In more ways than one the motion-picture industry is a school for architects. It is a recognized fact that the most daring designers of structures are those who have spent a year or two building play cities in pictureland. Mr. Sherer tells us that a few months' work in pictures taught him things he had missed in four years at college and a career of practical experience.

In the commercial world the architect spends weeks designing a plan and months or even years putting it into execution. Every few days in picture work, however, he is called upon for new designs and the set grows almost overnight. A few weeks of this intensive training brings a whole lifetime of experience.

Period pictures give the designers of sets a wonderful training in the styles of the ages. Think what it means to have the opportunity to reconstruct such a masterpiece as the Notre Dame of Paris. It was not merely a matter of design, however, but one of architectural engineering as well.

INSIDE, AS WELL

Even more important than exterior sets in its effect upon the nation is interior decorating, which is an essential part of architecture. Patrons of theaters are daily taking suggestions from pictures in the manner of arranging furniture, the placing of pictures, rugs, and what not. I have known of women going to the movies and completely rearranging their houses from the inspiration of some interior set in the pictures.

When color photography is perfected there are many other suggestions for picture patrons. Few people realize that studio sets are all designed in color. Besides the photographic effect of the proper use of colors, is the effect that it creates upon the players. No cast could be expected to emote on a cold, colorless set. The emotions that the color plan is calculated to inspire in the cast are the emotions that the same colors would produce in the home.

Imagination is the greatest asset of an architect or interior designer, and in picture work this faculty is constantly exercised. The variety of sets that the designer is asked to conceive knows no bounds. In the making of "Adam's Rib" the art department of Paramount was asked to construct the New York apartment of a king in exile. That's calling upon imagination for a large order, but the apartment was ready in a twinkling.

OLD IDEAS EXTINGUISHED

Mood is an all-important feature of interior designing. The old philosophy that an office is an office and a lady's boudoir her bedroom, has no place in the picture industry, for the mood of the picture must be faithfully adhered to. Character is determined by the setting, even before the person enters the scene. The genial old barrister and the frigid attorney don't occupy the same office set and don't use the same props. Cold-as-steel desks, chairs and walls give the audience a preliminary chill in the attorney's office, and in the flapper's bedroom the spirit of jazz is as deftly portrayed as prudishness and constraint in the old maid's sleeping quarters. Half the credit of acting belongs to the designer of sets.

The day is coming when architects and interior decorators will pay as much attention to molding homes to a personality as do the designers of motion-picture sets. Paul Iribe, once famous architect of France, now art chief at Lasky's studio, believes that interior decorating should be carried even to the matter of gowns and jewelry all of which should harmonize with the personality.

The most skilled artists and artisans of the country can be found in the studios, vying to outdo one another in originality. Architects, engineers, painters, sculptors, designers, interior decorators, draftsmen, all have a hand in making the motion-picture set. Is it any wonder that Hollywood is called the greatest school of architecture?

WESTERN HEROINE IN PARIS GOWNS

An unusual feature of Esther Ralston's present role—she is now playing opposite Tom Mix in "The Love Bandit," for Fox—is the opportunity it gives her to display an unusually extensive wardrobe selected from the best offerings of the Parisian couturiers. The usual conception of the leading woman in a western picture such as Mix's, is always "a calico gal," or else a young Amazon dressed in fringed buckskin and boots. In "The Love Bandit," Miss Ralston has nine complete changes of costume, including everything from shoes to hats—each a perfect example of "what the women will wear."

Miss Ralston was released for this part of special arrangement with Julius Bernheim, general manager of Universal City, where she had been under contract to play with Jack Dempsey in the entire series of the champion's pictures.

EN'S PLAY APPEALS TO REAL BOYS

Producer to Give Youths of "Special" Schools View of "Boy of Mine"

ealizing the importance of be- an early battle against mis- rstandings, the Board of Edu- n of Los Angeles county has anised fourteen schools for mis- erstood boys.

Twelve of these are in the city Los Angeles, one at San Fer- do and another at San Pedro.

Prof. Schmitt and his assistant, Lacy, never refer to their stu- s as incorrigibles, truants nor boys. "Reg'ler fellers" is the always applied to them. DEMPSEY ON GOLF

If you have ever played golf, you know how hard it is to get off a decent drive on the first tee or in front of a gallery. In one of Jack Dempsey's "Fight and Win" series, he was called upon to make such a drive. To the amazement of some 200 people, he got a drive of almost 300 yards at the Hillcrest Country Culb course.

DIVERSE ROLES

There is probably no other character actress in Hollywood who has appeared in such extremely different pictures during the last year as has Lydia Knott. From enacting mother roles of a staid trend she plunged into the colorful portrayal of the mother in Charles Chaplin's "A Woman of Paris," which was replete with dramatic situations; turning to jazzdrama in enacting a principal role with Colleen Moore in "The Perfect Flapper" and thence assuming the part of Charles Ray's aunt in the yokel actor's first return film.

ONE ROLE WON FAME FOR HIM

Leo Carillo in "Lombardi, Ltd.," in Which Reputation Was Made

Leo Carrillo in his greatest artistic success, "Lombardi, Ltd.," will be the Majestic attraction beginning with the performance tonight. It was as Tito Lombardi, the Italian dressmaker, in this fashion and fun show by Fanny and Frederic Hatton, that Carrillo first rose to stardom.

"Lombardi, Ltd." was first produced in this city and after a most successful premiere taken to New York, where it enjoyed a year's run. It brought fame to Carrillo and placed him in the front ranks of the leading light comedians on the stage today, although since then this player has demonstrated he is capable of more serious things. Its tour of the country was a duplication of the success both Carrillo and the play achieved in New York.

In presenting "Lombarid, Ltd." Carrillo is enabled to return once more to the delightful Italian dialect role which earned him a world of praise from the critics throughout the nation—a role in which he excels.

"Lombardi, Ltd." is distinctly a fun show. It gives a glimpse into the happenings in a shop for feminine finery, where there are pretty models, attractive sales girls and pompous customers. It tells a story of love and business, and there are a few heart throbs intermingled with the laughs.

In support of Carrillo, Producer Thomas Wilkes has secured Ethel Wilson, Ina Rorke and Charles Wellesley, all members of the original New York company, while Hope Brown will make her appearance after a year's absence from the local stage. Others in the cast are Barbara Brown, John Nicholson, Gladys Knorr, Franklin Pangborn, Fanchon Everhart, Agnes Sanderson, Jean Nash and Cherry Campbell.

In addition, arrangements have been made with Blackstone's for a fashion show with a wealth of gowns to he displayed in the two clothes shop scenes.

BOSWORTH, SCHERTZINGER

Hobart Bosworth, was stage director at the old Belasco Theater here years ago, when Victor Schertzinger was leader of the theater orchestra.

CONQUEROR SEEKS NEW WORLDS

Heavyweight Champion Cameraman

In another month Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, starring in Universal pictures, will know all about the film business. Here he is cranking a camera for Clarence Brown, with Laura La Plante and Kenneth Harlan being directed by Brown in a scene from "Butterfly." Extreme right is Charles Dorian, veteran assistant director at Universal City.

THE series of starring pictures for which Jack Dempsey is under contract with the Universal Pictures Corporation gives him his first real opportunity to study high-class production methods at close range. He's a fiend on "knowing the business" and some of his friends prophesy that it will take the form of more than a passing interest.

Between scenes of "The Title Holder," completed, and "Winning His Way," now being directed by Erle C. Kenton, Dempsey is trying to sneak a broad technical education into the busy days. His first achievement is learning the ways of the camera. Knowing nothing but the simple rudiments of still camera usage, such as comes from practice with ordinary kodaks and cameras, he learned enough in spare moments between scenes in two days to twirl the crank for a scene in the Universal-Jewel special production of Kathleen Norris's "Butterfly," which Clarence L. Brown is directing. Laura La Plante and Kenneth Harlan were in the scene shot.

"And I'm going to use it in the picture!" Brown declared, whereat Harlan and Miss La Plante cried in unison, "What? No! We like Mr. Dempsey—but not as a cameraman! Let Ben Reynolds shoot the scene, just to be sure."

But Brown remained obdurate, making just one concession, "If it's lousy we'll come back here on this set tomorrow and make a retake."

And that's that. The title now is "Jack Dempsey, Cinematographer Extraordinaire."

SLIPPING STANDARDS

Portraying Deteriorating Character Hardest, Says Actor

Changing character within the picture; that is, changing from an upstanding, wealthy man in early reels to a low piece of humanity toward the finish—is the hardest task he has faced since he entered motion pictures, declares Huntly Gordon.

Featured in "Daring Love," the new Roland West production, Gordon had just such a part to play. That it was by far his most difficult characterization he freely admitted.

On the other hand, the director is very enthusiastic over Gordon's characterization. He declares it to be an outstanding piece of work that is certain to win new friends for the actor.

FOUR NEW CINEMA BILLS THIS WEEK

With four new pictures on view this week devotees of the cinema will be treated to a wide variety of themes. "The Bedroom Window" is the new attraction at the Metropolitan, with May McAvoy and Malcolm McGregor in the leading roles. "Boy of Mine," featuring Henry Walthall, Irene Rich and Ben Alexander, is showing at Loew's. "Happiness," Laurette Taylor's second picture, is on view at the California. Baby Peggy in "The Law Forbids" is the Clune Broadway attraction.

Holdovers and revivals include "A Son of the Sahara" at the Alhambra; "Girl Shy" at the Criterion, "The Ten Commandments" at the Egyptian, "America" at the Forum, "King of Wild Horses" at Miller's, "Manhandled" at the Million Dollar, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" at the Mission, "Daddies" at the Rialto and "The River's End" at Tally's.

"Boy of Mine" on View

Written specially for the screen, Booth Tarkington's human drama, "Boy of Mine," is showing at Loew's State Theater this week. Dignified and yet human, touching and yet immensely truthful, is "Boy of Mine." Its humaneness, its realism and its faithful portrayal of the American home, of a boy who had to choose his own father and guide his mother's life and happiness, make of it one of the sincerest of stories.

Henry B. Walthall, Irene Rich, Rockliffe Fellowes and Ben Alexander portray the leading roles. Under the direction of William Beaudine, the romance moves along to a climax that by its sheer simplicity becomes intensely tragic and thrilling.

Arthur Kay has written a special score to accompany the picture. Various other features which will make up a splendid presentation program include the Syncopators and the popular young tenor, Albert MacGillivray.

Mysterious Plot

Mystery stalks unbridled at Grauman's Metropolitan in William de Mille's production, "The Bedroom Window," from an original story by Clara Beranger. The picture, which features May McAvoy, Malcolm McGregor, Ricardo Cortez, George Fawcett, Robert Edeson and Ethel Wales, is said to place the audience in the position of detectives who endeavor all through the film to ferret out the mystery of who killed the banker, and unless they be unusually clever, are kept guessing until the final scenes.

The program is further enhanced by another of the popular sport series by Grantland Rice. The subject is entitled "Making Winners" and shows intimate glimpses of Jack Dempsey and other sport kings and how they arrived at their present supremacy. A special musical program, dedicated to the late Victor Herbert, a peppy act on the stage and comedy and news reels complete the program.

"Dan McGrew" Closes

Entering its last week of showing at the Mission Theater, Metro's production of Robert W. Service's poem, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," continues to attract capacity crowds. The production, which stars Barbara LaMarr, Lew Cody, Percy Marmont, Mae Busch and a group of other favorites, has proven one of the most popular pictures presented at the Mission this season. It is a melodramatic tale that starts in the South Seas, goes on to New York, where an interesting sequence is played, and ends in the setting of the Malamute saloon, made famous by the Service poem.

Larry Semon, acrobatic comedian, contributes the humorous portion of the program in his latest two-reel comedy, "Horseshoes," and there are a number of interesting short reels. A team of clever dancers, billed as Marque and Marquetta Mack, appear in a prologue that is cleverly cut into the film itself. Leon Strashun and his Mission Theater orchestra have a fine musical program.

Made to Laugh At

All the world loves to laugh and "Daddies," at Grauman's Rialto, has one scheduled for every minute.

Mae Marsh and Harry Myers are the principal fun-makers, being ably assisted by such favorites as Claude Gillingwater, Claire Adams, Graufurd Kent, Otto Hoffman, Willard Louis and a bunch of clever kiddies. "Daddies" is a story of five bachelors who are persuaded to adopt war orphans. The arrival of the orphans starts the fun that keeps up a lively pace until the bachelors agree that "the hand that rocks the cradle" is a welcome one about the house and straightforth set out to find wives.

An additional spark to the Rialto merriment is found in the Christie comedy, starring Dorothy Devore, "Kidding Katie." This is a hilarious travesty on weight reducing and has been given excellent direction by Scott Sidney.

Setting New Mark

Cecil B. De Mille's "The Ten Commandments," goes into its twenty-seventh week at Grauman's Hollywood Egyptian Theater tomorrow. In the colorful setting provided by the Grauman prologue, "A Night in Pharaoh's Palace," the biblical opus is piling up a performance record at the Hollywood cinema temple which promises to set a new mark in this "house of long runs."

Among the more than 500,000 people who have paid admission to see De Mille's due-period drama have been visitors from almost every part of the world, a fact revealed by the visitors' register maintained in the lobby. "The Ten Commandments" is the third silent drama production to be shown at Grauman's Hollywood since this theater opened approximately twenty months ago and interest continues of such character that Grauman believes it will enjoy a longer run than either of the two that preceded it.

Sheik Picture Back

"A Son of the Sahara," Edwin Carewe's production which was made by Americans in Algiers, returns to the Alhambra Theater this week. This is the story by Louis Gerard, which has been made into one of the most picturesque of films. Edwin Carewe took his players 14,000 miles to produce the story on the actual scenes.

Bert Lytell, Claire Windsor, Walter McGrail, Rosemary Theby, Montague Love and Paul Panzer portray the leading roles.

Added interest is given the production with the first filming of actual harem scenes and Arabian dancing girls.

Northland Romance

Marshall Neilan's production, "The River's End," is being shown at Tally's this week. This is considered James Oliver Curwood's most virile romance of the northern land. It deals with a Northwest Mounted Policeman, who falls in love with a prisoner whom he has been ordered to bring back. The story is thrilling and beautifully produced.

The cast includes Lewis B. Stone, Jane Novak, Winter Hall, Marjorie Daw, George Nicholls, Charles West and J. Barney Sherry.

"America" Attracts

Brilliant in every detail of performance and presentation, the opening program at Los Angeles' new temple of the cinema, the Forum Theater, is drawing capacity crowds of local theatergoers and from among the thousands of tourists in the city. D. W. Griffith's "America," acclaimed his greatest romantic screen creation, is full of the typical Griffith touches that made "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "Way Down East," and other works of the director milestones of screen progress.

The atmospheric prologue that precedes the picture is full of color and interest, and the musical program surrounding the presentation is little short of remarkable. The theater itself, an elaborate recreation of the splendor of old Rome, is greeted with exclamations of awe and admiration by visitors. The Forum, in the brief time it has been open to the public, has become one of the show-places of the city and one of the chief points of interest to both Angelenos and tourists.

New Actor Makes Debut

An actor never before seen on the stage or screen is in the Miller Theater feature. He is Rex, a registered Morgan stallion, purchased by Hal Roach from the State of Colorado and trained for picture work by "Chick" Morrison. "The King of Wild Horses," Rex's starring vehicle, opened a week ago and has played to some of the biggest business in the history of the house. In the cast are such players as Leon Bary, Edna Murphy and Sidney de Grey.

"Birds of Passage," a film dealing with the migration of European birds to Africa, is also on the bill and an added attraction is Will Rogers and Hal Roach's "Gang" of kids in their latest comedy, "Jubilo, Jr."

Miss Taylor's Second

Screen fans who have been waiting patiently for Laurette Taylor's next picture will be rewarded when they see "Happiness," which is now playing at the California Theater. It is a comedy along the lines of "Peg O' My Heart." Miss Taylor's first screen success and which holds a stage record seldom equaled.

"Happiness" and "Peg" were both written by Miss Taylor's husband, Hartley Manners. The cast includes such names at Pat O'Malley, Hedda Hopper, Cyril Chadwick and Patterson Dial.

There are two novelty features on the California bill with "Happiness." The first is the Duo-Art music fantasy, "Sonia's Song," played by David Pesetzki, the Russian pianist, and the second Leonard and Clark's Spectro Color film with Annette Kellerman and her personally selected bathing beauties.

CONFESSES STAGING HOLLYWOOD PARTIES

A wild party in Hollywood!

Neighbors in the exclusive Fairfax avenue district were alarmed one night last week by yelling and whooping and general noise coming from within the walls of Hedda Hopper's home.

Piano playing, shrill whistles, wrestling matches, the breaking of dishes—all this was taking place in the film star's residence.

The night was young—just 8 o'clock. What would the party result into by midnight? This was the question!

Sharp at 10 however, the front door opened and a half-dozen youngsters scampered out into Miss Hopper's car. It was then learned that the "party" consisted of the little newsboys that ply their trade along Hollywood Boulevard and from whom Miss Hopper purchases her daily papers.

Every few weeks the star gives the boys a party, starting with a good home-cooked dinner and ending in the playing of games and everything that a regular honest-to-goodness American kid likes to do.

Opinions of "The Times" Readers Regarding Pictu Plays and Music

HOLLYWOOD, May 23.—[To the Theatrical Editor of The Times:] Have you ever been obliged to call socially on Mr. and Mrs. Ottiman Wagstaff, the Wagstaffs who live in the jigsaw neo-walnut house on sparsely shaded Aphasia Lane, when Delirium, the precocious 7-year-old, breaks in on father's oft-repeated stories, destroying papa's climax, killing the big laugh? Do you realize what pop's feelings are when Delirium does it? How pop contemplates child slaughter? How pop loses all that sense of suppressed emotion becoming to a paterfamilias?

The musical score in the average theater does to the producer and audience what Delirium does to her pop—breaking in with either stealthy dissonances or with most fortissimi noises, beating each scene or episode in the picture to its punch.

That rumpididum, rumpididum punch motif so oft repeated was compiled by a mute Winnebago named "Slap-in-the-Face," used by his tribesmen as a warning of impending war clouds. It was discovered by a hobo French explorer in 1660, and passed on over the beer cups in a Gascoigne tavern; rediscovered two centuries later by an itinerant musical scorer, to be persistently perpetrated for the masses by drum beaters, bell janglers and catgut vibrators.

If a Stenterello—he is the clown in the Italian theater, who talks to the audience from the wings or the apron of the stage while the actors talk to each other and to themselves—if this clown were to tell you that in less than three minutes the actor impersonating Ali-ben-Lishkiss, the well-fed Bedouin, is going to spank his thin, pallid wife, what would you do? Surely you would hiss. The theatergoer doesn't pay to be tipped off. It is better to guess wrong than not to be given a chance to guess at all. It gives us a peculiar, undefinable cerebral shock to be told things we have outguessed.

Every musical director knows that with a little tremolando effect, consisting of very rapid repetition of the same brace of notes, or of different notes, he can tip off what is coming. He is the musical Delirium, the ever-impatient and precocious divulger.

Why does he start to do it when the young heroine is still happily gripped in the arms of her handsome lover—when all is peace and happiness—when no one could possibly anticipate a fight, a railroad dislodgment, a lust moment, a hair-elevating leap, an oncoming tide, a crashing iceberg, an explosion, a creeping fuse, an innocuous-looking powder tin, a rasping sawmill, a crackling fire, and every act and thing whatsoever requisite and necessary to be done in and about the premises, as fully, to all intent and purposes, etc.? Is it because the musical scorer fears that the picture might get there without him?

The musical punch beater grants himself a chromatic power of attorney. The musical di should not be the big sneez fore the cough.

The thing would not be a rupting if musicians would d new thuds and resonances. cornered this emotional m market? Why not let the sensitive and understanding g gether to form the anti league, a society for the s purpose to choke, strangle an stroy any and all so-called m directors who insist on using and all hackneyed punch th motifs or obbligati that di the purpose of a scene?

Some popular middle- rhymester wrote that "music charms to soothe the savag rent a rock and split a cabba that kid said it. The big h often do it; they, too, indul musical obbligato through cordant and jarring noises.

Musical scores should be picture what clothes are to a an — they should conceal and intensify charms.

You can't deny yourself to it. It's great beyond words. It is warm—as close to you as your own soul. It's the story of a mother torn between son-love and husband-love, with another man entering her life. It is clean, and yet it has more punch than ten other pictures we've shown you. It is a simple story, of people you and I know, and yet it has more emotional appeal than mighty spectacles. It is the greatest human drama in twenty years, filled with smiles and tears, heart-aches and heart-breaks, and a healing power of love. We cried and smiled and we shed happy tears when we saw it. "Actors' Trade Union" In With Working Card S

BY A. L.

Some newspapers have annou Trade Union." There may have gates, but there has been no vict less successful attempt to injure it the methods of the longshorem

Nobody has greater respect than I have for a competent mechani or an industrious laborer, and nobody has better reason than I to know that among actors there are some that lack three qualities—industry, intelligence and conscientiousness—necessary in the making of a good trade union worker. I am also aware of the fact that you can find here and there a theatrical manager lacking other qualities, such as honesty and common-sense loyalty to his fellows, that are necessary in successful trade unionism.

I object to the introduction of trade-union methods into the art of acting and the business of theater managing, not that I lack respect for trade unions, but because I know the difference between laying a thousand bricks on a wall or setting a thousand ems on a linotype machine, and reciting a line from Victor Hugo's "Hernani," as Sarah Bernhardt could do it, or interpreting the spirit of American humor as George Cohan can do it.

TRADE UNIONS NOT NEW

Trade unions are not new. They are as old as the guilds of the Middle Ages and much older. They are as old as that just strike, when the Hebrews got up and left the Egyptian Pharaoh flat, because they didn't like their hours, their food or their treatment generally.

But because labor unions are necessary in trades, it doesn't follow that trade unions are necessary in art.

It does not require much intelligence to understand the different conditions under which the actor and the mechanic or laborer produce their best work and render greatest service to the public, which is the object of all work. Rachel could and did develop her genius traveling about with all her family in a van of strolling players. She could not have developed that genius as a working member of the amalgamated garment workers' trade Union with a card in her pocket.

THE FATE OF RACHEL

In her traveling wagon and her work, thinly clad on an improvised stage, she contracted the consumption that ended her life, but that could not kill her great spirit and genius. In a trade union she would have acquired a mental stagnation that would have made her act as badly as some of our leading home-made stars.

Good work by a laborer or a mechanic requires regular hours, security, guaranteed employment. The work is done by the body as a means of supplying the body with its necessities.

Acting, painting, writing are different. The work is life itself; it is the food of the spirit, if the actor is really an artist and not a mere money-making machine.

In art, work is everything and it cannot develop under trade-union rules or any other hard and fast rules.

ON DIFFERNT PLANE

I speak against a trade union for actors because I am grateful to the theater, to the talent of many real actors and to the public. For to them I am indebted for what success I have had in life. I have no selfish interest in promoting or antagonizing an actors' trade union. My success, such as it is, has been achieved. My theaters are built and I own them. So far as I am concerned I would be greatly obliged to anybody, trade union or Justice of the Supreme Court, that would compel me to stop working and rest for my remaining years, instead of driving myself to death as I and other American business fools do, heaven only knows why.

I protest against the idea of submitting actors to a trade union, compelling them to apply for work with a union card in their pocket, and depriving of work those that lack the card, because I believe that the very trade unionism that builds up industry, that gives stability to labor and mechanical skill, would tear down the art of the stage and eventually destroy the very plentiful talent and the rare genius that alone make the stage worth while.

"Actors' Trade Union" Impossible Conception; Talent With Working Card Sinks to Hodcarrier's Level

BY A. L. ERLANGER

Some newspapers have announced "a great victory for the Actors' Trade Union." There may have been a great victory for walking delegates, but there has been no victory, but on the contrary a more or less successful attempt to injure the art of the stage by forcing upon it the methods of the longshoreman, the bricklayer or the hodcarrier.

Nobody has greater respect than I have for a competent mechanic or an industrious laborer, and nobody has better reason than I to know that among actors there are some that lack three qualities—industry, intelligence and conscientiousness—necessary in the making of a good trade union worker. BRINGS NEW YORK SUCCESS TO CITY

Pauline Frederick

"A New York star in a new New York play" will be the slogan of the next attraction at the Playhouse with the opening of Pauline Frederick—our own beloved "Polly," who lives in Beverly Hills—who is returning to the stage (for a Los Angeles engagement only) to star in Frederick Lonsdale's brilliant comedy, "Spring Cleaning." This will mark the first starring engagement of Miss Frederick on any local stage—her previous footlight success being in New York and other eastern cities. Plans are under way to make her welcome back on Monday, June 9.

"Spring Cleaning" is now entering its thirty-second successful week at the Eltinge Theater, New York, where it is registered as one of the solid hits of the season and this booking, by arrangement with the Selwyns, is a managerial coup on the part of Louis O. Macloon, lessee of the Playhouse, marking the first time a current New York success has simultaneously played in this city and on Broadway.

Pauline Frederick and the 'Spring Cleaning" company are now in rehearsal under the stage direction of Lillian Albertson and will be seen for a limited engagement only, appearing in no other city.

Take a Little Nip of Jazz for Stomach's Sake

"Miss Pickle, hear 'at music? This am our dance."

"Where you-all get 'at stuff—'our dance?' We ain't never been introduced. you fresh Mr. Olive."

"But how kin you be so formal? We're all in the same stomach, ain't we? And that boy toying wif 'at saxophone ain't playing a hymn, am he? Come on, babe, mingle. Fohget which one of the fifty-seven you is and do your stuff."

That's what Edward Everett Horton claims that jazz does to groceries. "Makes food assimilate better than sodium bicarbonate." Eddie explains in more scientific language.

You wouldn't know that Eddie agitates a mean Holeproof, would you? To see him do the Hollywood glide is an education in the poetry of motion. He is master of the traffic situation on the ballroom floor.

Dancing is Eddie's favorite indoor sport when not working. But just now he is on location at Lake Arrowhead, making scenes for "The Man Who Fights Alone," a Paramount feature.

WRITER WORKS UP IMAGINATIVE TALE

Raymond Cannon, one of the few students of screencraft, is writing the scenario for "Fifty Years From Now," which Fred Caldwell is to produce shortly. The young scenarist, who has created considerable interest with his adaptations of the recent Douglas McLean farces, "Going Up," "The Yankee Consul" and "Never Say Die," enthusiastically says, "'Fifty Years From Now' allows a wonderful scope and will permit me to delve into the realms of imagination." Cannon, an actor and director as well as writer, is a product of the Griffith school, and will be remembered as "the boy" in many Griffith pictures and later as leading man with Dorothy Gish, Bessie Love and many others.

BRITON IS WRITER OF COMEDIES

Sir Alfred Sutro Upsets Popular Conception; Master of Humorous Drama

Although an Englishman, Sir Alfred Sutro, in whose comedy, "The Laughing Lady," Ethel Barrymore will appear at the Biltmore Theater for a fortnight's engagement, beginning tomorrow night, is well known in the theaters of this country.

John Drew, James K. Hackett, William H. Crane and the late Kyrle Bellew achieved considerable success in plays written by Sutro. His "The Walls of Jericho" won for Hackett a triumph second only to that star's "Prisoner of Zenda." In "The Builder of Bridges," Bellew found a congenial and popular role, while "The Perplexed Husband," which Sutro especially wrote for John Drew, proved one of the most enjoyable offerings in the Drew repertoire. "The Price of Money" in which Mr. Crane starred in 1906-07, was a delightful comedy.

High comedy has ever been the forte of Sutro, and all of his plays are studded with brilliant, epigrammatic dialogue. He was born in London in 1863 and in England practically all of his time has been spent. There have been brief visits to this country, chiefly in the days when Charles Frohman was alive. In fact the playwright has not visited America since 1912, when John Drew was appearing in "The Perplexed Husband" at the Empire Theater in New York.

The first heard of Sutro in London was in the year 1896, when he adapted a play from the French for Arthur Bourchier. This play was called "The Chili Widow" and met with decided success. This playwright's next notable success was "Carrots," produced in London by Forbes-Robertson, and played with great success in this country by Miss Barrymore in the early days of her stage career. In all, some forty plays written by Sir Alfred Sutro have been produced in various London theaters and the majority of these plays have won favorable recognition. Although in the main a writer of comedy, Sutro has, upon occasion, shown his ability to write sound and likable serious drama. Also he has once or twice, in recent years, shown his adaptability to changing conditions by turning out a creditable mystery play. His "The Great Redding-street Burglary," brought out in London in 1916, met with a great deal of favor.

Sutro is an indefatigable worker. Not only has he contributed freely to the literature of the stage but he has written various books and translated several of Maurice Maeterlinck's books into English. Sutro was knighted in 1919.

SHE'LL BE HAPPY FROM HENCEFORTH

Helen Ferguson

Helen Ferguson, dynamic young personality, has issued an ultimatum. "From this time forth I give to the silversheet one chin that is up, one pair of shoulders thrown squarely back, two eyes with the light of laughter in them, a nose that sniffs a bit of danger, possibly, and lips parted in joy!" she explains.

Miss Ferguson declares that in so many pictures her chin has been down, her shoulders drooped as an individual of sorrows and acquainted with grief, that it looks as if she were monopolizing this field.

Seven times before she was 17 years of age, she was a neglected wife. This is hardly fair to other girls striving for success in pictures. Teeming with ambition, Miss Ferguson wants variety for her portion and now since she has "suffered" so much on the screen her immediate interest is in roles with "pep," "go," liveliness and effervescence! She has just finished in Douglas MacLean's "Never Say Die."

Sheer green ribbon edges a tunic of champagne lace worn over a brown slip.

GRIFFITH STAR IS CALIFORNIAN

Success Came Through Dance Ability

Carol Dempster

CAROL DEMPSTER, the young California girl who plays the role of Nancy Montague in D. W. Griffith's "America," is one of the youngest actresses in leading film roles. The girl, whose performance in the Griffith production, now showing at Los Angeles' new Roman playhouse, the Forum, has been acclaimed a personal triumph, was born in Michigan in 1904.

Miss Dempster, however, claims California as her native State. As she herself puts it, she was "too young to get acquainted with Michigan." Her family moved to California when Miss Dempster was a miss of 3, making their home at Santa Maria on a 5000-acre wheat ranch.

Carol attended private schools in San Francisco and Los Angeles. Her mother had been an accomplished dancer in amateur theatricals and carefully coached her little daughter. Their dancing floor was a lawn, and the lessons continued from 6 to 8 o'clock every morning. Her natural skill in dancing suggested further training and she was enrolled in the Denishawn school of dancing here. Within four months she became a dancing partner of Ted Shawn in public dance recitals.

It was while a class from the school was appearing in a scene for D. W. Griffith at his studios, then in Hollywood, that Miss Dempster attracted the director's attention by her skill in pantomime. She was given extra work to determine whether she could pantomime with her face as well as her body, a rare combination with dancers of the classic type. She demonstrated that she could.

The first leading role came with "The Love Flower," in which she definitely established herself as another Griffith find.

When Griffith moved his studios from Hollywood to Mamaroneck, N. Y., Miss Dempster was given the leading part in "Dream Street," followed by "One Exciting Night" and "The White Rose." Then came her great opportunity—the part of Nancy Montague, the Tory maiden, whose romance with the American express rider forms the colorful theme of "America."

Miss Dempster's family lives in California; where the young star owns a beet ranch of reassuring stretch. Her home is an apartment in New York, but the California ranch represents a place where she may go when the mood strikes her, escaping from the exacting duties of her theatrical activities. She is studying voice, planning some day, when the screen palls, to adventure for a time on the legitimate stage.

IT'S EASY TO BE THIN, SHE SAYS

Dancer Has Sovereign Panacea for Flesh in Practice of Her Art

Any woman who would like to have a slender figure is invited to the Hillstreet next week to call upon Miss Elizabeth Brown, who, with M. Sedano and their orchestra, will be a special feature on the new bill.

"I claim that any woman who wants to be slender can become so without starving or taking pills," said Miss Brown. "If a woman has an expert to teach her the knack of exercise, in places where it does the most good, she can have a shapely figure in the course of two months. Mr. Sedano and I have studied the art of proper exercising until we feel that we are in a position to advise anyone who cares to reduce.

"Some women need waist reducing, others the legs and so on," continued Miss Brown. "Of course, we cannot guarantee to make a startling difference during the week we will be in Los Angeles, but we can start the woman who wants to become slender on the road to a perfect figure and better health.

"A woman came to us when we played Denver last month and told us that she had tried every known reducing pill and diet; but to no avail. We had that woman come to the theater every morning during our stay there, and in a week she had lost five pounds and said she never had felt better in her life. This morning a letter came from her, saying that she was the happiest woman on earth, for she had lost thirty pounds. The secret? Well, it's nothing more than classical dancing! There isn't any exercise which helps every muscle in your body like dancing, not ballroom dancing, but ballet and toe work. I have never known what it is to be sick, I have never taken cold and yet I am always subject to changes of climate, which proves that there is something in it."

Miss Brown should be an authority on figures, because she has the most beautiful figure on the American stage. She measures almost exactly the same as the Venus de Medici, which is conceded to be the exemplar of perfect proportions in woman. George Cheney Johnston, the noted photographer, said: "She has the most beautiful pair of shoulders I have ever seen."

Miss Brown is the picture of grace when she moves about the stage accompanied by the stringed quintet which furnishes the inspiration for her dancing, and their act is said to be one of the most beautiful in vaudeville.

Prefers Tears for Screen to Making Faces

The art of expressing sincere comedy in pantomine is far more difficult than registering tragedy and drama, says Dorothy Devore.

"When I first started in pictures, D. W. Griffith told me to stick to comedy," continued Miss Dorothy, who has just taken a fling at the legitimate drama in the comedy, "The Morning After." "Mr. Griffith stated that a few directors on the stage or behind the camera might make a player enact a dramatic role by lots of work, but that no man on earth from Euripides down could ever make a player funny if he or she did not have the God-given gift of humor at heart."

Miss Devore adds that she has spent five years in comedy work and is not going to play any more parts where she has to make faces at the leading man, throw cooking utensils at her screen hubby or fall downstairs.

She has refused several propositions to be featured in comedies and is considering offers for featured roles in dramatic productions.

"From now on I weep on the screen," concluded Miss Devore.

VIRGINIA RESTING BETWEEN PICTURES

Virginia Valli has completed work in her latest starring vehicle for Universal, "K, the Unknown," in which Percy Marmont appears opposite her. Several stories are being considered for her next starring picture. Universal purchased "Damned" especially for this star, but decided not to produce the story at the present time.

Hungry Days Taught Actress Money Values

From calico to silk and back again.

Thus does Charlotte Treadway, leading woman of "Six-Cylinder Love," describe herself.

"My part in McGuire's play is so realistic, I feel perfectly at home," she said after the matinee yesterday.

"Although it was not an automobile, as in 'Six-Cylinder Love,' that proved my financial downfall, it was living beyond my means, just the same. It happened when I was very young and while I was making a lot of money. I just spent it—and took it for granted that I could go right on making more and more—and I did for a while.

"Then there came a lean year. The theaters were retrenching, and I not only had to retrench. I had to sell some diamonds.

"That's wasn't so bad, but rather than ask my family for money, after I had spent so much, I took my food from lunch counters.

"It was during this period that I learned something about life; I wrote a play on it.

"The play is still in my trunk, but it spelled a step forward for me.

"By the time I got my next job I had learned that money is to save as well as to spend, and although I didn't start out with so much, I saved more."

AUTHORS OVERRATE VALUE OF STORIES

"Unless a novel or play has experienced exceptional success," declares Harvey Thew, well-known scenarist and title writer, "its picture value from a publicity standpoint is far overrated. The average novel or play is read or seen by comparatively few theatergoers. When it comes to asking $200,000 for the picture rights to a play, which is the price being demanded for 'Seventh Heaven,' it is preposterous."

FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH IS FOUND

De Mille Declares Agility of Mind Preserves Body; Woman Explained at Last

"Changing one's mind often keeps one young!"

In such terms does William De Mille strongly champion the well-known "woman's prerogative" and suggest a new mental fountain of youth.

"I change my mind four times a year," continues De Mille, "which means that I change my mind every time I start to make a new picture for the screen. When I began production of "The Bedroom Window," from the mystery story by Clara Beranger, I repudiated much that I firmly believed three months previously. As the year goes round with its four productions I have four changes of viewpoint. Fluidity of thought—changing one's opinions—keeps the spirit young. It prevents one's personality becoming static.

"I am often taking to task for having said certain things on certain methods at certain times, and then, when I begin a new production, having changed my views.

"Every new picture presents new problems of interpretation, demands new methods in titling and different tempo in action. With each new production a recasting of views is necessary.

"I like changing my mind. It prevents my falling into routine—the deadening influence which brings on age. I change my mind and keep young."

If Mr. De Mille's theory is true it is promised that his latest contribution, "The Bedroom Window," showing this week at Grauman's Metropolitan, will do its bit toward keeping a lot of audiences young, for in attempting to solve the mystery which the picture unfolds they are likely to change their minds many times befohe finally ascertaining who is the guilty one. In the cast are May McAvoy, Malcolm McGregor, Ethel Wales, Robert Edeson, George Fawcett, Ricardo Cortez, Charles Ogle and other players.

Edith O., Hollywood: Fannie Ward's age is 49; Lloyd Hughes is 27. Mr. Hughes is carried to Gloria Hope, who has gained quite a reputation for herself as a screen actress. Yes, Nita Naldi has a sister and I believe she plans to take up picture work. Mary Naldi is her name.

F. H., Topanga: The cast of characters for "Women Who Give" was as follows: Frank Keenan as Jonathan Swift; Renee Adoree as Becky Keeler; Robert Frazer, Capt. Joe Cradlebow; Barbara Bedford, Emily Swift; Joseph Dowling, Capt. Keeler; Margaret Seddon, Ma Keeler; Joan Standing, Sophronia Higginbottom; Victor Potel, Ephraim Doolittle; Eddie Phillips, Noah Swift; William Eugene, Ezra Keeler.

P. E. A., Portland: Regret that I am unable to locate a man in pictures by the name of Marvin W. Anderson. If you could give me a little more information as to the kind of work he does I might be able to help you. He is not listed in my motion-picture directory as an actor or a director.

FINISHES "WINE"

Huntly Gordon completes his role in "Wine" this week, after about a month as a featured member of the cast. His next featured lead will be in the forthcoming Robert Vignola production, as yet untitled, for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

PROMISING LOVER OF SILVERSHEET

Naldo Morelli

One of the most promising of the new foreign lovers who has invaded the screen world within the last year is Naldo Morelli. Like Valentino, Morelli accredits Italy as his birthplace, having been born in a little village a short distance from the Valentino home.

Eastern critics who have viewed "Defy the Law" have been liberal in their praise of the work of the young Italian, who plays a featured role in the production with Rene Adoree and Lew Cody.

Morelli was an actor of considerable repute in Naples before coming to Hollywood. It is his ultimate ambition to return to Italy and make a picture amid the beautiful surroundings of historic old Naples.

NEW YORK SITS UP IN SURPRISE

levue Hospital, among those appearing at the first of the series being Barbara La Marr, Claire Windsor, Jean Tolley and Bert Lytell.

Down at the Criterion the Mary Pickford statue has emerged from its protecting sheet permanently, having been given rainproof hair. Mary's statue has been a joke about town; certainly it adds nothing to the appearance of the theater, nor does it look anything like her.

"Mlle. Midnight" is just one more Mae Murray picture, with good sets, lighting and photography and impossible action. Miss Murray's technique seems to have lost some of its St. Vitus touch, but the improvement is slight. She wears a black wig, but otherwise the picture might be almost any other vehicle of hers. However, there must be someone who likes this sort of impossible melodrama, or the active Miss Murray and Bob Leonard would not continue to turn them out.

DRAWN OUT BUT GOOD

Buster Keaton's latest, "Sherlock, Jr." is a bit long drawn out but delightfully funny; after reading in The Times that "this is an extremely good comedy which will give you plenty of amusement so long as you permit Mr. Keaton to glide into his work with his usual deliberation." I was not surprised to find that the audience almost had hysterics that afternoon when I saw it.

"Code of the Sea" with Jacqueline Logan and Rod La Rocque was something of shock; after being convinced that the latter could make any picture interesting no matter how it might drag of itself, we found this one too heavy a burden even for him. The atmosphere was interesting but the story was stupid; it did not live up to the waves.

ANOTHER POOR SELECTION

A crime is about to be committed in our midst; Anita Stewart is to do "Never the Twain Shall Meet" with E. Mason Hopper directing, according to the latest reports on the story.

If she plays the South Sea Island Princess I feel that "even if it was good I wouldn't like it." Of course, Miss Stewart is in a somewhat difficult position; if she could get the right sort of stories and the right sort of roles, she could come back to her old public and be welcomed with open arms. Certainly she never has been prettier or more charming. But the wrong sort of parts will put her as far out of the running as Clara Kimball Young. With girls like Dorothy Mackaill coming along so fast, the older actress must look to her laurels every moment in these days if she expects to hold her own. Anita was seen at the Park avenue fair that was held last week for charity; all society was there but not a debutante looked more charming than she did, as she sang and auctioned off photographs of herself.

A most interesting young person is on the way to Hollywood at the moment of writing. She is Natalie Wills, the 9-year-old daughter of the late Nat Wills, and she is soon to make her debut in pictures. The youngster is said to inherit her father's talent and as she is both pretty and charming there is every likelihood that she will be successful on the screen. Her mother, who accompanies her, said that as yet she had not signed a contract, but would do so on reaching California.

Nita Naldi is bursting into print these days with denials of ever having been fat. She insists that she never weighed over 140, a statement that has caused much comment along the Rialto. Certainly Miss Naldi is not too stout at present, but some of us who took to the lamb-chops and pineapple diet because we heard that it made the change which we had noticed in her figure, are wondering how she is going to prove her statement. We feel sure that there used to be more, much more, of Miss Naldi than there is at present. She says that the clothes which she was forced to wear before the camera were responsible. When it wasn't the fault of the clothes, it was because of the way the camera was focused that was to blame.

Fat or thin, she is at work again at the Long Island studio of Famous Players, in Valentino's new picture.

COLOR HELPS

"The Wanderer of the Wasteland," due to be shown the public soon, had a private showing recently which brought forth much applause for the fine photography, and some for the thrilling scenes. In black and white it would be just another picture. But the use of color throughout puts it in a different class and it is likely to be a success if only because of its novelty. The story is thrilling, fairly well acted in most cases and well directed. Seeing Kathlyn Williams's name in a cast is always comforting, even before she appears on the screen; she is as thoroughly satisfactory as Irene Rich and Hedda Hopper.

"The Ten Commandments," "America," "Secrets" and "Girl Shy" are still running—in fact, "Girl Shy" evidently might go on forever, judging by its continued popularity. "Secrets" gives way to "The Seahawk" tomorrow evening; this is an opening that promises to draw an exceptionally brilliant audience.

"A Son of the Sahara," Edwin Carewe's African-made picture, is being shown at the Broadway. It is well directed and admirably acted by Claire Windsor—more beautiful than ever—Rosemary Theby, Bert Lytell, Montague Love and Walter McGrail. The results justify the trip to the dark continent, although the story is a cheap thing, too much like E. M. Hull's "The Sheik" to hold anything of novelty or interest. However, it has its impressive moments and the picture is well worth seeing.

HAIL RISING STAR

Handling of Small Part Wins Better Role for Player

Another prospective star has appeared on the film horizon in the person of Estelle Ward, a former New York stage favorite, who recently cast her lot in the picture industry in Hollywood.

The clever work of this versatile young woman came to the notice of picture producers when she made a small part in "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," now playing at the Mission Theater, stand out as a bit of masterful technique. She was cast as a cabaret girl, a dashing vampire. Her interpretation of the part was realistic and true to life and brought out her remarkable histrionic ability.

Miss Ward will soon be seen in an important role in a forthcoming society drama and picture executives predict that she will soon take her place with the present-day featured screen players.

LOAN CRIBBON

Eddie Gribbon has been loaned by Glavey Productions, which have been featuring him in Witwer's "Classics in Slang," to Schofield-Howard, where he is playing the comedy lead in "Where Is the Tropic of Capricorn?"

MOLLY DAVENPORT BACK

Renaud Hoffman has brought Molly Davenport back to the screen after several years of retirement to complete the cast of the feature "The Legend of Hollywood," the Photoplay award story which he is now filming. Percy Marmont and Zasu Pitts complete the small cast.

ADDED TO "HIS HOUR"

The cast for "His Hour," the King Vidor production of Elinor Glyn's novel, which the authoress is supervising, has been supplemented by the signing of Carrie Clarke Ward, Mario Carillo, Jacquelin Gadsdon and George Waggoner for important roles. Aileen Pringle and John Gilbert interpret the lovers.

Comedian Born With Humorous Slant on Life

Harry Myers says he must have been born with a smile on his face, for he has always been able to see a funny side to everything. In fact, he finds humor in even his darkest experiences.

Harry says this humorous sense depends on having the eyes, heart and brains all slant the same way. If this isn't a natural gift, then pitch in and cultivate it.

Anyone watching Mr. Myers rollicking through "Daddies" will be convinced that he possesses the secret spring of comedy, that bubbling variety that sends its contagion through every audience as he flashes across the screen in merry scenes.

Of course, being blest with the natural comedy bent, Harry Myers was early destined for the stage.

"I'm among the real veterans in motion pictures, for my first screen work dates back to 1907," he explains. "At that time I played the lead in a Lubin production called 'White Eagle's Love Affair.' Those were great days. All the actors helped decorate the sets, paint the props and even took turns cooking luncheon when we were out on location."

"Daddies," now running merrily along at Grauman's Rialto, is proving a riotous laugh from start to finish with Mae March and Harry Myers playing the leading roles, supported by such favorites as Claire Adams, Claude Gillingwater, Willard Louis, Craufurd Kent and a bunch of clever kiddies.

"CIRCE" CAST

Charles Gerard, William Haines and Thomas Ricketts have been added to the cast of "Circe," Mae Murray's new production, which Robert Z. Leonard is directing. James Kirkwood will appear opposite the star in this picturization of Miss Murray by Vivente Blasco the story written especially for Ibanez.

DIRECTS BARBARA FRIETCHIE

Lambert Hillyer has been engaged to direct "Barbara Frietchie," the screen adaptation of the Clyde Fitch play. Actual production will be started within two weeks. Florence Vidor is in the stellar role. Mr. Hillyer directed many of the Bill Hart productions. Among his noteworthy achievements is the last picturization of "The Spoilers."

Disbelief in Signs Appears Well Founded

Robert Frazer, who keeps his make-up box at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, deplores the fact that there are so many meaningless signs in the world. In Bob's category of useless signs, which represent an annual waste of $000,000,000,000, are:

"Blow your horn—this truck will let you pass."

"No smoking on this set."

"We'll double your money in thirty days."

"Unless you work on this set keep off."

"Super-production."

"Do not drive over fifteen miles per hour for the first 500 miles."

"Keep these 700 parts well oiled."

"For information, dial O."

CAFE REVUE TO HAVE NEW CAST NEXT WEEK

"Frivolities," the revue at the Plantation, is to have a new cast starting next Wednesday evening. The premiere of the new production is to be an auspicious occasion similar to the opening of the show one month ago.

Featured artists in the new revue are to be Suzette and David Murray, dancers known as "The Fashion Plate Artists;" Ernst Morison, tenor; Eugeni Fiener, comedienne and singer, and Clay Stearns, eccentric dancer. Jacqueline Drew will be the only holdover from the present show.

The success of the first production of "Frivolities" has encouraged Fanchon and she will endeavor to put on a production of much larger scope. The chorus of California beauties will be fitted with new costumes.

Dale Fuller is to be hostess at the cafe tomorrow evening in place of eBtty Blythe, who was called east on business.

Freddie Next Poor Fish on Rialto Screen

"Galloping Fish," which comes to Grauman's Rialto Wednesday, promises to be the season's film novelty. Freddie, a trained seal, plays a leading role and even with the big league opposition of several of the best comedians of the screen, holds his own. More than that, he wins the spotlight during much of the hilarious fun.

Louise Fazenda, Sidney Chaplin, Ford Sterling, Chester Conklin, Lucille Rickson and John Steppling make a cast that never disappoints the audience, and it is recorded that there is a laugh-a-minute in "Galloping Fish."

The plot is woven about the adventures of "Venus," when she tries to hide her seal from the Sheriff, who is attempting to serve an attachment on the animal for a bill which the diving beauty failed to pay. A lovelorn bridegroom gets mixed in the disappearance of Freddie, the seal, which starts a series of situations that build up a good story, successfully directed by Del Andrews.

IDENTIFIES SELF WITH CHARACTER

Role of Cavallini Has Become Part of Life for Doris Keane, Its Creator

"Although Mme. Margherita Cavallini has died nearly 2000 times in the history of 'Romance,' she still lives a part of me, and her final demise will not have been effected, as far as I am concerned, until I take her to the grave with me."

Such is the hold that Edward Sheldon's character has upon Doris Keane, for whom it was especially written by the author. The two—actress and opera singer—have become so inseparable that not even three war years in London during the air raids, two years in New York during the harshest theatrical seasons, and divers upheavels in principal American cities have lessened the love that one bears for the other, though one is flesh and blood and the other written on paper.

The twain are still going strong without a single breach, as the fifth week of "Romance" at the Playhouse will prove. Once, in a jovial mood, the author tested the fame of La Cavallini by addressing a letter to "Mme. Margherita Cavallini, London," and it was received by Miss Keane. Through Miss Keane the prima donna has become an international figure.

Sometimes the tenor of introspection is a tragic note. In our generation there is not another Cavallini; and must Miss Keane "take these graces to the grave and leave the world no copy"?

"I think I shall tire of life first before I tire of Cavallini," adds Miss Keane. "She is so big, so elemental—she is so rich in human content that she overflows with it. She has the charm of infinite variety. I am constantly discovering her all over again, so I think I shall never really catch up with her.

"Since I began living half of my life as Cavallini I have had dozens of plays submitted to me, and not one of them contained a quarter of the range of temperament which she turns on at will in the first act alone. She is for me and I am for her until death do us part. And then—I wonder!"

JACKIE ACHIEVES FAME'S PINNACLE

Kids of all races and creeds in every town and hamlet in the United States have imitated Jackie Coogan. Whenever one of Jackie's pictures are shown there is certain to be a Coogan similarity contest, but now, for the first time, there is really another boy by the name of Jackie Coogan.

In yesterday's mail, addressed to Jackie's home, came an announcement of the birth of a baby boy in Oklahoma City, and his name was "Jackie Coogan" Wilhote. Now Jackie can surely add another fan to the admiring millions who patronize his films, and the little star has written personally to his namesake wishing him a long life of happiness.

MANSFIELD AIDE CINEMA RECRUIT

Vera Lewis

Vera Lewis, who has just been signed by Warner Brothers for one of the important roles in "Cornered," for several years was associated with the late Richard Mansfield on the legitimate stage in several big productions before taking up her career in the silent drama.

Miss Lewis scored a notable success in Griffith's "Escape," "Birth of a Nation," "Hearts of the World," "Intolerance" and other Griffith features. Her recent appearances were in "Brass" and "Broadway After Dark."

In "Cornered" she is said to have splendid opportunities for showing her wide range in registering many different shades of emotion, from light dignified comedy to near tragedy.

Society Girl of California Seeks Career

The latest recruit to the films from the social whirl is Miss Barbara Pierce of Santa Barbara, who is quitting society to pursue a motion-picture career.

Miss Pierce is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Pierce of Santa Barbara, and a popular young debutante. She has appeared with the Community Players of Santa Barbara from time to time, and has had some stage training in New York.

Barbara's first motion-picture work was a small bit in a Mack Sennett comedy, in which she appeared to such advantage that she was given the lead in a new comedy called "Wall Street Blues." This settled matters for Miss Barbara. The Pierce family was given their choice of giving up their home in Santa Barbara, or giving up their daughter. They decided to give up the home, and have moved to Hollywood, right in the studio district.

Miss Pierce is at present playing the lead in a new Sennett comedy featuring Billy Bevan, Sid Smith, Madeline Hurlock and Kalla Pasha.

Handling of Small Part Wins Better Role for Player

Another prospective star has appeared on the film horizon in the person of Estelle Ward, a former New York stage favorite, who recently cast her lot in the picture industry in Hollywood.

The clever work of this versatile young woman came to the notice of picture producers when she made a small part in "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," now playing at the Mission Theater, stand out as a bit of masterful technique. She was cast as a cabaret girl, a dashing vampire. Her interpretation of the part was realistic and true to life and brought out her remarkable histrionic ability.

Miss Ward will soon be seen in an important role in a forthcoming society drama and picture executives predict that she will soon take her place with the present-day featured screen players.

LOAN CRIBBON

Eddie Gribbon has been loaned by Glavey Productions, which have been featuring him in Witwer's "Classics in Slang," to Schofield-Howard, where he is playing the comedy lead in "Where is the Tropic of Capricorn?"

MOLLY DAVENPORT BACK

Renaud Hoffman has brought Molly Davenport back to the screen after several years of retirement to complete the cast of the feature "The Legend of Hollywood," the Photoplay award story which he is now filming. Percy Marmont and Zasu Pitts complete the small cast.

ADDED TO "HIS HOUR"

The cast for "His Hour," the King Vidor production of Elinor Glyn's novel, which the authoress is supervising, has been supplemented by the signing of Carrie Clarke Ward, Mario Carillo, Jacquelin Gadsdon and George Waggoner for important roles. Aileen Pringle and John Gilbert interpret the lovers.

IDENTIFIES SELF WITH CHARACTER

Role of Cavallini Has Become Part of Life for Doris Keane, Its Creator

"Although Mme. Margherita Cavallini has died nearly 2000 times in the history of 'Romance,' she still lives a part of me, and her final demise will not have been effected, as far as I am concerned, until I take her to the grave with me."

Such is the hold that Edward Sheldon's character has upon Doris Keane, for whom it was especially written by the author. The two—actress and opera singer—have become so inseparable that not even three war years in London during the air raids, two years in New York during the harshest theatrical seasons, and divers upheavels in principal American cities have lessened the love that one bears for the other, though one is flesh and blood and the other written on paper.

The twain are still going strong without a single breach, as the fifth week of "Romance" at the Playhouse will prove. Once, in a jovial mood, the author tested the fame of La Cavallini by addressing a letter to "Mme. Margherita Cavallini, London," and it was received by Miss Keane. Through Miss Keane the prima donna has become an international figure.

Sometimes the tenor of introspection is a tragic note. In our generation there is not another Cavallini; and must Miss Keane "take these graces to the grave and leave the world no copy"?

"I think I shall tire of life first before I tire of Cavallini," adds Miss Keane. "She is so big, so elemental—she is so rich in human content that she overflows with it. She has the charm of infinite variety. I am constantly discovering her all over again, so I think I shall never really catch up with her.

"Since I began living half of my life as Cavallini I have had dozens of plays submitted to me, and not one of them contained a quarter of the range of temperament which she turns on at will in the first act alone. She is for me and I am for her until death do us part. And then—I wonder!"

JACKIE ACHIEVES FAME'S PINNACLE

Kids of all races and creeds in every town and hamlet in the United States have imitated Jackie Coogan. Whenever one of Jackie's pictures are shown there is certain to be a Coogan similarity contest, but now, for the first time, there is really another boy by the name of Jackie Coogan.

In yesterday's mail, addressed to Jackie's home, came an announcement of the birth of a baby boy in Oklahoma City, and his name was "Jackie Coogan" Wilhote. Now Jackie can surely add another fan to the admiring millions who patronize his films, and the little star has written personally to his namesake wishing him a long life of happiness.

MANSFIELD AIDE CINEMA RECRUIT

Vera Lewis

Vera Lewis, who has just been signed by Warner Brothers for one of the important roles in "Cornered," for several years was associated with the late Richard Mansfield on the legitimate stage in several big productions before taking up her career in the silent drama.

Miss Lewis scored a notable success in Griffith's "Escape," "Birth of a Nation," "Hearts of the World," "Intolerance" and other Griffith features. Her recent appearances were in "Brass" and "Broadway After Dark."

In "Cornered" she is said to have splendid opportunities for showing her wide range in registering many different shades of emotion, from light dignified comedy to near tragedy.

Society Girl of California Seeks Career

The latest recruit to the films from the social whirl is Miss Barbara Pierce of Santa Barbara, who is quitting society to pursue a motion-picture career.

Miss Pierce is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Pierce of Santa Barbara, and a popular young debutante. She has appeared with the Community Players of Santa Barbara from time to time, and has had some stage training in New York.

Barbara's first motion-picture work was a small bit in a Mack Sennett comedy, in which she appeared to such advantage that she was given the lead in a new comedy called "Wall Street Blues." This settled matters for Miss Barbara. The Pierce family was given their choice of giving up their home in Santa Barbara, or giving up their daughter. They decided to give up the home, and have moved to Hollywood, right in the studio district.

Miss Pierce is at present playing the lead in a new Sennett comedy featuring Billy Bevan, Sid Smith, Madeline Hurlock and Kalla Pasha.

Comedian Born With Humorous Slant on Life

Harry Myers says he must have been born with a smile on his face, for he has always been able to see a funny side to everything. In fact, he finds humor in even his darkest experiences.

Harry says this humorous sense depends on having the eyes, heart and brains all slant the same way. If this isn't a natural gift, then pitch in and cultivate it.

Anyone watching Mr. Myers rollicking through "Daddies" will be convinced that he possesses the secret spring of comedy, that bubbling variety that sends its contagion through every audience as he flashes across the screen in merry scenes.

Of course, being blest with the natural comedy bent, Harry Myers was early destined for the stage.

"I'm among the real veterans in motion pictures, for my first screen work dates back to 1907," he explains. "At that time I played the lead in a Lubin production called 'White Eagle's Love Affair.' Those were great days. All the actors helped decorate the sets, paint the props and even took turns cooking luncheon when we were out on location."

"Daddies," now running merrily along at Grauman's Rialto, is proving a riotous laugh from start to finish with Mae March and Harry Myers playing the leading roles, supported by such favorites as Claire Adams, Claude Gillingwater, Willard Louis, Craufurd Kent and a bunch of clever kiddies.

"CIRCE" CAST

Charles Gerard, William Haines and Thomas Ricketts have been added to the cast of "Circe," Mae Murray's new production, which Robert Z. Leonard is directing. James Kirkwood will appear opposite the star in this picturization of Miss Murray by Vivente Blasco the story written especially for Ibanez.

DIRECTS BARBARA FRIETCHIE

Lambert Hillyer has been engaged to direct "Barbara Frietchie," the screen adaptation of the Clyde Fitch play. Actual production will be started within two weeks. Florence Vidor is in the stellar role. Mr. Hillyer directed many of the Bill Hart productions. Among his noteworthy achievements is the last picturization of "The Spoilers."

Disbelief in Signs Appears Well Founded

Robert Frazer, who keeps his make-up box at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, deplores the fact that there are so many meaningless signs in the world. In Bob's category of useless signs, which represent an annual waste of $000,000,000,000, are:

"Blow your horn—this truck will let you pass."

"No smoking on this set."

"We'll double your money in thirty days."

"Unless you work on this set keep off."

"Super-production."

"Do not drive over fifteen miles per hour for the first 500 miles."

"Keep these 700 parts well oiled."

"For information, dial O."

CAFE REVUE TO HAVE NEW CAST NEXT WEEK

"Frivolities," the revue at the Plantation, is to have a new cast starting next Wednesday evening. The premiere of the new production is to be an auspicious occasion similar to the opening of the show one month ago.

Featured artists in the new revue are to be Suzette and David Murray, dancers known as "The Fashion Plate Artists;" Ernst Morison, tenor; Eugeni Fiener, comedienne and singer, and Clay Stearns, eccentric dancer. Jacqueline Drew will be the only holdover from the present show.

The success of the first production of "Frivolities" has encouraged Fanchon and she will endeavor to put on a production of much larger scope. The chorus of California beauties will be fitted with new costumes.

Dale Fuller is to be hostess at the cafe tomorrow evening in place of eBtty Blythe, who was called east on business.

Freddie Next Poor Fish on Rialto Screen

"Galloping Fish," which comes to Grauman's Rialto Wednesday promises to be the season's film novelty. Freddie, a trained seal, plays a leading role and even with the big league opposition of several of the best comedians of the screen, holds his own. More than that, he wins the spotlight during much of the hilarious fun.

Louise Fazenda, Sidney Chaplin, Ford Sterling, Chester Conklin, Lucille Rickson and John Steppling make a cast that never disappoints the audience, and it is recorded that there is a laugh-a-minute in "Galloping Fish."

The plot is woven about the adventures of "Venus," when she tries to hide her seal from the Sheriff, who is attempting to serve an attachment on the animal for a bill which the diving beauty failed to pay. A lovelorn bridegroom gets mixed in the disappearance of Freddie, the seal, which starts a series of situations that build up a good story, successfully directed by Del Andrews.

INTERESTING PLAY ATTRACTIONS OPEN

Three changes occur in legitimate theater bills this week, the most important of which is the opening tomorrow night of Ethel Barrymore in "The Laughing Lady" at the Biltmore.

Tonight "Just Married," starring Vivian Martin and Donald Brian, goes on at the Mason, while Leo Carrillo appears in "Lombardi, Ltd.," at the Majestic.

State attractions which continue their runs here are "White Collars," at Egan's, "Six-Cylinder Love" at the Morosco and "Romance" at the Playhouse.

Bathing Show

Nothing more appropriate than the display of bathing fashions and everything that's summery could be used in the latest Burbank musical comedy production with the famous Baby Dolls as the popular entertainers.

Walter Van has selected an entire new comedy plot, which deals with the adventures of three grass-widowers at a beach resort. These parts are played by Lee Bud Harrison, Henry Sheer and Bob Fitzsimmons, and there is promise of miles of smiles for every patron. The rest of the favorites are, of course, in the limelight with Ruby Darby, William McKee, Babs Arnold and Fern Emmett doing their specialties. The Baby Dolls are considered at their best in the summer music show and their admirers will undoubtedly want to see their favorites in the mammoth bathing numbers specially produced for this production.

Establishes High Mark

The fifth week of "Romance" at the Playhouse will start Miss Doris Keane toward the 3000-performance mark, for tomorrow night the actress celebrates her two thousandth appearance as Mme. Margherita Cavallini.

Little did Miss Keane think when she established the world's long run record of 1000 performances at the Duke of York's Theater in London some years ago, that she would be given the opportunity by Louis O. Macloon to double it at the Playhouse in Los Angeles.

Good Horseman

Admirers of good horsemanship will enjoy "At Devil's Gorge," which is the feature attraction at the Hippodrome this week. The star is Edmund Cobb, better known as "Two-Fisted Ed." He is recognized as one of the best horsemen on the screen today, and though he certainly has his favorite pony, he can ride them all. The story is a real American western story telling how a young miner nearly lost his life, gold and his girl, and only by his own efforts and pluck was he able to come through on top.

A vaudeville bill of decided variety is headed by Achilles and Venus, in "Posing and Painting De Luxe," an act quite out of the ordinary. Frank and Hunt present a unique comedy offering. Charlton Chase in "Topical Talks and Tunes," Berry, Brock and Berry in a comedy musical offering, "The Nicest Girl in Town," Le Roy and Lawrence in an act called "Reel Nonsense,'" and the Fostos in feats of contortion and athletics presented in a neat manner, close the program.

Varied Program

A diversified program of vaudeville attractions and photoplay features will be presented at the Hillstreet this week. The principal fun maker on the bill is Jack Wilson, blackface comedian, assisted by Charles Forthsye, Ruth Wheeler and little Willie Ward.

An ambitious dancing and musical offering titled "Danses Modernes et Classiques" will be presented by Elizabeth Brown and Sedano, whirlwind and ballroom dancers. For their accompaniments they have a stringed quintet and the act is staged with three special settings and novel lighting effects.

Combining musical comedy, circus, drama, opera and burlesque into one act, the "World of Make Believe" offers thirty minutes of varied entertainment. There is a plot of dance, music and fantasy with Nola St. Clair as the featured player supported by a large cast.

Other acts will be Russell and Pierce, who call themselves "acromedians;" Jean Boydell, an accomplished singing comedienne, and the Kitaros, a troupe of Japanese athletes.

Constance Binney is the star of the photoplay, "Three O'clock in the Morning," and "Money to Burns," a two-reel comedy from "The Telephone Girl" stories, by H. C. Witwer, is also included in the screen program.

Back to Stage Again

Vivian Martin, co-star with Donald Brian in the honeymoon farce, "Just Married," which comes to the Mason Opera House tonight, feels that her activities in the movies as well as her varied background on the legitimate stage are responsible for her training.

Before entering upon a moving-picture engagement Miss Martin achieved many stage successes in stock, in "Stop Thief," "Officer 666," and "The Only Son." Miss Martin appeared on the screen in "Her Father's Son," "Little Miss Optimist," "Her Country First," "Littlest Scrub Lady," "Mirandy Smiles," "His Official Wife," and a number of other popular pictures.

Romance and Comedy

Perhaps one of the greatest fun providing scenes that has ever been written is to be found in the second act of "White Collars" the Edith Ellis comedy which will be given for the 160th time at the Egan Theater tomorrow. This is the scene in which the young millionaire, William Van Lyun, endeavors to make himself comfortable in a Harlem flat.

There is a pretty romance running through it, the sort of a love story that everyone likes, but it is the excruiatingly funny situations, the dialogue that fairly drips laughter that makes the play one that audiences remember for weeks.

The cast includes Robert Ober, Ruth Lee, George Sherwood, Mabel Forrest, Blanche Douglas, Zellah Covington, Paul Kruger, Isabel Foyer and Stuart Irwin.

Sophie Tucker Back

Sophie Tucker will headline the Orpheum bill opening tomorrow, when she again will have the aid of Ted Shapiro and Jack Carroll at the two pianos. Miss Tucker will deliver herself of a lot of "blues" of course, but this time she particularly offers her song-dramas as a new and unusual feature of vaudeville.

Harry Carroll, with Linda and his bevy of beauties, will remain as the other outstanding feature of the bill, with his revue, "Everything Will Be All Right," materially changed, with new song numbers, new routine—almost a new act.

Zelma O'Neal and Joe Donahue will have new stuff, and so will the girls. An incoming event will be the first appearance of Ed Alexandria and Oh Olson, who will perpetrate their own act, "What's It All About?" and also stage an afterpiece, with the inimitable Sophie having a large part therein, and most of the other acts participating, including Al K. Hall, who is also held over for that purpose, and others. Roy Rice and Mary Wetner, "On the Scaffold," are featured; and in the list of other acts are Walter Sayton and partner and Cook and Coan.

Comedian Well Known

Charles Ahearn is known wherever men love to laugh. His comedy productions are famous for their originality and quaint humor. He comes to Pantages with his Millionaire Jazz Band this week, and no description or explanation of the act is needed to tell vaudeville fans what he can do with an idea of this kind. Bessie Bromley accompanies the bankers and brokers as solo dancer.

Frank Stafford and company promise "Rip Van Winkle's Dream," a woodland fairy tale that gives Mr. Stafford an opportunity for his portrayal of Rip Van Winkle. Jack Strouse, in black face, has a monologue, "Over the Phone," that has been widely imitated. Casson and Klem, pianist and singer, have hosts of friends who will welcome them to Los Angeles. The Rios, from South America, are inventors of a new style of gymnastics. Vogan and Lawrence have a row of interrogation marks after their names in the Pantages program.

Richard Talmadge, with the support of Tully Marshall and Eileen Percy, portrays a live-wire story about a small-town loafer who grew into a big city hero. "Let's Go" is the title, which has been adopted by the Pantages management as the slogan for the week.

Ethel Barrymore Tomorrow

The association of three important names of the theater, Ethel Barrymore, Arthur Hopkins and Sir Alfred Sutro, will arrest the attention of Los Angeles theatergoers for the fortnight commencing tomorrow night. Mr. Hopkins will present Miss Barrymore at the Biltmore Theater in "The Laughing Lady," written by Mr. Sutro.

"The Laughing Lady" is an English society drama, written in Sutro's best manner, the kind in which Miss Barrymore's following, educated to an appreciation of that star in modern society plays, will enthusiastically welcome her.

Mr. Hopkins has provided a supporting company of exceptional excellence for Miss Barrymore, the names of Henry Daniel, Wallis Clark, Edward Martyn, Lionel Pape, Virginia Chauvenet, Ethel Intropidi and Jane Wheatley, being among those of her company.

OWN RANCH AS SET SUITS CAREY WELL

Harry Carey's ranch near Saugus is being used as the locale of many of the scenes of "Tiger Thompson," his third Hunt Stromberg production, which "Breezy" Eason is directing.

Inasmuch as the foot-and-mouth disease makes it impossible to move stock at the present time, the horses and cattle used in the picture are all from the Carey range.

The Carey rancho is one of the largest and most famous in Southern California, and although it provides some ideal scenery for out-of-doors pictures, it has never been used as a setting for a picture heretofore.

Carey is highly enthusiastic over the idea, for it not only gives him two extra hours of sleep in the morning, but affords him the opportunity of playing with his two youngsters between scenes.

STREET-RAILWAY SYSTEM FIFTY YEARS OLD TODAY

Mule Line on Main Street Now Gigantic Network of 373 Miles of Rails

BY SYL MacDOWELL

The Los Angeles Railway has just revealed an important niversary in the career of our city.

It is a semicentennial. Fifty years ago today, "Motorman o. 1" christened the first piece of equipment by cracking a ip at it.

The mule, unmindful of the epochal importance of the oc- sion, responded with a hearty yank; and away went the dinky r on its majestic journey from the beer gardens at Wash- gton and Main to Temple Block, where the postoffice now ands.

e route was two and a half le long. the schedule a trip ry hour or so and the fare 10 s. Railway operatives of to- y assert with proud emphasis at you can ride' twenty-eight les on the modern urban system for five cents.

OWNED BY WOMAN

e first downtown line was ed the Main Street Railway. was owned by Francisco A. rra, a daughter of that noted eer, Co. Isaac Williams, who ed Chino Rancho.

This little old lady, with the odd lection of being 'Los Angeles' railway magnate, now con- plates the results of small be- ings from her old-fashioned sion at Flower street and ashington Boulevard, beside the aying modernity of Poly- ic High School.

ou wouldn't think that a man ld answer foolish questions for many years and still live, but ge De Frain, a veteran motor- n of the horse-car days, is on job yet for the Los Angeles lway. He says you mustn't be- e all you hear about public ty being a strictly twentieth ry idea. He used to wear boots in the winters so he d heft senoritas from the car p to the sidewalk.

HELL'S HALF-ACRE

Where Midnight Sees Motley Throng of Penniless

BY LEONARD C. BOYD

The place is affectionately called by its patrons "Hell's Half Acre," but it is listed in the directory as the Midnight Mission, Second and Los Angeles streets. It is a place where "flops" and one meal a day are given to weary and penniless wayfarers. Every night around the silent hour of midnight, when supper is served, human riffraff is attracted from all directions. They steal along shadowy alleys and streets like denizens of a jungle forest drawn by a strange camp fire, and congregate in straggling knots about the dimly-lighted entrance.

The average nightly crowd numbers about 400, composed of negroes, Mexicans, orientals and whites, all guided by the most primitive of instincts, the desire for fod. Battered straws, felts and motley caps top the pinched, unshaven faces that await hungrily alert for the signal to come and eat.

RAILLERY ABOUNDS

Some venture through the wide-open doors into the little chapel, the plastered walls of which are covered with pencilled "road monickers" such as "A No. 4," "Pennsy Kid," "A Rambler," "Blind Baggage Ben," and an endless lot of other egoistic titles. They slump into cane-bottomed chairs seemingly bored with the orating from the pulpit which is carried on steadily all day and most of the night by special missionary details from various churches of the city. There is an undercurrent of genial raillery, by the crowd outside, at the promises of salvation while they pass the butt end of a smoking cigarette among their gang, each taking a puff or two and passing it on to the next man, who asks, "Hey, bo, slip us a drag offen that snipe, will yuh?"

When supper is announced the word goes out through the ragged crowds like an electric shock. Sounds of shuffling feet from around the corners grow in volume like a soughing breeze in leafy boughs that whips suddenly into a wind flurry.

The dining-room is reached by passing through the chapel, over the temporary rostrum and behind. The group that has been conducting services draws aside nervously as the single file of humanity bearing down the aisle increases to a column of pushing squads.

There are watchmen stationed inside the dining-room who seat the hungry men on crude benches at two long naked tables. One "sitting" takes care of about 100 souls—or stomachs, rather.

FOOD GOES QUICKLY

At each place is a deep enamelware dish filled with "mulligan" stew which is "left over" from restaurants each evening and contributed to this cause. A cup of skimmed milk, two slices of bread and a piece of pie concludes the menu.

Bible verses and mottoes printed on placards adorn the chipped, calcamined walls. At the head of one table is a cross made of 2x4 scantlings and covered with tinfoil. Above this is a fair likeness of Jesus drawn, it is said, by a guest of the place who had never had a crayon in his hand before, but while under the enthusiasm of religious zeal one night created this, by praying and working alternately.

One sign hanging awry from a post announces "1000 Souls Pass Through This Mission Daily." Another one reads, "Sixty of Our Boys Served With the Colors During the Great War."

Needless to say, food on the board disappears magically and with great audibility into the human vacuums. The first "sitting" when finished is ushered out and another one, more clamorous, aroused by the nearness and scent of food, is let in.

Just as soon as all have eaten, the doors to the sleeping quarters above the chapel and mess hall are thrown wide.

Three hundred to 400 "boes" troop upstairs to pay homage to Morpheus. There are no beds, blankets or pillows, nothing but the bare floor, a splintery oak floor at that, which gives off a strangling odor of disinfectant.

RETIRE IN ROWS

The guests retire in rows; those in the first row place their feet against the wall of one side and lie close together, their bodies touching. Those in the next row lie down similarly, with their heads against the first row of heads.

Then the other side of the building follows the lead of the first half, making four rows of human sardines the entire length of the 150-foot hall.

Practically all sleep in "heavy marching order" and pillow their heads on their fore-arms. Some more finicky than others pull off their shoes and use them for pillows. A few "old timers" have dirty little bundles of belongings

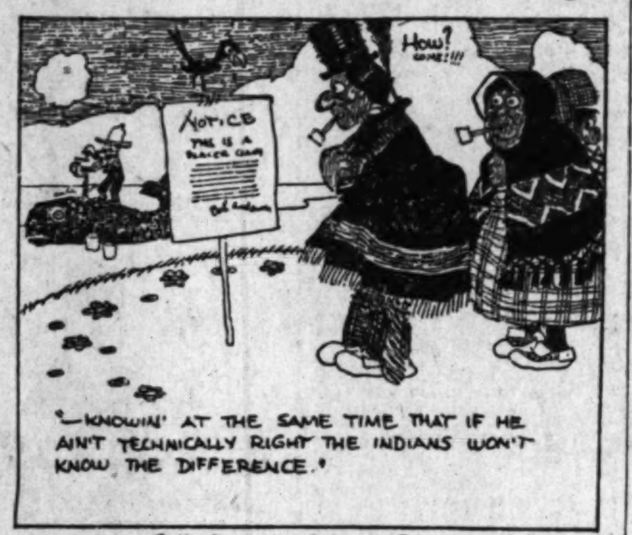
STAKES CLAIM ON DEAD WHALE

Prospector Loses Oil, Gets Ambergris



How? Come!!!
NOTICE THIS IS A PLACER CLAIM
Bob Anderson
"—KNOWIN' AT THE SAME TIME THAT IF HE AIN'T TECHNICALLY RIGHT THE INDIANS WON'T KNOW THE DIFFERENCE."

Sells Stuff for $100 an Ounce

BY J. E. MITCHELL

"BOB ANDERSON," said Christmas Tree Charley, "is the only feller I ever see that could stumble over a skunk in the dark and get up smellin' like a rose.

"Anderson has been prospectin' down in Lower California when, come winter, he decides he'll up stakes and spend Christmas with his sister in Los Angeles.

"No sooner said than did and an hour by sun next day sees Bob and his two burros headed north. 'Tain't mor'n a thousand mile to Los Angeles from where he's at, but a thousand mile looks like thirty feet to a burro or a prospector if there's somethin' at the other end that's a little different from what he's been used to seein' or eatin'.

"A month later Anderson and them two jacks rounds a point of rocks down below here somewheres and comes out on the biggest ocean and, similtudious like, the biggest smell that ever lays out of doors.

"Them two burros probably thinks that Bob, who is leadin', has tromped on a skunk, for they lays back their ears and heads right back over the trail, bawlin' for all git-out, sheddin' bacon and Dutch ovens and the rest of the pack outfit all over Southern California.

"It takes Bob the rest of the day to get his pack together again and that night he makes camp a considerable ways up wind, not far from where a little bunch of Indians is camped casual like.

WHALE ON BEACH

"After he gets to prospectin' around he soon finds out what the matter is. It's a whale high and dry on the beach and deader'n King Tut.

"Blackfish done it. You see, two blackfish set out after a whale, one ketchin' a holt on one side and the other on the other just like a couple of bull pups a-swingin' on to a old sow pig.

"The first thing the whale does is to try to drown 'em, but a whale can't drown a blackfish any more than a toad can learn a hawk how to fly.

"Then the old whale comes up and begins to turn over sideways but the blackfish hold on and here they go again lookin' like a boy turnin' cartwheels. Every time the whale turns over a blackfish flails the water, makin' a sound like a young cannon, but they hold on and finally the old whale makes for the shore.

"You jump off the roof of a burnin' house and as sure as aces beats deuces you bust yourself on the ground. That's what happens to the whale, for when he gets into shaller water the blackfish leave him and the next wave washes him ashore.

AWFUL ODOR

"For weeks after it smells like the whole ocean is full of wiggletails. Tellin' about it afterwards, Bob used to say that most people don't know how lucky they are that polecats ain't as big as whales. It sure looks like the whole world is goin' to be plumb full of whale for some time to come.

"All mixed up 'till you can't tell this from that is Indian tracks and coyote tracks around this whale. The Indians eat on him in the day time and the coyotes drag at him at night.

"Bob, havin' a feeble idea that whale oil is worth money, sets in to pan this one.

"Pan him? I mean try him out just like your mammy makes soap out of bacon rinds and things in a kittle out in the back yard.

"While he ain't got nothin' but a couple of five-gallon tin cans that he's been carryin' water in to do his smeltin' with and this whale is two or three hundred feet long and weighs four or five thousand tons, maybe, Anderson sets right in to melt him down just as cheerful and hopeful like as you'd start to fry a piece of bacon for breakfast.

AMBITIOUS WORK

"Right up to this very yet I ain't ever heard tell of a more ambitious undertakin'.

"After gettin' his camp all fixed up regular like with the hobbles and a bell on the burros he blasts himself out a sump hole in the rock with a couple sticks of powder. This sump is where he aims to pour the taller he gets from this whale.

"Three weeks later Bob is still smeltin' away at this carcass, of which there ain't a great deal left. He's already served notice on the Indians that he's staked this whale out in a plumb legal manner and he don't aim to stand for no claim jumpin'. To be sure, he ain't quite certain whether he should file on him as a lode or a placer claim but finally he decides on the placer, knowin' at the same time that if he ain't technically right the Indians won't know the difference.

"But the coyotes ain't so particular and the legal phases don't bother them much. They're there every night and Bob, besides workin' all day, has to sit up all night with a Winchester to fight 'em off.

"Then one of the burros, a burro bein' plumb depraved, anyways, uncovers a appetite for drinkin' out of Bob's taller sump and what with the'owin' rocks at the burros and shootin' bullets at the coyotes and a stray Indian now and then Bob is kept hopin' around, busier than a heifer with triplet calves.

COMES A STORM

"He's got his sump about full of whale oil when one night there comes up a storm. The rain runs off the hills like the mill-tails of hades and the next mornin' the remains of the whale have washed out to sea and the sump hole is full of nothin' but rain water. As fast as the water run in the whale oil floated out and run off down the beach.

"All that's left of a thrivin' whale industry is one battered tin can blowin' up and down the sand. While them Indians don't understand any English and very little Spanish the words Anderson uses causes them to pull up stakes and take to the hills.

"Floatin' in a little eddy where the whale used to be is a soapy lookin' mess that Anderson reckons is the remnants of the oil he has poured into the sump. Figurin' that he might as well have somethin' to show for his work, he fills up the tin can with it and the next day sets out for Los Angeles.

"He gets in here about the middle of January. Christmas is done over with, as it usually is by that time of the year, but Bob's sister is just as proud to see him as if he'd been Santy Claws. The burros and that tin can full of smell ain't quite so welcome but she makes a place for 'em out in the back yard.

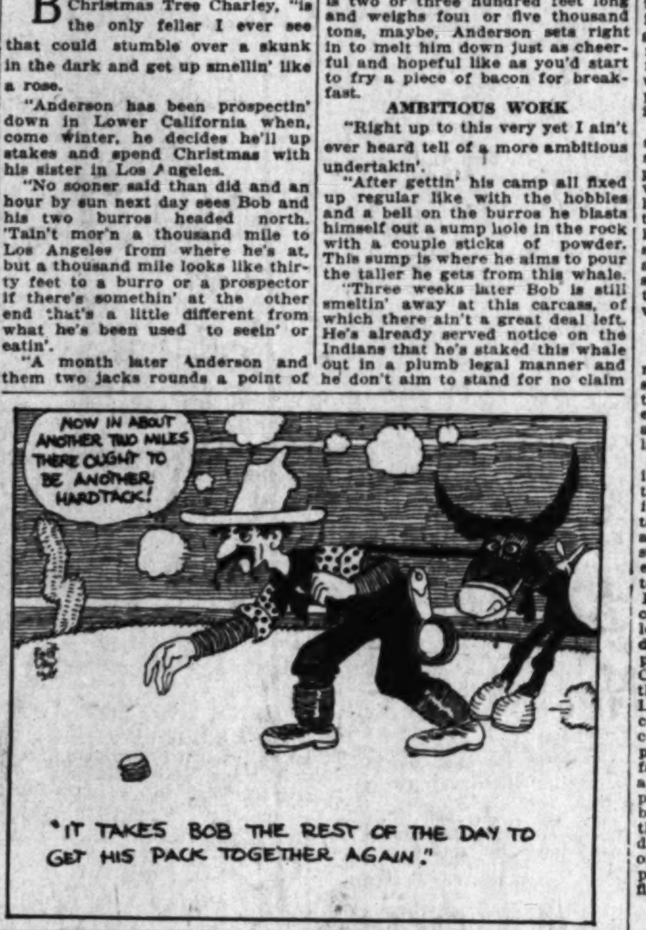
TRIES TO SELL IT

"Then Anderson takes his can full of grease down town to see what he can get for it. He don't get any offers from the junk men, however, so he brings it back. If he can't sell it, he reckons, he can pack it back down to them gold claims and use it to grease his windlass with.

"It ain't until some of the neighbors begin to complain and the health authorities comes around that Anderson finds out what he's really got.

"'What's this stinkin' stuff?' says the health doctor.

"'Whale oil,' says Bob, tellin' how he come by it.



NOW IN ABOUT ANOTHER TWO MILES THERE OUGHT TO BE ANOTHER HARDTACK!
"IT TAKES BOB THE REST OF THE DAY TO GET HIS PACK TOGETHER AGAIN."

FATALITIES THIN AIRMEN'S RANKS

Death Fights Pacific Coast Aero Pioneers

Fifteen in Venice Meet of 1921 Part of Toll

Defective Planes, Not Stunts Cause Disasters

BY A. L. WOOLDRIDGE

Fighting back the men who have sought to conquer the air, the hand of Death is decimating the ranks of airplane pioneers in Southern California. Crushing some to the ground, drowning others in the sea, sending one to a suicide's grave and another to eternity in a blazing motor car, the Grim Reaper is taking vengeful toll of those who first drove craft into the clouds along the shores of the Pacific.

Of flyers who congregated at the Venice Aviation Field in 1921, fifteen have gone to violent deaths—fifteen in a period of three years. Hubert Kittle, who killed himself a few weeks ago following the Arcadia bank robbery exposures, was the last of the group of aviators to drop out. Others are keeping on. Many have quit. A few gained national reputations as stunt men before they were killed. A few still are electrifying crowds with their daring feats. These, the professionals, admit they are toying with Fate.

Hundreds of thousands of persons have stood gazing into the sky where some tiny speck of a plane was to be seen drifting earthward like a falling leaf, spinning, looping, lazily rolling in space. And thousands have seen some of these little specks suddenly start diving straight to the ground to end in a crash and wreckage. They have seen human bodies pulled from the tangle of canvas and sticks and wire and steel.

STUNTS NOT CAUSE

Stunts made Southern California aviators famous. Yet stunts, strange as it may seem, was not the factor which took the greatest toll of lives. Defective planes and stalling motors exacted the largest toll for flying.

In the possession of Al Wilson in Hollywood, an aviator known throughout all America for his flying stunts, is a photograph containing pictures of seventy-five men and six young women. Some were student aviators, some were experienced flyers, some were instructors. Among them was "Fearless" Fred Lund, as he was known because of his daring; Omar Locklear, once spoken of as "the daredevil of the sky;" Emery Rogers, president of the Rogers Aircraft Corporation; R. I. Short, head of the Essandee Motor Corporation of Los Angeles; C. V. Pickup, a mechanician who accompanied Roscoe Sarles in many of his championship races; Cecile De Mille, famous motion-picture director, and others. Not long after this photograph was made, tragedies began happening to members of the group and Al Wilson began drawing cross lines over the faces of those who "dropped out of the picture." The decimation of the flyers' club was under way.

LOCKLEAR FIRST TO GO

Omer Locklear was the first to go. In the summer of 1921 he was doing stunts for a motion-picture company at Rogers Field. In a clear sky and amid perfect flying conditions, he finished the day's work, then in a last rollicking burst of speed, flew high in the air. He did a series of loops and spins just beneath the clouds, when something broke. No one knows what it was. He was alone in the plane. The machine suddenly started hurtling toward the earth. It landed with a crash and when persons got to it, Locklear was dead.

Little was said or known about this accident. It was the first of a series that were to follow.

On the afternoon of Saturday, November 27, 1921, a great crowd gathered at Crescent Field to see a match race between Emery H. Rogers, president of the Rogers Aircraft Corporation, driving a monoplane, and Kenneth Montee, driving a pursuit plane. There was a strong rivalry between the two and the efficiency of a monoplane was to be demonstrated. The two got away to a good start and were circling the field neck and neck, at 140 miles an hour, flying low. Rogers was seen to elevate his plane to clear a fence, rising to about thirty feet in the air. The machine suddenly careened to one side, a wing scraped the ground and the next moment the monoplane was crushed into a tangled mass.

"Fainted!" said an aviator who had watched the race.

ALL BONES BROKEN

Rogers was unconscious when pulled from the wreckage. At the Hollywood Emergency Hospital Dr. F. G. Stadfield declared that nearly every bone in the man's body was broken. His was death No. 2 in the ranks of the Venice flyers.

Nearly five months passed before another came. At the Presidio in San Francisco the afternoon of Saturday, May 21, 1922, Wesley May, aviator, leaped from an airplane with a parachute while 5000 feet in the air. An "air circus" was in progress for the benefit of the Army Relief Fund and forty Army and civilian flyers were taking part. May cleared the plane nicely when he leaped into space and his parachute opened. He swung gently toward the earth. While approximately fifty feet from the ground, it become apparent that he was going to land in a tree in a graveyard so he cut loose and jumped toward its branches.

May had miscalculated distance. He missed the tree and his body fell across a marble tombstone. He paid the price.

BANQUETEERING—NEW YORK'S INVISIBLE PROFESSION

Inside information on the technical side of a field of tremendous possibilities . . . Irvin Cobb, the world's greatest invitation acceptor. Amy Lowell calls Lucy Stone Leaguers ego-maniacs and they can't talk back . . . Will Rogers fairly lassos the $5-a-platers and offers a suggestion . . . "Why won't they take us seriously?" wails Ethel Barrymore. "It's SUCH a serious thing."

BY MRS. ANONYMOUS

[Copyright, 1924, in U. S. and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.]

Somebody has said that you can get plenty of people to eat dinner with you in New York if you charge them $5. It is perfectly true that some people make a good easy living getting up functions.

You see there are always plenty of more or less well-known people who need publicity, and who are willing to perform. Then there are always plenty of others who are willing to pay to see and hear them. Near-celebrities are very useful as fillers, and a number of them can be used, provided the program is disinfected with at least one or two real names.

Now there's always Irvin Cobb to fall back on. He is the greatest accepter of invitations there is. He will promise to speak for anybody, anywhere, any time. If he doesn't show up, his name sounds well on the printed "literature" and it listens well over the telephone when other celebrities are being importuned. He gets the publicity, which is never to be despised, and so it breaks right all the way round.

COMPENSATIONS

The guests may be disappointed but there are some compensations, because they have already bought and read his latest book and enjoyed it, so there's no hard feelings. Yes, Irvin is very generous that way. It's a dull day indeed in New York when he is not announced to speak for some cause or other.

While a cause is the surest way to get a crowd, in the absence of a cause or of an organization it is still possible to make a neat profit if you have a loose, high-sounding name of some kind to hang the thing on. The word "club" is used in its widest, freest sense—if in any sense at all. If it is a luncheon club, the key word is "luncheon."

"LITERATURE" AND LISTS

If operating on this plan the banqueter must mail out "literature" to a list of names which may be purchased at so much per hundred from some banqueteer who has amassed a fortune and retired from active business. All first-class hotels also furnish these lists confidentially to reputable people.

To insure success then, it is only necessary to arrange for a $2 or $3 luncheon or dinner and add a couple of dollars to the price of the tickets. That's what you live on—that extra two dollars a head.

LEAGUE HARD UP

There's only one cause I know of for which it seems to be difficult to get celebrated speakers, because nobody seems passionately for or passionately against it. That's the Lucy Stone League. This league has a large membership including Ethel Barrymore and a number of very celebrated women. The passionate, burring object concerning which the flames of opposition are supposed to rage is "to encourage women to keep their own names after marriage."

Personally, I never could get up any steam on this thing for the simple reason that women can do it any way if they want to. We don't have to get a law passed or get a law repealed or anything. All in the wide world we've got to do is to do it. If only someone would say we couldn't! But they just won't. For that reason the cause is a little thin, but there are always 500 people at their banquets and we all dearly love to go. The members include not only women with husbands but those who have only husbandly hopes.

STATE DEPARTMENT DID IT

Ruth Hale is president and she is the wife of Heywood Broun. This latter fact she simply will not have flaunted in her face. "My life is my own!" Ruth says fervently. "No one has a right to relabel me." And Heywood applauds with the rest of the 500. She just won't wear the Heywood Broun tag.

Really, Heywood is very decent about it. He says the advantage of having a fifty-fifty wife is that you know she stays with you, she stays because she likes you, and not for a meal-ticket.

RUTH AMBUSHED

I felt sorry for Ruth the other night. She asked Amy Lowell to be guest of honor and chief speaker at a league banquet and after some long-distance conversations Amy said she would, under certain conditions. Ruth explained that she always liked to have debates at the annual dinners. As a matter of fact Ruth and the rest of the Lucy Stoners are dying to argue about it but no one will argue. The people who attend the dinners are divided into two classes—the oppressed leaguers and those who are married to them, and the regular banqueteers or $5-a-platers.

You see this is a very high-power organization and the dinner always attracts real people.

THE PAPERS

It all started—I mean the Lucy Stone League and its cause—when Ethel Barrymore and Ruth Hale applied for passports to go to Europe just after the war. The State Department said the passports must be issued in the married names. Ruth and Ethel rebelled. The State Department was adamant. Ruth and Ethel said, "we'll stay at home first," and stay at home they did.

It is said that toward the end the State Department did loosen up and offer to issue the passport to "Mrs. Heywood Broun alias Ruth Hale." You can imagine how Ruth answered that proposition. In fact, the Lucy Stone League was her answer. Now, wouldn't you think Washington would be good after that?

AMY HAS LAST SAY

Well, to get back to Amy Lowell. She said she refused to debate or to be debated with. If she spoke at all she must be the last speaker. She would not refer to anything that anybody had said and it must be understood that nobody must answer or contradict or debate about anything she might say. Her word was to be final—absolutely final. Like a motion to adjourn, her speech was undebatable.

Ruth is a fiery little thing and she doubtless had to strengthen her character by keeping sweet. After all, somebody had to speak, and Amy is a drawing card. So Ruth very graciously called the debate off and let Amy have her accustomed freedom. Of course that made it all very embarrassing when Amy said things that would have made Lucy Stone turn over in her grave.

STARTS OUT WRONG

Having listened in more or less restively, I imagine, while several people spoke, Amy opened her undebatable remarks by saying that she had not expected when she accepted the invitation that she was to speak to "a group of ego maniacs" such as she found there. Considering the prebanquet promises not to talk back, this obser-

Miss Neva Tellegen, Who Is Able to Keep a Secret—Going

BY LEE SHIPPEY

This is a tardy defense of one of the most maligned and misunderstood women in America.

People who believe that no woman can keep a secret do not know Miss Neva Tellegen. Miss Tellegen has a positive genius for keeping secrets—going.

When she promises to keep a secret till her last expiring breath the listening angels may safely record the pledge. For she will never relinquish that secret. Other people may keep a secret a while and then forget it, but Miss Tellegen keeps every one entrusted to her as if it were a precious jewel.

That is, she now and then takes it out and privately shows it to some appreciative friend, but never lets go of it—really never lets them have more than a glimpse of it.

So she is recognized as the champion secret-keeper of Ourville.

Our spontaneous and irrepressible local wits frequently—yes, habitually—remark that three of the quickest means of spreading news are the telephone, the telegraph and Miss Tellegen. Ah, yes, we have some bright, original lads in Ourville.

And yet Miss Neva Tellegen is the most popular woman in town, among her own sex at least.

She is the most neighborly person in town, being brimful of that curiosity which so often passes for kindliness and is always flattering. A lot of people imagine they don't like curiosity and many more pretend to dislike it—in others, at least. But all the same they feel strangely hurt when nobody is curious about them. They can't help feeling that their neighbors must be an awfully selfish and stupid lot not to be curious about such interesting specimens.

Miss Neva, considerate soul, has never yet hurt anyone's feeling in that way.

When new people move into Ourville Miss Neva doesn't stand on

The MOST INTERESTING PLACE in LOS ANGELES

BY RAYMOND L. JONES

The Courthouse, a massive pile of red stone perched on a serene eminence just north of The Times Building, is a bit of Los Angeles' not distant past that has resisted the ravages of progress and serves as a binding link between the town that was and the city that is.

As in days gone by, the Courthouse today is figuratively the heart of the city and county, for from its gray granite steps radiate the arteries that pulse with the life blood of the community.

The Courthouse is the great melting pot of Los Angeles. Here all classes, creeds and races meet on common ground, pouring their libations into the vast cauldron of the law—scholar and layman, minister and bandit, aristocrat and proletarian, millionaire and pauper, the erudite and the unlearned, idealist and iconoclast—all clamoring before the bar of Justice in unconscious admission that all are human.

It is not merely a building—it is the mirror of the city's life, and it is animated with two distinctive personalities. During the day, it is business, at night, poesy.

For when the old clock on the cupola of chiseled stone turns its hands around to the hour that bespeaks twilight, the Courthouse takes on a personality entirely different from that it assumes during the waking hours.

Silent and dark, yet inviting, it looks down over the city. A pigeon, wearied by its day's search for morsels dropped at random on the Courthouse lawn, finds rest in the old steeple.

Inside, a yellow shaft of light filters down the hollow hallways; grim, gray ghosts of forgotten murderers stalk through silent courtrooms and empty jury boxes; the echoing footsteps of a lone watchman are reverberated as he clumps his way up the winding stairway on his nightly round . . .

Somewhere, in an abandoned elevator shaft, a rat munches contentedly on a forgotten brief-case!

went up so somebody invented cable railroads. The first cable road was organized ten years after horse cars started—in 1884.

INVENTOR IMPOVERISHED

The reward of pioneers was not pleasant. The father of electric street cars in America not only lost his fortune in his venture here but he died in poverty.

The first electric line was established in 1887 by I. W. Holland. Cable lines had not been satisfactory so he arranged a crude trolley contact device on a small open dummy car. A bipolar motor was mounted underneath it and a chain and pocket engaged the power.

According to E. L. Lewis, for forty years active in street-car management here, Holland was the real father of the electric railway, although Richmond, Va., claims the first line. The distinction of leadership, he says, really belongs to Los Angeles.

The first electric line was organized to promote real estate in West Pico Heights. It was named the Pico Heights and Maple-avenue Railroad and its route was from Aliso via Los Angeles street, Third, San Julian, Seventh, Maple to Thirty-second, and on Pico Heights from Maple to Berendo street.

FIRST POWER STATION

The first power station was housed in a small frame building near Maple avenue and Pico.

Broke or not, the street cars had to be kept running. Because Los Angeles had grown to a city of 50,000 by 1890. It was about this period when Huntington first began to exert an interest in the traction problem.

It has been remarked from many sources that Huntington organization was the one greatest single factor in the growth of Southern California. Under his direction the electric lines thrived and extended. My 1910, all narrow-gauge lines had been brought under one management—the Los Angeles Railway. And the Pacific Electric or interurban service became, through him, a Southern Pacific property.

By 1914 the properties of the urban lines had increased to a value representing millions of dollars. Then came the three-year jitney war.

CARS LOST HEAVILY

Fleets of ordinary passenger types of automobiles swarmed along the rail routes. The street cars lost an estimated daily revenue of $2000 during the jitney period. During the three years an average of 350 busses collected $2,000,000 in nickels.

Busses no longer parallel rails. Gasoline hags been enlisted as a feeder and aide to electricity, except where it competes in interurban service.

Expansion demanded by increasing population is bringing constant increase of electric railway equipment. Made-in-Los Angeles street cars run on the yellow lines. The Los Angeles Railway has manufactured forty cars already this year in its own shops at Fifty-fourth and South Park avenue. And more are being built.

The horse cars made their last run in 1897. And the one-track line on Main street of 1874 has grown to a gigantic network of 373 miles of track and a great fleet of city service cars on this, the fiftieth birthday of Los Angeles street cars.

which they place under their heads.

There are eccentrics in this calling, or lack of calling rather, as in others. One feeble old fellow who is 80 years of age and who has been "on the bum" since boyhood has a soft-pine crackerbox stool and a stack of old newspapers which constitute his sleeping facilities. He stands the box on end, the opening facing him, then he sits on his stool and thrusts his knees and feet snugly inside the box, places his stack of newspapers on the box and rests his forehead on this; his arms hang limply down. He has asthma and dares not sleep on the floor for fear of smothering.

About a dozen or so squat against the wall in their narrow allotted spaces and sit on their heels all night; their arms clasped about their knees and their chins resting on their chests. All are alike on one score; they all sleep—and all snore.

DISPERSE AGAIN

Early each morning all are aroused and hustled down stairs, where they disperse, some to the "jungles" over in the river bed near the Santa Fe yards where they prepare themselves a breakfast of "punk," broiled meat scraps, and coffee boiled in cans; some not lucky enough to have "jungle feed" strike out for the "main stems" where they "mooch" nickels and dimes enough to buy eats.

There are a few perhaps who are working temporarily and "flop" here to save expenses. These sneak into cheap "hash houses," eat and go to work. Others, principally aged "down and outers" of whom there are fifty at the Mission, wander off to some sunny park bench and wait for night to come again.

"Yes," said "Brother Tom" Liddecoat, who founded the Mission and has been its superintendent for the last six years, as he stood in the center of his sleeping hall, seeing that the parking of human bodies was carried out in orderly manner, "I know most of these "boes" that stay here. There are folks from all walks of life that hang around here, from rich men's sons out for a lark to hardened professional tramps of the 'scenery bo' and 'foot pad' varieties.

"The only way to reform these boys and make them lead useful lives is down there." He indicated his little chapel below. "They must find God first. And the Lord only knows how many conversions we have a day, but we have on the average of 200 a day, after much persuasion, standing or kneeling, repeating the publican's prayer.

"All my help here, cooks, and guards, including myself, don't get 1 cent for our work. We work for Him."

"Brother Tom" Liddecoat has been in missionary work for a period of twenty years and hopes to continue his practical religion until the Great Call.

FATALITIES THIN AIRMEN'S RANKS

reach for the next member of the Venice crew. This time, it got Christopher V. Pickup at Kansas City. Acting as a mechanician with Roscoe Sarles, he was in the death car, which killed the famous racing driver, when it jumped the top rail at the speedway and dropped twenty-five feet to the ground. Six other persons were injured in the accident. This was on September 17, 1922. Pickup's name was erased from the list of Venice aviators. Al Wilson drew another cross mark upon the group photograph.

Before another tragedy was written into the drama, Fate laid hold of Jean Perkins near Riverside, an aviator doubling for William Desmond, motion-picture actor. Riding atop of a train, Perkins caught the bottom rung of a rope ladder, which dangled from an airplane as it passed overhead. A crowd breathlessly watched the stunt.

"He made it!" many said, with sighs of relief.

Then something went wrong with the plane. It spun, swerved dizzily and crashed to earth. Perkins was crushed beneath it. This was on the day before Christmas—December 24, 1922.

Perkins was not in the group photograph of the Venice flyers. No mark went upon it because of his death.

YEAR OF TRAGEDIES

Last year brought the greatest list of flying tragedies to Southern California recorded in any twelve-month period. From the mountains to the sea accidents came, and singly and in pairs names were stricken from the rolls of the Venice flyers. The first was on the Fourth of July, when two were killed, to be followed in rapid succession by three more, which cost a toll of eight lives.

While Fourth of July revelers at Venice and Santa Monica looked on, B. H. DeLay and R. I. Short drove the Wasp 2000 feet into the air. DeLay, who had been a stunt flyers for ten years, had hold of the stick which controlled the movement of the plane. Short, head of the Essandee Motor Corporation, was an experienced flyer. A wing of the Wasp broke and the plane dived to the ground, landing in a tomato patch a mile south of Clover Field, Santa Monica. There it burst into flames.

Other aviators who witnessed the accident, rushed to the scene and pulled the bodies of the men, both badly mutilated, from the wreck, before they were cremated. The Wasp was said to have been constructed for straight flying and not for stunts.

Two more crosses went over the faces of men in the group photograph.

WILSON'S BROTHER NEXT

Less than two weeks passed before the next tragedy was written. On the afternoon of Sunday, July 15, 1923, Herbert Wilson, a brother of Al Wilson, got out a seaplane and with Cecil Coates, prepared for a flight over the Venice pier. Al Wilson protested against using the plane.

"I don't think she's safe," he remarked.

"Oh, I guess she'll hold up," his brother replied.

Wilson and Coates flew from Santa Monica to Venice. While not more than a few hundred feet in the air, the engine began missing and the plane started dipping. Seeing the danger, the aviators quickly headed toward the water. They struck it at such an angle that the seaplane partly submerged and the cockpit filled. There was not enough buoyancy to the craft to keep ito above water and not enough to fully sink it and keep it down. Strapped to their seats, Wilson and Coates drowned. Whether they were stunned when their craft hit the sea is problematical.

But the seaplane was wrecked. It was brought ashore by a tug and a speedboat while search was instituted for the bodies of the aviators. Unable to bring them up from the water, the crew returned. While looking at the wrecked plane on the beach, a piece of clothing was seen, then part of a figure. Chopping into the wreckage with axes, both bodies were found.

More marks upon the group photograph!

MAN AND WOMAN DIE

One week later, W. L. Cross, a commercial photographer with a woman passenger, started from Santa Monica for a flying trip over the oil fields at Santa Fe Springs. Cross was not looked upon as a finished pilot, but had made many journeys in planes and knew their operation. He and his passenger got away from the Santa Monica field safely and sailed off toward the district of "flowing gold," dotted by derricks. When within twenty-five feet of a tent where 300 prospective oil investors were getting lunch, the engine of the plane stopped "barking" and the craft fell, striking a motor car with one wing—a car from which a woman had just alighted. The fall was less than 100 feet, but it was sufficient to kill both passengers in the plane. The craft had come to earth "nose down."

A cross mark over the face of W. L. Cross was made on the group photograph!

Three weeks elapsed. The third of the "three-in-a-row" accidents had happened. The superstitious among the aviators believed that the tragedies had ended for a while. Then, on August 14, Joe Hoff, who had been flying planes for about six years, took Edwin Dihall, a negro, and started from the Blue Diamond Flying Field. A mechanic warned them that the motor in the plane was not working properly, but Hoff "took a chance." Soaring into the air, they flew for about ten minutes when suddenly, the plane seemed to halt. Then it went into a nose dive and crashed into the planking of the Venice pier—crashed into it and through it, landing in the water beneath. Life guards rushed to the wreckage and brought the bodies to the surface, both mutilated almost beyond recognition. They had fallen nearly 1500 feet.

ACCIDENTS CONTINUE

One more cross was made on the photograph!

And so the accidents continued. The picture of E. F. Robinson was crossed off, then the picture of Elon Honn and of Fred Lund and of Hubert Kittle. All of these were known as daring aviators. Honn's injuries came in a parachute leap. Kittle's death came from his own hand.

And yet, the aviators still are flying, confident that they have won the battle with the air. Daily the planes are seen over Los Angeles. Picturesque stunts in the clouds are common. Leo Nomis, one of the most skillful of all the flyers, says he feels no more danger in a plane than he does in a motor car. Al Wilson, called by many "the king of the stunt men," romps all over a plane when it is in motion and doing from seventy to 140 miles an hour. Scores of times he has changed from one plane to another while high in the air. But he is a fatalist, believing that if he is to die like his comrades, nothing he can do will prevent it, so he doesn't worry about it.

ceremony. She is always first to call on them. And they always find her interesting. And helpful. She always knows no end of things they are dying to know. Yet she never seems to blab. She doesn't throw all her wares on the bargain counter and let them help themselves. She helps them, with discretion born of long practice. While she gives the impression that she has an inexhaustible private stock of information she is as thrifty with it as a lot of other people are getting with their private stock nowadays. She no more than lets her eager listeners enjoy the bouquet of it.

That inspires confidence, and the rest is done by sympathy. Miss Neva is as sympathetic as the tooth the dentist yanks out instead of the one which is really aching.

She is so flatteringly interested and takes one's problems to heart so that most people grow confidential with her before they know her. And she lives happily forever after.

When anyone tells her anything in confidence she vows that she will nevah, nevah repeat it, and she never does. What she passes on is never repetition but such an improved new version as to fairly entitle her to copyright.

There is a widespread belief that the residents of smaller communities shy away from such inquisitive persons as Miss Neva. They do—just as the people of big cities shun reporters.

If Mrs. Algernon Bradley hyphen Brewster wants Ourville to know something it would be beneath her dignity to tell everyone herself, whom should she invite to luncheon but Miss Neva Tellegen?

If Mrs. O. B. Geigh realizes there is bound to be some talk about the latest flirtation of Miss Vera Geigh she immediately invites Miss Neva to drive to the city with her and take in a good show.

When Mrs. Arch Clymer plans a social campaign and recalls certain family skeletons which might be invoked if some capable person took the notion, she makes up her list of aides, and Miss Neva's name has the Abou Ben Adhem place.

Though college professors who get less pay than college janitors do may not believe it, Miss Neva demonstrates that knowledge is power.

And human nature is just the same in Ourville as in the city, where the press table at Biltmore banquets is always well served.

The doors of both the great and the envious fly open to Miss Neva before she knocks in the hope that she won't feel inclined to knock afterward, either.

And she is genuinely welcome, for everyone knows she won't talk about the weather. She always has something to convey, and the affront of inattention, so often given to most of us, is never offered her.

This is the village gossip as she really is. She has been fearfully caricatured in fiction, drama and guttural generalities. But the fact is that life in Ourville would be fearfully dull without her.

Young Actress Rises Rapidly in Profession

Rapid has been the rise of Ruth Lee, the young actress who plays the leading feminine role in "White Collars" at the Egan Theater.

In an ambitious desire for broader fields of conquest than that offered by the youthful smart set of her native town, Minneapolis, Miss Lee joined the Shubert Theater stock company in that city and soon found public favor. During her three years in the organization she essayed characters ranging from Zaza to Little Eva in "Uncle Tom."

Miss Lee was so attracted by stage life and its great possibilities that she went to New York, where she was immediately engaged for a role in "Fair and Warmer." Metropolitan critics enthused over the work of the new "find." Then came the Broadway production of "Fifty-Fifty." Frank Egan was impressed with her work in this play and encouraged her coming West.

Now Miss Lee is playing the young wife of the millionaire husband at the Egan. She likes this sort of part—that is, she likes to play the part of Joan Van Lyun—and since the public likes Ruth Lee, that makes its unanimous.

Twenty-two countries and thirty-one States!

Sidney Olcott, who will direct Norma Talmadge in her next photoplay, "Fight," an original story by C. Gardner Sullivan, is perhaps the most widely traveled director in filmdom.

In the past sixteen years, Olcott has made photoplays in twenty-two European, Asiatic and American countries. In addition, he has turned out eleven one and two-reel photoplays on the high seas.

Later he made photoplays in Egypt, Tunisia, Algeria, Rumania, France, England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, Germany, Hungary, Brazil, China, Japan, India and in several other out-of-the-way spots which occupy pink and green spaces on the world maps.

Out of the 443 photoplays which he has made since he started his long career back in the pre-Griffith days, Olcott has made only one photoplay in Hollywood. That picture was "Scratch My Back," which he made for Goldwyn three years ago. His second Hollywood picture will be "Fight," with Norma Talmadge as the star.

HUGHES IN "DESERT LAW"

Gareth Hughes has been engaged for "Desert Law," the adaptation of an H. H. Knibbs novel which Ernst Laemmle will direct as his first five-reel feature. Hughes will be starred with William Desmond. Lucille Hutton is the girl.

BANQUETEERING FOR HIGH PROFIT

vation was received in what might be termed a riotous silence.

But this silence was broken by a voice from somewhere saying sweetly—yes, it was a feminine voice—"I should think she'd feel perfectly at home!" The third and not the second person was used, so, technically, it really wasn't exactly talking back to Amy.

AS FREE AS FREE VERSE

But Amy went on to the bitter end of her speech, using the same freedom of words and the same freedom of sentiment that is so characteristic of her verse. Of course Amy is just about the freest person there is. She just lets her foot slip when she speaks and she just doesn't care particularly what she says. She didn't hesitate to tell the Lucy Stoners, even if she was their guest of honor and all that, that she thought the whole thing was much ado about nothing.

She saw no sense in it at all, and, as a parting shot, she added that most of the women she knew anything about were far more concerned about changing their names than they were in keeping them.

NEXT TO WILL

Amy now marches in history as the most entertaining speaker the Lucy Stone League ever had with the exception of Will Rogers. For sheer brilliancy of achievement, however, that Will Rogers speech for the annual banquet last year will ring down the corridors of time.

Pretty Mrs. Will Rogers—whose name she got with life, as Ruth so snappily puts it, has been lost in the radiance of the one she married—sat in the audience and enjoyed it all as much as anybody. That little Rogers family is just the brightest, happiest little family one would wish to see. The kiddies have that fascinating tendency to adventure which probably comes down from the paternal side and they have that fresh, peach-like loveliness that they certainly get from their mother.

STATISTICS FOR DESSERT

But that speech! What would Will Rogers find to say to or for or about the Lucy Stone League! Everybody wondered. Well, just before he was introduced Mary Vida Clark—whose right to the name she was born with has never been challenged, because it is the only one she has any claim to—read an exhaustive paper on the history of marriage or something like that. It was a learned thing, all cluttered up with dates and facts and impressive statements. She is a charter member of the league.

She said she had sent this paper to the Century and to Harper's and that they had returned it. The way she said it made the audience sharply conscious of the stupidity of editors in general and of those two in particular.

CHEWS GUM

Will Rogers chewed his gum reflectively for a moment. Then he took from his pocket a paper upon which he had copied the biography of Lucy Stone from an encyclopedia. "I sent this to Snappy Stories," he began, "but they sent it back. They said it was too high-browed for them."

Then he took that biography, sentence by sentence and made a perfectly ripping joke about each one, always playing in the key of the Lucy Stone League.

"Now it says here that the night before Lucy Stone was born her mother milked eight cows," he said. And then, growing ponderously serious, "Now, that's what's the matter with the world! The women of this day and generation ain't milkin' enough cows."

THEY HAD TO LAUGH

The Lucy Stoners tried not to laugh, but they couldn't hold out. You see they take it all very seriously, and that speech certainly wasn't serious. It wasn't provocative of debate. It was just foolish. But it was worth every cent of $5, even to the regular banqueters, bored and blase as they usually are.

There is only one way to settle a great national issue in America, the speaker told them, and that is to have a dinner. He said there were only two great outstanding, fundamental issues before the American people. One is, what are the women going to do about this name business, and the other is, should Valentino draw $1250 a week.

ONE WAY OUT

"As soon as we get these two basic questions settled," he continued, "we can go home and rest in peace and enjoy ourselves. But so long as the American nation is torn to pieces by the conflict over these great issues we are threatened with revolution, anarchy and war!

"Now we have had a dinner here tonight and we have the opportunity to settle at least one of these questions. I therefore suggest that the Lucy Stone League take drastic action right here and now. I propose that this league pass a resolution that, from now on, all of the girl babies be named Lucy Stone and serially numbered! And as for the boy babies, ladies, let your slogan be 'A girl or nothing.' "

THE WAY THEY FEEL

Foolish, yes, but terribly funny when Will Rogers is saying it. And, what a delicate, delicious little bit of satire! If it had only penetrated the Lucy Stone League ego! Now, really, what couldn't that group of influential, intelligent women do with their time and their energy and their brains, if they only would! But to appreciate really how they feel about it you'd have to hear Ethel Barrymore wail, "Why won't they take us seriously? It's really such a serious question!"

Maybe some day Ruth will be able to play a double header and get Will Rogers and Amy Lowell to speak on the same evening. Five dollars! Why the tickets would be cheap at twenty-five!

SOUNDS OMINOUS

Having finished "Captain Fearless," a comedy-dramatic picturization of Eugene P. Lyle's novel, "The Missourian," dealing with Maximillian's downfall in Mexico, Reginald Denny is going to take a week's rest. When Denny took a vacation after finishing "Sporting Youth," he ran into an accident that laid him up in the hospital for three months. The studio at Universal has its fingers crossed for Denny, since Universal has just purchased Harry Leon Wilson's story, "Oh, Doctor."

FEATURE PRISCILLA DEAN

"The Siren of Seville," starring Priscilla Dean, will be the most sumptuous production in which Miss Dean has appeared since "The Virgin of Stamboul." "This is from an original story by H. H. Van Loan.

EBELL CLUB IN NEW QUARTERS

Santa Ana Organization Has Dedication Program

Structure and Grounds Cost Around $100,000

Past Presidents Take Part in Festivities

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, May 31.—Four hundred members of the Ebell Club here this week dedicated to community service their $100,000 organization home.

The structure, which is of Spanish architecture, fits in appropriately with the design of a majority of public buildings erected in Santa Ana in the past few years and marks in addition to vast building development the remarkable growth of the city, which calls for additional activity of the club itself.

In addition to a spacious parlor for afternoon affairs and a banquet hall, the structure includes an auditorium that seats 850 people.

The building, construction of which was begun early last fall, cost approximately $65,000, the lot $15,000 and furnishings and other equipment $20,000.

A feature of the dedication program was the presence of each club, president since the organization was inaugurated in 1894. They are Mrs. Angus J. Crookshank, at present holding office; Mrs. W. S. Bartlett of Los Angeles, first executive; Mrs. E. D. Buss, Bakersfield; Mrs. Victor Montgomery, Mrs. J. W. Bishop, Mrs. S. M. Davis, Mrs. Edward M. Nealley, Mrs. Samuel W. Nau, Mrs. A. J. Lawton, Mrs. C. F. Crose, Mrs. W. L. Grubb, Mrs. J. E. Gowen and Mrs. John Clarkson.

Mrs. T. E. Stephenson is the present vice-president; Mrs. S. W. Stanley, second vice-president; Mrs. R. G. Tuthill, recording secretary; Mrs. L. C. Fairbanks, corresponding secretary; Mrs. N. A. Beale, treasurer, and Mrs. J. W. McCormac, curator.

The board of directors consists of Mrs. H. T. Trueblood, Mrs. O. M. Robbins, Mrs. C. F. Smith, Mrs. P. R. Reynolds and Mrs. N. A. Patton.

On the building committee were Mrs. O. M. Robbins, Mrs. N. A. Beals, Mrs. Susie M. Rutherford, Mrs. P. R. Robinson, Mrs. S. W. Stanley, Mrs. E. M. McNeally and Mrs. J. E. Gowen.

The club is the pioneer educational institution of Santa Ana.

FIESTA OF OLD DAYS TO BE EBELL'S PART

The Los Angeles Ebell Club's part in the entertainment of the delegates to the Biennial Convention will be an Early California Fiesta, given at the club on Saturday evening. Six hundred delegates have been invited. Mrs. Charles V. Craig is in general charge, assisted by a committee of 150. The officers and directors receiving and those assisting will be gowned in hoop skirts, tiny basques, lace mantillas and high combs characteristic of the period. Forty Ebell Juniors will assist with the refreshments which will also be typical, consisting of tortillas, dulces and tamales served from booths and fruit punch from large ollas. The decorations are to be done under the direction of Francisco Cornejo, Mexican artist, who has made the history of his country as well as that of Early California the subjects of many of his paintings. The decoration scheme will depict a garden of an old "hacienda," gay with flowers, potteries and serapes. Through the courtesy of John McGroarty, artists from the Mission Play will give songs and dances, while strolling musicians playing guitars and mandolins will entertain in the garden and tea rooms.

Winds, Blow My Love to Her

Winds, blow my love to her,
Over the hills.
Stars, shine on midnight rue
With spear that kills.
Rose sweet and amber bright
Bring joy this summer night,
Sweet sleep that stills.

Winds, blow my love to her,
Over the mountains.
Kiss snows, and cool your breath
At crystal fountains.
Softly her sweet lips touch
As she lies dreaming,
Lest she should wake from sleep
'Neath starlight's gleaming.

Winds, blow my love to her,
South wind and west wind.
Over the spruce-clad peaks,
Love-kissed, caressed wind,
Bear, bear my love tonight,
'Neath star—and old moonlight,
Sin shrived, confessed wind.

SHE'S FAIRY GODMOTHER TO FAMILY

Sophie Tucker Perpetual Santa Claus to Kin; Also is Kind to Mother

Sophie Tucker, the irresistible comedienne at the Orpheum Theater this week, has had lots of titles bestowed upon her because there are so many adjectives that suggest themselves in the presence of this beaming personality. There is Sumptuous Sophie, premiere jazzeuse, Saucy Sophie, and in England they christened her "Orpheo's Chatelaine." But the most descriptive of all, one that takes in this marvelous woman's whole life and self, is Big-hearted Sophie. For that is what she is to every one of her friends, relations and often times to complete strangers.

Miss Tucker can never do enough for her family, which is quite a large one. She is a constant benefactor to innumerable cousins, nephews, aunts and others. This generous attitude was shown last Christmas when Sophie was booked to play the two holiday weeks in Chicago. Immediately she sent telegrams to all her realtives in Hartford, Ct., and Baldwin, L. I., and invited them to be her guests in Chicago. In troupes and regiments they came flocking; brothers-in-law, nieces, cousins and uncles. The most impressive part of the affair was the journey to the West of Sophie's mother. It was her first ride in a Pullman, but she dared everything to spend Christmas with her famous daughter.

Miss Tucker was so proud of having her mother with her that she wanted all her friends to meet her. It was a privilege too, indeed. At the Palace Music Hall, where Miss Tucker reigned supreme for two weeks, she engaged a seat in a stage box for every matinee for her mother. And the sweet-faced little lady sat through the performance with as much enthusiasm as a child at a circus.

Toward the close of Miss Tucker's act every afternoon she went to the side of the stage and said to her audience:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I am very happy over my stay in Chicago, so happy that I want you all to meet my little mother, who came all the way from Hartford, Ct., to be with me."

And at this cue, Miss Tucker's mother arose and bowed to the audience amid cheers and applause.

"They're all Sophie's friends," she said one afternoon to a stranger who was sitting in the same box, "and I'm glad to meet them all."

BAD WOMAN WHO WENT GOOD

Sophie Lyons Burke, 78 years of age, is dead in a Detroit hospital. At 6 she was a pickpocket; at 30 a famous crook with an international reputation. She leaves an estate worth between $600,000 and $1,000,000, every cent of which was made honestly. During her life she was arrested 100 times; she was implicated in the famous robbery of the Manhattan Bank, New York; she operated as a criminal in England, France, Italy, Germany and Russia, before she reformed. Several years ago Mrs. Burke wrote a book, "Why Crime Does Not Pay," and set herself up as evidence that a crook can "come back." She spent much time in her later years aiding boys and girls who were accused of crime, to get another try and go straight. Sophie Burke was not naturally a crook, but was born into that environment. The same thing happened to the girl heroine in "The Bishop's Carriage," a good story of a smart thief who reformed.—[Capper's Weekly.

THE CLUB WOMAN HERE AND THERE

BY LESSIE S. READ

Clubwomen from all parts of the world are gathering in Los Angeles to talk over affairs of mutual interest. Paramount, of course, will be world peace and how to make it permanent. The keynote of the seventeenth biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs that will last at Los Angeles thirteen days and be followed by a five-day jaunt to San Francisco and environs will be sounded by the president, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter of Minneapolis, in her opening address Tuesday evening and will be "Better Understanding of International Relations and Organized Effort Toward that End." For through better understanding of international relations, and through that alone Mrs. Winter believes, peace must eventually come.

Women of Paris, women of Russia, women of Germany, women of England, women of New Zealand, women of Canada, of many other countries and of the islands of the sea have written they are coming.

Mrs. Louise S. Connett, now in this country as a representative of the French women and the American women of the Women's Club of Paris, will have considerable to say about cementing the friendship of her country and this one

"There was no need for the Paris club to 'tune in' when the General Federation Department of International Relations began broadcasting its messages of international understanding," says Mrs. Connett, who is a big, beautiful blond. "The club' in France feels that it can work in useful harmony with that department. We hope that no American who visits France will fail to visit the club and allow us to be of service to her."

The purpose for which the club was 'organized is "to establish a center to serve needs of American women visiting or residing in France; to promote friendly relations between the women of the two nations associated in the great war; to create a center of social and educational activities, and to encourage and assist in furthering American philanthropic enterprises in France."

BIENNIAL MUSIC

If music hath charms to soothe the savage breast, there will be no savagery at the biennial. Jacques Gordon, concert master of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, will play violin solos on press evening, Thursday. Amy Neill, violinist, will appear fine arts evening, playing a suite by Leo Sowerby, American composer who won first American scholarship of the grand prize of Rome. Mme. Olga Sloobodskaja, Russian dramatic soprano, will represent the American opera plan of Max Rabinoff, and will sing on international evening. Raymond Koch, American baritone, considered one of the most interesting artists on the concert stage, will sing. Henry Souvaine, American pianist, will again play, and the music will be climaxed by a program by Ossip Gabrilowitsch, considered the world's greatest pianist.

CUMMINS-VAILE BILL

The Cummins-Vaile bill, now before Congress, would repeal the Comstock "blunder" of 1873, when Congress, responding to request of Anthony Comstock to pass a law to suppress certain provisions and pornographic literature and obscenity, inadvertantly lumped under one sweeping ill-considered prohibition much that physicians now believe should be allowed to go through the mails. The Cummins-Vaile bill rectifies this and places the United States with other countries. The Comstock law is nonenforceable and its present effect is to permit information for the well-to-do which is kept from the poorer classes who need and desire it, according to Senator Cummins, Congressman Vaile and a large group of committeefolk in every State in the Union Clubwomen in various States are interested in the bill, some having passed resolutions approving it and others voting to make a study of it.

DISTRICT ORGANIZATION

District and county federation of clubs for the intimate discussion of mutual problems is advocated in all sections of all States where they now do not function, and Mrs. Raymond Green, president of the Fifth District of Kansas, recently spoke to a large group on this subject. "The general and the State federations deal with questions in a broad, general and directing manner," said she. "The district's place touches more intimately the individual club and the individual woman. Kansas now has the intra-district organization with four divisions, City Federation, County Federation, Rural and Urban Co-operation. County cabinets are being formed with excellent result. We have arranged a set of federation programs with all departments represented so that next year many clubs will for the first time study federation as we are now urging them to study their national government.

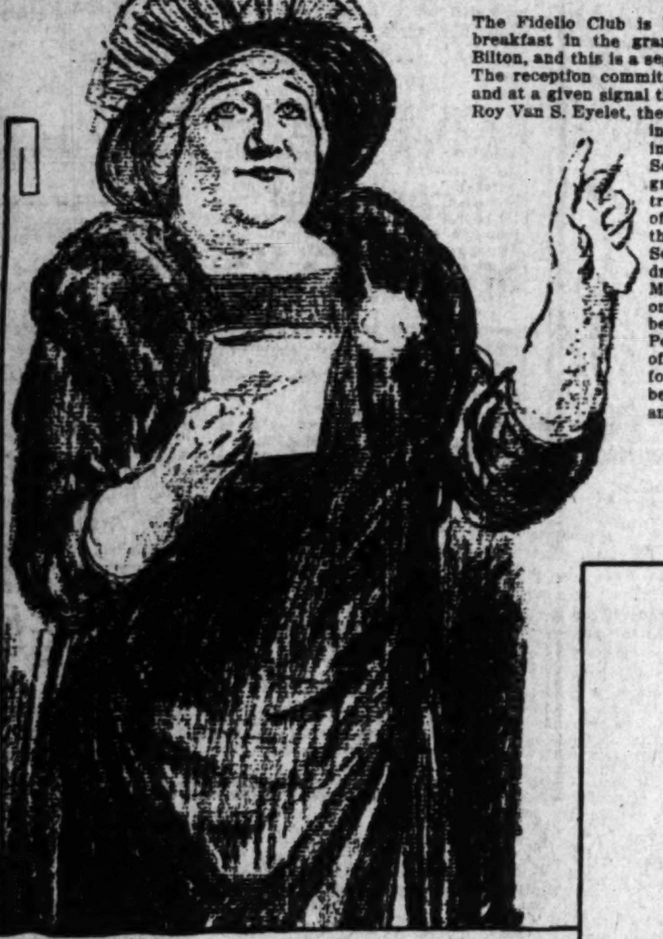
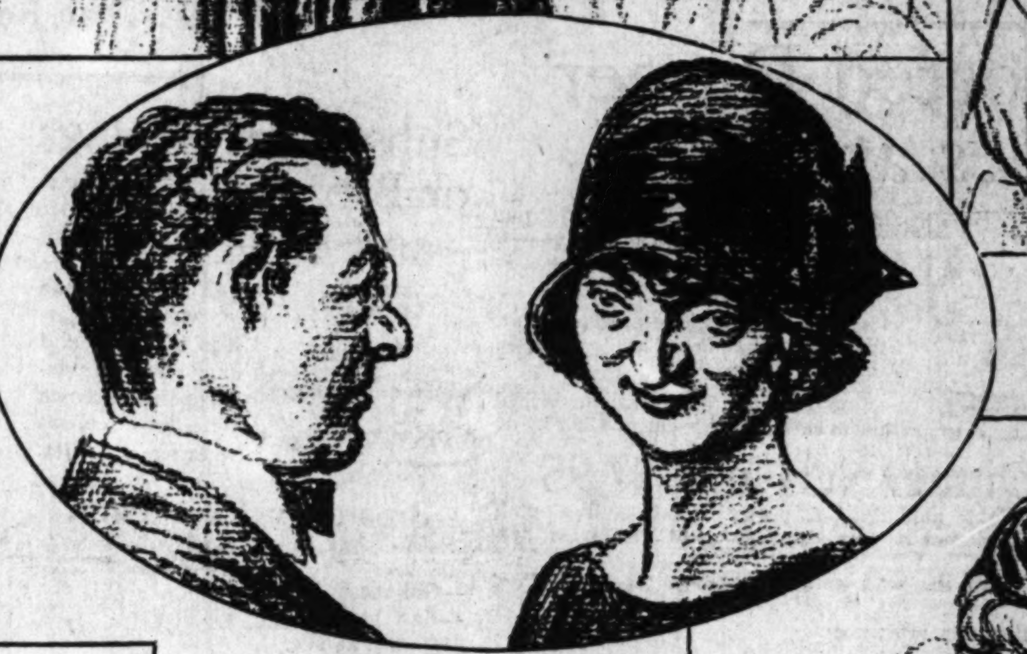
The visiting delegate, who came in the place of Mrs. Somebody or Other, who disappointed.

The Fidelio Club is holding its grand annual mauve breakfast in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Spitz-Bilton, and this is a segment of the reception committee. The reception committee holds forth in the rose room, and at a given signal they will escort the president, Mrs. Roy Van S. Eyelet, the seven vice presidents, the recording secretary, the assistant recording secretary, the guest of honor, Senator Marcus D. Plum, into the grand ball room, which has been transformed into an exact replica of a garden at Versailles, during the reign of Louis the Eleventh. Senator Plum will deliver an address on "The Menace of Asia Minor," there will be a selection on the harp by Mme. Carrie Ginsberg-La Trobe, and Miss Blossom Powwow will speak on the subject of dental surgery. Dancing will follow. The table decorations have been carried out in gas-light green and blue.



Mrs. Frank B. Ditchey is reading an announcement. Listen please. It's about the club membership. The present membership, it appears, has exceeded the proscribed constitutional quota, by seventy-one, and there is now, for the first time in the history of the Sapho Club, a waiting list. Oh, Hurrah! Hurrah!



The chairman of the publicity committee interviewing a stray reporter and being generally devastating for publicity's sake.

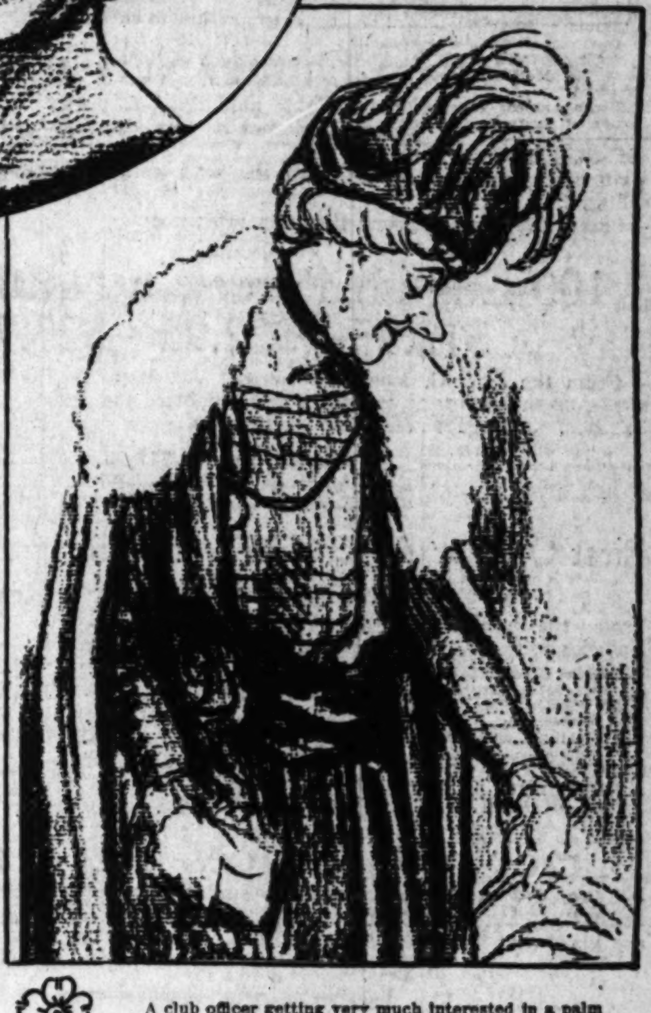
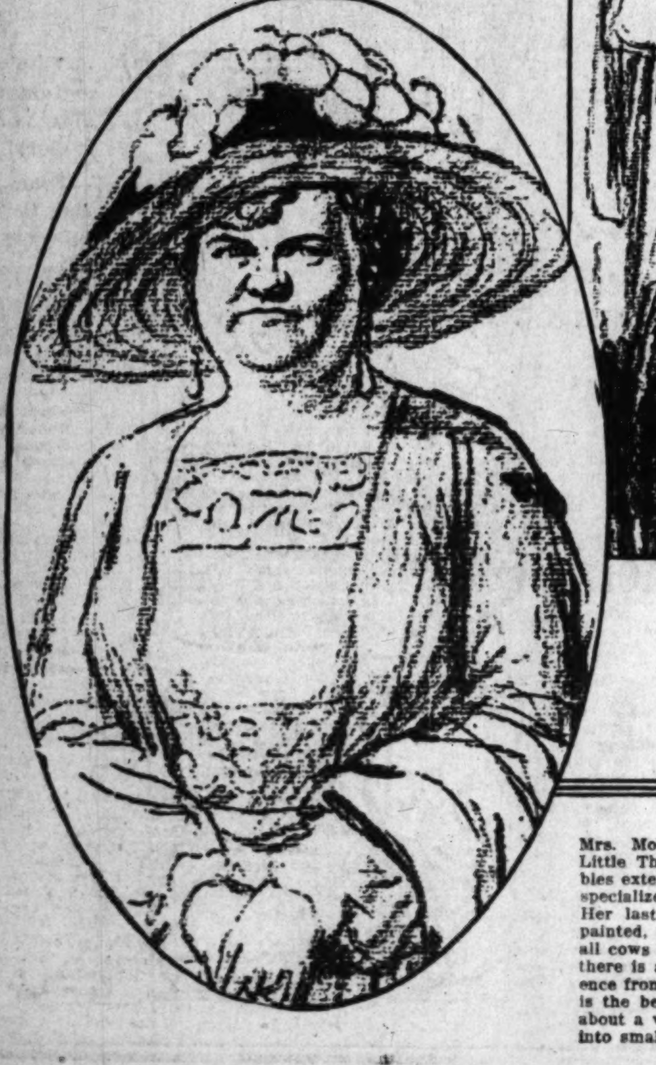
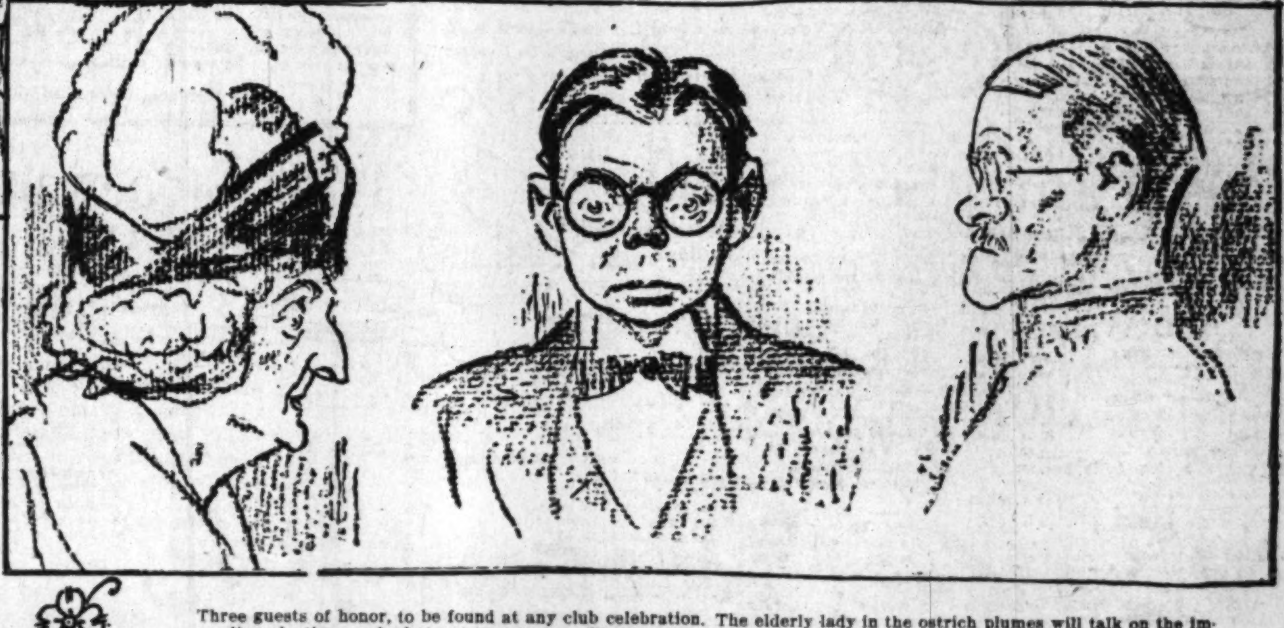
While not exactly an active spirit in the intellectual affairs of the club, Mrs. Farenheit has nice large gardens around her home in the suburbs, suitable for club garden parties.



A club officer getting very much interested in a palm while the flashlight is taken for the evening paper.



Mrs. Mogem Headtone is president of the Little Theater and Allied Arts Club and dabbles extensively in both art and literature. She specializes in cow landscapes and one-act plays. Her last cow picture is her best. She has painted, not just any cow, but the essence of all cows since time began. In that cow's eyes there is all the hopeless tragedy of cow existence from birth to the stockyards. "Corroded" is the best known of her one act plays. It is about a wife who tried to cut up her husband into small bits, and failed. Sordid but vital.



Three guests of honor, to be found at any club celebration. The elderly lady in the ostrich plumes will talk on the impending elections and what not to vote for. The gentleman in the goggles is a literary celebrity. He will give a brief discourse on "The Art of Book Reviewing," from the time the book review is still in the reviewer's brain, till it reaches the composing room in all its completeness. The third guest of honor is a general, no more nor less. He will present a flag to the Daughters of Columbus, or the Daughters of North Dakota, or some such organization. After which the daughters will sing a hymn especially composed for the occasion and all will feel better.

COMES BACK FROM CANOE TRIP WITH ONLY COAT OF TAN

546 W. 46th St., New York City.
March 28, 1924.
Mr. S. E. Strong, Cleveland, O.:

Dear Sir: I have received your letter of March 22. I am only too glad to give you my opinion of "Noburn" if it will be of any help to you. I am very fond of outdoor sports, especially canoeing. As everyone knows, the reflection of the sun on the water is very hard on those with tender skin. I am one of these, and every summer I suffered greatly from sunburn. Early last summer, I tried a bottle of "Noburn" and used it when I went canoeing. It prevented my skin from blistering, although I acquired a good coat of tan. I used it throughout the summer with the same good results, and I intend to use it again this coming summer. I can heartily recommend it to anyone looking for a good preventive of sunburn.

J. W. BRAUSS.

Just a few drops of "Noburn" applied before each exposure and you are sunburn proof. You get the tan, but not the burn. An invisible, odorless, harmless liquid, quickly applied, easily washed off.

Made and guaranteed by Strong Cobb Co. of Cleveland, who have been in business for ninety years. "Noburn" sold at all good drug stores.—[Advertisement.

Whiten Skin with Lemon

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—[Advertisement.

Banker's Friend Elated

"Twelve years ago I became afflicted with stomach trouble which steadily became worse. I frequently became prostrated with colic attacks and bloating. My doctors wanted to operate for gall stones. I wished to avoid an operation and on advice of a friend tried Mayr's Wonderful Remedy with excellent results as since taking it about 2 years ago my trouble has entirely disappeared." It removes the catarrhal mucous from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at all druggists.—[Advertisement.

THE NEW

IN STORES AND HOMES

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS

By Olive Gray

Up-to-Datest:

More and more is the scarf becoming an integral part of the costume, instead of a mere incident. A smart dress, shown in an exclusive local shop, attracted attention and favorable comment from the fact that the scarf was cleverly incorporated with the garment. Fashioned from self material, it formed the collar of the dress, one end shorter than the other, passing across the breast, where it was knotted gracefully, the other long end passing the full length of the skirt, where it was buttoned to the side breadth, the fringed end falling just below the hem.

Men and Jewelry

"An emblem of cultured success:" It is thus that an informed person referred to carefully chosen jewelry for men.

Cultured success. I like the term. And it applies more aptly to jewelry for men than in any field of attire. Jewelry for men must be chosen with care; and it does reflect the character of the wearer. Just where to begin, but especially where to leave off in this form of decoration, is important. For masculine, more than for feminine adornment choice of the proper article counts, in representing to the world the personality of the wearer. Cultured success, for the business man is too usually made apparent only in the habiliments of the wife or the daughters; and yet, with the able assistance of the high-class jeweler, a man may be guided in selecting the jewelry which adequately represents his status. The right ring, scarf-pin, cuff-links and above all the best watch that he can afford may become the sign-manual by which the world judges his standing and his personal taste—his refinement. More and more do men realize this fact and more and more care are they giving to matters of personal jewelry.

Button Responsibility

Buttons are often intrusted wholly with the mission of conferring chic upon a garment. Especially true is this in relation to the smart little tub-silk frocks for sports and morning wear upon the street, the meandering rows of buttons being sole trimming for these popular dresses. The just-where of button meandering is the key-note to success in these simple yet exacting creations.

Salmon Again Caught

Salmon pink is a summer revival in popular coloring for gowns, millinery and accessories. There is a depth and distinction about this phase of pink which lends vivacity, without flashiness. Rather in combination with some other shade or white, than by itself, is this revived tone of pink acceptable.

Aunt Jane Says:

Aunt Jane advises little Jean to give, as a wedding gift to her sister, a set of those bead mats for table use. "Inexpensive and pretty, there is not a day in the year when the home-keeper will not send appreciative thoughts to the donor of such a gift," says she and adds that it is not the cost of a gift, but its usefulness which makes it a worthy gift.

Unmoth Your Furs

Even though you think you can detect the presence of moths in your furs, you may be mistaken. No secretive hen was ever so clever in hiding her nest as are moths in distributing their eggs. In the hermatically sealed bag where you store away your fur treasures for the summer, you may be only aiding old mother moth, in salvaging her posterity. That is why furs of value should receive expert attention from those who know furs and their enemies. There is much in so cleansing the pelts that no heirs apparent, nor unapparent in the moth line, may remain. Fur insurance I would call it, to send your furry garments to the high-class furrier. Some bother, you say, to take them—especially as you do not think of it until summer is upon you. But, do you know, you may call the furrier up—or possibly you may have received a postal card from a leading establishment; and if so, just tear off the twin card, mail it and they will call. Then your fur worry is eliminated for the entire season.

Gladys Writes

Gladys writes from Paris that pockets—far from ordinary, but on the contrary most original in shape and placement—require positive genius in their creation. The latest, she says, is the pocket in the scarf. The where of it and the shape, are distinctive. Sometimes, it is of the fabric of the scarf; again it is in vivid contrast.

Summary Modes

Many of the fabric hats have scarfs to match.

Steel and topaz are the newest colors for silk handbags.

Touches of red are particularly smart on the black costume.

The hat for the summer afternoon frock will be quite large.

The tuxedo front is a feature of the spring coats for children.

Twisted ribbon makes a charming turban-hat for the tailleur.

Many of the prettiest spring coats have short shoulder capes.

The veil is rarely used except as a trimming or to soften an edge.

Some of the new hats have large brims all around except in back.

Fob ornaments are even used on the crowns of small tailored hats.

The small mantilla is worn in fichu style with the evening gown.

A touch of summer fur is used on almost all the new spring coats.

White, beige and sand color are smartest for early summer frocks.

Some of the loveliest of the new informal evening gowns are of lace.

A silk underslip of pale rose and white is used for a frock of gray lace.

CLOTHED WITH AUTHORITY

Edwin Carewe, who produced "A Son of the Sahara" for First National in and near Biskra, Algeria, was the recipient of many favors from both the native and the French of the district, but it remained for the Caid of the town of Chetma, five miles from Biskra, to render one of the best services.

An Arabian Caid, leading citizen and appointed civil and military ruler of a town, corresponds with the American idea of a sheik. The Caid of Chetma placed the public square of the town, its surrounding buildings and unique streets, entirely at the disposal of Mr. Carewe for the taking of the auction block scenes of "A Son of the Sahara," which is now showing at the Alhambra Theater.

Mr. Carewe, with his technical director, John D. Schultze, discovered in the public square of Chetma the identical location appropriate for the auction block scenes. But it was with some trepidation that they approached the Caid for permission to use the location, as the auction block scenes of the picture were to revive the spectacle of the Arabian slave market, a none too bright chapter in Arabian life.

The matter was explained to the Caid. He smiled lightly at the suggestion that he might object. "There is never harm in the truth, be it of the present or the past," he said. Not only did he really grant his permission but he himself was "on the set" every day and assisted materially in the directing of the mob scenes. A word from him and a mob of 400 chattering Arabs subsided into utter silence.

The Caid threw his private garden open to Mr. Carewe's company every day for lunch and served Turkish coffee after the meal.

WITH THE OTHER HALF

"Judging from what I saw and experienced, I'd say that shop girls lead a hectic life, but withal, a fascinating one, that I should judge not to be half as bad as that lived by girls on farms and in the so-called great open spaces."

That is the statement made by Gloria Swanson, beauteous star of the Paramount picture, "Manhandled," now running at the Million Dollar Theater. The statement was forthcoming after Miss Swanson, in preparing for several scenes of the picture, spent a day behind the counter of a big New York department store, crashed into the subway at the rush hour and ate several meals in a typical Bronx boarding-house.

Miss Swanson, in the picture, has the role of a shop girl in a big store who climbs the false social ladder of success, and her adventures were prompted by a desire to see for herself the atmosphere she was supposed to be in.

Incidentally, word comes from the Long Island studios where the picture was made that Gloria's experiences with the shop girls both served to win her many new admirers and on her part to still further instill in her mind what she always believed, that shop girls were mighty good sort all the way.

"Manhandled" starts its second week's run tomorrow and the consensus of opinion is said to be that it is the most entertaining Swanson picture to date.

LIGHTER TOUCHES ESSAYED

Community Players to Put on Satire on Things in General Next Week

The second edition of "The Follies of Pasadena" will be given by the Community Players of the city, beginning Thursday, June 5. The book and lyrics have been rewritten by Alfred Brand, and the score is by Raymond Mixsell. Otherwise known as "The Kommunity Kaper," this will be the big production of the year, consisting of fun, music and dancing.

Mr. Brand has devised a unique story. It opens in Mrs. Penoochey's auto camp. The fact develops that the governing board has decided to put on a vulgar, vicious play yclept "Pollyanna," against which the Community Players revolt. So the director goes to the auto camp and gets his cast from the newly arrived tourists, thus demonstrating the facility with which community productions may be made.

The two most successful dramas of the year, put on by the Pasadenans—Masefield's "Melloney Holtspur" and "Liliom" by Molnar—are then burlesqued. There is an extravagant scene in front of the high school, done scenically a la jazz-Russian. The finale takes place in Carmelita Gardens, where a mah jongg ball is in progress. Real estate subdividers have acquired the Penoochey auto-camp and made the Community Players all wealthy, beyond the dreams of avarice.

Among those who will take part are Mrs. A. H. Palmer, Samuel S. Hinds, George C. Reis, Robert Griffin, Belle Mitchell, Grace Fredericks, Earl Eby, Bradley Wright, Dorothy V. Hinds, Ralph Hilliar—all of them having principal roles. There will be a chorus of twenty-five boys and girls. A special orchestra of twelve pieces under the leadership of Max Donner will provide the instrumental background. Madam Harriet Dement Packard has charge of the chorus. Ray Glass designed the stage-settings, which will be elaborate.

The "Kommunity Kaper" is an original form of entertainment, which the Pasadenans inaugurated last year, something like the Chauve Souris of the Russians. Its sole purpose is to take a lighter view of things.

HAWLEY IN SERIOUS PLAY

Wanda Hawley, who is playing her first non-flapper role in "Bread," which Victor Schertzinger is directing, began her screen career as a leading woman, although, she had had no theatrical training of any kind.

PERVERTED TASTES

SOLOMON'S PROBLEM IS UNSOLVED

Baby Peggy in Poignant Drama of Divorce Sheds Little Light on Subject

The same problems with which Solomon grappled, the same that has stamped divorce courts in the present time, is the gripping background for the story in which Baby Peggy appears this week at Clune's Broadway. It opened yesterday.

"The Law Forbids," the baby star's second feature length picture, is the story of divorce and the child. It definitely launches the famous child actress into the realm of heart reaching drama.

Replete with gripping dramatic action, with a background problem as important as life itself, "The Law Forbids," will be looked upon as the outstanding problem play of the year.

Baby Peggy does a lot more than star in the picture. She voices a plea for all the little children who have been the apex of that intimate little triangle represented in the proposed divorce of every couple where there is a single child.

Baby Peggy pleads for the love of two parents—not merely one. Her story tells swiftly how parents may satisfy their own vanity only at the cost of suffering and unhappiness in the part of their child.

The child actress romps through the picture with a pet rooster and a bag of new tricks—but she proves just as clever a tragedienne as she is a comedienne, when the smashing climax is reached.

The picture is lavishly staged, and enacted by a big cast by picked artists of the first water. Robert Ellis, well-known leading man, and Elinor Fair appear as the parents. Winfred Bryson, picturesque vampire of "Thundering Dawn" is the "other woman." And among the other notable artists are James Corrigan, Joseph Dowling, Anna Hernandez, Victor Potel, Ned Sparks and William E. Lawrence.

PIERRE KEY'S Music Article

Buoyant natures exert generally a beneficial effect upon other natures. They are not unlike a sunny day. Most people tolerate gloomy or pessimistic individuals, just as they do rain. But what a relief it is to meet with buoyancy, particularly when it is setting about doing a job worth the doing. That fact seemed to be specially emphasized the other evening when I sat in Aeolian Hall listening to the Harvard University orchestra. These youngsters from Cambridge surely have a way with them. They can hit and run smashingly in a game of baseball; or push the oval pigskin across the line for a touchdown; or row a boat, swim, or engage in any other form of athletic endeavor with pretty fair success. Their minds also have been known to function well, and now they are taking up music in the manner characteristic of all university students who possess the faculty of getting results.

Accounts of the ability of the Harvard Glee Club have appeared on occasions in this column. Now consideration must be given the Harvard orchestra, which was founded back in 1808 under the title of Pierian Codality. Serving in it, at different periods, have been Henry Cabot Lodge and Nicholas Longworth. And also the well-known composer, Arthur Foote.

Keeping the Harvard orchestra up to a high notch is one of those problematic affairs which must always prevail where the personnel in an organization suffers frequent and numerically large change. Just about the time the players get to going nicely together comes graduation day—and the exodus of seniors. Then the poor conductor has to begin all over again. Still, he doesn't complain, he just pitches in, does his best—and bows to the applause during a concert with all the composure maintained by the leader of any full-fledged symphony band.

This Harvard University orchestra concert wasn't half bad, all things considered. It was to be expected that some weaknesses would be manifested. The wind sections had their difference with the true pitches, and in other places one could observe a bit of limping. The spirit, however, was admirable; and evidences of good routine were constantly apparent. Walter Pister was the conductor. He merits praise.

GATTI'S OPERA ARMY

Pretty good luck attended the gathering of "first" news for the readers of this column concerning the Metropolitan Opera novelties for the coming season. Just before Guilio Gatti-Casazza sailed for Europe he confided in me some more interesting details—then talked generally for publication.

Giovanni Gallurese, by Montemezzi (composer of L'Amore dei tre Re) Jonufa, by Leo Janacek, will be the new operas; and Pelleas et Melisande, Die Goetterdammerung, Das Rhinegold, Falstaff, Tales of Hoffman, Dinorah, La Gioconda, La Juive, and Stravinsky's ballet Petrushka will be restored to the Metropolitan repertoire.

All this is interesting, but equally so is the fact that eighty-one of the ninety-three principal artists have been re-engaged for 1924, 1925. A year ago twelve new names were added to the Metropolitan roster; this coming season will find only seven, and they are Toti dal Monte, the La Scala coloratura soprano, who is to be heard also with the Chicago Opera Association, and in concerts; Maria Muller, lyric soprano, of the Munich opera; Nanny Larsen, soprano from the Stockholm opera; Joan Ruth, an American soprano; Mary Bonetti, American contralto; Ralph Errole, American tenor; Francesco Seri, basso, and Tullio Sarafin, who has been first conductor at La Scala.

The singers who were not reengaged are Cora Chase, Suzanne Keener, Barbara Kemp, Margaret Romaine, and Muriel Tindal, soprano; Grace Bradley, Flora Perini, and Myrtle Schaaf, contraltos; Manuel Salazar, Orville Harrold, and Pietro Audisio, tenors; Renato Zanelli and Italo Picchi, baritones; and Roberto Moranzoni, conductor.

PIEDIGROTTA—ET AL

Piedigrotta means nothing at all—unless you happen to be Italian. If perchance Naples is well known to you, or, better still, you are a Neapolitan . . . well, in that event at the mention of Piedigrotta your eyes will close and your head start to swaying.

For Piedigrotta is a shrine outside of Naples, dedicated to the Madonna, to which once every year all of Naples comes to hold a contest in song. On Piedigrotta day nobody works (not even father) in Naples. The few who can afford to ride, ride in those funny and rickety little Neapolitan deep-sea-going cabs, drawn by horses that look as though they might fall down the next moment (they never do.) Thus do those who ride—and there are some who go in motor cars — ride out to Piedigrotta, while the less financially fortunate, walk . . . and manage to have fun in so doing.

The winner in this contest of song is decided by public acclamation. One who carried off the honor on three occasions is Ernesto de Curtis; and he was the one who gave a modified Piedigrotta a few evenings ago in Town Hall, assisted by such illustrious artists as Beniamino Gigli of the Metropolitan; Caterina Gobbi, soprano; Maria Luisa de Lorenzo, violiniste, and Vito Carnovale, pianist.

The Italians who packed the place, right up upon the the stage, had a marvelous time; but I alone could marvel imaginatively over what the real thing must be, for I didn't get to hear a Piedigrotta when I was in Naples last summer.

PHILADELPHIA'S NEW BAND

When a distinguished symphony orchestra conductor sees possibilities in a military band it becomes a matter for general interest. Who is there who does not respond to the blare of the cornets the sharply defined rhythms, and the smashing climaxes of those military bands, which have made reputations in this country? Why, even in a parade the place of the bands—inferior though some of them are—is fixed.

Leopold Stokowski of the Philadelphia Orchestra launched a few evenings ago the Philadelphia Military Band. It numbered 120 musicians, and the concert was one of those rip-roaring affairs which now and again come along to send tingling sensations up and down the listeners' spines.

Mind you, it was mostly good music which was performed. Yet, as Stokowski explained in his brief speech, it is possible to get certain effects and tonal colorings with a military band that are denied an orchestra—no matter how large or fine. It will be interesting to observe the development of this new organization, and the extent and influence of its operations.

SUMMERTIME MUSIC

The United States is to have more music this summer than ever before in its history. With each new season the growth of the public's desire for concerts and opera increases; and the situation is now one to please the people who want to hear good music the year round.

We chatted with Fritz Reiner, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, just before he sailed a few days ago for Europe, prior to returning in a few weeks to lead the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in the Lewisohn Stadium. Reiner showed us the programs he had prepared, and he was enthusiastic over the opportunities he will have in this project, which is attracting attention in the world of music.

Every evidence points toward a record-breaking attendance at these stadium concerts. The new "shell" built for the orchestra makes possible satisfactory acoustics; and this will enable the thousands present at each concert to hear to advantage.

Some distinguished soloists have been engaged to appear with the New York Philharmonic. There will be singers, violinists and pianists. Nothing will be left undone to make the series far and away the best thus far known.

A REAL BARON IN PICTURES

A real Baron, a regular boy, a moving picture actor, a student of psychological matters,—these are a few phrases which describe Baron Leslie Von Kampfeldt, 12-year-old lad now in pictures. The Baron, a boy of distinctive accomplishments and ability, played first in Hollywood as a messenger boy in Mary Pickford's "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall." Later he took the part of a "kid brother" in a Fox production, as yet untitled and unreleased.

His next venture in the world of picture play will be with Lasky; he begins with them the coming June 20, and probably in "The Swan." He is also negotiating with the De Milles for forthcoming productions.

Besides having the ordinary school studies, the boy has studied spiritualism with A. Conan Doyle, and is also a pupil in psychology and Latin of Jrofessor Von Gratten.

In speaking of his "early years," the young Baron, an unusually strong featured lad, said that he has always been keenly interested in motion pictures.

"I was born in West Kensington, London, England, and reared in Germany, and I live now in America," he said. "My grandmother on my mother's side, Lady Virginia Frye, widow of Lord Henry Frye, is an accomplished pianist, and has played before many of the crowned heads of Europe. She is with me here now, as both my father and mother are dead.

"Our estates at Blogoff, Germany, consist of a forty-five-room castle and 750 acres of land. I was made a Baron at the death of my father, some years ago.

"In Blogoff Hall I had an English tutor, and was brought up to the seventh grade. I finished grammar school here, and now I am in my first year of high school. Upon our arrival in America three years ago, we met many of the prominent motion-picture people in New York, and from then on I have studied the movie game from as many angles as possible. I started in picture work when I was ten.

"I watched the making of 'The Thief of Bagdad' at the Pickford-Fairbanks studios. And let me say here that all this talk about motion-picture people not being clean, is not true. I watched everybody that I could, and tried to hear things which people said to each other that obviously were not intended for small boys' ears. Well, without exactly saying that I was disappointed, at least I was unsuccessful. Of course there are a few conspicuous examples, but as a class actors are quite as clean as those out of pictures. There is a lot of information that a boy can pick up, and a lot that he hears that grown-ups have no idea he is hearing, and I never saw anything among picture people that I have not seen other people do."

Primitive people, living in holes in the ground and believed to be descendants of a race antedating the Arabs in North Africa, were found by a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society a few hundred miles south of the Mediterranean coast in Africa. Here dwell more than 12,000, without tents or houses, living in subterranean homes which are entered through sloping tunnels. They are Moslems and extremely fanatical.

WITH the advent of summer, sports apparel looms especially large in the eyes of the girl or woman who "goes in" for that sort of thing. And who does not, in this sunny clime, where mountains, surf, tennis courts, golf links, even "Main-traveled roads," insistently beckon and call?

MUSICAL

SOCIETY WILL CHOOSE TWO ENSEMBLE NUMBERS

Inasmuch as Los Angeles and Southern California composers have contributed a considerable amount of really worthwhile music to the world of music-literature, the announcement of the Society for the Publication of American Music comes as an added impetus alike to established composers and the young aspirant for musical honors in this field.

The society will receive, not later than October 15, original compositions by American citizens for submission to its advisory board for recommendation for publication. The society gives consideration only to chamber music. It does not consider orchestral works, short solo pieces of any kind, or songs, unless the latter are written for a group of instruments accompanying the voice. The society lays stress on the musical merit of the work submitted; it places no restriction on the number or combination of the instruments used for chamber work.

While the work of the society is limited as to quantity, acceptance places the composer among the best representative American composers. Those who have been so honored are Daniel Gregory Mason, Alois Reiser, Henry Holden Huss, Leo Sowerby, David Stanley Smith, Tadeusz Iarecki, William Clifford Heilman, Charles Loeffler and Albert Stoessel. But two compositions are selected each year. The society was founded in 1919.

Composers desiring additional information may secure it from the society, 185 Madison avenue, New York.

Violinist in Modern Work

Amy Neill, American violinist, has been given the place of honor on the all-American musical program at the biennial convention of the National Federation of Women's Clubs of America at Los Angeles, the 3rd to 13th insts.

The Neill concert will be in the nature of a memorial concert to the deceased members who in their lifetime were active in the cause of music. Miss Neill will play the Cecil Burleigh Concerto, which in 1915 won the prize in a contest of American composers.

Engage Artists for Opera

Victor Edmunds, Canadian tenor, has been engaged for the tenor role, Turidu, in "Cavalliera Rusticana" to be produced on the 16th and 17th insts. at Municipal Auditorium, Ocean Park, under the auspices of the Community Club. Alice Gentle has been engaged for the role of Santuzzi, and Ettore Campani, baritone, for the role of Alfio.

Victor Edmunds is pupil of Otto Morando, internationally known vocal pedagogue, formerly at the head of the Toronto Academy of Music, but now permanently located in Los Angeles. Mr. Morando has received word that his pupil, Douglas Stanbury, has been signed for leading baritone roles with the Chicago Civic Opera Company for five years.

Gould Pantomime Company

Norma Gould, director of the Norma Gould School of the Dance, has achieved a new distinction, the organization of the only exclusive pantomime company in the West. The initial production of this company is to be presented the 7th and 9th insts. at her studio on north Western Avenue. The program will consist of two one-act pantomimes, and a number of national dances.

The pantomimes are an adaptation of William B. Yeat's one-act drama, "The Land of the Heart's Desire," and "Reflections," an original fantasy of old Russia, by Marjorie Dougan. Entirely different in theme, costuming and dramatic appeal, the pantomimes give an excellent idea of what can be done with this art.

Miss Gould will appear in two numbers, Lizt's "Hungarian Rhapsody" and the "Jarabe," an authentic native Mexican dance of great charm and fire.

Stojowski Master Class

Another famous musician will teach here during the summer. The announcement has come that Sigismond Stojowski, pianist, composer and teacher of international fame, will instruct here under the management of L. E. Behymer.

Mr. Stojowski is best known for his compositions and his two star-pupils, Guiomar Novaes and Mischa Livitski, both of whom have been heard here. The statement has been made that the Novaes appearance here ranks among the five outstanding artistic piano recitals here in the last several seasons.

Mr. Stojowski is an authoritative exponent of the Paderewski principles of piano playing, for he studied with this master for a considerable period. Mr. Paderewski frequently included a composition from the pen of his illustrious pupil on his own programs.

Classes are to be held in Berkeley and San Francisco by Mr. Stojowski, from June 23 to July 26. Classes will open here July 23 and close August 30.

Course in Voice and Languages

Virginia Goodsell Byrne will offer a course in singing, languages and accompanying, to begin the 16th inst. Mrs. Byrne is well known in Los Angeles, having been associated here as a teacher both before and after her five years residence in New York and Furope.

She has been head of the vocal department of the Westlake School for Girls for eight years. This winter she spent considerable time in organizing the Artist Student League in conjunction with the American Musical Optimists.

Musicale and Garden Party

A program and garden party will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fifield, 1463 South Norton avenue, on the evening of the 6th inst. for the benefit of the Church of the Messiah Building Fund. The program is under the direction of Margaret Birdenia Henry, graduate of the Columbia College of Expression, who will entertain with readings.

Miss Nina Horner, pianist, pupil of Francis Kendig, will play. Elma Wood and Edith Lingerfelt will appear in a dramatic episode.

The program follows:

Readings from Robert Browning; Scotch selections with musical accompaniment.

Piano selections: To the Rising Sun (Torjussen;) Movement Perpetual from Sonata Op. 24 (Von Weber;) Romance in D Flat (Sibelius;) A. D. 1620 (MacDowell.)

Dramatic Episode, "The Lion and the Lady" (Marjorie B. Cook.)

Community Sing

On Tuesday evening of this week, a community sing and program will be given at the Touchstone Theater, on University avenue, under the direction of Alexander Stewart. The program is being given under the auspices of the community music class of the extension division of the University of Southern California, and is open to the public.

Gude Pupil Recital

One of the most noteworthy of the spring recital announcements is that of Hazel Henderson, mezzo-soprano who will be presented by the Louise Gude studios tomorrow at Chickering Hall. Miss Henderson, having been a resident of Los Angeles for several years, needs no introduction to local music circles for her beautiful voice has delighted many audiences throughout the Coast States.

Graduating Piano Recital

An interesting piano recital will be presented at the Touchstone Theater on University avenue, on Wednesday evening, by Bernice Hall, pupil of Olga Steeb. This is the third of the series of graduating recitals of the college of music of the University of Southern California. Miss Hall will be assisted by Marjorie Thomas, soprano, a pupil of Lillian Backstrand. Delphia Comer will act as accompanist. The program follows:

Lessons for Bowl Music

Hollywood Bowl summer concerts, in their third season, beginning July 8, have so firmly established themselves as the great uplifting and educational summer music center in Southern California, that two important institutions of learning will include them in their courses, and give credits to students for attendance at the Bowl. Dean Rogers of the University of Southern California summer session, and Dean Bruce of the University of California in Los Angeles, summer session, both set the seal of approval of their universities upon the concerts, heartily indorsing them as the finest opportunity their students can have for practical musical study.

Alfred Hertz, conductor of the concerts, will deliver a series of noonday lectures to the entire student body at the University of California, explaining the compositions which will be played during the following week. His lectures will be on Mondays.

Donald Clarke will return to the University of California, Southern Branch, to conduct the summer classes in musical appreciation at much of the preliminary work being done now by Squire Coop, head of the music department, and a strong Bowl enthusiast.

Miss Bonzella Cross will instruct classes in musical appreciation at the University of Southern California, and will require attendance at the Bowl. Mrs. Anthony Blanks is chairman of the university's woman's club, and is preparing the way among the students for that work.

Miss Jennie L. Jones, with her assistants among teachers in the orchestral departments of city schools, will take full charge of the series of free afternoon concerts for children, given each alternate Wednesday at the Bowl, starting the second week. Private schools throughout the city, with all parent-teacher associations, have pledged to attend the concerts, believing in their invaluable aid to all young people who are studying any form of music or art.

Plans are under way among the grade school music department heads to establish radio lectures on musical appreciation, giving credits in music to all pupils "listening-in" and requiring their attendance at at least two Bowl concerts a week.

McAdam Dancers in Demand

Adeline Leone McAdam is presenting the McAdam Dancers in some interesting dance programs in several affairs of note during the next two weeks.

A full act was offered for the play crafters on Friday evening at the Gamut Club. Another affair will be on the 9th inst., also at the Gamut Club, and on next Saturday evening several numbers will be furnished by Miss McAdam for Miss Ethel Willard Putman's Musicale in Long Beach. Little Gracie Seabrook, protege of Miss McAdams, appeared Saturday, the 24th inst., at a benefit performance given by the Overseas Club for the

SINGS IN OPEN AIR THURSDAY

Galli-Curci Makes Bowl Appearance

Amelita Galli-Curci

GALLI-CURCI, whose appearance in the Hollywood Bowl Thursday night opens the out-of-door musical season in Los Angeles, is already a resident of Hollywood. Together with her husband, Homer Samuels, she has chosen her "honeymoon cottage," and lived in it.

"Los Angeles is the paradise of America," she said recently as she pulled a few weeds from her garden. "Although we have a rather elaborate estate in the Catskills, it is closed for the winter season, so I thought it would be a good investment to purchase a modest, little place in Southern California where we could hide away from the world whenever our engagements brought us in this vicinity," she said.

The prima donna expresses herself as thrilled at the idea of singing with an orchestra conducted by Alfred Hertz in the Bowl. Everything is in readiness for the reception of the diva and Conductor Hertz. The Bowl is in ship-shape, transportation facilities have been thoroughly arranged, 150 high school boys will act as ushers and a guard of United States marines will act as personal body guards for the two musicians.

MUSICIAN OF NOTE WILL TEACH HERE

James H. Shearer

James H. Shearer, a distinguished Scottish musician, has opened a studio in the Southern California Music Company Building and will also conduct a summer vacation course at Santa Barbara. He will teach piano, pipe organ, voice and choral conducting.

Mr. Shearer has studied in London, Glasgow, Paris and Berlin. He has recently concluded a two years' concert tour of over 300 recitals in association with his wife, Annie Strubbe Shearer, soprano. Originally from Glasgow, Mr. Shearer has spent several years in Montreal and Buffalo, where his several choirs made a great reputation for unaccompanied singing.

SPORT WITH A VENGEANCE

Victor Schertzinger, who is directing "Bread," as a boy was never permitted to engage in athletics for fear he might injure his hands and thereby spoil his career as a violinist and pianist. He got away from parental supervision for the first time when he entered the University of Pennsylvania, and in one game of football suffered a dislocated knee, two broken ribs and a broken shoulder blade.

HELPS MAE EMOTE

Johnston, composer and featured vaudeville violinist, has been engaged by Mae Murray for her studio orchestra during the production of "Circe." Johnston recently returned to Los Angeles following a tour with the Annette Kellerman "Smiles" of 1924."

BUSINESS IS PLEASURE

Millard Webb of the Warner Brothers' studio, possibly the youngest director in the business, is rapidly completing his first important offering for the screen, "Her Marriage Vow," a comedy drama based on the stage success of the same name by Owen Davis.

That Webb has made a decided hit with his helpers and the members of the cast is proven by the excellent co-operation this director is given on his set. He is at present seven days ahead of his own production schedule and attributes this fortune to the manner in which his company has responded to the camera.

Each morning at 7 o'clock he goes into conference with his assistant, William McGann, and his "gag" staff. He reviews the preceding day's work on paper and his criticism of the "rushes," run off in the projection room the night before, and comes to a decision on the coming day's activities.

It is characteristic of Director Webb to rewrite a certain comedy situation during the actual working hours. If a "gag" as explained in the script of the story does not appear to register, Webb often adds a little new "business" or slightly revises the preceding and following shots.

Webb is not backward in his assertion that he likes the art of directing pictures so well that he would sooner be at work than spending an hour after "labor" hours in some form of amusement.

The players in "Her Marriage Vow" include Monte Blue, Beverly Bayne, Margaret Livingston, Willard Louis, John Roche and Priscilla Moran.

PLAYING ON FEELINGS

Donald Brian, the gentlemanly "tank" in "Just Married," booked at the Mason Operahouse beginning Sunday night, June 1, admits that he finds the stage especially fascinating just now. No, it's not the undisputed fact that he has made the hit of his career as Robert Adams. It's not that the stage salary is large and the hours comparatively easy. It's something else.

"The real secret of the fascination of the stage for players," said Mr. Brian recently, "lies in none of its superficial advantages. It is just that a man gets an opportunity to use whatever creative force he has and secures immediate results—results that come back to him over the the footlights in the sound of laughter and applause if he is playing comedy, or the sound of the blowing of noses if he is doing drama.

"That is the real reason for the power which the stage has over the players. An orchestra conductor enjoys leading a large orchestra. It is one of the finest musical instruments in the world—indeed, the finest. And the results are immediate.

"An audience is a superorchestra, and the player, if he ever succeeds at all, plays upon it. Every man enjoys the exercise of artistic power.

"Playing upon an audience is fascinating enough, but when you consider that no two audiences are precisely alike, any more than two human beings are alike, the fascination increases. The player learns to judge and gauge his audience and employ his power or skill in the degree necessary to play upon the audience. For instance, I am very fond of playing in a quiet, restrained fashion. But with some audiences this is utterly impossible. I must broaden and heighten all of my effects or I do not play at all. If I did not they would play upon me—which is what an audience does to a bad actor every time.

"To my mind the real charm of the theater for all of its people is that subtle relation that is set up between the player and the audience."

Impresario of Restaurant Life Around Again

Mike Lyman, after a long illness which culminated in a serious operation at the California Hospital, has sufficiently recovered to return to his field. Right now he is working on the production of a new show which will open on the night of June 4 at the Rendezvous Cafe and which will be known as the "Passing Parade of 1924."

Lyman, who presides over both the Rendezvous and Winter Garden restaurants, was an entertainer par excellence, himself, some years ago, furnishing diversion at many of the clubs and cabarets of that day. In his new personally produced show, which will inaugurate the summer opening of the Rendezvous, he has conceived something entirely new in the way of girl shows. Peewee Emerson's orchestra will be a feature of the new production.

Lyman has been receiving numerous congratulations lately from Rialto frequenters on his recovery, which for a time, seemed doubtful. However, the cafe impresario is enjoying normal health at this time.

LONDON SUBURBAN LIFE

William McFee in "Race" Deserts the Sea for the Suburb and H. G. Wells With a Similar Background Holds Civilization up to Scorn

BY LILLIAN C. FORD

As a writer of fiction that has atmosphere, glamor and subtlety along with an intricate play of human emotions, William McFee is constantly compared with Conrad. The comparison has more foundation than that they both use the sea as the protagonist. In the handling of character, in the bringing together of slow but irresistible forces to a climax and in the glamor of the story the two are undoubtedly alike.

So intimately has McFee become connected with the sea, that those who have learned to look forward with a genuine thrill to a new book from his pen will feel a little disappointed that in "Race" he chooses for his mileau a London suburb and for his characters a tatterdemalion British family, the Heaths. He takes time to block in their friends and neighbors and adds as secondary leads two young men, whose life crossed that of the Heaths at a tangent.

He writes this novel in no stereotyped way. He gives us enlightening glimpses of his people, in singles, doubles and groups; he tells us something of their lives and what they are making of them, but leaves his ends untied, his story not quite told.

Probably the best character in the book is Mr. Heath, whose flat, black, curly beard gave him the appearance of an Assyrian basrelief. He had been a school master, but an accident had left him with the conviction that he was a nervous wreck, unable to work. He never doubts the validity of his breakdown nor yet of his headship of the family, which he went on increasing and multiplying, with the aid of Mrs. Heath, at an almost abnormal rate.

It is Hazel, who had "spazzums in her mind," and Lena, the kitchen drudge, who emerge into something out of the ordinary. Hazel is destined to become a popular novelist, of the widely read but never reviewed type—a veritable boon to literary morons. Lena's emergence as an artist's model who marries a would-be artist and makes a commercial success of him, is rather a surprise to the reader, and possibly to the author.

The part that the secondary group of characters play in the story is not large. These are Francis Striker, Briton, son of a prosperous tradesman, and his friend Louis Chailiu, a French youth who was studying in an engineer's office with Francis. But the two afford excellent opportunity for character contrast, which is what Mr. McFee demands of them. Hazel Heath and Louis are attracted to each other, but Louis allows himself to be distracted by one siren after another, until suddenly, as he is about to leave England forever he turns almost in a panic to Hazel, plights his troth, and sails away. We are left in doubt as to whether he ever saw Hazel again and we don't care much.

"Race" is not an easy book to place. It has substance, has personality. It does not lack interest, but neither does it possess that magnetic touch that so distinguishes "Capt. Macedoine's Daughter" and "Command."

THE DREAM. By H. G. Wells. The Macmillan Company, New York.

A novel of the "Looking Backward" type, in which H. G. W. holds the mirror of our times up to us, as reflected to a group of wayfarers in the happy hunting grounds of 2000 years hence.

Of course, Mr. Wells has a serious purpose. It is, as usual, to show the absurdity of our system, social, political, economic and what-not. And, as usual, it is marriage that bears the brunt of his critical onslaught. However, non-birth control is a good second.

But, despite his exoteric intentions, Mr. Wells succeeds in telling a good story, one which would have been better if he had left out the golden-age stuff and stuck to this world at the present time. Most of us will echo his desire for a reconstructed world, but will vote that his Sarnac and Sunray, his Radiant and his Willow are visionary bores.

The story proper is of Mortimer Smith and his sister Fanny, children of a grimy greengrocer, and his dourly respectable wife, who somehow, somewhere, had been impregnated with ambition and with love of beauty, with desire for life at flood-tide.

Fanny courageously and cannily took her chance and became the mistress of a man of wealth and taste, who was devoted to her and whom she loved. Mortimer, through him, was given his chance, and worked up to an important position in a publishing house. He married Hetty, the girl of his heart, but inheriting all sorts of standardized notions about morality, he divorced his wife when she carelessly had a baby of whom he was not the father. Then he rushed into a marriage with a good, but hopelessly dull woman, only to repent when too late. His defection sent Hetty into the arms of her betrayer, where she found only misery.

Thus both their lives were wrecked because of the odd beliefs of their day and generation in regard to marriage and marriage vows. In the end, Mortimer is sent to an early grave, to reappear 2000 years later in a better, if less exciting world.

As a brief against marriage, the book falls down, for Mr. Wells makes it clear that if Mortimer had remained married to Hetty all would have been well. It was his divorce that ruined their lives. Then, too, while Fanny found happiness in living with a man who had a lawful wife, the two made haste to marry when the opportunity came, and Mr. Wells does not forbid the bans.

But while it is easy to pick flaws in the story and in the philosophy, no one can fail to rejoice in the superb handling of the minor characters. Here Wells is at his best. The greengrocer, Uncle John Julip, the thieving head gardener, who supplied him with most of his green goods; Matilda Good and her array of boarders; brother Earnest, and the rest, are all perfect, each in his own way. They are drawn inimitably, with humor, with irony, with sympathy, with insight. They are a galaxy of stars shining through a fog.

THE FACTORY WORKER

Social workers and others have speculated much about the lives of the immigrants who work in our factories, and have been handicapped by not knowing how it feels to be a machine hand in a strange land. One of the new novels, "Temper," by Lawrence H. Conrad (Dodd, Mead & Co.,) written from the point of view of the workman himself, actually tells not only how the workman feels, but even what he thinks about. The method of writing is a novel one; the writer presents only such scenes in the story as take place before the eyes of his main character, and every event is colored by this character's thinking. And the character is a rather typical Italian boy with an Old World tradition, who is fighting for his place in American life. The title, "Temper," refers to the process of making steel.

COSTS THEN AND NOW

It cost an Oxford student in the Middle Ages less to live per day than its costs the modern young man for his car fare to the office in the morning. The expense account of a medieval student, which is reprinted in Albert Mansbridge's book, "The Older Universities of England," published by Houghton Mifflin Company, shows how the munificent sum of $12.20 was distributed over the school year of thirty-eight weeks. Even allowing for the appreciable difference in money value, we are assured that this youth must have lived very frugally. Here are his expenditures: For lectures, $1.80; rent of room, $2; food (for thirty-eight weeks,) $8; payment for servant, 40 cents; total, $12.20.

England and George Jean Nathan

Reports from London indicate that George Jean Nathan's "The Critic and the Drama" and "The World in Falseface," recently brought out by the Bodley Head, John Lane, have attracted more critical attention in England than any American books published there since Sinclair Lewis's "Main Street" and "Babbitt." The London Times has already devoted three separate articles to "The World in Falseface" and four to "The Critic and the Drama."

The moving-picture rights of Helen R. Martin's new story, "The Snob," have already been sold for a price running into five figures, according to an announcement from Dodd, Mead & Co., the publishers of the book. The same publishers also announce the sale of the moving-picture rights of "The Best in Life," by Muriel Hine.

RECENT FICTION

ALL TO SEEK. By Diana Patrick. E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.

Those who have had high hopes of Diana Patrick will find no joy in this book. For, while it is an interesting romance, told with a certain finish of style, it lacks distinction.

It is the story of the two daughters of a musician, Harmony and Melody Page. They lived at a seaside resort, where Harmony taught for the summer session in Miss Mirando Kenley's summer school, and Melody gave music lessons to unwilling youth.

Their little house was incredibly ugly; their father's morals were doubtful; their opportunities for thrills were few. Sebastian Argent, who lived in genteel state at Silver Birches, seemed their only hope. At first we are led to believe that he is about ready to propose for Melody's hand and heart. But just at this juncture his fascinating cousin, Nicholas Cardinal, a sadly unprincipled artist, appears and wins Melody with a look. She also wins him, but alas, when he sees her more winsome sister Harmony he is ready to change future partners. Here Sebastian steps in. For it appears, after all, that it is Harmony that Sebastian has marked for his own. So Nicholas finds it best to stick to Melody.

After they are married and off to Italy, Harmony learns of Sebastian's gently restrained love, but thinks is not exciting enough. So she goes to London to study music and taste of Bohemia. From this time on the plot becomes more and more complicated, with event following event in quick succession. Harmony is called to Italy, is made aware of the perfidy of Nicholas, escapes him and goes to Monte Carlo and then to Paris. But always in her mad career she holds in her heart the memory of the staid Sebastian, in whose ample arms she falls at last, unscathed by her weird experiences.

AN ISLAND CHRONICLE. By William Cummings. Alfred A. Knopf, New York.

This is a first novel with the scene laid in a little Portuguese fishing village on an island off the New England coast. The opening paragraphs describing the island are picturesque, striking and altogether right. Throughout the book Mr. Cummings shows his ability to visualize a scene, a person, an event. His people are clearly presented and they have a certain depth.

The chronicle is a tragic idyll into which enter love, jealousy, revenge and death, while over it all broods the menace of an irresistible fate, hinted and symbolized by the restless background of the sea.

Angela, the central character, is so wrapped up in the superstitions of loyalty to the dead that she gives up her love to marry another. The unfolding of her passionate love for the discarded man and her bitter strife with the one she has forced herself to marry form the theme of a novel that is neither commonplace nor stereotyped.

Mr. Cummings, we are told, was born in the very heart of Boston, where the New England tradition still survives, but his interests were soon turned to a study of the foreign groups in our population. In his Portuguese fisher folk he has certainly struck a rich literary mine.

While the book has its weaknesses, evidenced in too sharp contrasts and in the overdrawn portrait of Rosie, the fury of the piece, it is a novel well worth reading.

LIGHTS ALONG THE LEDGES. By Elizabeth Stancy Payne. The Penn Publishing Co., Philadelphia.

A pleasant, innocuous, mildly exciting tale of a young heiress who took flight on her wedding day, secured a companion or two and set forth in her newly acquired yacht for ports unknown.

As it happens, the former owner of the yacht, a young civil engineer, caught in the crash of his father's bankruptcy, has very special reasons for making one last visit to the yacht. But this proves at first extremely difficult. Nothing daunted, our hero presents himself as a marine engineer out of a job and so succeeds in boarding the yacht unopposed. Of course, he finds the new owner altogether irresistible, notwithstanding her whims and her sudden fears and the dark mystery that surrounds her. After a pleasantly told series of amusing and exciting events all the difficulties are cleared away and so—the happy ending.

THE EARL OF HELL. By Joseph Gray Kitchell. The Century Company, New York.

A pseudo-scientific romance in which the plot is founded upon the discovery by an engineer in search of radium-bearing ore of two elements neither of which is subject to the pull of gravity, which strongly repel each other but which, fused, form a third substance any piece of which will, if parted from the larger mass, seek it through all substances, at all distances, in defiance of all forces but that which draws it. It also has the power of storing immense quantities of electrical energy.

It is easy to see what an ingenius and, to many, enthralling adventure-romance could be con-

CALVIN COOLIDGE---IDEALIST

THE PRICE OF FREEDOM. By Calvin Coolidge. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

Thirty speeches of President Coolidge, mostly made during the past four years, are here offered the public. They vary widely in subject, but the same thread runs through them all. This is Calvin Coolidge's confession of faith, his statement of what he thinks is the purpose of government, of civilization, of life itself.

Many of the speeches are very short. In them we see the Vice-President as honored guest at some function refraining from tiring his audience. Others are longer, as befitted the occasion.

Some are discussions of certain phases in our history, as those on the pilgrims and the Green Mountain boys; more are appraisements of outstanding figures, such as Roosevelt, Carnegie, Hamilton, Lincoln, Grant and McKinley; some deal with the questions that underlie public policy today, as does the first, entitled "The Supports of Civilization," and the tenth, "The Title of American;" several discuss the subject of education.

No clearer idea of the thought and expression of the President can be given than by quoting his own words. For that reason the following extracts from the various speeches are given:

"It cannot be that man ought to be satisfied to be anything but his best, or that being his best can be inconsistent with the highest welfare of society."

"Progress has lain in the cultivation and maintenance of a state of mind. It has been in general a strong adherence to ideals.

"Civilization and profits go hand in hand. It is out of the surplus of our efforts that progress is made. It is by organization, by management, that labor is so directed as to produce a surplus for present and future investment."

"Truly, capital, surplus, profits, and progress are the result of brains. In fact, that which we call labor is intelligent effort directed toward some desired end. Otherwise such result could well be secured from a machine. In its last analysis what the workman sells is his intelligence. But it is still true that the management and direction, of which surplus and profits are born, is a rarer skill, a yet more acute intelligence which we in general designate as brains."

"We justify the greater and greater accumulations of capital because we believe that therefrom flows the support of all science, art, learning and the charities which minister to the humanities of life, all carrying their beneficent effects to the people as a whole."

"We do not need more material development, we need more spiritual development. We do not need more intellectual power, we need more moral power. We do not need more knowledge, we need more character. We do not need more government, we need more culture. We do not need more law, we need more religion. We do not need more of the things that are seen, we need more of the things that are unseen."

"Innocence is not enough in government administration. There must be added that character and ability that come only from grappling with the great problems of life, most usually gained by Americans in great business and administrative activities."

"No government can be successful which outlaws any good influence, wherever its source, whatever its calling."

"Education is undertaken to give a larger comprehension of life."

"There has never been a great people who did not possess great learning."

"People are not created for the benefit of industry but industry is created for the benefit of the people."

"The satisfactions of life arise from the art of self-expression."

THE GENESIS OF THE "400"

THE SOCIAL LADDER. By Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer. Henry Holt & Co., New York.

Life in America is supposedly democratic. Yet New York, Boston, Cleveland and every other city in the country has its "four hundred." Who are the members of these charmed circles, and what credentials do they hold? Does their lineage extend back for hundreds of years, or do they "belong" by virtue of their wealth? Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer answers all of these questions in "The Social Ladder." The author is a member of one of New York's first families—literally "first," for she is the direct descendant of Maria De Peyster, who was one of the first white girls to be born on the Island of Manhattan. So she has herself watched the shifting tides of New York society from her debutante days in the prim fifties, when the waltz was considered a risque dance, down to the present "Age of Jazz." But she goes much further back than her own times, and chronicles the history of Society in America from its very beginnings in New Amsterdam, Charleston, Virginia, New England and elsewhere. The Dutch patroons, she claims, were the most aristocratic of the early settlers, and lived in New Amsterdam in surprising ease and comfort, 'way back in the 1650's, when Peter Stuyvesant had to forbid the playing of golf in the city streets, and when Dutch housewives met regularly to write and read poetry.

Of late colonial Revolutionary times she has many an amusing and significant anecdote to tell, such as that of James Monroe's ostracism from New York society, of the writing of Yankee Doodle, etc. She relates, too, a very thrilling story of a beautiful girl spy who insinuated herself into the affections of both Gen. Putnam and Aaron Burr and almost succeeded in taking George Washington captive.

With the influx of wealth, from the fifties on, society changed rapidly, as the Astors, Vanderbilts, Goulds and Belmonts knocked at its portals for admittance.

"It was not until 1892 that the four hundred were born. Mrs. William B. Astor at one time found herself in the dilemma of having to select 400 guests from her large visiting list, since her ball-room would hold no more than that number. The task of elimination was so delicate a one that she turned for guidance to the celebrated social arbiter, Ward McAllister. It was he, in fact, who had placed Mrs. Astor on her throne, and had remained the power behind it. So he made up a select list of four hundred names, and later bragged of his achievement in a New York club. There the story was heard by newspaper men and so spread broadcast over the country.

THE BRADLEY-MARTIN BALL

"In the eighties and nineties New York society entertained on a more and more lavish scale. Finally on February 10, 1897, was held the Bradley-Martin fancy-dress ball which for sensational display of wealth still remains unequaled in the annals of New York. The host and hostess professed to be giving the ball in order to stimulate trade by sending out the invitations at so late a date that the guests would have to buy their costumes from domestic establishments. But the news of the ball caused immediate resentment. Newspapers howled against the extravagances, and as the date for the ball approached and the Bradley-Martins received numerous threatening letters, indignation reached fever heat.

"A day or two before the affair, Mrs. Martin met the late Theodore Roosevelt, then Police Commissioner. 'I am very glad,' she said, 'that you and Mrs. Roosevelt are coming to the ball.'

"'Oh,' he replied dryly, 'my wife's going because she's got her costume; but as one of the commissioners, I shall be outside, looking after the police.'

"For the entertainment the grand ball-room of the newly completed Waldorf-Astoria had been transformed into the replica of a hall in the Palace of Versailles. It formed the background for such a display of costumes and jewels as the city had never seen, the diamond buttons on the habits of the men alone, representing an outlay of thousands upon thousands of dollars.

"Mrs. Bradley-Martin, in the role of Mary Stuart, appearing in a gown heavily embroidered with gold and pearls, wore gems that were former French crown jewels, including a massive ruby necklace, once the property of Marie Antoinette, and also clusters of diamond grapes made for Louis XIV. The guests were equally or even more expensively arrayed. August Belmont appeared in a suit of gold-inlaid armor valued at $10,000.

"A tremendous storm of denunciation followed the ball. Newspapers, ministers, and college debating societies took as their text its scandalous extravagance. Furthermore the New York City fathers raised the Bradley-Martin's taxes to an excessive figure, so that finally the couple fled the country in deep disgrace."

THE AGE OF JAZZ

Money, which had made possible such sensational costume balls as the Bradley-Martins in the latter part of the nineteenth century, was not long in undermining society. Then came the great war to complete the work of disintegration. Waves of profiteers descended upon New York and succeeded in breaking down the last barriers, so that today society observes the "Gold Standard" only. "The former standards are observed nowhere save in a little group of descendants of old families spoken of as the Old Guard," the author moans. "Birth and breeding, ability and achievement have come to be minor considerations as compared with wealth—and youth. The latter, in fact, is always an open sesame, for with the war, youth came into its own. One must be young to keep the pace New York sets—or one must pretend to be young."

Many and devious are the methods resorted to by social climbers today. Of course, if a family has presentable daughters who have attended one of the recognized finishing schools and who dance, and drink well upon occasion, that family is assured of recognition. Or they are even luckier if they have presentable sons, for every hostess must have at least three times as many young men at her dances as girls.

If an ambitious woman has wealth, but neither attractive daughters nor sons, she can resort to philanthropic enterprises. She may give a luncheon for a Tishbite Prince or a noble from Amalikia, who comes to tell of the plight of his unhappy native land. Women of social standing often cannot

LITERARY GOSSIP

Henry Seidel Canby, who recently resigned from the editorship of the Literary Review of the New York Evening Post, will be the editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, which is announced for early publication. With him will be associated William Rose Benet and Miss Amy Loveman, formerly associated editors of the Literary Review, who have also resigned from that publication.

Christopher Morley, formerly conductor of "The Bowling Green" column in the Evening Post, will join the staff of the Saturday Review as contributing editor and will conduct a weekly column. "Kenelm Digby" of the Literary Review will contribute literary news and gossip. The Saturday Review will be published by Time, Inc., 236 East Thirty-ninth street.

Stokes publishes a new edition of "The Dance," by Troy and Margaret Kinney. It contains a new chapter devoted to developments in the art of dancing in the past ten years. The art of Pavlowa is discussed and the relative achievements and opportunities of the Metropolitan ballet and the Ballet de l'Opera in Paris. This is an important book for all who take the dance seriously either as an art or an amusement.

"The Romance of Plant Hunting," by Capt. F. Kingdom Ward, is published by Longmans, Green & Co. It tells the detailed story of collecting plants in various parts of the world, transporting, and acclimatizing them when they have reached their destination.

Charles Scribner's Sons report the second printing of "Ways of Peace," the volume edited by Esther Everett Lape which contains twenty plans selected from those submitted to the American Peace Award.

Second editions are now available of Frank Tatchell's "The Happy Traveler," that delightful semiguide book to Europe and the Orient, and of Thomas Mann's "Bashan and I," the story of a dog's relationship to his master, both published by Henry Holt & Co.

"Men of Earth" is a collection of short stories by Bernice Brown. The tales are done in a romantic fashion and deal with the farming people of the great States which lie along the shores of Lake Superior just beneath the Canadian border. The characters are the sons and grandsons of immigrants from Bohemia and the Scandinavian countries. Putmans publish this book.

The opinion of Dr. Edwin E. Slosson, confided to his publishers along with the manuscript, that his new book, "Chats on Science," contains some of the best writing he has ever done, is tangibly confirmed by the fact that selections from it have been used for two recent collections of models of journalistic prose: "Writing Today," edited by J. W. Cunliffe, director of the school of journalism, Columbia University, and G. R. Loman, University of Montreal; and "Essays on Current Themes," edited by C. Alphonso Smith of the department of English, United States Naval Academy, Annapolis.

A recent number of the China Press, a journal for English-speaking residents of China, reports as best sellers in the Shanghai bookshops "A Florentine Dagger," by Ben Hecht, for fiction and "A Plea for Monogamy," by Dr. Wilfred Lay, for nonfiction. Both are Boni & Liveright books.

John Galsworthy's play, "The Forest," one of the current London productions, has just been brought out in book form by Charles Scribner's Sons. It has been described as a "bitterly satirical attack on British imperialism in darkest Africa at the time of the Boer War." An unusual feature of the play is its division into two parts with two groups of characters, the first and fourth acts being set in the office of a London financier, while the second and third acts are concerned with the human lives which he is juggling in the African forest. As in George Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan," there is only one woman in the cast.

Stephan McKenna's new novel, "The Commandment of Moses," is, like his others, a study of a woman—this time of a superfluous woman and her unsatisfied emotions. The aftermath of the war, for this woman, is a secret which, if she reveals it to the man who loves her, she is afraid will prevent their marriage, and so she vacil-

POINCARE AND THE RUHR

In His "Poincare" Sisley Huddleston Gives us a Fasc Narrative in Which the Character of a Great International Figure is Set Forth

BY THOMAS F. FORD

POINCARE. A Biographical Portrait. By Sisley Huddleston. Little, Brown & Co., Boston.

Since the whole course of world history may be altered by some comparatively trivial event, so the entire course of a nation may be directed by a man who may or may not possess outstanding qualities. There are Frenchmen who will tell you that Poincare is nothing, Englishmen who sneer at Mr. Lloyd George, Americans who can see nothing good in any of Woodrow Wilson's contributions to either American or world progress. But be this as it may, the three men mentioned have influenced world events more powerfully in the past decade than any other three men in their generation.

This brings us to the query, what manner of man is this Raymond Poincare, whose personality has been one of the dominant factors in European diplomacy for more than a decade and whose resignation as Premier of France is effective today.

In a book of less than 200 pages the author not only gives a vivid pen picture of this man, but he illuminates the whole dark field of European diplomatic intrigue and the motives that lie behind the actions of the contending countries. In this connection it might be well to note that we have had this dark problem explored and illuminated by so many writers and from so many angles it is small wonder if we are a bit confused.

That grave mistakes have been made by European statesmen in the handling of the after-the-war problems that have arisen, is not to be questioned. Practically all of the nationalities have seen fit to misunderstand one another. The French and the English were probably the first to break from the fullest trust, affection and esteem, to suspicion and hatred of the most dangerous sort. Just to what extent their governments are responsible for this condition it would be hard to say, but it is safe indeed to assert that the moment the two governments began to find points of difference, this was quickly reflected in the press, and the press of a nation can, within a very limited space of time, change the entire attitude of one people toward another.

It is altogether probable that M. Poincare's place in history, at least in that of his own country, will be determined largely on his handling of the Ruhr situation. In this work M. Poincare is presented to us as a timid man, who takes drastic steps only in an extremity. Although he had for months before coming into the Cabinet as Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs, urged the taking of the Ruhr, he personally shrank from the step and was forced to go in ultimately only because of England's attitude on the interallied debts.

Poincare, like all men who hold in their hands the determination of national policies, was harried on all sides by extremists. The radicals were opposed to his policy in the Ruhr—not to his entry into the Ruhr, mind you—but because of his strictly nationalistic aims. The extreme conservatives were also opposed to his position because they conceived that it was not sufficiently nationalistic. No party, either the one following Tardieu, clamoring for more rigorous measures, nor yet the radicals led by Herriot, who demanded that a broader policy be proclaimed, would have for one moment countenanced the lessening of France's claims or a withdrawal until the proper guaranties and sanctions were given.

As to England's responsibility in the forcing of Poincare into the Ruhr the author book has this to say: " note (the Balfour note) trous. It was a closely document, and it would in other circumstances commend it. But Poincare' was not only directed to from Germany whatever pay, but was directed to from England an adjustmen ter-Allied debts. If Engla to press France, who was ing no payments from G France was compelled t to the worst form of pr on Germany. The Balfo was one of the chief de factors in the occupation Ruhr."

It is assumed by Mr. H that Poincare would glad to avoid going into t He had reasoned that a ture would force England go in with France or alternative, to offer some tion as to France's debts gland that would justify in refraining at the last from taking a step which very loathe to take. Poin it is said, hoped that th England seemed ready t the Ruhr move German surrender and give such of good faith as would victory for France. But hopes, England stood as while making no move France, washed her hands whole affair and later France's act by declaring and in violation of the V Treaty.

That Lloyd George is in ure responsible for P Ruhr policy is also shown had at one of the con stated flatly that if Ger not show a better spirit filling her obligations he "go into the Ruhr." This cynically said was a "bluf apparently the French sta thought that it was sinc he was misled by the wily man to his own confusion

That the Ruhr policy of was or is a mistake is, of a matter on which there ways be two opinions. certainly did deliberately payments which it has si shown that she could have Since there was a break triple-Entente, both Italy

INDEPENDENT ORDER OF FORESTERS

The smoker given by Court E. G. No. 33 last Tuesday evening was a greater success than usual. An unusually fine program was presented. The Los Angeles Newsboys' Club staged several miniature bouts that won for the little athletes hearty applause. "Billy" Miller and L. I. Pennock gave two rounds of scientific wrestling. Dave Morris and Ed Bishop staged a comedy boxing match that was a scream.

The dance given jointly by the Independent Order of Foresters' Dramatic Club and Soccer football team Wednesday evening was a pleasant affair and a social success.

THE HELPING HAND

"How far that little candle throws his rays! So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Hundreds of children in Indian schools on government reservations are for the first time in their young lives linked up with the pupils in over 30,000 white schools throughout the United States. This has come about through enrollment in the Junior Red Cross. To the more isolated Indian schools have been sent as gifts of the American Juniors small libraries and material for handwork such as beads, poster paper, yarns, paints and raffia. Articles are made from these by the Indian children and sent to the schools making the gifts possible.

It was discovered that there was a tendency in the reservation schools to copy modern commercial designs instead of utilizing the really beautiful art of the Indian tribes. To aid in perpetuating Indian art, the Red Cross has collected a number of good Indian designs and distributed them to both Indian and white schools for use in art, sewing and embroidery classes.

The Boston University School of Theology is out of debt. President Lemuel H. Murlin has announced a gift of $22,600 by Mrs. G. L. Richards of Brookline, daughter of Roswell R. Robinson, an associate founder of the university and donor of the Robinson Memorial Chapel at the School of Theology. This sum will allow payment of the entire debt of the school.

The Albia Women's Club has been given for its own uses the home at Albia of Gov. and Mrs. N. E. Kendall, valued at $15,000. It is one of the finest homes in this section, and while occupied by the Governor and his wife was the center of culture and hospitality. The club is to take possession at once.

The only known copy of the first Protestant Bible printed in Latin was given to the public library of Cambridge, Mass., recently by an anonymous friend.

Eighty-one Girl Scouts have helped to save the lives of others during the last four years, often at risk of their own lives, according to a statement issued by Mrs. Arthur O. Choate, chairman of the Standards Committee of the organization.

"Every one of the 160,000 Girl Scouts in the United States could turn into a heroine of service, such as these eighty-one, should circumstances require," she said. "We do not encourage foolish risk of life on the part of our Scouts, but all troops at one commuted time or another receive instructions in life-saving in case of drowning, fire and first aid."

New York and Massachusetts have four each who have won the bronze cross for heroism. Massachusetts has twelve silver medal holders, Pennsylvania eleven and New Jersey ten.

Ten Chicago high schools have swimming tanks and include swimming in their course of training.

Kansas State Teachers' College has more calls for teachers of music, with other high-school subjects, than for any other combination.

Sixteen thousand additional seats are to be provided for Chicago schoolchildren in 1924 by the erection of the sixteen buildings now under construction.

Home economics and agricultural classes co-operate at Trousdale, Kan. The boys killed and dressed a hog for a farmer, and the girls studied the cuts of meat in a very practical way.

In answer to the question, "What shall I do to be healthy?" the physical welfare department of the Cleveland schools has arranged a series of public lectures on food, health habits, and recreation.

A series of nature studies is broadcast each week from Pennsylvania State College. Studies of birds, trees and flowers, animals, insects, and even rock formations are included in these talks.

Copies of regulations for street safety distributed among the children of the Quincy School, Boston, not only helped the children to understand how to use the streets but were the means of helping their parents to learn some of the ways of their new country. The school is in a congested part of the city and includes children of thirty different nationalities.

refuse to lend their patronage to such a worthy cause.

Drink is an even more magical open sesame. Mrs. Van Rensselaer tells the following story:

"A war profiteer recently came to town with his wife and rented a suite at one of the most select hotels. There he found it easy to make friends with certain prominent men, by virtue of the excellent liquor which he had brought with him. Soon both he and his wife had breached the fragile barrier that now stands between New York society and the rest of the world. A year later, his wife was presented at the Court of Saint James' literally swept to these heights on a tidal wave of hooch."

With such stories as these the author explains how the climbers break in at Newport and on Long Island, as well as in New York. She also devotes an entire chapter to Washington, where the "Cave Dwellers" vie with the high and mighty of the government circles.

Finally, surveying the country as a whole, the author of "The Social Ladder" declares: "One can today buy, drink or dance one's way into society."

Mrs. Van Rensselaer turns the spot light not only on New York but on America's other aristocratic strongholds, including Virginia, Washington, South Carolina, New Jersey, Philadelphia. Of New England, she says:

"Excellent as were many of the qualities of the Mayflower's passenger, aristocracy was not among them.

"It is easy enough for a great many people to trace their lineage back to the folk who arrived at Plymouth in the Mayflower. It is much more difficult to find any record of the lineage of its passengers in the Old World."

A GROUP OF RECENT BOOKS

cocted from this material, and Joseph Gray Kitchell has made excellent use of it.

I'LL SHOW YOU THE TOWN. By Elmer Davis. Robert M. McBride & Co., New York.

This new novel, which has gone into a second printing within one week of publication, promises to be as popular as the author's previous novel, "Times Have Changed," a burlesque account of the difficulties of a domesticated young husband who for once escaped from his wife and her relatives and went to New York on his own.

The present novel is the story of a young man who attempted to show the sights of New York simultaneously to three susceptible young women. Mr. Davis doesn't in the least care how ridiculous he makes his situations, nor how far he stretches his readers' credulity. He sets things in motion and then steps on the gas. The result is a merry whirl of events from start to finish.

THE RIDDLE OF THE AMBER SHIP. By Mary E. and Thomas W. Hanshew. Doubleday, Page & Co., New York.

A new mystery tale by the Hanshews in which Cleek of the Forty Faces is assigned as guard of the son of a powerful Chinese official who is bringing with him to Oxford his priceless collection of unset jewels. Among them is a carved amber Chinese junk which once belonged to the sage Confucius. It was to be expected that the young Ching Loo would become the target of every ambitious cracksman in England, but even Cleek did not foresee the complicated intrigues and the trail of crimes that the little amber ship left in its wake. The story is the most puzzling mystery of Cleek's career.

POINCARE'S RUHR POLICY

gland showing a disposition to leave France in the lurch, it is small wonder that France in desperation took what seemed the only step open to her for the securing of her share of the reparations. She had good reason to be suspicious of the motives of the erstwhile Allies—even the United States treating her—at least from her standpoint—unfairly in refusing to ratify the Tri-partite Treaty promised by President Wilson; England pressing her boldly for her debts, and Italy, under the rule of Mussolini, acting in a manner to startle all Europe.

Since it seems fairly settled that M. Herriot, leader of the radical block in France, is to be Poincare's successor, it will be interesting to note what his policy with regard to the Ruhr will be. He is first of all an internationalist. J. Ramsey MacDonald, the new British Premier, is of like mind. This should at least augur well for the rapproachment of the two great peoples through the medium of having government leadership that can at least view the present problem from about the same angle.

This is a book that no student of international politics can afford to miss. Aside from its importance from this standpoint it is a fascinating narrative in which the character of a great international figure is set forth.

HUMAN MECHANICAL DOLL

To imitate the keen mimicry of a marionette has been the goal of many screen children. Possessed of an unusual understanding of the fine points of mimicry and comprehension of drama at its most dramatic is Jane Hughes. She is 5 years of age and has played parts in several recent productions of note, the most prominent of which was "No Mother To Guide Her."

RECENT DOINGS AMONG WRITERS

lates between the decision to tell, or not to tell. Little, Brown & Co. publish "The Commandment of Moses."

What a father's influence may be as well as a mother's is one of the subjects Dorothy Canfield discusses in her new novel, "The Home-Maker," just published by Harcourt, Brace & Co. This book is sure to cause the widest sort of discussion, ranging from the women in the country sewing circles who debate whether their husbands would act like the man in "The Home Maker," to the men and women who see a menace to the homes and families of the nation in the forces in our society which are insisting that the father be the money maker and the mother take all the responsibility for bringing up the children.

Florence Hackett, the author of "With Benefit of Clergy" (Boni & Liveright) is the sister of Francis Hackett, former editor of the New Republic, and of Byrne Hackett, proprietor of the Brick Row Book-shops of New York, New Haven and Princeton—the man who practically created the hobby of book collecting among American students.

George H. Green, B. Sc., who wrote "Psychanalysis in the Classroom," is the author of "The Mind in Action," which the Putnams issue. Prof. Green's new book deals in a clear and popular fashion with the workings of the mind and should hold an interest not only for students but for laymen as well.

The Holts announce that a new edition of Bertrand Russell's "Proposed Roads to Freedom" is now ready for distribution in conjunction with his lecture tour.

Federation Meets

A largely attended National Federation of Music Clubs board meeting was held in Kansas City recently. Clarence Gustlin, vice-chairman of the publicity department, whose name is familiar among Southern California musicians because of his musical activities locally and in Santa Ana, in a recent communication stated that practically all district officers and national chairmen were in attendance.

The influence of this meeting will be widespread, for it works directly with music teachers' associations throughout the United States. Its objects are the furthering of good music and the presentation of worthy American music and on a widespread scale.

Mr. Gustlin attended the Wisconsin State Convention during the last week, and also the premiere of the opera "Algeria" by Franco De Leone and Cecil Fanning at Akron, O. He proceeds to Pittsburg, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and other eastern points. Mr. Gustlin plans an extended tour next season, presenting piano recitals and American opera lecture recitals.

Honor Composer's Memory

Music lovers will find a touch of sadness in the concert program at Loew's State Theater this week, with the selection of several Victor Herbert melodies for a special overture, under Arthur Kay's baton. In memory of the late composer, with whom he was associated for many years, Kay has arranged the special overture.

A feature of the presentation surrounding "Boy of Mine" will be the engagement of Mildred Carroll and Olive Gray, known as the "Colonial Maids," two charming and beautiful young women, who have appeared with great success at the Capitol Theater in New York, and whose engagement promises a unique offering. Miss Carroll is a pianist and singer of ability, and Miss Gray is a violinist who possesses the gift of being at once a clever technician and a fine interpreter of music.

Namara Notable Success

Regarding Margarite Namara's debut at the Opera Comique, we translate literally from the Paris edition of the New York Herald: "Luster was added to California as the home of great singers by Marguerite Namara at the Paris Comique. She outrivaled the old memories of Sybil Sanderson. Her success was as sensational as that of Mary Garden in 1900, when she took Paris by storm."

Paris papers were as enthusiastic in their praise of the California songbird.

Egan, Irish Tenor, in Recital

Thomas Egan, opera and concert tenor, will appear at Trinity Auditorium next Sunday evening, featuring the classic songs of Thomas Moore, in commemoration of Moore's 145th birthday. The program will include, as well, a number of operatic and ballad selections. Mme. Lilian Breton of the Drury Lane Opera, London, will assist. This event will mark the tenor's reappearance on the Pacific Coast, after an absence of several seasons.

Egan's more recent activities have been confined to New York and the East, later engagements expanding into a transcontinental tour terminating at Los Angeles, as he has determined to carry out a resolution formed on his last visit to make his home here. The tenor has had unique opportunities of becoming acquainted with the wonder places of the world, for instance Naples with its unusual beautiful surroundings and also the Riviera, having appeared at Naples and also at Nice during two seasons of grand opera. He stated that neither of these localities surpass the coast of Southern California.

Schumann-Heink at Bowl

The Los Angeles County Council of the American Legion is making plans for an elaborate reception to Madame Schumann-Heink, when she appears in a concert at the Hollywood Bowl, Sunday afternoon, the 15th inst. This concert will be one of the smartest musical affairs ever arranged for music lovers of Southern California. The date set is the sixty-third birthday of the contralto.

Roberts Golden State Band has been engaged for the occasion. This band was formerly known as the Hollywood American Legion Band, and has won many prizes.

Hurlbut to Teach Here

Los Angeles will be the home for two months, of one of the country's leading vocal teachers, Harold Hurlbut, who has taught in Paris, Rome and Nice, as well as in New York, and who arrives here the 8th inst.

While in Nice, he was with the vocal authority, Jean De Reszke. He is the author of a well-known book on singing and represents the vocal teaching profession of New York in the New York Rotary Club.

His biweekly lectures on his famous topic "The Elimination of Tension and Forcing," are a feature of his entire New York season.

Will Teach Spanish Dances

Miss Nelly Fernandez will open a Spanish and Latin-American dancing studio at 2520 West Seventh street soon. She will teach all kinds of Spanish dances, among which will be the jota, fandango, bolero, and castanet playing. She will be assisted by Chevalier Duvrac, teacher of the tango to the King of Spain, and who was accorded great success at the Ambassador Hotel during the past five weeks.

Miss Fernandez brought a Spanish troupe of artists to this country. She danced five weeks at Philharmonic, and was a headliner on the Pantages circuit.

Tributes to Hubbard

The coming of Arthur J. Hubbard, vocal teacher of Boston, is awaited here with great interest by musicians. In a recent interview Charles Hackett said "Arthur Hubbard of Boston is the only teacher I have ever had. He gave me my foundation. I owe him all of my success here and abroad. Naturally I have worked hard and profited by experience. Hubbard is one of the most able, rational men I have ever met."

A tribute of similar nature was given in a letter from Roland Hayes, the negro tenor, who is proving such a sensation.

Student Recital

Dr. Adele Dorothy Lauth, head of the piano department of the Los Angeles branch of the Sherwood School, will present her younger pupils in a piano recital next Saturday afternoon at Chickering Hall. Pupils of Madame Dowdall, teacher of dancing, Harry Girard, voice, Dr. Maxwell and Eleanor Turley, dramatics, will assist.

Bloch in San Francisco

Ernest Bloch, eminent composer and director of the Cleveland Institute of Music, will offer a master course in conjunction with the San Francisco Conservatory of Music. The course will be designed to help the teacher and student to acquire a method for application in his own musical work, and emphasis will be laid on the study of masterpieces, and on aiding the student to develop his own powers and musical resources. Pedagogy, harmony, counterpoint, form and fugue will be the subjects taught.

Roman With Music College

The Davis Musical College announces that Alexander Roman, eminent violinist and teacher, will head their violin department. Mr. Roman has appeared before Los Angeles audiences as soloist with the Philharmonic Orchestra, and won a success that brought forth from both public and press the enthusiasm that had been created in this master's work before coming to this city. Mr. Roman studied with Leopold Auer. He is a graduate of the Petrograd Conservatory, was later concert-master of the Imperial Opera Orchestra of Moscow, and appeared as soloist with the greatest orchestras of this country. This places the department of violin in the hands of one of the greatest masters obtainable today. He brings to the college an undisputable ability in all forms of technical requirements.

The ensemble work of the college is progressing satisfactorily, and instead of one quintet, there are now two, both of which will enjoy a prominent share of public attention.

A number of public recitals will mark the closing of the spring term, and at the same time will serve as introduction to the summer course.

GIVES STORY OF SONG ON SCREEN

David Pesetzki

One of the novelty features of the California Theater program this week is the appearance of David Pesetzki, a Russian pianist, who will play Siloti's Russian love melody, "Sonia's Song."

"Sonia's Song" is presented on the screen first as a picture which tells the story surrounding the song. Pesetzki is seen as the hero, Sascha, who has composed a song for his sweetheart Sonia. They are separated by the war but become reunited by the melody.

At the end of the picture Pesetzki appears on the stage and plays the song.

Pesetzki is well known in musical circles in the East where he has played as soloist with many of the big orchestras. He received his musical education in Europe, and has toured throughout the continent. His appearance at the California Theater marks his local debut.

NEWEST VIOLINIST SHOWS FINE STYLE

Cecilia Hansen, Danish by ancestry, an Auer graduate and classmate of Heifetz, must be heard if one intends to keep up with violin virtuosity. Her first record includes Brahms B minor "Hungarian Dance" and Vieuxtemps "Rondino." Both are capricious pieces, revealing the player as possessing a splendid tone, splendid technique and an amazing breadth of style. (Victor.)

"I Like My Own Home Town," sings the Scottish song-chieftan in a record full of Northland philosophy, almost military in its musical precision. "Love Makes the World a Merry-Go-Round," on the other side is a cheerful version of a mooted point. They are sung with Sir Harry Lauder's usual broad optimism and good humor. (Victor.)

Concert sopranos from Portland, Me., to Portland, Or., have sought to claim for their own two favorite songs of Indian origin, "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water" and "Waters of Minnetonka." An instrumental combination has played these tuneful Indian folk-melodies with such charm that the voice is not missed. The harp, violin and flute ripple like a musical forest stream in these "songs of water." (Vocalion.)

"Listen to the Mocking Bird" is a curious blend of cheeriness and melancholy. It is sometimes asserted to be the most popular song ever composed in America. Alice Green and Raymond Dixon have made a record of it, with whistling effects by Miss Uintah Masterman. It makes a charming record, "Nightingale Song" which Della Baker sings on the other side is also well known and well sung. (Victor.)

We have a stirring record in "Reminiscences of Scotland"—with reminiscences on both sides, played by the H. M. First Life Guards. The most famous Scotch airs are medlied. (Vocalion.)

NEW MUSIC IN REVIEW

"The Old Chisholm Trail," a song of the cattle trail, with music arranged and composed by Oscar Fox (Fischer.) From "Cowboy Songs and Other Frontier Ballads," collected by John A. Lomax (Macmillan.) With a horse-galloping accompaniment the song swings leisurely, as if singing itself, with cowboy yells and cowboy sentiment and cowboy psychology written in every line. A man or a boy, or even a soprano, might thoroughly enjoy this masterpiece of the open air. For one forgets it is music and longs for the outdoors when it is heard.

"Butterflies in Summer," by Allison Travers (Boosey & Co.) As free and unrestrained as the winged insects which are its inspiration, this pleasant melody in E-flat, 6-8 rhythm, is thoroughly attractive. The accompaniment also is one of those bits that are a perfect background to the musical sentiment.

"Drumadoon," by Wilfred Sanderson (Boosey.)

> "The little roads of Drumadoon
> Go stumbling through the moors,
> The crazy ways, the lazy ways,
> That once were mine and yours."

run the lines of this song of lonely Drumadoon of Arran. Melancholy, dreamy, imaginative, the song fits in just where the mood appeals. It is a heart song, well written, singable and playable. Reginald Werrenrath is making the number popular.

VIOLIN

"Nocturne, in C-major, Op. 62, No. 1," by Chopin, arranged by Kochanski (Fischer.) Here is a fine arrangement of a beautiful number. It is written for a finished player and abounds in many difficulties.

PIANO

"The Harvest Festival," a barn dance by Wilbur R. Chenoweth (Fischer.) This number will appeal to many pianists; others will wonder wherein lies the charm. In 4-4 dance rhythm, it is rather boisterous, happy and of a pleasant turn. It is not unusually difficult, and would appeal to the boy player of fair accomplishments.

"Old Tunes for Young Pianists," third book of American Academic Series," collected and arranged by Earl Prahl. The objection of the writer to such a book is in its title rather than its contents. The numbers do not, as a rule, appeal to young pianists. Included in the collection, which is nicely edited and well gotten out, are airs and bourees and folktunes from a variety of countries by such writers as Handel, Bach, Schumann and Tschaikowsky. These same writers have written more attractive material for students and the numbers under discussion do not appeal nor create musicians if they are forced upon too youthful performers. They are splendid for an appreciation of the classic style in easy numbers for the older student.

Star Shines in Domestic Atmosphere

Edna Murphy, whose beauty and charm are one of the many reasons for seeing "The King of Wild Horses," which opened yesterday its second week at the Miller Theater, lives in a cosy little house on a quiet street—in Hollywood! There is an air of quaintness about the place—no array of servants and no pretense. She resides with her widowed father, whom she calls "Murph." They are like two children together. Naturally "Murph" thinks his Edna is "some colleen."

Edna Murphy curls her own lovely brown hair by brushing it around her finger. She drives her own car and answers her own fan letters. She is never too tired to appear in person, if in behalf of charity. She lives an uneventful existence, happy in her screen work and devoted to "Murph."

As an example of the unfairly maligned motion-picture actress, some reformers, who seem to delight in scattering reports to the winds, should meet Edna Murphy.

CHARACTER PARTS

Characterization is the supreme forte of Shannon Day. She has played everything from a boy to a south sea dancer, from a city waif to a society dame. Her most recent work was in the "Information Kid" series, which was written by Garald Beaumont.

"TORNADO" IS BEGUN

House Peters has arrived at Universal City and will start immediately "The Tornado," by Lincoln J. Carter, under the direction of King Baggot.

ECHOES OF MUSIC ACTIVITY HERE

Nell Lockwood presented a costume program for the Uplands Woman's Club last Tuesday. She was assisted by Helen L. Gale, accompanist.

Edouard Deru, violinist, will hold a summer master class at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music. One artist's scholarship is to be given.

Mme. Grace Whistler, contralto, was guest of honor at a musicale given by Mrs. Samuel D. Barnes at the Regent a short time ago. Mme. Whistler sang old French and Italian songs and English ballads.

As a Glendale delegate to the Music Federation State Convention held at Berkeley, Gertrude Cleophas, pianist, was heard in solos at the Hotel Claremont.

A recital by pupils of Miss Ruth Behnke, piano teacher of Whittier, was given in that city at the Woman's Clubhouse last Thursday.

A delightful afternoon is being anticipated by the students of the Nature Music School, who have been invited to a musical reception given by Mother Goose and her friends. Each child has chosen some Mother Goose or famous story book character and will come dressed to represent the part. A program of original compositions written by the pupils to represent the character they impersonate will be rendered.

America's bird whistling chorus gave an entertaining concert aboard the U.S.S. Maryland at San Pedro Tuesday evening. The program consisted of numbers by the chorus, whistling solos by Margaret Taylor, Helen Ward and the Nightingale Whistling Trio, violin solos by Sylvia Harding and vocal solos by Minnie Dunker. The whistlers and assisting artists received applause from an audience of 900 sailors and officers aboard. Towers, turrets, life boats and every available space was crowded to the limit.

One of the most popular musical and dramatical organizations in Los Angeles is composed of artist-pupils of the Marion Warde Dramatic School. Appearances at theaters, lodge and club affairs, over the radio and entertaining the officers and men of the U.S.S. Arizona are but a part of the work of Marion Warde's teachers and student players. Among those who may be mentioned as contributing to the artistic success of this organization are Elvira Tanzi, Walter Farnum, Jr., Percy Challenger, Paul Parker, May Walters, Dorothy Gregg, Helen Smallberg, Dorothy Salisbury, John Morgan, Winona Berg, Elizabeth Kramer, Victor Fisher and Pearl Figueras.

Foreign Tale to be Filmed on Home Lot

Edwin Carewe's next production for First National release will be "Madonna of the Streets," adapted from the novel "The Ragged Messenger," by W. B. Maxwell, an English author.

This story was obtained by Carewe on a recent trip abroad, at which time he filmed "A Son of the Sahara" in Algiers and Paris. Though this story, like the desert tale, has a foreign background, the director does not comtemplate a trip to England for the exteriors. All of it will be filmed at the United Studios.

"Madonna of the Streets," which is a tentative title, will be Carewe's fifth First National release. They are in order of production, "Mighty Lak a Rose," "The Girl of the Golden West," "The Bad Man," "A Son of the Sahara" and the one to go into production. All of the stories have been of different locales and each has had an all-star cast.

Carewe is now negotiating with two celebrated players of the silent drama to obtain them for the leads. As in Carewe's recent pictures, these two players will be surrounded by a cast of the most capable artists.

HAD TO GO EAST TO WIN FORTUNE

Jacqueline Drew

It took New York to discover the ability of a Los Angeles entertainer. For several years Jacqueline Drew sought to win a place in the local spotlight but was unsuccessful.

Abandoning hope of making good here, Miss Drew went to New York, where in a few weeks' time she was engaged for Irving Berlin's Music Box Revue. She appeared with the show for a season.

While vacationing at the home of her parents here she was persuaded by Fanchon to appear as one of the principals in "Frivolities," the revue at the Plantation. For several weeks Miss Drew has been one of the hits of this production.

DIRECTOR TURNS ACTOR

Phillips Smalley, known in film circles as a director, is making a name in parts calling for prosperous, good-natured business men. In "Single Wives," he has a role, similar to his characterization in "Flaming Youth."

OLD FIRM—NEW LINE

Potash and Perlmutter Launch Into Hollywood Venture

Abe Potash and Mawruss Perlmutter are about to turn Hollywood inside out:

It is their opinion that everybody nowadays has two businesses—his regular business and the moving-picture business.

Accordingly, Samuel Goldwyn is furthering their ambitions by launching the production of "Potash and Perlmutter in Hollywood," which will be a filmization of Montague Glass's story adapted to the screen by Frances Marion. It is expected that the feature will be under way the first week in June.

George Sidney, well-known stage actor, will play the part of Abe Potash, and Alexander Carr will characterize Mawruss Perlmutter. Other prominent players are Vera Gordon, Betty Blythe, Anders Randolf, Peggy Shaw and Charles Meredith. Al Green will direct the production.

FINDS NATIONALITY SOMEWHAT MIXED

Appearing concurrently as a Frenchman, an Arab and a Cuban, Brandon Hurst is now an Italian. Hurst maintains that for an Englishman who has chosen America as his place of residence, his connection with nationalities calls for the agility of a chameleon. Hurst, who left the spoken stage for the silent drama, spent a full year on two pictures—Wallace Worsley's "Hunchback of Notre Dame," in which he was a Frenchman, then in Douglas Fairbanks's "Thief of Bagdad," as an Arab, followed by Samuel Goldwyn's "Cytherea—Goddess of Love," in which he was a Cuban, and now he is an Italian government agent in "One Night in Rome."

Hurst has just been named in the cast for the screen version of the J. Hartley Manners's stage play in which Manners's wife, Laurette Taylor scored such a hit.

Firm, Plump Flesh!

MANY are the eyes that are turned to gaze with keen admiration on the well developed, healthy girl no matter where she may be—on the rapidly moving thoroughfare or gliding gracefully over the dance floor.

All eyes turn because we all appreciate the girl with the figure so firm and plump—the girl with radiantly red cheeks, cheeks that carry a touch of roses from nature's own garden—the girl with the sparkling eyes, keen and sharp—the girl with buoyancy and the swing of youth.

Not necessarily an out-of-doors girl. Just a girl with ever increasing blood cells. Just a girl filled with the vim and vigor of youth.

S. S. S., since 1826, has stood for increased blood cells. S. S. S. means restored strength—rekindled vitality—added energy. Take S. S. S. and watch the bloom of youth return to your cheeks. Watch that flabby, ill nourished flesh fade away before flesh that is firm and plump. Red blood cells will do it and S. S. S. will build them. It contains only pure vegetable ingredients. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size bottle is more economical.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Read How Mrs. Walsh Was Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mannington, W. Virginia.—"I took the Vegetable Compound when having the turn of life. I had been sick for seven years. I would get a little better, then I broke down again. It would be hard for me to describe how I was, for I was a perfect wreck. I suffered with a pain in my left side, then I would have numb spells, and I would think I couldn't live. I would have hot flashes, then would come weak spells. I was so weak I would think I couldn't ever get a meal ready. My work was a burden to me. I was not able to do my housework half of the time. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has given me strength and health. The hot flashes left me and I got better of the numb spells. That summer I could do my housework and worked in the garden a good bit. I tell all sick women what your wonderful medicine did for me, and will always recommend it. I am known to all my neighbors, and you can publish this statement because it is true."—Mrs. JOHN W. WALSH, R. No. 1, Box 36, Mannington, West Virginia.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.—[Advertisement.

Soft, Curly Wavy Hair Now Easy to Have

Beautiful, fluffy, natural-looking curls or waves, without the use of the ruinous curling iron, are now possible for every woman. Yes, not only possible, but very easily and quickly acquired, and with benefit to the life and health of the hair. It is only necessary to apply a little liquid silmerine before doing up the hair, using a clean tooth brush for the purpose. The hair will have a most delightful curliness and lustre, without the least suggestion of grease or stickiness, and will be quite controllable, whether long, bobbed or shingled. As a few ounces of liquid silmerine from the druggist will last for months, it is economical to use.—[Advertisement.

THE LAYMAN'S CORNER

(Too often an art-review, couched in terms peculiar to artists, discourages the busy layman who would like to understand more about art and artists. The editor invites each week a brief article from art-lovers, aimed to give the layman, in his own language, a better understanding of the nature and importance of art.—Ed.)

Business men have often astonished me, when pointing at some painting, they remark vehemently, "If I could do that I would drop my business tomorrow." Why should men in the midst of interesting and busy lives, wish to follow the precarious life of the artist? What is their impulse?

All human beings feel inarticulate until they are able to give some form of the feelings aroused in them by their experiences. Primitive man, returning from the day's struggle with wild beasts, carved crude incisions on the wall of his cave. "Wolf," he said, "there's Mr. Wolf." And to this day there is Mr. Wolf to the life. What he saw aroused such a strong emotion that he strove to give it a permanent form. He sought less to copy the wolf than to represent feelings aroused by his encounter with Mr. Wolf, and consequently there is more conviction in those crude lines he cut with stone hammer and flint chisel, than in a carefully copied figure of a wolf by a modern man, to whom a wolf is merely an interesting animal in a cage.

You cannot speak without using words, yet words are only a means to convey your emotions. The artist is really trying to paint the emotions aroused in him by what he sees, but as no one can paint emotions, he uses form and color as all of us use words. Thus you might say he uses the "form-and-color" language, and just as a whole new world of thought is opened to us when we learn a foreign tongue, so, when we learn the artist's language of form and color, a new world of emotional experience lies open to us. As we can reap nothing from life, but experience, it becomes plain that a knowledge of art is worth any trouble we must take to acquire it, for it is bound to result in a wider and richer life.

JUST A QUESTION; WHAT'S THE ANSWER?

Three visits to the "Painters of the West" exhibition, now in progress at the Biltmore Salon, have aroused a train of thought which I am unable to quiet; so before we settle down in orderly fashion to write about the pictures, I propose to commit the troublesome idea to print.

The exhibition is thoroughly representative of the artists whose names appear upon the catalogue, and in consequence, is a very good show, but it prompts me to the following question:

Do "Painters of the West" dislike "modernism"?

If the organization had not set forth on such a big undertaking, it would be immaterial whether they liked "modernism" or not, but a perusal of the following paragraphs from their official publicity, convince me that all who are interested in those art tendencies which are true children of the twentieth century, are entitled to some enlightenment on what they cannot but believe to be a matter vital to art.

"Painters of the West . . . dedicated to the advancement of western art aims . . . to stimulate interest and appreciation in the art of representative painters of the West who are rapidly forming the nucleus of a distinctive American school of painting."

"It is the object furthermore of this organization to co-operate with the growing art development and necessities of . . . Southern California to the fullest extent . . . It is the desire and purpose of this body of men to offer their wide experience and judgment in regard to the important art development of which Los Angeles is rapidly becoming the center."

The writer has no personal ax to grind here as his medium of art expression is not, to any appreciable extent, paint, neither can his work be said to betray any noticeable "modern" tendencies. But as critic, and one keenly interested in all development of art, he feels his question deserves an answer.

A wonderful opportunity is before the "Painters of the West." They have their headquarters in a gallery where pictures are chosen by a committee, the majority of whom are artists. Their exhibitions are avowedly to be representative of the best in western art. They reach a cosmopolitan public untouched by any other gallery, and they can easily assemble a group of paintings which will acquaint Los Angeles and America with the whole gamut of western art.

The question which many of us would like to see answered in this column is: "Are the modernistic painters, such as the best men of the New Mexico group, considered representative western painters by this organization?"

FIRST EXHIBITION PAINTERS OF WEST

First numbered, in the very attractive catalogue adorned by Carl Oscar Borg's effective eagle design, are two canvases by Thomas Moran, N. A., honorary member Painters of the West and dean of western painters. It is something of a surprise to know that an artist still worked in this tradition as late as 1919—the date on one of the pictures—but a less casual glance reveals the imagination and the knowledge expressed in this work. How well this man knows color and form and what goes to the making of a picture. The dream-cliffs of Yellowstone Canyon against the Japanesque foreground with its solitary pine tree are not easily forgotten.

Gottardo Piazzoni's picture "The Haymakers," despite the fact that unsatisfactory lighting hides its subtleties, is a remarkable work of art. It is not always the noisiest horn that plays the finest music, and this simple and sincere painter, far removed from the original sources of French impressionism, has developed for himself a science of color vibration which gives enduring life to very personal visions. The placing of the figures and wagon, the masterly grasp of form displayed in the bulk of the sun-burnt hill, and the living tone of the whole canvas, reveal a painter who has something to say and an adequate equipment with which to say it.

Maynard Dixon shows two strongly felt and well executed works. In "The Survivors" the age and desolation of the bison herd is finely echoed by the down-flowing rhythm of yellow sand from the flat-topped and endlessly horizontal desert buttes. "In Tragic Mood," provides a superb setting for a noble female figure. The whole West is behind her in a masterly design of mountain wall and sky pattern. The effect is heightened by the abstract treatment of this immense stage for the inescapable gesture of all walkers on lonely ledges.

Guy Rose shows a stirringly alive marine, a fine example of his art. Armin Hansen's large green-gray "Seaward" shows this masculine painter in his characteristic blend of bold draughtsman and subtle colorist, a viking setting to sea with Monterey fishermen.

Cornelius Botke's "Moonlight Grove" is drenched with California feeling. Dewitt Parshall N. A. attained rare color, tawny gold, blue and purple in "Gaviota Ledges." "Jack Wilkinson Smith" shows a fine example of his High Sierra painting, "The Land of the Skyblue Water," and ventures on a new tack in "The Toll of the Sea."

John Frost's "The Desert Rat" tells a story in fine color and unusually poignant drawing, and Clyde Forsythe appears in a new and imaginative mood with "Music of the Winds." Hanson Puthuff's "Spirit of Dawn" is very gracefully composed and Aaron Kilpatrick has yet to surpass the "White Sycamore" for charm and pictorial quality. Franz Bischoff in "Lo, Gentle Spring Returns Again" shows himself a delicate and sincere poet able to carry his impulse through to completion, without drying up under a difficult and patient technique.

Arthur Hazard shows a sympathetic portrait of Mrs. Charles B. Hervey, the rich color of the materials forming an excellent foil for the dreamy feminine face, and Max Wieczorek's "Joana" has a fine spirituelle quality.

Frank Tenney Johnson and Charles M. Russell exhibit stirring episodes of old frontier life, William Wendt A. N. A. shows two good California landscapes, and Robert Vonnoh N. A. is represented by "Grez" and "Tender Days."

George Townsend Cole's "Navajo Country" catches remarkably the spirit of that vast and unbelievable land, modeled by earthquake, rain and wind. This seems to me one of the finest works from his brush that I remember having seen.

Other painters whose works you will enjoy are Charles P. Austin, Carl Oscar Borg, Maurice Braun, Benjamin C. Brown, Edgar Keller, Jean Mannheim, Douglass Parshall, Edgar Payne, John Hubbard Rich, whose still-life makes a fine color note in the exhibition, and Orrin White, who shows one of his lively Mexican pictures.

FERENC IMREY AT BARKER BROTHERS

Imrey's paintings have been reviewed during previous exhibitions, but on seeing them again in Barker Brothers' intimate gallery I find they get better and better on closer acquaintance.

The Japanese water colors have a peculiar charm, no little part of which is due to the great mastery the artist has gained over this difficult medium. "Kyota Honnenji Bell Tower and Treasury" is particularly fine in color and composition.

Among the symbolical paintings "The Devil" is a full conception, as interesting to study as a German "Little Master." "Prophet on the Desert," "Hope" and "The Snow Princess" are others which particularly pleased me.

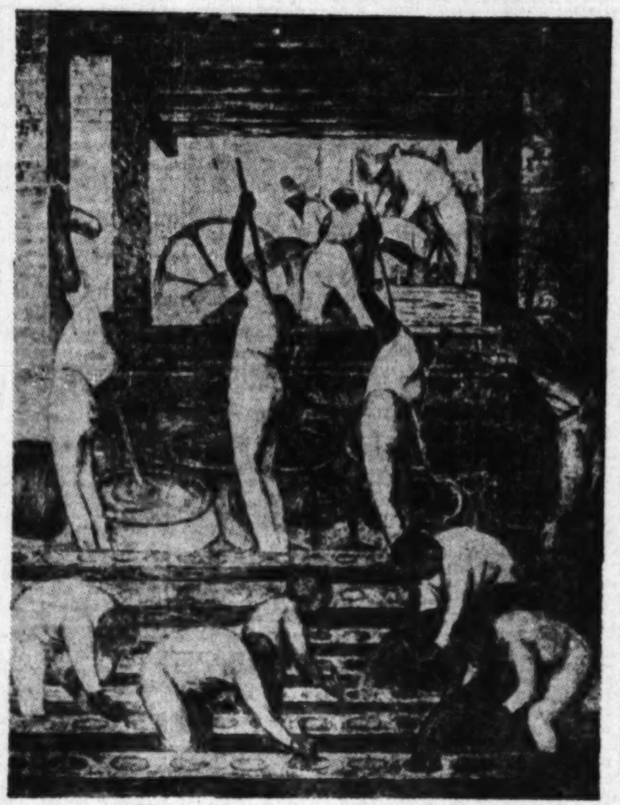
The gallery offers you a most satisfactory atmosphere in which these paintings repay close study. The exhibition continues until June 14.

William Silva Exhibits

The Ebell Club, as one of its most interesting offerings for the visitors to the biennial convention, is holding an exhibition of paintings by William Silva of Carmel by the Sea.

Friday Morning Club

Paintings and etchings by California artists form the exhibition in the charming gallery at the new Friday Morning clubhouse. Mrs. Randall Hutchinson has assembled a fine collection to show the visiting women what California can do in art.



"Metal Workers" by Diego Rivera

One of the murals in the Ministry of Education, Mexico City.

In Glendale

Arthur Hill Gilbert's paintings are hanging in the art gallery of the Tuesday Morning Club in Glendale for two weeks.

Wieczorek's Memory Fails

To whom it may concern: Max Wieczorek would appreciate it if his portrait study, "Snow White," a portrait of an old lady which he loaned to some club, school or library in this city or some neighboring town, would be returned to his new studio, 1007 South Grand avenue, at an early date. He failed to make a record of this loan and needs the picture.

Artist Passes On

Her many friends will be grieved to hear that Emily C. White, miniature and marine painter of Laguna Beach, died recently in that city. The late artist was a sister of Nona L. White of Pasadena.

Return of Cuthbert Homan

Cuthbert Homan, who has done excellent work as Art Director of the San Diego Museum, has resigned his position and is now in Los Angeles taking a much needed rest. Mr. Homan established the Art Center in Balboa Park, an institution unique in California. His many friends in San Diego will miss his leadership at the gallery.

Mexican Mural Paintings

Inspired by the painter, Diego Rivera, a guild of painters and sculptors are working together, decorating the Preparatory School and the Ministry of Education in Mexico City. They are painting a series of murals representing the history of the Mexican people. The murals aroused a storm of criticism from many sources, as they dealt with the realities of Mexican history and not with the "pretties" which the ignorant suppose to be the province of art. The result of this unsought publicity was that the public came to see the much criticised murals; to quote Rivera: "The middle class came to scoff and laugh, the very sophisticated and prepared minds to enjoy; and the simple, honest Indian, finding there something recognizable and human, came to love the paintings." The paintings, many of which deal with the industries of the country, offer a suggestion as to what might be done to decorate this city's new Civic Center.

The SLEEP of the JUST

A CLEAR conscience is a useful adjunct to a good night's rest, but the kind of bed many people take their nightly rest upon is sufficient to wreck the most well-intentioned conscience in the world if given time. Sleeping on the wrong kind of mattress and springs is wasteful of energy, health and disposition.

THE springs are the foundation of all comfort and relaxation in the correct sleeping equipment and people of different weight should have springs of different tensions. The right kind of mattress is equally important—one kind of filling material in a mattress being ideal for one type of person and entirely wrong for another. Ask our experts to explain fully these facts.

BARKER BROS'. Scientific "Individualized" Springs and Mattresses bring relaxation because they are built to carry the body in correct alignment, to give sufficent support at every point, no matter what the position of the sleeper, and, being made in various styles especially for different types of individuals, they meet particular requirements of weight, age, condition of health and personal preference.

"The Limit of Luxury—Yet Not High Priced"

Hindered Relaxation

This cramped position, caused by the sagging, hammock-shaped bed, results in tension on millions of nerves, and is the greatest cause of unrefreshing sleep.

Perfect Relaxation

Here the body rests in its natural curves, no matter what the position of the sleeper, because the springs and mattress insure perfect fitting qualities and complete relaxation.

SMOKED ART IN CHICAGO

"Times" Critic Decides Reason Windy City Has Skyscrapers Is That Sky Needs Scraping

BY ANTONY ANDERSON

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE]

CHICAGO, May 23.—Was it fatuity or faith that impelled me to start out from Los Angeles for Chicago with a new straw hat on my head instead of the traditional cap? A little of both, perhaps. Summer was so gloriously rampant in Southern California, I had lived in this warm radiance for so many untroubled years, that I had quite forgotten the warring of elements in less-favored parts of the world. My sweet content may be measured by the fact that I had even forgotten the mercurical temperament of the Windy City, my home, through much hot and more cold, for twelve long years.

It rained a little when our train drew into Chicago. I liked that, for it heralded a genuine homecoming. It blew a bit when I approached the dark, dingy and impressive stone quardrangles of the Art Institute, my heart missing a few of its accustomed beats, for this imposing presence was my Alma Mater. I liked the rain, too, since that has been one of the infrequent luxuries of my life for the last twenty years. But the rain stopped in time, and my straw hat was safe. The wind frisked up into a little gale, cold and stimulating, and clouds of smoke and grit blinded and suffocated me. Chicago.

After hundreds of miles of Main street and Spoon River, this was what I got. But before Chicago there had been Northern Nebraska and Omaha, long reaches of spring in the Middle West, farms in the rich perfection of grass in full blade, wheat fields starting, lilacs in bloom. Beauty, beauty everywhere. This had been my real homecoming, after all, and in a few weeks Chicago itself would vie with Omaha to make me glad, if I decided to remain. East is East and West is West, and, when all is said, both are good. On your return from many wanderings, Chicago weeps on your shoulder. When you come back to Los Angeles, that hustling Californian merely smiles and laughs, and straightway proceeds about her innumerable more important affairs. The next day she hugs you close and murmurs her joy in having you back again.

But Alma Mater has been kept waiting. Pardon, dear lady, the garrulities of a sentimentalist. 'Twas you, and no other, that started the stream of emotion. For you were, in truth, a fostering mother, guiding my first uncertain footsens in art, placing the first stick of charcoal, the first brush, into my hand, and then gently rapping my clumsy fingers. You taught me to feel, to think and to see. You opened the book of beauty on the very day that you took me into your sheltering arms, turning a new leaf every day. You set me tasks so difficult that they, coupled with my grinding work in an office on State street, tensed my nerves to the breaking point and just a little beyond. They finally broke. So I set out for California in search of repairs. Los Angeles smiled her smile of welcome and mended those broken nerves on the spot. 'Twas magic. Alma Mater and Old Office, I hereby thank you both for what you did for me.

The Chicago Art Institute has become a veritable palace of art. I suppose that the world contains no other art school quite so complete in every detail. Its interior is a labyrinth of corridors leading into classrooms, lecture-rooms, clubrooms, galleries anr museums. A student of art might wander and study in these cubicles and these galleries all his life long, always something new. They are stocked with art treasures, new and old, from everywhere, and when they become over-crowded new cubicles are built, still the Chicago Art Institute now reaches over the tracks of the Illinois Central Railway, obliterating an eyesore that had festered since the very day that the sloughs and swamps along Lake Michigan had been filled in that the pioneers might start a skyscraping Chicago. (Believe me, the skies need scraping.)

My Alma Mater has indeed grown into matronly proportions, and, after twenty years of absence, I am inordinately proud of her massive girth, especially as she has never forgotten to keep strictly up-to-date in appearance and vestitude. She is handsome, suberbly good looking, and her increasing dignity has not robbed her of her old-time gentleness. Her children of today look blooming and happy—but let us hope that not one of them works in an office in his leisure hours.

The roll call of men and women, once young and ambitious pupils of the Chicago Art Institute, who have won honors as painters, sculptors and illustrators is a long one. Outside the entrance to the offices of the school hangs a landscape in subtle grays by William Harper, and I was at once reminded that Harper used to attend the same portrait classes that I did, under Freer, Von Saltza and Pauline Dohn. Harper was a fine looking young negro of unusual talent who paid his way by acting as janitor for the school. I learned that a few years ago he contracted tuberculosis of the lungs, and that he died in Arizona. He and H. O. Tanner are of the few Americans of negro blood who have attained to eminence as painters.

When I announced who I was and what I came for, in the office, I was received with open arms. Was I enrolled as an alumnus? If not, I was to consider the ceremony performed then and there. Did I want to visit the galleries? If so, here's the pass. From Los Angeles? Then did I know Edouard Vysekal, and Luvena Buchanan Vysekal and Ella Buchanan, former pupils and instructors of the school. I proudly admitted that I knew them all, and that Edouard had not only won honors at the Chicago Art Institute exhibitions, but last year walked away with the California Art Club's prize, that Luvena took one of the Western Painters' prizes this spring and Edouard taught in the Otis Art Institute, and that Ella had a studio out Hollywood way. (All in one breath, just like that.) And Roscoe Shrader, another pupil of the Institute—how about him? Oh, well, Roscoe is simply the director of the Otis. I was getting careless and cocky. Apparently most of the young blood of the Institute had been transferred to the Otis.

And didn't my new fellow-alumni ask about William Wendt and Julia Bracken Wendt, painter and sculptor and beloved of and West alike, and . jea claimed by both? Indeed did, and I told them all I

MANY thousands of yards of sheer, cool fabrics, for summer lingerie or summer frocks—some of them delicately tinted, others in white only, are offering surprisingly low sale prices.

1000 Yards of Imported Swiss Organdie, of permanent finish and in white only, for graduation frocks and for collar and cuff sets. It is 45 inches in width and priced at just 65c a yard.

Imported French Voile, of a beautiful sheer quality. In white only. 36 inches in width and priced at 85c a yard.

SECOND FLOOR

Real Filet Laces Take Low Prices

THE delicate beauty of Real Laces rightly takes a prominent place in the June White Sales.

For the simple reason that White Lace trimmed Frocks will have a prominent place in the summer mode—and these Laces are so low priced that they would make such a frock possible at an amazingly small cost.

They are in the loose mesh which adapts itself particularly well to trimming for frocks. And include both edgings and insertions in many beautiful designs.

Widths from ½ to 5 inches will be available—at these low prices: 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c.

FIRST FLOOR

Handkerchiefs Embroidered $2.25—$3.50 a Dozen

DURING the June White Sales, Robinson's will do embroidering of initials, monogram or full name on Handkerchiefs priced much lower than usual.

Women's handkerchiefs, of linen, purchased at $2.25 a dozen or more, will be embroidered without any extra charge, if a dozen are purchased.

Men's Handkerchiefs of pure linen owning the low price of $3.50 a dozen, will be embroidered also, without charge, if a dozen are purchased.

Handkerchiefs higher in price may also be ordered for embroidering with no extra charge involved—when purchased by the dozen.

FIRST FLOOR

1000 Pairs of Long Silk Gloves, $1.95

THE Glove Section contributes to the June White Sales, an exceptional item—1000 pairs of women's long Silk Gloves, in white and in colors—greatly underpriced.

These gloves are all of a well-known make, in novelty styles. Some boast tiny tuckings and rufflings, others rows of shirred silk or embroidery in lovely designs.

In white, pongee, mode, gray and beaver. And in the group there are all sizes, both large and small.

For the June Sales, each pair at just $1.95.

FIRST FLOOR

Handmade Blouses Only $4.75 for The White Sales

REGULARLY priced higher, and worth more, 100 Handmade Voile Blouses enter the June White Sales at a specially conceded price.

SALESMEN.

A PLAIN STORY FOR SALESMEN.

Eleven men, each of them conspicuous successes in their respective fields of business, recently grouped themselves together to inaugurate and conduct an enterprise that promises to be an exceedingly influential factor in the industry it affects and world-wide in its scope, and which promises also to make a great deal of money for all those connected with it.

These men have now placed themselves in a position where they can admit into partnership with them in their enterprise other representative men of standing whose personal activities are not required but whose funds will be welcomed in the development of the undertaking on a large scale.

The Corporation that has been formed and of which these eleven men are the head is capitalized at $2,000,000; in other words, of such size and importance as to warrant the admission of a goodly number of additional shareholders. Invitations are being sent by the Board of Directors to many gentlemen in the city whose desirability as shareholders is unquestioned. It is a manufacturing proposition and the prospective profits are such as to make an instant appeal to the more intelligent business men in any community.

Several men are required, preferably with selling experience, to call on prospective investors in the Corporation's stock and to lay before them the proposal in detail.

A plan has been perfected by which such men are to be thoroughly acquainted with the enterprise from every angle, by which their work is to be conducted with the epitome of dignity and self-respect, by which their association with the enterprise may be made permanent, if they so desire, and by which they will be generously recompensed weekly in proportion to the successful outcome of their endeavors.

A proposition of unusual merit, which will stand the acid test of the most rigid investigation. This we can prove to you. It is your duty to call on us and not miss this opportunity. Our proposition is different; our method is unique. All we ask is that you make an effort to call on us Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and listen to the most interesting and fascinating story that possibly has ever been told to a group of salesmen. Remember the time, MONDAY AFTERNOON, 3 p.m. sharp.

ASK FOR W. D. CHESSMAN, Suite 1008-1016 Commercial Exchange Bldg., 8th and Olive Streets.

WANTED—HELP—Male

Salesmen and Solicitors

WELL, SHE'S OFF!

I KNEW IT WOULD BE

GOT AWAY WITH A BANG!

60 men on the job and all making real "dough." Can't beat the system, men, it gets the "kale." How do they do it?

THE SYSTEM

Come up any time and talk with some of the "old line" men who are taking to the deal like a "duck to water." Reminds me forcibly of the old days in Iowa.

If you could see the "jack" the boys are laying on the barrel head you would jump on the wagon and "get in on the deal." Can't be beat, men, because it's right.

REASON?

A FINANCIAL DEAL. A LIVE ONE. 2 YEARS OLD. ONE OF THE STRONGEST BOARDS IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. A GOING CONCERN MAKING A LOT OF DOUGH. HAS PAID DIVIDENDS AND WILL PAY AGAIN IN JULY. STRONGEST ENDORSEMENTS POSSIBLE TO GET. PARTLY RELOAD AND LEADS FURNISHED. BIG CIRCULARIZATION AND ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN. FULLEST OFFICE CO-OPERATION. 15% WHEN 40% PAID DOWN. Compare it with the "dead ones" in town, then run up and give it the "double O."

If you are not making lots of "dough" or it's "breaking too tough," give me your ear and I will put you wise to the best deal in the West.

You know how deals go—in cycles. Look the field over and you will find real estate, mining, automobile, oil in all its branches, industrials, breaking tough. The boys all say so. WHY? BECAUSE WE ARE IN A FINANCIAL CYCLE. Why try to make water run up hill? IT CAN'T BE DONE. IF YOU ARE TIRED OF EXPERIENCE AND LOOKING FOR REAL "JACK" I AM HERE TO TELL YOU WE'VE GOT THE BAIT THAT BRINGS IT HOME. LOOK IT OVER QUICK. F. H. PUTT, 1021 Bank of Italy Bldg.

WHEN SAWDUST TURNED TO PAPER

THEN FAITH TURNED TO FORTUNE

Once in a while scientists examine the rag-bag of industry and magically extract fabrics of great price from its discarded contents. Then those "in" on it establish a few more of "America's Wealthy Families." while the rabble growls, "Why didn't I have sense enough to get into that!" A generation ago tons of sawdust floated wastefully away on the waters beneath our paper mills. Nowadays that sawdust is cheaply converted into the most desired products of the paper mill. These things happen occasionally. Right NOW the most marvelous opportunity of that sort knocks at the investor's door. Would YOU be willing to learn the details of it YOURSELF and then tell it to HIM—if you were GENEROUSLY PAID for doing so. If you would, and you can stand a thorough examination of your references phone me Monday morning as early as possible. I have SOMETHING OF INTEREST for you. Ask for MR. McINTOSH, TRinity 4402 or 4403.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Are you a red blooded, double fisted, hard hitting salesman with an ambition for better things of life? Are you one who is not afraid of long hours and hard work? Are you an individual who can sell an article of merit without misrepresenting it? Are you being rewarded at the present time in accordance with the actual efforts you are making? We believe we have the best selling property in Southern California—a large colonization project of 10,000 acres close to the city, which we are subdividing into 2½, 5 and 10-acre tracts—we are selling it under the excursion method. We believe you owe it to yourselves to investigate it, and we are going to give you an opportunity to do so, because on next Monday, June 2, at 9:30 a.m. we are going to leave our office at 350 South Hill st., Los Angeles, to visit this property. This will not be a selling excursion, but a salesman's excursion. No selling will be done, the property will be gone over in its entirety and thoroughly explained to you. We will serve you a piping hot chicken dinner, and will furnish transportation, and will not even solicit you to become one of our salesmen, unless you voluntarily believe it to be the best selling project in Southern California. If you have time between now and Sunday drop in our office at 350 SOUTH HILL ST. and register in advance for this trip.
